THE STORM ABATES.

Duluth Man In Copper Country Strongly Advocates Another Excursion.

Calumet Mich., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The storm abated yesterday morning, but no trains had arrived up to last evening. The snow is piled high on the streets, and it is impossible for pedestrians to follow the sidewalks. They are compelled to take the middle of the road. One drift across Main street is all of eight feet high, with just a trail at the end of it. It is a nice sight, but very inconvenient for business men.

The funeral of the wife of Dr. Jones, which was set for Monday, had to be postponed until yesterday.

T. Smith, late of the Smith Produce company, is now representing the Stone-Ordean-Wells company in the copper country. He believes that Duluth should get up another excursion of business men from the copper country at the earliest possible date. He finds that the excursion of last summer did much to advertise Duluth favorably. Chicago has been the trading place of the merchants here, and the necessity of Duluth merchants becoming better acquainted with the dealers here is imperative if they would divert most of this trade their way. The large circulation that The Herald is obtaining here is doing much to break the ice, but its work should be supplemented by another business men's excursion to Duluth, and every citizen of the Zenith City should do his best to make them feel welcome, and furnish them with the best of entertainment while in the city. This, it is believed, will do more than any other thing to promote trade.

THE PRESIDENT RESTS.

Assistant Secretary Cortelyou said today that while here no business will be brought to the attention of the president unless some great event in Cuba, Porto Rico or the Philippines made it necessary.

It is probable the president will go to Jekyl Island, near Brunswick, before returning home, having been invited to do so by ex-Secretary of the Interior Bliss.

MRS. KELFER'S FUNERAL.

Springfield, Ohio, March 15.—The funeral of Mrs. Eliza Kelfer, wife of Maj. Gen. J. Warren Kelfer ,occurred at the family residence here today, the services being conducted by Rev. E. P. Thompson. The remains were interred beside Mrs. Kelfer's daughter in Ferncliffe. The funeral was the largest ever held in this city.

BOYS ON A STRIKE.

Pittsburg, March 15.—A strike of seventy-two tehr tender and stove boys has caused a total suspension of work at the Chambers-McKee window glass factory at Jeannette, Pa. The plant is the largest in the country and employs 900 men. The boys want their wages increased 10 per cent.

A NAVAL RESERVE

THE DULUTH BILLS

Mayor Truelsen Makes Known His Wishes Concerning Refunding Measure.

From a Staff Representative.

St. Paul, March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Truelsen, Alderman Grumsieg and City Treasurer Voss arrived in St. Paul last night and spent the day at the capitol in looking after legislative and other matters of interest to Duluth. They held a consultation with some of the St. Louis county delegation last night and talked over the tax bills passed by the house yesterday afternoon. Mayor Truelsen said today that while they were not all that he desired them to be, yet under the circumstances he was convinced that they were the best that could be expected. The changes which he desired to be made, he said, were probably impractical because they would possibly endanger the legality of the entire law, which of course, was not to be thought of.

The mayor is very earnest in his desire to secure an amendment to the Duluth refunding bill, which has passed both houses and which was signed by the governor Saturday. He declared to The Herald correspondent today that in his judgment, if the city was not permitted to incur obligations it would be forced to default in the payment of interest on bonded indebtedness within the next two years, and thus be forced into bankruptcy. He has asked that the bill be amended so as to permit the city to issue certificates against taxes assessed and uncollected in case of emergency. The city of St. Paul under its present charter has this power to the extent of 80 per cent of taxes due. He would be willing to accept power to use 40 per cent in Duluth. If this is not done, he says, the city will under no circumstances avail itself of the refunding act, by which it will be able to take up its floating indebtedness and issue in lieu thereof 15-year bonds, thus saving interest charges amounting to about $20,000 annually.

This morning the mayor, alderman and treasurer called on State Auditor Dunn to talk over the resolution adopted by the county commissioners for settling delinquent taxes on a basis of 50 per cent due. The auditor assured them that no such settlement could be made in any case without his consent, and said that he would act on no recommendations for such settlement in any case affecting property in the city of Duluth unless it was first approved by the mayor and city assessor. He asked for a map of the city showing property on which settlements are proposed, and said he would advise the county commissioners that he would not permit any rebates to be made by them until they had first received the concurrence of the city authorities. This was entirely satisfactory to the mayor and his associates.

THE COTTAGE PLAN.

Senate Committee on Insane Reported Senator Thompson's Bill.

St. Paul, March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the senate the following bills were introduced:

Daugherty—To establish a naval reserve.

McKusick—To provide for the better enforcement of the liability of corporations.

Wilson—To prevent the erection of fences over 6 feet high.

Schaller—To amend statutes 1894 relating to stay of proceedings on appeals to supreme court.

The committee on insane hospitals reported Senator Thompson's cottage bill with some amendments. The measure provides for the building of cottages for the insane at St. Peter, Rochester and Fergus Falls. It was amended by the committee to give the board of trustees authority to purchase additional lands and increasing the total appropriation from $112,000 to $150,000. The bill was read a second time and made a special order for this afternoon.

Senator Daugherty today introduced a bill to create a naval reserve, to consist of eight divisions or companies, four companies to be a battalion. The reserve shall be commanded by a commanding, with a staff, including an adjutant, an ordnance officer and a judge advocate. Each battalion shall be commanded by a lieutenant commander. To each company shall be assigned one lieutenant, one lieutenant (junior grade) and one ensign, and a minimum of thirty-five petty officers and men. The organization is required to conform to the laws of the United States. The governor is authorized to ask the United States for instructors from the navy.

FOR BETTER PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The Argetsinger Bill Is Considered By the House.

St. Paul, March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the house today committee reports were dropped promptly at 10:15 to take up the first special order, which was the Argetsinger bill to encourage a better condition of public schools, increasing the amount of money for all classes of schools and codifying all existing laws on the subject of the public schools.

Dunne, of Ramsey, opened the discussion against the bill, holding that the proposition meant an undue and improper increase of tax burdens on Ramsey county, which already paid to the state school fund three times as much as it gets back. Jacobson replied energetically, maintaining that the measure was for the whole state, and Ramsey county should be ashamed to plead as it did. Foss moved to amend by raising the amount for rural schools from $50, as provided in the bill, to $75. Staples argued against the amendment, and Foss answered vigorously. A number of others followed on both sides. Dunn presented an amendment cutting in two the Argetsinger proposals as to high schools, there being still a pronounced increase even if his amendment were adopted. Boutwell wanted to amend by reducing the requirements for high schools from four to three departments. Several other amendments were offered by other members. The Foss amendment was adopted. An amendment by Fosnes reducing the amount for high schools from $1000 to $800, in place of the Dunn amendment, was adopted. Stites presented an amendment making changes in the total to agree with the items of changes already made, which was adopted. The Boutwell amendment was defeated, as also were several others. Before several other amendments that had been sent to the speaker's desk could be acted on the previous question was ordered, heading them off, and the roll was called on the passage of the bill. It was passed by a vote of 82 to 30, and a recess was taken.

The house judiciary committee today made the following reports:

H. F. 505 (Donahue)—Enabling owners of land to test the validity of tax certificates. Indefinitely postponed.

S. F. 162 (Greer)—Establishing a board of equalization in incorporated cities of less than 5000. To pass as amended.

S. F. 233 (Baldwin)—Limiting the time within which actions may be brought to enforce liability of stockholders. Indefinitely postponed.

S. F. 63 (Roverud)—Relating to fees of jurors in justice courts. Indefinitely postponed.

S. F. 328 (Daugherty)—Conferring jurisdiction of the district courts in two counties in actions affecting title to land. To pass.

S. F. 380 (judiciary committee)—Authorizing religious societies to increase the number of trustees to a number not exceeding nine. To pass.

S. F. 352 (Baldwin)—Legalizing the organization of certain towns. To pass.

H. F. 511 (Wheaton)—Providing for the punishment of persons under the age of 16 years who commit a crime. Referred to its author.

H. F. 381 (Nelson)—Conferring jurisdiction of district courts in two counties in actions affecting title to lands. Indefinitely postponed.

H. F. 407 (Foss)—Relating to prosecutions by villages. Indefinitely postponed.

H. F. 474 (Vonderweyer)—Providing how paper books and briefs may be made and prepared for use on appeal to the supreme court. Indefinitely postponed.

SENATOR DAUGHERTY'S VICTORY.

Had a Hard Fought Battle Over Peddlers' Licenses.

St. Paul, March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Daugherty won a hard-fought victory in the senate this morning when his peddlers' license bill was favorably considered in committee of the whole and recommended to pass. The bill is designed to relieve the merchants of Tower and other range towns from the unjust competition of itinerant peddlers who invade the neighboring mining suburbs on every monthly pay day and get the trade which justly belongs to the established business houses.

The united delegations of St. Paul and Minneapolis fought the measure at every step, offering amendment after amendment for the purpose of making the bill inoperative. It was finally recommended to pass by a decided majority. As it now stands the bill provides for a license of $1 a day, $10 a month or $50 a year for peddlers in organized townships, the licenses to be procured from boards of supervisors. There is little doubt now that the bill will be enacted into law.

The bill introduced by Senator McKusick today, to provide for the better enforcement of the stockholders' liability clause, is intended to make it possible to procure judgment against nonresident stockholders, which is now almost impossible. Under its provisions service may be obtained by publication, and after judgment is secured the nonresident may be reached in other states by suing there on the judgment recorded in Minnesota.

MORRIS COMING HOME.

Will Leave Washington Next Week For Duluth.

Washington, March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Morris returned to Washington today after a visit to his old home at Lynchburg, Va. He expects to leave the latter part of next week for Duluth.

DROUGHT IS BROKEN

San Francisco, March 15.—The drought, which was threatening the loss of millions of dollars to the state, has been broken by a rain storm, which promises to continue for several days. Nearly an inch of moisture has already been distributed over the Sacramento valley. Reports show that both grain and fruit crops are in excellent condition through the big valley, and the present storm, with the usual spring showers, will insure abundant harvests.

A light precipitation is reported from Stockton and other points in the San Joaquin valley, with indications of a general downpour. The same conditions exist in the Santa Clara valley. In some sections rain is badly needed. Solano and Sonoma counties report a good division. Crops in these sections are in excellent condition, and bounteous harvests of fruit and grain are assured.

Only a trace of rain has fallen in the Southern coast counties, but elsewhere indications point to a big rain storm, where it is needed more than in any part of the state.

EXCITEMENT OVER GOLD.

San Francisco, March 15.—A letter to the Examiner says that the residents of the mining town of Hayden Hill, Lassen county, in the northeastern portion of the state, are greatly excited over an exceedingly rich strike of gold ore. The vein is about fifteen inches wide, about twenty-nine feet from the surface, and, it is said, prospects from $7000 to $12,000 per ton.

BIG FORCE DEFEATED

Two Thousand Filipinos Are Routed By Wheaton's Column With Heavy Loss.

MANY REBELS DEAD

London, March 15.—The Evening News this afternoon publishes the following from Manilla:

Gen. Wheaton has completely routed the Filipinos, and has occupied Pasig, Taguiman and Pateros. Several hundred of the enemy were killed and as many were captured.

Gen. Otis says this is the greatest victory since Feb. 5. The Americans will now press towards Aguinaldo's headquarters.

Manilla, March 15, 4:45 p. m.—Gen. Lloyd Wheaton, commanding the United States flying column, attacked and defeated a force of 2000 Filipinos at Pasig this afternoon, inflicting a heavy loss upon them. The American loss was slight. The Americans captured 350 Filipinos. Many bodies of rebels killed in the engagement are floating down the river.

Manilla, March 15, 6:55 p. m.—Private Fornoff of Company L, Twentieth regiment, was killed.

Wounded: Private Newman, Company F, Twentieth regiment; Private Carroll, Company A; Private Marshall, Company B; Private Coombs, Company C; Private Rogers, Company L, Twenty-second regiment.

About 350 Filipinos surrendered at the town of Laguig to the Washington regiment and 175 Filipinos were captured at Pasig by the Twentieth regiment.

The prisoners were unarmed and, therefore, it is presumed they executed their threat of throwing their arms into the river.

Manilla, March 15, 8 a. m.—Late yesterday Gen. Wheaton's column encountered the enemy in such force between Pateros and Taguig as to necessitate a change in the original plans. The cavalry attacked a rebel stronghold in the jungle, driving the enemy into Pateros. The Americans had one man killed and three wounded. Scott's battery shelled the city and woods effectively.

Later the enemy crossed the river from Pasig. Two companies of the Second Oregon infantry cleared the right bank, after a sharp engagement, and then retired with three wounded. In the meantime the Washington volunteers closed in, driving small bodies of the rebels back upon Pateros. One man was killed. During the night the enemy burned the town of Pasig.

12:40 p. m.—Gen. Wheaton's brigade continues the work of clearing out the rebels around Pasig.

Today's fighting was like that of the past week, the insurgents occasionally making a stand, but eventually fleeing. Their loss is supposed to have been small, as the Americans were unable to see the enemy in the thickets.

The progress of the American advance is slow.

GEN. OTIS' REPORT.

Gen. Wheaton Inflicted Heavy Loss In Killed and Wounded.

Washington, March 15.—The following dispatch from Gen. Otis has been received:

Manilla, March 15.—Adjutant General, Washington: Three thousand insurgents moved down last night to the towns of Pasig and Pateros, on the shore of LaGanda bay, fronting Wheaton's troops on the Pasig river line. By heavy fighting Wheaton has dislodged and driven them back, taking 400 prisoners and inflicting heavy loss in killed and wounded. He reports his loss as very moderate. He now occupies these towns with sufficient force to hold them. OTIS.

FRANCE TO INTERVENE.

Spain Wants to Negotiate With Aguinaldo For Prisoners.

London, March 15.—A special dispatch from Madrid says Premier Silvela, in an interview just published there, spoke in favor of the intervention of France for the purpose of obtaining permission from the United States for Spain to resume direct negotiations for the release of the Spanish prisoners held by the Philippine rebels.

NEWS SIX WEEKS OLD.

Washington, March 15.—Unofficial news of the massacre of the Spanish governor and other officers by the Moros on the island of Palawan was received here six weeks ago, upon the arrival of a British steamer that touched at the island on her way to the Straits settlements. But nothing has come from any official source. The island of Palawan is a part of the Philippine group, and it is believed here that Admiral Dewey will follow the movement of his ships upon Mindanao by sending them to Palawan to restore law and order there.

RUN ON A BANK.

Cincinnati, March 15.—A run was started on the Cincinnati Savings society today without apparent cause, which was promptly met by the payment of all checks presented. The officers of the bank attribute the run to the malice of a depositor who had a dispute in settling his account and who threatened to get even.

DISSOLVE ASSEMBLY

Gen. Brooke Is Expected to Dissolve the Cuban Military Assembly.

GOMEZ RECOGNIZED

Gen. Brooke Will Deal With Him For the Time Being.

Chicago, March 15.—A special from Washington says: Discretionary authority has been given to Maj. Gen. Brooke, governor general of Cuba, to dissolve the Cuban assembly.

From the tone of Gen. Brooke's dispatches officials expect that he will immediately avail himself of the authority invested in him. Such action will be the first interference of the government of the United States with persons styling themselves representatives of the Cuban people, and if it occurs it will be entirely due to the illegal and unjustifiable acts of those persons.

Furthermore, Gen. Brooke will recognize Gen. Gomez as the representative of the Cuban people until such time as the national assembly of Cuba shall be organized. He will be consulted on all points relative to the welfare of Cuba, and Gen. Brooke will continue to show him the deference due his position as the recognized leader of the Cubans.

THE POLICE WERE RIGHT.

Chicago, March 15.—August Becker, the sausage maker who has been under arrest for four weeks on a charge of murdering his wife, made a full confession last night. He said that he cut his wife to pieces and burned the remains in a stove.

Becker, when first arrested, admitted killing his wife, but declared he pushed her off the Randolph street viaduct into the lake and that she was drowned. The police have never placed any reliance in the drowning confession. The finding of a portion of a human lung three days ago in Becker's barn put strength in their theory, and late last night they induced Becker to confess.

In his confession Becker said that he had killed his wife by striking her on the head with a hatchet in the kitchen of his home. He then cut the body to pieces and boiled it in a large kettle. After watching the disintegration of the remains for several hours, and when nothing was left that resembled a human body, Becker says he took what remained and burned it in a red-hot stove, the fire having been prepared by him. The bones which would not burn he buried on the prairie near his home. He says the crime was not premeditated, but that he quarreled with his wife and struck her on the head with a hatchet. Only one blow was needed to cause death, and after that had been struck the sausage maker says he thought of the way to dispose of the remains of his wife in order to destroy all chances of detection. The piece of lung and a portion of calico which were found under the barn and which the police believed to be strong evidence against Becker, he says could not be any part of the body of his wife, as he is certain that he destroyed every particle of flesh, and he maintains the dress which she wore was also entirely burned.

THE MURPHY METHOD.

New Plan of Examining Railroads as to Their Duties.

Lexington, Ky., March 15.—A new idea has been put into operation here by the Cincinnati Southern railway for instructing and examining the trainmen on the meaning of train rules as applied to the various pieces of apparatus which form so important a part in the successful operation of the modern railroad. It is called the "Murphy method," taking its name from the originator, W. J. Murphy, of this city, superintendent of the Cincinnati Southern.

Mr. Murphy has equipped the examining rooms at Lexington with an electric stereopticon and a large number of lantern slides, showing the signals, track and apparatus of all kinds used on the road. By projecting these views on a large canvas the trainmen are enabled to see the road equipment as it would appear to them in the daily routine of work. It has worked so successfully in examining the men on the Cincinnati Southern that it is likely to be adopted by every railway in the country.

W. J. Murphy, the originator, has been in the railroad business all his life and was for a number of years general superintendent of the Erie road at Jersey City.

BELMONT TO BRYAN.

New York, March 15.—The following dispatch has been received by Perry Belmont, president of the Democratic club, in response to an invitation which was sent to William J. Bryan to attend the banquet to be given by the club in honor of Thomas Jefferson an April 13:

"Lincoln, Neb., March 13, 1899.—Hon Perry Belmont, Democratic Club, New York: Invitation received. Remembering that you openly repudiated the Democratic platform in the last campaign, I desire to know before answering your invitation whether you have since then publicly announced your conversion to the principles set forth in that platform.

"WILLIAM J. BRYAN."

"The invitation extended to you is on behalf of the Democratic club. Individual opinions have not been considered in issuing the invitations to celebrate the birthday of Thomas Jefferson.

"PERRY BELMONT."

LEARNING OUR METHODS.

Washington, March 15.—Timothy Howard, of Australia, who will have charge of the government telegraph and telephone systems of that country, is in the United States making an investigation of American methods in these lines. He has been in consultation with the postmaster general and other officials, and will observe the institution of a complete electric service in the postoffice building here. Mr. Howard will report to his government the results of his investigation, which deal with the establishment, management, bookkeeping and other phases of the telephone and telegraph business.

The man whose home is menaced by midnight marauders isn't slow to grasp a weapon to defend it. The same man when threatened by an enemy ten thousand times more dangerous, will calmly go his way and make no effort at defence. The most dangerous of all mankind's enemies is consumption. There is but one effective weapon with which to combat this grim destroyer. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption, bronchitis, asthma, laryngitis, weak lungs, spitting of blood and throat and nasal troubles. Thousands have testified to their recovery under this remedy after they were given up by the doctors, and all hope was gone. Many of these have permitted their experiences, names, addresses and photographs to be printed in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Any sufferer may write to them. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It makes the appetite hearty, the digestion and assimilation perfect, the liver active, the blood pure and rich with the life giving elements of the food and the nerves strong and steady. Acting directly on the lungs, it drives out all impurities and disease germs. It is also a wonderful medicine for all nervous troubles. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Jno. M. Hite, of Audubon, Audubon Co., Iowa, says: "I took a severe cold which settled on my lungs and chest. Several of our best physicians gave up all hopes of my recovery. I would cough and spit blood for hours. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and recovered."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is a book of 1,008 pages and over three hundred illustrations. This book is free. You may have it in all its usefulness, and in strong paper covers, for 21 one-cent stamps, which pays the cost of mailing only, or in cloth binding for 31 stamps. DULUTH-SUPERIOR BRIDGE.

Judge Sanborn Hears an Application For a Receiver.

St. Paul, March 15.—Judge Sanborn, sitting as judge of the United States circuit court yesterday heard and took under consideration the application of the Central Trust company, of New York, for the appointment of a receiver for the Duluth-Superior Bridge company pending the foreclosure of two mortgages.

The property of the company is a bridge between Duluth and Superior, completed about two years ago. The company building the bridge issued bonds for its construction, secured by two mortgages for $950,000. In the application for the appointment of the receiver the trust company stated that it was the trustee for the bonds and that it was about to foreclose the mortgages for the benefit of the bondholders.

The hearing lasted nearly all yesterday and the matter was taken under advisement. Judge Dickinson, of Duluth, represented the trust company and Louis J. Hanitch, of Superior, the bridge company.

THE WAGE QUESTION.

The Armory at Denver was broken open and all the arms and ammunition there were stolen, presumably by strikers. The county commissioners will hold a conference tomorrow with the mine superintendents, and will notify them that unless they will agree to discharge all Italians they will be left to settle their difficulties as best they can. The mines have employed 200 Italians. If these are discharged, Sheriff Deck will endeavor to protect other men who may wish to work in the Hidden Treasure and Ute and Ulay mines.

At the Crescent tin plate works in Cleveland, which is controlled by the tin plate trust, a notice has been posted to the effect that the wages of the employes of the plant have been increased, the advance ranging from 5 to 10 per cent. The lowest paid workmen received the maximum increase. The advance is to take effect from March 1. Three hundred men are affected.

H. G. Spaulding & Co., one of the largest shoe firms in Haverhill, have posted a new price list, granting their workmen an increase in wages. All the larger firms in the vicinity have now posted the new turned work price list.

The Pennsylvania Tube company, employing several thousand men, have advanced the wages of all employes 10 per cent.

JUST A TRADE LIE

An Old Packer Says There Is No Canned Roast Beef.

IT IS BOILED BEEF

A Different Article From That Sent to the British Troops.

Chicago, March 15.—William J. Wilson, park commissioner and founder of the Wilson Packing company which supplied the British army with canned beef during the first Zulu war, where the temperature was hotter than it was in Cuba or Porto Rico, said today:

"There never was such an article as canned roast beef for commercial purposes. It is possible to can it, but too expensive to make it practicable. Every bit of beef that is sold under the label of canned roast beef is nothing but boiled meat. Canned roast beef is a trade lie.

"I have some canned beef and tongue at my house which my company put up eighteen years ago, and it is as good and sweet as on the day it was canned. I will not say whether the beef that is being put up now will keep as long as that. It does not look, from the testimony before the war inquiry board, as though it would. Competition has driven the packing companies to can their beef in a different way from which it was canned ten years ago. To save money and time they have to use less effective processes.

"When the first Zulu war broke out I was supplying the English government with canned compressed beef—not corned beef, but beef in square cans that had been packed by vacuum pressure. When the English troops were defeated the Zulus captured over $100,000 worth of this canned beef and ate it. I never heard of their being made sick by it either.

"Seriously, though, during the whole of the Zulu war the Wilson Packing company shipped thousands of dollars' worth of canned beef to the English army, in the hottest country in the world. Out of all that quantity we never received a protest from the English government about the beef spoiling. Some of it was kept in the tropics for months—and eaten—and there was no cause for complaint from the English troops. It was not the same kind of canned beef that was furnished to the American troops last year.

"This beef the American troops complained of, as I understand it, was in round cans. It was not what is known as compressed beef. It was simply boiled beef.

"Business is business, but the lives of the American troops are worth more than a few dollars."

TERRIBLE AND POWERFUL.

These Twin English Ships Have Been Very Unlucky.

Davenport, Eng., March 15.—The British first-class cruiser Terrible has arrived here from Malta and reports that a boiler explosion on board of her Monday killed a stoker, fatally injured another man and badly scalded several others.

The Terrible is a sister ship of the Powerful. The latter, which is now in Manilla bay, has been most unfortunate, having experienced a continuous series of accidents and breakdowns since she was launched.

The British first-class cruisers Terrible and Powerful are steel sheathed vessels of 14,200 tons displacement, 500 feet long, 71 feet beam and 25,000 indicated horse power.

THE CLOSING CHAPTER.

Cleveland, March 15.—The closing act in the Barnes-MacGowan affairs closed here yesterday when John Barnes was granted a divorce from Mrs. Frank MacGowan and given the custody of the child Edith, which Mrs. Barnes-MacGowan kidnapped some time ago and still retains in her custody.

QUESADA REMOVED.

Havana, March 15.—The Cuban assembly has deposed Senor Quesada as Cuban representative to Washington. It is supposed the assembly removed Quesada because of his great friendship for Gen. Gomez and his published interviews commenting on the assembly's action in the former case.

FEES FOR CUBAN ORDERS.

Washington, March 15.—Acting Postmaster General Heath has issued an order directing that on and after March 14 the fees for postal money orders issued in the United States for payment in Cuba shall be the same as those fixed by law for domestic money orders.

TO CARRY SUPPLIES.

San Francisco, March 15.—The British ship Bridston Hill has been chartered by the government to carry merchandise for the troops at Manilla. She is to be paid the lump sum of $20,500. The Bridston Hill can carry a cargo of about 3500 tons and should make the run in about forty-five days.

TRAIN ABANDONED.

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 15.—The snow-bound train on the Cheyenne & Northern, at Wheatland, has been abandoned by the company officials, who will take steps to rescue the passengers by means of sleds.

The company has been hopeful of rescuing the train this week by means of rotary plows. One of these machines was borrowed from the Union Pacific main line, and more were expected. The one secured cut out a mile of ice and snow yesterday, but has been recalled owing to another storm on the Union Pacific.

This inability to get plows accounts for the failure of the company to bring the train through. The only ones available are those of the Union Pacific, and these have been working constantly for the last month to keep the main line of the trans-continental road open.

John Oakley, of Aberdeen, S. D.; William Pettigrew, of Douglas, Wyo., and John Owen, of Wheatland, Wyo., three of the passengers, reached here last night. They walked ten miles on snow shoes to meet one of the relief trains, and came to this city on a light engine. They are in a pitiful condition from the hardships they have endured from cold and exposure.

Oakley's feet were frozen while walking out from the imprisoned train, and probably will have to be amputated. All of the men have swollen limbs and are weak and emaciated from lack of proper food. They report that all of the passengers are sick from the meager diet of the last two weeks, and are weak and disheartened.

TO PREVENT BETTING.

Authorities of San Francisco Are Making Strenuous Efforts.

San Francisco, March 15.—Chief of Police Lees declared that he will continue to make daily raids at the Ingleside race track until betting on the events is stopped. He says: "The supervisors have passed an ordinance declaring that betting on horse races and coursing events must stop, and the new law will be rigidly enforced."

The cases of the bookmakers and others already under arrest will be fought vigorously in the courts, according to statements made by Ed Corrigan and his associates in the management of the track. In the meantime it is proposed to ignore the ordinance, if possible, notwithstanding the uncompromising attitude of the authorities. Several of the down town pool rooms have been closed, and the police promise to raid others. Coursing will be resumed at Ingleside on Friday, but it is possible that the management will permit no betting until the legality of the ordinance is judicially determined.

THE TURK DEFEATED.

Too Big a Job With McMillan and McIntyre.

Minneapolis, March 15.—Hall Adali wrestled here last night. His opponents were Duncan McMillan and D. B. McIntyre, whom he was to throw four times in an hour and a half. He failed in his contract. Time was called before the fourth fall had been accomplished. McMillan went on last. The Turk was unable to throw the big Scotchman a second time before time was called. McMillan is almost as tall as the Turk, and is much cleverer.

LIQUOR THE ISSUE.

St. Paul, March 15.—Village elections were held in a great many Minnesota towns yesterday, but there was little or no politics concerned. In most of them there was the usual contest over license of the liquor traffic. Those voting in favor of license included Wells, Jackson, Spring Valley, Austin, Montevideo, Montrose, Hector, Wood Lake, Sherburn, Annandale, South Haven, Luverne, Howard Lake, Atwater, Dassel, Slaton and Mapleton. Among those voting against license were Bellingham, Clarkfield, Fairfax, Windom, Elbow Lake, Brownsdale and Winnebago City.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

No Sale of Pine Lands In the Leech Lake Reservation.

Washington, March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is probable that no pine land in the Leech Lake reservation will be sold by the government. It is said here that the lumbermen in Minnesota are interested in securing a postponement of the sales in order that they may secure the lands cheaper than at present. Land Commissioner Herman will not admit that the lumbermen are interested, however, but he says Secretary Hitchcock is of opinion that the sales ought to be suspended in view of the expression of the will of the people of Minnesota through the legislature, that such sales should be suspended until 1901. Whether it is due to the lumbermen or the legislature, it is probable that the sale set for May 10 will be indefinitely postponed.

IN HER OWN BEHALF.

Woman on Trial For Murdering Her Rival Testifies.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 15.—Mrs. Edna Raymond, who is on trial for shooting Mrs. John A. Hanna at the Ellington apartment house some time since, was on the stand yesterday. She stated that she was the common law wife of Hanna, having lived with him for several years in Grand Rapids and Milwaukee. She said she came to Cleveland at Hanna's request. When Hanna married his present wife, Mrs. Raymond said she learned of it through the newspapers. She said she went to the Ellington to get a diamond ring belonging to her and which Hanna had given to his wife. Mrs. Hanna tried to put her out of the rooms, and in the scuffle that ensued the revolver was discharged. A gunsmith testified that the revolver was new and had never been fired but once.

TEN FREIGHTERS LOST.

New York, March 15.—It is now practically certain that ten freight steamers have been lost on the Atlantic in recent storms. This involves the sacrifice of more than 300 lives and $2,500,000 of capital. The rate of reinsurance on them for the last three weeks has stood at 90 guineas. All perhaps went down in the fearful hurricane of Feb. 2. Their names are: Allegheny, Arona, City of Wakefield, Croft, Doca Foster, Laughton, Minister Maybach, Oberon, Picton, Port Milburn.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—

Whereas, default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage which was duly executed and delivered by Charles McCabe, and Minnie McCabe, his wife, mortgagors, to Alexander Macrae, mortgagee, bearing date July twelfth (12th), 1892, and which was duly recorded in the register of deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on July thirteenth (13th), 1892, at eight (8) o'clock a. m., in Book one hundred three (103) of mortgages, on page eighty (80); which mortgage, with the debt thereby secured, was thereafter duly assigned by said Alexander Macrae to W. J. Young, by an instrument of assignment bearing date July twenty-second (22nd), 1892, and which was duly recorded in said register of deeds' office on July twenty-third (23rd), 1892, at eight (8) o'clock a. m., in Book ninety-seven (97) of mortgages, on page two hundred thirty (230), such default consisting in the non-payment of the principal sum of four thousand ($4000) dollars thereby secured, with interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent per annum from January 1st, 1899, and exchange, no part of which has been paid;

And whereas, there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of four thousand twenty-nine and 33-100 ($4029.33) dollars, principal, interest and exchange;

And whereas, said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the defaults above mentioned, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof;

DECLINE IN WHEAT

Another Drop In Prices Due to the News Being Bearish.

THE CABLES WEAKER

Drought In California Broken and Abundant Harvests Are Probable.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 15.—Wheat was weak and lower today. The news was of a bearish character. The drouth in California has been broken, [illegible] of moisture having already been distributed over the Sacramento valley and other points reporting rain, with indications of general downpour. This, with the usual spring showers, is expected to insure abundant harvests. Naturally this news increased the bearish sentiment in the market and added to the declining tendency. Another weakening feature was the failure of the foreign markets to respond to yesterday's advance on this side of the ocean. The reports regarding the winter wheat crop were also less damaging than yesterday. Northwest [illegible] were not greater than a year [illegible] the receipts in Chicago and the [illegible]. The rains caused a bad break in prices at San Francisco and this proved a very active bear factor. The close was [illegible] lower than yesterday at Chicago and [illegible] lower in Duluth for the May option.

Trading in futures was dull on the Duluth board. May wheat opened 1/8c off at [illegible] and down to 69½c at 10:14, reacted [illegible], fell back to 69c at 11:55, then [illegible] at 12:30 but dropped [illegible] at 1 o'clock, at which [illegible] being [illegible]c under yesterday. There was a fair amount of cash business, some bus being sold at 1½c under May for wheat to arrive and 1½c under for [illegible] stuff. Oats declined ¾c, corn [illegible]. Flax advanced 1c, while rye and barley were unchanged. Following were the closing prices:

BOARD NOTES.

Wheat—Puts, 67½c; calls, 74c bid. Corn—Puts, 31½c; calls, 36c bid. Good all next week in the Chicago market.

Indianapolis—Wires state bureau of statistics which under law of this state gathers regular crop reports is advised that wheat has come out of severe winter in fairly good condition.

St. Louis apologized today for yesterday's buying in Chicago by sending heavy selling orders all day.

Over 1,750,000 bushels of grain under steamer charter at Boston for loading up to June 1. Only 225,000 bushels is wheat. Balance largely corn and some oats.

San Francisco wires rain fell steadily all day yesterday and the indications are good for its continuance. The weather bureau reports rains as far South as San Luis Obispo, where it is probably needed more than in any other section of the state. The present storm will not reach Southern California before today.

Modern Miller: The domestic flour trade has been confined to immediate needs, buyers showing a disposition to hold off in expectation of lower prices, and the volume of business has been but fair. Foreigners are still out of the market at prevailing prices, except for occasional small lots. The production of winter wheat mills was larger than last week due to the stocks having become low during the past few weeks of partial idleness. Reports regarding the condition of the growing wheat plant appear to indicate the earlier estimate that no material damage has been done by the recent severe cold weather may prove to have been too conservative, but reliable reports of important damage are as yet confined to few sections.

New York reports 5 loads wheat and 59 loads corn for export.

E. E. Baker: When in doubt always sell wheat has been a favorite maxim with me for years and for the last ten days has been a good one to make money on.

George Rupley: Wheat weakened today on copious rains in California and poor export demand. On these dips it's a good time to buy July.

ON THE CHICAGO BOARD.

Wheat Starts at a Decline and Gathers Weakness.

Chicago, March 15.—The wheat market today started at a considerable decline and soon gathered additional weakness. Crop reports were not so bad as suggested by yesterday's advices and San Francisco wired that rain had helped the crop in many sections in that state where drouth had existed. Foreign markets were unresponsive to the advance here yesterday and that also added to the bearish sentiment prevailing at the start. May wheat opened ⅜@½c lower at 69⅞@70c, and on the execution of a few outside buying orders rose feebly to 70¼c. At that point yesterday's buyers turned sellers and as the trade was not particularly heavy the market soon developed a declining tendency, May slipping off to 69½@69⅝c. Chicago receipts were only 39 cars compared with 111 the same day a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth received 321 carloads against 261 last year.

More favorable weather for the country movement and lower cables weakened corn. Nearly every house in the trade had selling orders and the market became very heavy. Receipts were 211 cars. May began ⅛@¼c lower at 35@⅛c, and declined to 31[illegible]c.

Oats ruled firm and fairly steady with a good demand for the July delivery on talk of a late spring. Receipts were [illegible], 113 cars. May started ⅛c lower at [illegible], firmed up to 26⅜@½c, then sold off to [illegible].

Provisions were handicapped by a too free delivery of hogs and lower prices at the yards. There was little disposition to sell, however, and the market ruled barely steady. May pork opened 5c lower at [illegible], declined to $9.27 and then improved to [illegible]@9.32. Lard and ribs, for May, ruled a shade lower at $5.50 and $4.70@4.72 respectively.

Close: Wheat, May, 69½@⅝c; July, 68⅝@¾c. Corn, March, 33¼c; May, 35c; July, [illegible]; September, 36¼@⅜c. Oats, March, [illegible]c; May 26¼@⅜c; July, 25⅝@¾c; Pork, March, $8.95; May, $9.17; July, $9.35. Lard, March, $5.25; May, $5.37@5.40; July, [illegible]; September $5.65. Ribs, March, $4.60; May $4.72@4.75; July, $4.85@4.87; September, $5.00. Cash market: Wheat, No. 2 red, [illegible]; No. 3, 65@69c; No. 2 hard winter 64½c; No. 3, 62@63½c; No. 1 northern spring, 68½@70c; No. 2 northern spring, [illegible]c; No. 3 spring, 62@67½c. Corn, No. 2, 33¾@34c; No. 3, 31@½c. Oats, No. 2, 26½@¾c; No. 3, 26½c. Flax, cash, Northwestern, $1.23; cash, Southwestern, $1.18½; May, $1.20½. Barley, cash, 39@47c. Rye, cash, 53½c; May, 54¾@½c. Timothy, March, $2.30. Clover, March, $6.00. Estimated cars for tomorrow: Wheat, 33; corn, 150; oats, 120.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, March 15.—The highest price in wheat today was made at the opening, May selling at about 70¼c. Liverpool cables did not show advance enough to satisfy holders; neither was there enough crop damage news, and at 70c there was liberal selling of long wheat. The market gradually broke to 69½c, rallied to 69⅞c and closed at 69½@69⅝c. At this price there was a lot of buying orders in the hands of commission houses, a good many of which were filled and some of which were not. California got good rains. The last we heard from San Francisco their December wheat was selling at 68½c. Barley in that market broke 13c per hus today. It is too early yet to tell anything about the damage to the growing wheat crop. Northwestern receipts, 321 cars, against 261 last year. Total clearances, wheat and flour, 424,000 bus. Colder weather is predicted for tomorrow for the whole winter wheat belt.

Corn was dull, but steady. Receipts are very light and are likely to be for some time. Speculation in corn is also getting light. May corn closed at 35c against 35¼c yesterday. Liverpool cables showed a decline of ⅛c per bus.

Oats were dull. It looked as though there would be some liquidation for May oats before long. Buying orders do not seem very plenty.

Provisions were dull all day long and closed just where they did yesterday. There was a fair demand for them. Receipts of hogs, 10,000; heavier than expected; prices 5@10c lower.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, March 15.—The cotton market today opened with prices 1 to 3 points higher, and slowly improved as the forenoon progressed, on support from shorts, quite active buying for foreign account in the near positions, favorable late English cables and most discouraging weather reports from nearly every section of the cotton belt. The May, July and August positions exhibited relative strength and activity. The cotton purchased was supplied chiefly by local longs. Continued heavy receipts at the ports and interior towns caused more or less hesitation in the bull ranks. The unfavorable turn of climatic conditions during the past few days, however, has led the trade to anticipate a sharp falling off in the movement before the end of the week. The foreign element appeared to be thoroughly confident in relation to the crop despite the gloomy statements pouring in from all directions and this class of traders sold the January position quite freely on the rise. Wall street sold the August delivery in a small way and accepted offerings of the fall and winter months. The South sent few orders and wire investment orders were also scarce.

Cotton spot closed dull, 1-16c higher; middling uplands, 6 7-16c; middling gulf, 6 11-16c; sales none. Cotton futures closed steady. March, $6.14; April, $6.15; May, $6.17; June, $6.19; July, $6.22; August, $6.21; September and October, $6.14; November, $6.12; December, $6.14; January, $6.17.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

The Iron and Steel Shares Fell Under Pressure.

New York, March 15.—The stock market lacked a definite tone at the opening, quotations in many shares ruling slightly below last night. The market in the main, showed a declining tendency, partly on the general weakness of the London market for Americans. Operations in the stock market here conducted along recent lines, considerable strength developing in the specialties. Tobacco eclipsed yesterday's record price, and its affiliated concern, Continental Tobacco, was carried up to 64½. The iron and steel shares, which have been recently conspicuous points of strength, were under pressure, American Steel and Wire falling 1½. In the railway list, Missouri Pacific and Burlington rose strongly, but changes otherwise were less important. Chicago Terminal shares moved steadily upward on expectations of benefits to accrue from the Alton deal. By 11 o'clock the activity petered out and recessions occurred.

Cal money rates stiffened to 4 per cent and the traders promptly offered stocks freely, thereby cancelling all the previous improvements. Liquidation in Manhattan depressed it to 104⅜, which stimulated short sales in other properties. Sale of stocks to noon, 306,142 shares.

ROW AT BEMIDJI.

County Attorney Declares War on the Gamblers and Trouble Ensues.

Bemidji, Minn., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of the village election yesterday, which was carried by a gang of gamblers who had been gathering here for the past month for a rich harvest off the lumberjacks, the county attorney last night placed in the hands of the sheriff search warrants for every saloon in town calling for the seizure of all the rich array of gambling implements in each.

The sheriff met resistance at the saloon of J. M. Hanson, where the village marshal warned him out. He arrested Hanson and confiscated his implements, but by the time he got around to the other saloons they had gotten their paraphernalia out and away. The gamblers at once formed themselves into a mob and followed the sheriff from place to place crying "Down with the county attorney."

At 10 o'clock the county attorney sent for the night marshal, but found he had been knocked out in a brawl of his own. The deputy night marshal was sent for and notified that all saloons must be closed at 11 o'clock. The gamblers are furious, as this move of the county attorney will cut off a contemplated feast on about 5000 unwary lumberjacks, who will make this their shipping point.

NO TROUBLE EXPECTED.

Bureau Not Alarmed By Report of Indian Wars.

Washington, March 15.—The reports of the likelihood of a renewal of the trouble among the Indians at Leech Lake, Minn., are not credited at the Indian bureau. Capt. Mercer of that agency, in a letter received here a day or two ago, referred to the rumors that had been circulated, but said they were traceable to the whites and there was no expectation of any disturbance.

PINGREE'S NOMINATIONS.

Lansing, Mich., March 15.—Governor Pingree sent to the senate this afternoon the following nominations: State railroad and warehouse commissioner, Chase E. Osborne, Sault Ste. Marie; dairy and food commissioner, E. O. Grosvenor, Monroe; insurance commissioner, Milo D. Campbell, Coldwater; labor commissioner, Joseph L. Jobbers' Union Resolutions on Pine Land Sale Received at Washington.

Washington, March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Morris today received resolutions of the jobbers' union of Duluth urging that the pine land sales in Minnesota be carried out as proposed before the legislature adopted a resolution urging suspension of such sales. Accompanying the communication was the last resolution passed by the legislature, in which that body hedged on its former declaration and reduced the area on which sales should be suspended. Judge Morris referred all the papers to the commissioner of the general land office for his information and consideration. Judge Morris has not taken any hand in the pine land muddle further than to suggest that in his opinion the best interests of the Indians and whites will be subserved by selling the pine land at once, as more can be realized now than two years hence.

Judge Morris called on Supervising Architect Taylor and urged that preliminary steps to the acquisition of a site and preparation of plans for the St. Cloud public building be expedited as rapidly as possible. When told of the difficulty in the way, and the necessity for securing the passage of an act by the legislature giving the United States government jurisdiction over the site, he said he would see that such an act was passed. The supervising architect will not delay action, however, as he will advertise for a site within the next ten days.

Judge Morris will return to Washington in April to attend a meeting of the monetary committee. He expressed the opinion that the recommendation will be in line with the declarations of the St. Louis platform and that it will be a measure that will pass both branches of the antional legislature. As a matter of fact, the question of the kind of bill that will pass will enter largely into the character of the bill to be recommended by the committee, but according to Morris it will be one that every Republican can support.

The commissioner of the general land office has issued patents to the state of Minnesota for two lists of swamp lands in the Duluth district containing 20,058 and 2388 acres, respectively.

JONES IMPROVING.

Washington, March 15.—Senator Jones of Arkansas had a quiet night, and his physicians say he is progressing steadily. Ex-Governor Fletcher of Missouri is still in a critical condition, with no change from yesterday.

South Shore Badly Blocked.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road is badly tied up by snow and ice beyond Marquette. The train arrived here today two hours late, but it did not have any connection with the Sault. Between Wetmore and St. Ignace it is reported that seventy-five miles of the track is covered with snow and ice. Miles of the track is said to be covered with three or four inches of ice and snow on top. It is hoped to have the road open within a day or two.

INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.

The Mankato Free Press (Rep.) says: "A Populist member of the legislature has figured out a cinch upon the supreme court. He has introduced a proposed amendment to the state constitution providing for the initiative and referendum, and it further provides that after a measure has become a law by vote of the people, the governor cannot veto it, nor the supreme court declare it unconstitutional. What a patchwork of inconsistencies and unlimited gall our statute books would be if that fellow had the running of things."

Where is the "inconsistency" in the measure referred to by the Mankato paper? Who makes the constitution of the state—the supreme court, or the governor, or the people? If a measure becomes a law by a direct vote of the people, it thereby becomes a part of the constitution, because the people have made it so by giving a majority of votes in its favor. The people make the constitution, and no law which they have voted on affirmatively can be other than constitutional.

The initiative and referendum is demanded by the people, and it will be granted, notwithstanding the opposition of party organs like the Free Press. As the New York Verdict recently said, it is a doctrine of democracy; it smells and smacks of primitive Americanism. It is asked for by the hour; demanded by the time in which we live. Today money makes our lawmakers and our laws. It goes boldly about the lobby in our legislative halls and buys misrule. "It makes," says the Verdict, "a market place in every capitol, where elected weakness may meet roguery and sell the public into bondage to the corporations. It has grown a case in our destinies where the people should have in their own hands both the power to propose and the power to pass a law. Their delegates are degenerate; their rights are bartered and bid for, bought and sold; therefore the people should construct to their own defense this refuge of the initiative and referendum. It will become sword and shield, buckler and blade; a first, best line of battle against these trust barbartans of money who by bribery and stark corruption seek to overrun and overthrow us. Let men study the initiative and referendum as a tenet of politics. Let no cry of 'Populistic' deter one's fair conviction. Let the Democracy at its next convention make a platform plank of it, to the end that right resume its sway in halls where laws are made, and courts which have them in their keeping. The people have trusted too much, and treason has been done them. They elect their lawmakers, leave all to them and turn their backs. In a day when folks were few and truth was tall and money little, and bribery feared the day, this confidence might do and a congress or a legislature be trusted to frame control. All this is true no longer. Rotten in state as rotten in nation, if this public would preserve itself from bribe-made legislation as well as the bribe-bought lack of it, this new breastwork of initiative and referendum must be thrown up."

THE EVENING NEWSPAPER.

Hoke Smith, the proprietor of the Atlanta Journal, will be remembered as secretary of the interior in President Cleveland's cabinet, and a good secretary he was. It was also his good fortune to get out of the cabinet before President Cleveland finished his term. Some person has induced Mr. Smith to write an editorial on "the making of newspapers" and the relation of the evening paper to the morning paper, and here is what he says:

"Of all newspaper work that involved in the conduct of an afternoon newspaper is the most trying and probably the least appreciated. The afternoon newspaper is the product of latter-day journalism. Nothing in the history of the business is comparable to the rise of the afternoon newspapers. It has not been many years since there were only two or three of them in the United States that had any considerable circulation or indulged in anything that could be called newspaper enterprise. Now there are hundreds of afternoon newspapers which give so complete a record of the current events of the day on which they are published that they leave very little for the morning paper which comes out next day.

The reader who has had the one in his office or by his fireside the evening before and peruses the latter the next morning is more and more surprised every day at the lack of novelty in his morning newspaper supply. He feels more and more like a man who is compelled to breakfast on a sucked orange. He may be heard at home, on the street cars, in his shop and wherever he may be to remark that he 'read that yesterday evening.'

"In that remark lies the secret of the growing popularity of the afternoon newspaper. It finishes up the day as it goes.

"But to do this how much rush and worry is required? Only those who make the afternoon newspaper know. There is a New York evening paper that is famous for the completeness and accuracy of its market reports. That paper goes to press at 3:17 punctually very day. The last market reports cannot reach it until five minutes after 3, but in twelve minutes those reports, which are quite extensive, have been set and stereotyped and are being printed at a marvelous sped with a great mass of other news. A few minutes later they are on the streets of the metropolis and speeding to every part of the country. The morning newspaper has practically from sun to sun for its creation; the evening newspaper must be made in a few hours, seven being about the limit.

"The morning newspaper can take things comparatively easy; the afternoon newspaper has got to hustle—but how it does get there!"

Here is the tender message that Mr. Quay sent to each of his supporters in the Pennsylvania legislature before he went aiishing: "I leave for the South today for a rest of ten days. Upon my return I will join my friends at Harrisburg, remaining in close touch with them until the end of the senatorial contest, which I believe will terminate successfully. Before leaving, I cannot refrain from thanking you and your colleagues for the magnificent support I have received for the past two months." Mr. Quay is both polite and cheerful.

It is suggested by the Cleveland Plain Dealer that the new head of the census bureau having received the appointment in reward for political services, similar political services being valuable next year and the capabilities of the census bureau for such services being great, it would not be surprising if Director Merriam should yield to the pressure sure to be put upon him and so shape the "examination" of candidates for census positions as to admit useful political workers as well as statisticians.

The war department has been compelled to increase the age limit in order to get sufficient men to fill up the ranks of the army. It is perhaps just as well that President McKinley decided not to increase the army over 65,000 men just at present. It looks as though the imperialistic editors would yet have an opportunity to prove their great patriotism and devotion to their cause.

Certainly nobody in Duluth will object seriously if the editor of the News Tribune desires to go to the Philippines to raise cattle. It is improbable that a single soul would raise a restraining hand, and The Herald is sorry if it has placed any discouragements in his way by raising questions as to the profit to be gained in the industry.

It was President John Adams who said: "I am wearied to death with the wrangles between military officers, high and low. They quarrel like cats and dogs. They worry one another like mastiffs, scrambling for rank and pay like apes for nuts."

A boom in street car travel between Duluth and West Superior is reported. Census Director Merriam reached the town across the bay yesterday and will be there several days. Go early, but you can't avoid the rush.

When William J. Bryan was in Texas the other day, a young woman asked the privilege of kissing him. "My dear, my name is not Hobson," was the quick response. And so he escaped the salute.

Somebody at Langdon, N. D., is trying to get rich by using counterfeit nickels on the slot machines. Now the question arises: Is it a crime to beat a slot machine with a lead nickel?

A Washington dispatch says the president is rapidly becoming as stout as Tom Reed. It is possible, therefore, that he will soon be an anti-expansionist.

The bill introduced in the legislature to adopt the Torrens system of land transfers in Minnesota should be passed. It is a good thing.

It is now said Gen. Eagan will go to Cuba to raise coffee. He should be a success as a slave driver on a plantation.

Utah and Delaware will each have only one senator during the next two years, the legislatures having failed to elect.

The war department has abandoned canned roast beef as an army ration. Score one for Gen. Miles.

The Boston Herald thinks if pig iron keeps on advancing it will soon develop hoggish proportions.

The ground hog will please take notice that the six weeks are nearly ended.

A Drifting Age.

Grand Rapids Magnet: Will some one please tie an anchor to the Aitkin Age? It is opposed to the pig iron bounty, opposed to the sugar beet bounty, in favor of a 4-year term for county auditors, and is scared to death lest Carnegie or Rockefeller invest some of their surplus millions in Minnesota. It is easy to see where the Age will wind up unless something is done to stop its drifting.

MONEY SIDE OF THE BARGAIN.

Springfield, Mass., Republican: The expense of Philippine occupation to the United States government is now at the rate of from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 a year, and is increasing; while the agricultural department has just issued a report showing that the total import trade of the islands for a dozen years past has averaged only about $17,000,000 a year. If we should get the whole trade, and if it were all net profit, the present bargain could not be consumered a highly profitable one in view of all the risks involved. If we should get the whole trade and make the handsome profit of 20 per cent on it, the gain of $3,400,000 would cost an expenditure of four times that amount. But we should not, of course, get the whole trade under the open door or any other policy short of absolute prohibition of imports from other nations.

How far is our present course in the islands calculated to create a market for American wares outside of powder and bullets we are paying for ourselves? This is what Cuay Macaulay, the missionary, wrote from Hong Kong on the subject before the present outbreak, and in clear-sighted anticipation of such an outcome or an attempt on our part to annex the islands:

"Then, should such war be undertaken, it should be known by all that the consequent destruction of the present industries and commerce of the Philippines, so far uninjured, would be an incalculable disaster to the United States, in the permanent embitterment of the people or the islands against us, in the loss of the good will of our friends among the world's nations, and in the final citacement of our own national ideal of human freedom and of each man's rights in the pursuit of happiness. Few more than now show the tatuity of the proposed annexation of these islands of the far East to the United States?"

And true to this prediction, we are now proceeding to shoot out of existence what little market existed as the result of the great $20,000,000 bargain.

We hear very little nowadays of this phase of the question. Secretary Gage is not saying much at present about "philanthropy and 5 per cent." He and Secretary Wilson and other spokesmen for the money side of the grab are now now telling the people how we shall keep our mails going, selling beds for Filipinos to sleep in and woolens for them to wear and wheat flour and dressed beef for them to eat. No. The cry now is that "we could not help it." We never wanted the islands—providence, destiny or something else forced them on us.

Nevertheless, we should not miss what so ardent a jingo as Lord Charles Beresford said, during his recent stay in the United States, of the trade value of political possessions, in particular:

"Save for its strategic advantages Egypt has not been worth a snilling to England. Great Britain has sacrificed lives and money to make Egypt safe and secure and it has put the Egyptian army and police in order. It has gained no financial advantage."

"We have had practical dominion in Egypt for now nothing like seventeen years. Speaking broadly, our occupation of Egypt, whatever else it has done, has not improved in any appreciable degree the Egyptian market for our goods, and while our imports into Egypt go up extremely slowly, the importations from such countries as Belgium and Germany have gone up very rapidly." Which adds a mite to the mass of fact that is crushing down the trade argument of jingoism into everlasting ridicule.

But if markets cannot necessarily be grabbed by grabbing territory, least of all can they be built up by shouting down the people who are to constitute such markets.

Many Schemes In Alaska to Do Up the Investor.

Washington, March 15.—United States Consul McCook writes from Dawson City: "Investors should be careful of mining properties offered for sale, particularly in some sections of Alaska. Of the many who came here last spring and summer, hundreds drifted down the Yukon and located at Forty-Mile, Eagle City and Star City. I am informed there are many schemers there who get up miners' meetings, elect their own recorder, jump claims already recorded, get their man to give them receipts as record papers, and issue prospectuses of water rights, all apparently in conformity with United States mining regulations. They have organized companies, their scheme being to sell their so-called sites to the public. No one should buy anything until perfectly satisfied. There will be any number of such claims offered by promoters."

DOOLEY'S THOUGHTS

On the Apparent Decline of National Feeling.

"Pathrick's day?" said Mr. Dooley. "Pathrick's day? It seems to me I've heard the name before. Oh, ye mane th' day th' low Irish that hasn't anny votes cillybrates th' birth ly their anytional saint, who was a Fr-rinchman."

"Ye know what i manc," said Mr. Hennessy, with rising wrath. "Don't ye get gay with me now."

"Well," said Mr. Dooley, "I may cillybrate it an' I may not. I'm thinkin' ly sayin' me enthusyasm f'r th' queen's birthday, whinever it is that that blessid holiday comes ar-round. Ye see, Hinnissy, Pathrick's day is out ly fashion now. A few years ago ye'd see th' presidint iv th' United States marchin' down Pennsylvany avnoo with th' green scarf iv th' Ancient Ordher on his shoulders an' a shamrock in his hat. Now what is Mack doin'? He's settin' in his parlor writin' letthers to th' queen, be hivins, askin' afther her health. He was fr'm the north of Ireland two years ago, an' not so far north ayether—just far enough north to be on good terms with Derry an' not far enough to be bad frinds with Limerick. He was raised on butthermilk an' haggis, an' he dhrank his Irish hate with a dash iv orange bitthers, in it. He's been movin' steadily north since, an' it he keeps on movin' he'll go r-round th' globe an' bring up somewhere in th' south iv England.

ITALY IN THE CHINA SHOP.

Washington Star: Italy proposes to keep a stiff upper lip in Chinese matters, but it is understood that John Bull provides the starch.

Chicago Record: Already the consequence of our policy of expansion are seen in the dispatches which come from China concerning the part that China and Great Britain expect us to play in the affairs of the "Flowery Kingdom." Now that Italy is making demands upon the tsung-li-yamen for the cession of a part of Chinese territory the whole question of "spheres of influence" is being raised, and a diplomat of high rank intimates that if anybody gets a slice of China the United States will need to be similarly favored.

Kansas City Star: It seems the height or depth of folly for Italy to interfere in the Chinese matter. England, Russia and Germany have interests in China which they are desirous of extending, but Italy's commerce with China is insignificant and affords no excuse for intervention. Italy should remember its costly and fruitless attempt at colonization in Africa and remain at home. Italy is a great sufferer from trying to keep big company and maintain a great army and navy because its allies do. In the meantime the Italian people are overtaxed and are leaving their country by thousands for not only North, but South America.

Detroit Journal: Forgetting for the moment what China has done in the past, under pressure, in the way of leasing seaports to foreign nations, the news telegraphed from Pekin that the Italian government regards as insulting China's refusal to further dismember itself to make a Roman holiday, is itself an insult to the Chinese. Why should they not refuse? Whose territory is it that Italy demands? Imagine the reply of Italy to China's demand for a lease of a seaport of Italy. But the fact is, China may as well submit. It has cut off a finger or two or three, and when a hand is demanded and then a leg it may as well ply the knife with as little complaint of the flow of blood as possible. It is the penalty it pays for being so far behind in the procession of nations that it cannot hear the band play the popular song of the day—"Onward Christian Soldiers."

Columbia, Imperial Conqueror.

Columbia, imperial conqueror, rise,
Assert thy rightful (?) sway
'Till earth subdued, its tribute bring
And foreign lands obey.

Go forth, imperial conqueror, go,
'Till all thy foes submit,
And all the powers of earth resign
Their trophies at thy feet.

Send forth thy word, and let it fly
The universe around
'Till every soul beneath the sun,
Shall be by tyrants bound.

O may the great Columbia's name
Through every clime be known,
And foreign nations, conquered, fall,
Columbia reigns alone.

Sweet Sleep

After Long Nights of Tossing and Torture. I was Tired and Could Not Rest. Could Get No Relief Until I Took

Dr. Miles' Nervine.

The suffering and agony endured by the unfortunate person who is deprived of his sleep, can only be appreciated by those to whom a merciless fate has brought the same experience. To lie in bed, minute after minute, hour after hour, night after night, unable to close an eye! To roll and toss and thresh the bed clothes—to walk the floor, back and forth, to and fro, wishing, longing, praying for sleep to come and close the blood shot eyes, and rest the weary brain! To look ahead and see looming up in the near future the horrible specter of threatening insanity—that awful state in which a person is lost to himself and to his friends forever—these are but a part of the agonies endured by the sleepless one. For all of which there is no better, safer or surer remedy known to man than Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Nothing in the past has ever equalled it in power of building up weakened nerve tissues and giving strength to the tired body. It searches out the weak parts and gives them new life and vigor.

W. H. Heath, Fond du Lac, Wis., says: "I have had a great deal of nervous trouble, suffering both with stomach and head. The least change of weather or of diet would affect me. Being a member of our orchestra I was attacked by nervous headache and suffered terribly. I have laid awake hours upon hours at a time, unable to get rest. Have tried many other remedies and several physicians treated me, but I never could get relief until I took Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. That great remedy completely restored me to health."

Dr. M. O. Burkholder, Staunton, Va., says: "I am more than pleased with the results of my trial of Dr. Miles' Nervine in cases of extreme nervous debility. In one case nothing else had availed. It is the best nerve remedy I have found in low conditions attended with insomnia. The patient is soothed, and, as if by magic, starts on an upward movement rapidly. In La Grippe convalescence it is the very thing we want, as this peculiar disease seems to attack principally the nerve centers. I recommend it constantly."

"Both my wife and myself have received untold benefits from the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Sleeplessness was her trouble, which was complicated with a nervous affection of the heart which gave her great uneasiness. My difficulty was of longer standing—weak kidneys, disordered stomach and inability to sleep. I also suffered a great deal from neuralgia in my head and back. After we began taking Restorative Nervine all these nervous affections disappeared and we are both enjoying better health than for several years before. I should not fail to mention Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills, which we have used with gratifying results. We keep them in the house at all times, and find them the best preventative of headaches and nervousness that we ever used."

REV. G. A. HETTLER,
210 East Mason Street, Jackson, Mich.

Dr. Miles' Nervine will positively cure headaches of long standing, and it is exceedingly beneficial in such troubles as epilepsy and hysteria.

STEEL PLANT SOLD.

West Superior Works Transferred to Big Company Recently Organized.

The whole plant of the Superior steel plant, formerly owned by the Wisconsin Steel company, has been sold to the United States Cast Iron and Foundry company, and the formal transfer will be made as soon as the papers can be executed. Colgate Hoyt and Manager Robert Kelly negotiated the deal in New York two weeks ago. The consideration is private.

The new company is the biggest cast iron concern in the country and it is estimated that it will control 75 per cent of the cast iron product of the United States. Big capitalists all over the country are interested in the deal. The Rockefeller interests have taken a very large block of the stock. Chicago capitalists have subscribed for $1,425,000 of the underwriting. A call for payments of 10 per cent of the stock for development purposes will be made so that the gigantic operations of the company may be set in motion.

Up to the present time the company has secured control of the following named properties: Lake Shore Foundry company, Cleveland; McNeal Pipe Foundry company, Burlington, N. J.; National Foundry and Pipe works, limited, Scottdale, Pa.; Buffalo Cast Iron Pipe Foundry company, Buffalo, N. Y.; Ohio Pipe company, Columbus, Ohio; Addyston Pipe and Steel company, Cincinnati, Ohio—the plant being located at Addyston, Ohio—and Newport, N. J.; Dennis Long & Co., Louisville, Ky.; American Pipe and Foundry company, having works at Chattanooga, Tenn., and Bessemer, Aniston and Bridgeport, and the Wisconsin Steel company at West Superior.

The company is capitalized at $30,000,000, of which $15,000,000 is preferred stock and $15,000,000 common stock. A block of $5,000,000 will be put into the treasury for the purpose of acquiring other properties for which the company is now negotiating. The working capital of the company in the form of pig iron, other raw materials, manufactured products and cash amounts to $2,000,000. The annual output of the country is given at 600,000 tons of iron pipe, and of this output the company expects to supply 450,000 tons, or 75 per cent of the whole. Profits have been estimated on a basis of $3 per ton, making a total of $1,350,000 per annum, to which is added estimated profits of $250,000 on special castings and general foundry work.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

A. R. Hatch, of Chicago, who is promoting a combination of the upper leather manufacturers of the country, said that the plan is assured and that the combination will be formed.

An important conference in the interest of a new North and South railway known as the Black Diamond route, was held at the Grand Hotel in Cincinnati.

After more than four months' careful work, United States secret service agents, assisted by the Boston police, took into custody ten Italians who they have reason to believe have been issuing a great amount of counterfeit $5 treasury notes and are the Boston agents of one of the largest and most crafty gangs of counterfeiters that have operated in this country.

SPORTING NOTES.

Teddy McGovern, of New York, knocked out Patsy Halsey, of Buffalo, in the eighth round of a fast, fierce and clever bout before the Lenox Athletic club last night. McGovern forced the pace from the first top of the gong, and although Halsey sent in some blows to the body and head, which would have sent any other opponent but McGovern down, they did not seem to affect him.

UPPER MICHIGAN.

Ontonagon—Ewen, as a village, has no more legal existence, the legislature having passed and the governor signing a bill vacating the corporation. Ontonagon, it is further stated, has been granted authority at Lansing to borrow $45,000 with which to refund the water works debt.

Houghton—The most severe storm in years set in Saturday. Superintendent Shields started out two of the heaviest engines on the road to clear the line from Calumet Monday morning. The cab windows were crushed in and the snow came over the stacks at Osceola, two and a half miles out, and the effort had to be abandoned. The rotary is waiting at Hancock with two engines to start out as soon as the storm clears. The streets are impassable in Houghton and Hancock, and an effort to clear the streets of East Houghton was abandoned because of eight feet of snow. Hundreds of families at Calumet and at the Tamarack location are snowed in completely, unable to get out, until dug out from the outside. The people are getting around on snow shoes. It is hoped to get the track clear today. All trains are abandoned on all the copper country roads.

Ishpeming—Miss A. F. Olcott, accompanied by Mrs. F. P. Tillson, left Friday night for Southern California, where they will spend several months. Miss Olcott's health has been very poor lately and the change was absolutely demanded by her condition. She has continued her work in the high school in the hope that her health would improve, but it has grown poorer instead. Her many friends here earnestly hope for her speedy recovery.

D'Autremont Mine Near Hibbing Is Transferred to a New York Man.

LARGE PRICE PAID

About $140,000 Was the Sum—Deal Made Through Attorney Congdon.

Three deeds filed yesterday afternoon in the office of the register of deeds transfer to Allen W. Johnson, of New York, a portion of the d'Autremont mine north of Hibbing for a consideration of $70,312.50. The largest transfer is by H. F. Brown, of Hennepin county, who transfers an undivided one-half of the ne¼ of the sw¼ and of the se¼ of the sw¼ of section 23-58-20 for a consideration of $37,500. C. d'Autremont, Jr., transfers an undivided six-sixteenths of the e½ of the sw¼ of section 23-58-20 for $28,125. N. A. Beatty, of Duluth, transfers an undivided one-sixteenth interest in the latter description to the same party for $4687.50. These transfers are at the rate of $75,000 for the two forties, and they include all but one-sixteenth. Each deed reserves the right to the timber. The remaining one-sixteenth of the mine belongs to Hugh McMahon, and it will also be transferred within a day or two.

The property, as said before, consists of two forties. It has been explored and there is a fine body of ore on the north forty, although not a very large one. The price named in the deed does not represent the full consideration. The revenue stamps on the deed amount to a total of $131.50. This would indicate a consideration of $131,500 for fifteen-sixteenths, or about $140,000 for the whole, which is by mining men considered to be about the real value of the property. C. d'Autrement, Jr., who transfers six-sixteenths of the property, according to this should receive about $50,000 as his share.

The question now arises, "Who is Mr. Johnson?" Mr. d'Autremont declines to say. Mr. Johnson not desiring publicity. Chester A. Congdon filed the deed at the register's office and the deal is evidently negotiated through him. He could probably throw some light on Mr. Johnson's identity, but will probably decline to do so. Mr. Congdon, by the way, has been engineering a number of mining deals. It was he who recently negotiated the Security Land and Exploration company sale.

The New York directory shows that Allen W. Johnson is a lawyer at 35 Wall street, New York.

FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

M. Urbain Gobier, author of "The Army Against the Nation," who was placed on trial at Paris on the charge of having insulted the army, was acquitted yesterday on all counts. The acquittal was followed by a lively scene in the court, the spectators raising cries of "Vive La Republique."

The united court of cassation has decided to ask the minister of war, M. De Freycinet, to communicate to it the secret documents connected with the Dreyfus trial.

According to a special dispatch from Shanghai, Prince Henry of Prussia, commander of the German squadron in Chinese waters, while witnessing the launching of a trading vessel, was struck on the head by a plank which fell from the rafters of a shed under which he was standing. The wound bled profusely, but the skull was not injured.

M. C. FRENCH RIGHT IN IT.

Newspaper Work Now Secondary Matter—Is Hustling Stocks.

M. C. French once was a newspaper man and whistled for business. Now he is a mining broker, and other people do the whistling.

Two years ago Mr. French made his first trip to Western Ontario strictly in the interests of gold mining matters. He did steady and faithful service for the West Superior Telegram and a number of Eastern papers. Much attention was attracted to these districts, and much good came to them from his work.

In his capacity as newspaper correspondent the veteran knight of the quill visited every district, saw all kinds of mining propositions, talked with prospectors, mining experts and mine operators. He also made a study of geology, mineralogy, and gained a valuable fund of information and a knowledge of things not possessed by those making greater pretensions and possessing greater reputations.

Now Mr. French is making newspaper work a secondary matter, and turning his attention to the business and financial side of mining. He has opened large and elegant offices in the Hammond block, West Superior. He has a stenographer to do the drudgery of correspondence, and an office boy to furnish leg labor—in fact everything that goes with a well regulated and prosperous business.

At present Mr. French is making a specialty of Western Ontario gold stocks and properties and the copper interests of the Douglas county range in Northwestern Wisconsin. He knows all the good things, and cannot be deceived by propositions lacking worth and merit. He is especially well fitted to serve his clients ably and to their profit and at the same time demonstrate that a newspaper man can enter another field and meet success.

AMUSEMENTS.

"ON THE SUWANEE RIVER."

"On the Suwanee River," which opened the Lyceum last evening for the first time in weeks, was a surprise in that it was far better than had been anticipated. The audience was large and seemed to be well pleased. The impression had gained ground that it was a sort of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" performance, for no doubt to the character of bill paper displayed. This is not true, however. There are some scenes strongly melodramatic and highly improbable but on the whole the play is good. Stella Mayhew in the character of Aunt Lindy was the central figure of the cast, made so by her own individual excellence. She gave a fine characterization of an old darky "mammy." The cast all through was good. Jack Ferguson made the character role of the old miser a notable one, Miss Stockwell as Dora Clayton, the orphan was good. All fulfilled the requirements of their parts.

LECTURE ON GRANT.

Friday evening, Dr. Izer, of Allegheny, Pa., will lecture at the First Methodist church on "Gen. Grant." This will be one of the last in the Star lecture course replacing that of Bishop Foyler, who was unable to come. Dr. Izer is an eloquent talker and the subject is one that will interest everybody.

HIBERNIAN ENTERTAINMENT.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians' entertainment at the Lyceum Friday evening will attract a very large audience without doubt. The oration will be by Charles A. Towne and it goes without saying that it will be a fine effort. The program of music will be a brilliant one and several singers from outside will participate.

"WHAT HAPPENED TO JONES."

"What Happened to Jones" will be seen at the Lyceum Saturday evening. It is one of the greatest farces now on the road and its praises are sung everywhere. The company includes John Allison, E. Soldene, Powell, Barney McDonough, Frank X. Hope, Louis Reinhart, Charles Greene, Cora Williams, Juliet Sayer, Helen Harcourt, Elanore Broadhay, Katharine Weston and Maude Allison. Allison handles the lines and actions of Jones with a humor and fineness that makes the part a delight. Cora Williams, who is a big favorite everywhere, is one of the hits of the female members of the company.

Work on Dry Dock.

Work on the timber work at the dry dock will commence shortly. Already the timber is arriving. Contractor Lundquist has also received a new consignment of dump cars for use in hauling the dirt out of the hole. Twenty-four of them have been received and the force will have to be doubled. The hole is about 15 feet deep at one end and work is progressing in quite a rapid manner. Two crews are on at present. One works by night and the other by day.

The company has a large crew at work on the boat building for the Bessemer people. The bottom frames are all on and some of the side frames have been put on. Plating and riveting is expected to start very shortly.

"Honesty is the Best Policy."

Never was a more pointed saying put into print, and yet to be honest only because it is policy is a poor kind of honesty. Better change "policy" to "principle" and the world will like you better. In the medical world there is one medicine honest for principle's sake—and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It is the specific of the age for all blood troubles. The liver, kidneys and bowels are all toned up by its action as a cleanser and thus good health ensues. It never disappoints.

Scrofula—"After 20 years of suffering with a cancerous sore on her nose and having it removed by physicians, my mother is happy for being completely cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It took 11 bottles to accomplish it. Her face is smooth, no scar." Miss E. A. Stokes, Epping, N. H.

"The statement of my daughter is exact." Joseph Stokes, Epping, N. H.

Malaria—"I was very low with malaria. My doctor did not help me and scolded because I would not stop work. Took Hood's Sarsaparilla and got sound and well. Can eat, sleep and work well." Mrs. Julia Stocking, Bath, N. Y.

Eczema—"My mother's face was covered with eczema, face, hands and feet were swollen. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured her. We keep it on hand and recommend it highly." Rev. E. E. Jenkins, 407 Governor Street, Evansville, Ind.

Sick Headache—"I am now 22. Since I was 8 years old I suffered constantly with impure blood, biliousness and sick headaches until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla by doctor's advice. I owe my life to it." Elvia A. Rumrill, Claremont, N. H.

Stomach Trouble—"Two years suffering with stomach trouble made me weak, run down, with severe headaches. Life was a burden to me until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla which cured me. It makes my children strong and healthy." Mrs. M. Bach, 611 2d St., N. E., Minneapolis, Minn.

RUSH IS IN SIGHT

Boom of Great Importance Materializing In the Seine River District.

BIG PROFITS MADE

Those Who Invested Early Have Already Reaped Very Rich Returns.

News of continuous prosperity continues to flow from the Seine River gold fields, and all indications now point to a mining rush this spring and summer unparalleled in the history of mining booms. Capitalists and companies of large importance have at last awakened to the fact that gold exists in unusual paying quantities in the Seine River district. The keen eyes of the capitalists have been watching the progress of the district for some time, and being now fully satisfied as to the wonderful wealth that exists beneath the soil, they are now taking hold to reap the benefits.

Toronto was the first Eastern city to take advantage of the wealth in the Seine River district, and has profited very largely by it in the past two or three months. It is safe to say that fully $200,000 in profits have been made in that city alone within that time on the rising value of stocks in the Seine River district. It is a well-known fact that Montreal, Quebec and Hamilton are also getting excited and are preparing for the coming rush in the Seine River gold fields. Buffalo capitalists are likewise becoming interested and have made some flattering offers for property in that district within the past week. An important deal is expected to be closed this week by Buffalo parties.

The Golden Crescent, owned exclusively by Duluth capital, has closed a deal with the Bank of Montreal for 150,000 shares of transfer stock at a good figure, which will give the company ample funds to develop the property. Pumps, boilers and all necessary machinery are on the road to the mine and development will be pushed with unusual vigor on this property in the future under the able management of A. C. Hubbell, and it is expected that this mine will be on a dividend-paying basis within seven months. The Lucky Coon has also commenced operations. Numerous others are preparing to commence active work, prominent among those being the noted Swede Boys' claim on Turtle lake, which is acknowledged by many that have investigated it to be the richest property in that district. Machinery and outfits are now on the road to commence development work on the Swede Boys.

HP192, known as the Gibson property, which has lately changed hands, will also soon commence operations. This property has the reputation of having one of the most perfect quartz veins in that district and carries high values. The Golden Star management is making big preparations for the coming season in the way of new buildings and large quantities of wood for fuel purposes. They are also putting in new machinery to rework the tailings from the stamp mill. The gold being fine, considerable is lost, and with the new machinery installed it is expected to save considerably more of the precious product. The management of this property expects the February clean up of gold bricks to arrive about March 20.

The Olive mine, which less than two years ago was but a bare prospect and which is today rated at $1,000,000, has lately started up its new 10-stamp mill. This property has paid for itself with a 2-stamp mill while under development. This is a record hard to equal in any mining camp. Numerous options have been taken in that district within the past four months in a quiet way a large portion of which will undoubtedly be in operation the coming season. Col. Hillyer, of the American Canadian Mining company, left yesterday for London, Eng., to close a deal that has been pending on the Alice A, the results of which will be either a 50 or 100-stamp mill running on this property by September next. Taking everything into consideration it must be admitted by the most skeptical mind that good times are in store for the Seine River gold fields, and those that have been fortunate enough to get in on what is termed the "ground floor" will certainly reap rich profits in the near future.

Capt. Hayes, of Crane Lake, who will be manager for a new company that will control the entire lake route from Tower north, and who has purchased the steamer Seagull of Lloyd Bros., is making preparations for the heavy travel on the lakes between Tower and Mine Center, and Duluth will doubtless profit largely from the coming mining rush.

Public Temperance Meeting.

Arrangements are being made to have a public meeting under the auspices of the temperance committee at the Mission church, Twentieth avenue west and Second street, Sunday, March 26, at 3 o'clock p. m. The question of Sunday observance will be discussed at the meeting. Short speeches on different points of the question will be given.

West End Entertainment.

Miss Alice Sinclair, of Boston, singer, elocutionist and impersonator, will give an entertainment at Columbia hall Thursday evening for Grace M. E. church. She will be assisted by local talent. There will be instrumental and fancy drills. Lincoln school children will give a hoop drill and Bryant school children a "dumb" drill, etc. Miss Sinclair will give recitations combining dialect, humor and pathos, and will sing classical songs and descriptive ballads.

Salvation Army Entertainment.

Beginning next Sunday and running to the following Sunday the Salvation Army will have its ninth annual self-denial service. In order to prepare for this and to make the usual contribution to the mission fund, a stereopticon entertainment will be given next Saturday evening at the hall at 28 East Superior street. It will be an interesting exhibition, views of the Maine and the recent war being shown. Some views in the life of Christ will also be shown.

THE CHOIR ENTERTAINED.

Methodist Church Gives Annual Banquet to the Members.

The annual banquet given by the First Methodist church to its choir took place last evening at the church, and it was a very interesting affair. The menu, which is given below, was quite an ingenious document, each viand being represented by what appears on the menu to be a musical number. The menu follows:

Overture—
a. Hornpipe in high C.
b. "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," in six flats.
Accompaniment in C Minor.
a. Cradle song—"Water Babies," Charles a la Kingsley.
b. Song, male voice—"The White Man's Burden," a la Rudyard Kipling.
a capella.
Group of songs in plaintive mood, mixed voices—
a. "The Cry of the Lowly." "The Turk. The Turk." Long Roll.
b. "The Crushed Hopes of Ireland," with Swinett accompaniment.
c. "The Dying Colonel's Farewell," PP.
d. "Though Crushed I'll Rise Again," (a fortissimo).
a. Song in unison (men and women)—"The Monkey's Festival."
b. Aria, The Wail of C Minor—"I Dreamt There Came a Dairy Maid."
"The Music of the Spheres," a la Rubenstein.
Duo—"The Battle of the Mermaid and the Water-Nymph."
Accompanied by the Calliope in the distance.

BRADLEY THE WINNER.

He Walks Off With the Handsome Anderson Medal.

The Anderson gold medal will be the property of E. N. Bradley's rink until next winter when it must again be played for with Superior. The medal was put up by W. N. Anderson, of Superior, at the beginning of the season. There was an exciting match for it on New Year's day, and Duluth won out by one point in a contest with four rinks on each side. The Duluth rinks then played down for the trophy in regular order, and the finals came off last night between rinks skipped by E. N. Bradley and D. R. Black, and the former won easily by a score of 17 to 6. The metal is a very handsome one. The score and rinks last night were as follows:

Herbert Spencer	C. H. West.
John H. Upham,	Jr., L. W. Rolleston.
Will McLennan,	Guy Heneage.
D. R. Black,	E. N. Bradley.

ARE GOING RIGHT AHEAD.

County Officials Not Paying Much Attention to City's Kick.

In spite of the opposition to the county's plan of settling dead taxes, the plan is in operation, and a large number of people are taking advantage of it every day. Nearly every mail carries a bunch of the applications to the state auditor for him to pass upon, and the treasurer is receiving a good deal of money out of the plan. There is no disposition on the part of county officers to regard Mayor Truelsen's opposition to the extent of holding up the settlement of taxes. One county officer said yesterday in reference to the matter:

"If we wait every time until the mayor and the city council agree on what they want or on what they want us to do we shall never get anything done, and I am in favor of going ahead with the settlement as though it had not been opposed. The taxpayers seem to want it, and as we are employed by the taxpayers rather than by the city officers we should go ahead."

A DEPUTY'S MISTAKE.

Ackerman Pleaded Not Guilty of Receiving Stolen Flour.

The statement in The Herald to the effect that James A. Ackerman, the driver for the Fitzsimmons-Derig company, who was indicted for receiving a part of the stolen flour from the cargo of the Orr, had pleaded guilty, was a mistake on the part of the deputy clerk of district court, who entered the arraignment on his journal. The Herald's information came from that journal, where it appeared that Ackerman had pleaded guilty. Ackerman, as a matter of fact, pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned, and he will stand trial on the charge for which he was indicted, claiming that he is innocent.

A MASQUERADE BALL.

North Star Canton Enjoys Its Members and Friends.

One of the most enjoyable masquerade balls of the season was given by North Star Canton No. 14 of the Odd Fellows last evening at Odd Fellows' hall. There was a large crowd on masque and an equally large number of spectators. Nearly every popular character in history and fiction was present, many of them in duplicate, and there were three of some of them. There was also a legion of dairy maids, bike "scorchers," courtiers, "cullud gemmen," court ladies and all sorts, and several Weary Willies wandered through the throng. All were mixed up in a most democratic, sociable way and the scene suggested a kaleidoscopic view of life. In the shuffle, there were enough kings and other court cards to fit out several decks. There was an impromptu cake walk at midnight, in which both the maskers and others took part. Refreshments were served in the basement.

Five Policemen Sick.

WEST DULUTH

Champion McCullough will be here March 22 and the management of the Marinette rink is endeavoring to arrange a 3-day carnival that will excel all previous efforts of the season. The young wonder from Dakota, who came near defeating Neilson and Johnson will be here and arrangements will be made to bring Johnson and Neilson to race him, as he is not satisfied with the result of the races in Montreal, and feels confident he can defeat both in an indoor race. Jenkins, of St. Paul, and Morrison, of Superior, may take part and with all these champions here races will be given, the like of which has never been seen in Duluth. If these races are arranged they will be strictly on their merits.

WELCOME HIVE'S CARNIVAL.

The ladies of the Welcome Hive L. O. T. M. did themselves proud at their ice carnival last evening, and as a result their treasury is about $50 richer.

There were not many in costume, but those in attendance did not care for that, as they wanted to skate and skate they did, even when the lights went out as a result of a break in the circuit, and it took twenty minutes to repair the break. Welcome hive has been in existence but a short time, but last night's carnival showed its popularity and it will undoubtedly soon be a strong lodge.

While nearly all the other rinks in the city have closed for the season, the Marinette will run as long as the ice is good and will continue to place good attractions on. Next Friday night the postponed interstate races between Monroe and Blomquist, of Superior, vs. Jenson and Buska, of Duluth, will occur, and the boys will draw a big crowd.

LECTURE TO WOMEN.

There will be a lecture to women on the subject "The Gospel of the Ballot," by Mrs. M. J. Thompson, at Pilgrim Congregational church, West Duluth, Thursday, March 16, at 2:30 o'clock promptly. This takes the place of the regular bi-monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. and is free to all.

NERVOUS TENSION

A Certain Uneasy Restlessness Is Noted In Havana Evenings.

A CLASH IS EXPECTED

Partisans of Gomez and of the Cuban Assembly May Fight.

New York, March 15.—A dispatch from Washigton says: War department officials are satisfied that within ten days the problem of the disbandment of the Cuban army will be settled. Then if there is a faction that wants trouble with the United States it will be known.

"Some of the insurgent chiefs," said an official today, "talk as though they wanted to go on the war path. The quicker we know it, if that is so, the better."

No advices have been received from Gen. Brooke indicating that he look for trouble. It is only a question as to how many followers the malcontents in the assembly can persuade not to lay down their arms.

Those who are likely to support the assembly are included in the classes who joined the insurgent ranks after the surrender of Santiago, and who would not, therefore, be entitled to receive the $100.

Havana, March 15, 10 a. m.—The reported resignation of Civil Governor Mora is untrue.

A certain nervous tension and uneasy restlessness, especially during the evenings, is noticeable in the vicinity of Central Park, where the men congregate and talk politics. The police have orders not to allow groups to assemble, and are dispersing them. This causes uncomplimentary comment about the force, people declaring that the police are interfering with their rights and freedom.

Another Gomez manifestation has been planned to take place this afternoon, and it is said that the Cuban officers will organize a manifestation in favor of the Cuban military assembly, which, if it takes place, will possibly lead to a clash between the opposing factions. In fact some people declare such a conflict cannot be averted. But it should be noted that while the air is full of rumors of trouble and many have been expecting deeds of violence, none have actually occurred.

There were seventy policemen on duty in the immediate vicinity of the Central Park cafes last night, where the effervescence of the crowd was most noticeable.

A VITROL THROWER.

Mrs. McVean, a St. Louis Widow, Terribly Injured.

St. Louis, March 15.—The best men on the force of Maj. Desmond, chief of detectives, are engaged today in looking for an unknown woman who called at the residence of Mrs. M. F. McVean, a widow, and threw vitriol in the latter's face, blinding her and causing burns that may result fatally. Several weeks ago Mrs. McVean caused a sensation by appearing at police headquarters with a box of candy which she said she had received through the mail. She charged a prominent young woman of this city with having sent it to her, because she was jealous of the attentions paid Mrs. McVean by a well-known West End physician.

TOO MANY LAWS.

The Movement to Limit the Activity of the State Legislature.

There is a movement on foot to restrict the sessions of the assembly to one in two years. "It would be a good thing," said a citizen well known in this town for his interest in public affairs. "We have too many laws, just as we have too many medicines. I am in favor of destroying about half the law books and two-thirds of the medicines. There are a few medicinal preparations we could not well get along without, and among them I class Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky. I have used it with gratifying result when my nervous system has been exhausted by long continued mental application, when I had no desire for food, and sound sleep was impossible."

"I found that Duffy's Pure Malt gave tone to the nerve centers, and was at once a soother and a strength-giver."

A household remedy and so acknowledged throughout the land. It has prevented a vast amount of sickness, and is the only medicinal whisky acknowledged and taxed by the government.

Just a word of caution. When you order of your druggist, be sure that you get the genuine Duffy's. Substitutes so frequently offered are worse than useless.

WORLD IS PROGRESSING.

S. T. Harrison Finds Society Is Tending Toward Altruism.

The Young Men's league of the First Presbyterian church held a regular meeting last night in the parlors of the church, and "Altruism" came up for discussion. There was a large attendance and the discussion was most interesting. S. T. Harrison led it with a paper on "Altruism," which was a very thoughtful and scholarly treatise and which was heard with a great deal of interest. He defined altruism as the idea of doing good to the other, and elaborated on what the idea means and what it contains of importance to the future of the world. He spoke of pauperism and misdirected charity, and maintained that pity for a condition of beggars and the indiscriminate giving of alms encourages begging and increases the very thing it seeks to relieve. Referring to the Utopian condition, he affirmed that the world is continually advancing toward that state, and he developed a number of heads, each showing lines along which the world has advanced toward the ideal condition, such as religious tolerance and education. He condemned the socialistic idea and showed wherein it is opposed to altruism. The point raised from the audience, that the present tendency to combination and monopoly and its resulting destruction of individualism, is not a step toward altruism, was held to be only a temporary repression of the world's progress.

Among the speakers from the floor were Judge Edson, Rev. T. H. Cleland, John Wilson, Alexander Guthrie and Colin Thompson.

DAGGETT GETS A BOUQUET.

Ladies of Watertown Appreciate His Efforts In Their Behalf.

Madison, Wis., March 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A joint resolution requesting the retiring governor to send a message to the legislature on the condition of public affairs, with recommendations, was adopted unanimously by the senate this morning. It was urged in Governor Scofield's message.

Thirteen remonstrances from Racine and Kenosha counties against the passage of the Sheridan drive bill were presented in the senate.

The bill for a bounty on English sparrows was killed without a struggle.

A bill passed reducing the rate of interest on trust funds from 4 to 3½ per cent.

The assembly after some debate passed the anti-pass resolution containing the forfeiture of office clause by a vote of 72 to 19. Eleven minor bills passed in the assembly.

Assemblyman Daggett's desk was the center of attraction. It was decorated with a tightly-laced corset, containing a bouquet of roses and carnations. It came from the ladies of Watertown and was accompanied by a note saying they desired to show their appreciation of Daggett's interest in the welfare of womanhood.

THE CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

Case Against Nels Erickson Is Now on Trial.

In Judge Moer's court this morning the trial of criminal cases was still in progress. This morning the case against Nels Erickson, charged with assault in the second degree upon one Emil Mills, was taken up before a jury. The indictment charges that Erickson, at Hi stie camp in 52-50, shot at the complaining witness several times with a gun on Feb. 20. The testimony of the complaining witness was to the effect that he and Erickson had been marking ties during the day, and they had some whisky along. When they got back to the camp Erickson asked Mills if he knew where his money was kept, and shortly afterwards, Mills said, Erickson got a gun and started after him. He claimed that he was shot at three times, and he heard a bullet whistle by him. Meantime he was flying through the woods, and he did not stop until he reached another camp two and a half miles away.

Yesterday afternoon the jury in the case against John Lundgren, charged with assault in the second degree, brought in a verdict of not guilty. The evidence showed that Lundgren had a fuss with the complaining witness, in the course of which the latter received a blow in the face. The cutting affair followed afterwards, and according to the court's charge the question was whether it was Lundgren or the complaining witness that started the second row. The jury evidently found that it was the complaining witness, for it acquitted the prisoner. Before Lundgren was permitted to leave the court room Judge Moer called him up and told him he was a very lucky fellow to be acquitted, and he advised him to let the experience be a lesson to him not to get too much mixed up with liquor again.

Yesterday afternoon Otto Fisher, who was indicted for grand larceny in the second degree and who pleaded not guilty, withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty as indicted.

GRIFFITH NOT COMING.

John Griffith will not be seen at the Lyceum in "The Avenger" tonight. This is a result of the severe storm and railroad blockade which exists in Michigan. Mr. Griffith cannot get in over the South Shore road, which is blocked by snow beyond Marquette.

Field Is Enlarged.

The weather bureau at Duluth has greatly enlarged the list of towns to which "emergency warnings" are sent. When violent storms are expected, which is, of course, very seldom, warnings are sent out by telegraph. Usually these go to postmasters. The list to be covered hereafter from Duluth includes 188 towns, situated in fourteen counties in Minnesota and seventeen in Wisconsin.

WINE OF CARDUI

Joy of Motherhood.

Gloster, Miss., Jan. 6.

I have been married three years and have no children: I am taking Wine of Cardui and can see improvement already. I hope for a greater result soon.

MRS. IDA NEYLAND. 38

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Nature makes no imperfect men or women. If there is a weakness or a lack of power and strength, the fault is either with the persons themselves or their parents. The reproductive faculties are frequently lost temporarily by the attacks of disease upon the distinctive organs of women. To such homes no baby will come to coo and prattle until the disease is conquered. To overcome and completely banish the debilitating drains and weaknesses is not difficult. A wife has simply to take Wine of Cardui as directed. It will restore the reproductive functions, and instead of a lonesome, lifeless home, she will ere long hear the ring of childish laughter, and feel the soft, caressing touch of baby fingers on her cheek. Her period of pregnancy will be made comparatively free of distress and the pains of childbirth greatly diminished by this same vegetable Wine.

NO C. O. D. OR DEPOSIT SCHEME.

The only preparation known to science which really cures Lost Manhood is "CALTHOS," the marvelous French remedy discovered by Prof. Jules Laborde. It is controlled in this country by The Von Mohl Company, of Cincinnati, Ohio, a concern which occupies a high and honorable place in the world of medicine. It is one of the largest and most responsible houses in Cincinnati, as anyone who is acquainted in that city will testify.

The Von Mohl Company invites all men suffering from Lost Manhood, Spermatorrhœa, Varicocele, Small Parts or Weakness of any nature in the Nerves or Sexual Organs, to send their names and receive a five days' treatment. This will prove the wonderful vitalizing powers of "CALTHOS." After using it five days the sufferers will find new vigor in their organs, new force in their muscles, new blood in their veins, new ambition, and rapid progress toward the buoyant feelings and sensations of younger days.

This liberal free offer is genuine. There is no swindling C. O. D. or Deposit Scheme connected with it. The five days' treatment is sent by sealed mail to all on request, wrapped in a plain package, and full printed instructions accompany the medicine, so that each patient becomes his own doctor and cures himself at home.

It doesn't make any difference what caused the weakness—whether bad habits in youth, or excess, or overwork, or business troubles. "CALTHOS" will effect a cure, no matter what big name the disease may be called by doctors.

The Von Mohl Company treats all correspondence in perfect confidence. Under no conditions will it make public the names of the thousands who have written testimonials telling of their restoration to robust manhood after other medicines and appliances have proved worthless. "CALTHOS" is regularly used in the French and German armies, and the soldiers in those countries have come to be perfect models of strength and vitality. Cures are effected at all ages from twenty to eighty years. There is no case except where the stage of epilepsy or insanity has been reached which it will not radically, quickly and permanently cure. Sexual weakness does not cure itself. It grows worse from week to week. Each day aggravates the mental and physical anguish.

Send today for the free five days' trial treatment. If it does not help, no harm is done and no money has been paid out. You can send your name in the full knowledge that it will be kept from all. The "CALTHOS" department of our business is strictly confidential. Address applications for trial treatment, etc., to

THE DAKOTAS.

The Grain Growers' Convention Promises to Be Very Important Affair.

Fargo—The interstate grain growers' convention, to be held in Fargo March 21, 22 and 23, promises to be one of the most important attempts to improve the product of the spring wheat states ever held in the Northwest. Elevator men and wheat growers report a continued falling off in the higher grades in both North and South Dakota and Minnesota. A few farmers realize this and take proper steps to remedy it, but the great mass of the wheat growers are content to go on as they have been sowing the same seed and with the impurities multiplying tenfold with each crop. It is to the awakening of the following that the grain growers' convention is to be held. Those who have been studying the matter say pure seed wheat before will have an opportunity to learn more and better methods, and all will be instructed. The convention is largely due to the efforts of Budd Reeve, who has been attempting to arouse the farmers on this line for some years. He has interested many in the movement that there can be no doubt as to the success. A premium of $25 will be given for the best seed cleaning machinery, $25 for the best seed cleaning machine and $25 for the best address on "How to Make Farming Pay."

Mayor Johnson of Fargo has issued a circular to all the city officials as far north as Winnipeg, east as far as the Twin Cities and as far south as Sioux Falls, urging the importance of the attendance of all interested. Fargo will give the visitors a warm welcome. C. H. Athaier of Fargo, is the local secretary.

Bismarck—A law was passed at the present session of the legislature, adding incurable insanity to the grounds for divorce. But, as the law was passed, insanity must have existed for at least two years, during which time the person from whom the divorce is sought to be obtained must have been confined in an asylum.

All incorporated cities having a population of 500 or over will have to adopt the registry system at the spring election, and the board of registry must meet two weeks before the election and prepare lists of voters.

Mercer county claims the only unmoved county seat in the country. The county seat was moved from Napoleon at the last election, and the records were moved to the house of a German farmer named Bogner, where they now are. The place is unnamed, there is no postoffice and the residents of Natoma will fight the removal in the courts. The county seat was moved by a majority of five over the necessary two-thirds.

The decrease in the salaries of county treasurers under the new law is large in some cases. The salary in Stutsman county is reduced to $1400 a year, a reduction of about $50 a month.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Sioux Falls—The Argus Leader publishes an article in which it was contended that, notwithstanding the veto by Governor Lee of the bill raising the salaries of the governor, supreme and circuit court judges, the governor and judges will receive the increased salaries provided for in the vetoed bill.

It is pointed out that the state constitution empowers the legislature to raise the salaries of the governor and judges of the supreme court to $3000 per annum and circuit judges to $2500. These are the amounts fixed in the bill vetoed by Governor Lee.

However, the general appropriation bill, which was signed by Governor Lee and became a law, carries an appropriation to cover these increased salaries, and it is maintained that the state auditor must draw warrants accordingly, thus nullifying the governor's veto of the other bill.

Hot Springs—Hot Springs is very much excited over the strange death or disappearance of Pat J. Ferguson, a rancheman who lived about nine miles from here across the Cheyenne river, and whose house was found yesterday a mass of cinders. Ferguson has no family and no relatives in this part of the country, and has never been married. He was in Hot Springs last Wednesday and went back home with about $75 or $100.

Rapid City—The state school of mines of this city has nearly tripled its enrollment in the past year, owing to the efforts of the management. It now has the largest number of students, with one exception, in its history. The friends of the school are feeling good over the appropriation of $11,400 a year for the next two years, which will be sufficient to supply the needs of the school.

GRAIN-O BRINGS RELIEF

To the coffee drinker. Coffee drinking is a habit that is universally indulged in and almost as universally injurious. Have you tried Grain-O? It is almost like coffee, but the effects are just the opposite. Coffee upsets the stomach, ruins the digestion, affects the heart and disturbs the whole nervous system. Grain-O tones up the stomach, aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. There is nothing but nourishment in Grain-O. It can't be otherwise. 15 and 25 cents per package.

TO GET VOLUNTEERS HOME.

The War Department Is Making Every Possible Effort.

New York, March 15.—It is expected that the United States transport McClellan will sail for Porto Rico and Cuba on Friday. Part of her cargo will be garbage-cans and sprinklers for the health officers in San Juan.

The war department is much worried now as to how it will be able to get all the volunteer regiments away from Cuba and Porto Rico before the quarantine goes into effect. After that all the soldiers coming north will be obliged to remain in the transports after reaching the United States until the health officers decide that there is no danger of their developing yellow fever or other contagious diseases. This would be a great inconvenience, and the department is bending every energy to move all the troops as soon as possible. Transports, although in need of repairs, are being kept in the service, and the Dixie, which has just been transferred from the navy to the transport service, will be sent to Cuba instead of Manilla, as first intended.

NEW OIL COMPANY.

It Has Unlimited Capital and Will Compete With the Standard.

Kansas City, March 15.—The Journal says: S. C. Rutan, of Chicago, is in Kansas City, representing an English syndicate, and claiming that he has obtained an option on 100,000 acres of land in the Cherokee nation in the northern part of the Indian territory, in the recently discovered oil fields. According to Mr. Rutan the condition is that the leases shall be closed within ten days.

Maj. Graham, an ex-officer of the British army and an English capitalist, is at the head of the syndicate. The capitalists back of it include many of the wealthiest men in England who have had experience in the European oil fields. Mr. Rutan says the present company, of which he is an official, has men back of it whose wealth would easily aggregate $250,000,000.

It is independent of the Standard Oil company and expects to compete with that company, not only in the markets of America but of Europe. Tank line steamers of 7000 tons burden have been built and are in the hands of the company. They will run from Port Arthur and other gulf ports to European countries.

It is claimed that the plan is practically certain to go through and that the steamers will be running within a few months. Seventeen wells are already in operation and several more will be built as soon as the syndicate secures control.

CANNOT HOLD OUT.

Ice Bound Gold Seekers May Starve Before Spring.

Seattle, Wash., March 15—A letter from Capt. W. B. Parker, master of the barge Admiral, which is in winter quarters five miles off St. Michaels, says:

Six men have arrived from the North American Transportation and Trading company's steamer P. B. Weare, which is ice-bound in the Yukon, near Holy Cross mission. The men do not think they will be able to hold out until spring.

Seven men left the steamer, but one got lost coming down, and the others think that he was frozen to death.

TWO DEATHS.

Washington, March 15.—The following dispatches have reached the war department:

San Juan, Porto Rico, March 14.—Adjutant General, Washington: Private Thomas A. Psleghaar, Company B, Nineteenth infantry, died in general hospital March 13.

Guantanamo, March 15.—Adjutant General, Washington: Artificer George Green, Company B, Third United States volunteer infantry, died March 11, lobar pneumonia. RAY, Colonel.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup always cures bronchitis and asthma. Nothing equals this wonderful remedy. Price, 25 cents.

HE SAW THE MEAT

MADE HIS MEN SICK

Much of the Refrigerated Beef Was Spoiled Before Being Issued.

Chicago, March 15.—Dr. John B. Shaw, of Joliet, Ill., surgeon of the Third Illinois volunteers, testified before the army beef inquiry commission today that on the voyage from Newport News to Porto Rico canned roast beef was issued, and there was a great deal of complaint about it. It was stringy, pulpy and nauseating, and did not seem to nourish the men. Much diarrhoea followed the use of it. The witness attributed the sickness to ptomaine poisoning. He believed ptomaines would develop in the hot sun in five or six minutes after a can was opened. The meat was not cooked, and was eaten raw, as were some canned tomatoes, which also were a cause of the diarrhoea. If the meat were properly sterilized ptomaines would not develop. While in Porto Rico fresh beef was issued. The regiment was twenty-five miles from Ponce. They got refrigerator beef two or three times a week. The matter of rations was taken out of the regiment's hands to a great extent. Gen. Grant seemed to know more about it than anybody else. The witness took no particular interest in them because of the action of Gen. Grant.

"He cannot violate the law."

"He did."

"Did he issue orders?"

"He issued whatever he saw fit."

"The law requires the surgeon to supervise the cooking of that which is issued. Did you interest yourself to ascertain what was being issued to the enlisted men?"

"We saw what was issued and took it because we could not get anything else. We had canned roast beef nearly all the while, and the men refused to eat it. It was used in different ways—cooked with vegetables and hard tack. It was ordered condemned, and we buried a lot of it. A board of survey was ordered, but the witness never heard anything more about it. No equivalent was received for the canned roast beef.

The witness spoke to the commissary and he said it was all right. As to the refrigerator beef very little of it was used, as at least three-quarters of it would have to be cut off. We were twenty-five miles from Ponce. I do not think any chemicals had been used on the meat. It was simply spoiled. I saw cans of the roast beef opened. The meat had undoubtedly been acted upon by the heat, which had softened it. The fat and grease and gelatine had all intermingled with the fibre.

REVENUE STAMP CASE.

Georgia Will Fight Express Companies In Highest Courts.

Atlanta, Ga., March 15.—The case of the railroad commission of Georgia against the Southern Express company, in the matter of alleged overcharges by the latter in demanding that shippers furnish revenue stamps for package, is not to end with the decision of Judge Speer, who held that, as the question was one arising out of internal revenue, the railroad commission of Georgia had nothing to do with it.

Governor Candler, after a conference with the attorney general, instructed that official to appeal the case to the circuit court of appeals, and to the supreme court of the United States if necessary.

MRS. WHITE BETTER.

London, March 15.—Mrs. Henry White, wife of the secretary of the United States embassy, who has been suffering from a severe attack of influenza, is slightly better today. Queen Victoria has telegraphed from Cimiez, near Nice, expressing sympathy with Mrs. White and inquiring as to her condition.

TO ADVANCE PRICES.

Chicago, March 15.—At a secret session of the Central Supply association comprising manufacturers and jobbers of plumbers' supplies from the territory surrounding Chicago for several hundred miles, held here for the purpose of discussing prices, it was decided to advance prices after the expiration of two weeks, and then make a second advance later in the spring.

JAILBIRDS ESCAPE.

Denver, Col., March 15.—Emmet A. Ayers, who is under conviction for murder in the second degree, and James Mackey, a thief, escaped from the county jail by sawing their way through the bars of a window and jumping to the ground.

THE FLASH POINT.

London, March 15.—In the house of commons today, Harold James Reckitt, Liberal member for the Brigg division of Lincolnshire, moved the second reading of the bill raising the flash point of petroleum from 73 to 100. In so doing he said that it would not add appreciably to the cost, as a New York firm had offered to supply oil at 100 flash point at only half a cent per gallon dearer than the present price.

TO BE MUSTERED OUT.

Washington, March 15.—Orders were issued today for the muster out of the First Texas at Galveston and the Second Louisiana at Savannah. Both regiments are now at Havana, but will be brought to this country as soon as transports are available. The Sixth company of volunteer signal corps, now at Augusta, Ga., has been ordered mustered out.

QUARANTINE DELAYS.

War Department Appears Much Exercised Over the Matter.

Washington, March 15.—The detention of the transport Michigan at the Georgia state quarantine, below Savannah, is giving the war department some concern. The ship has now been held for four days, and is thus prevented from returning to Cuba and bringing back more troops. It is feared that the quarantine delays which will occur in the Southern states will greatly hinder the return of troops to this country. The weather is yet too cold to bring the troops to a Northern climate, and they must be landed at Southern points during April.

CREW FOR ENGLAND.

Argonaut Rowing Club of Toronto Selects Its Men.

Toronto, March 15.—The Henley committee of the Argonaut Rowing club has selected the crew for the July trip to England. It was decided to make entries for the diamond sculls and the Stewards challenge cup for 4-oared crews as well as for the grand challenge cup. The entries are as follows: Diamond sculls, Charles E. A. Goldman, 162; Stewards challenge cup, Joe Wright, stroke: Fred Thompson, No. 1; E. A. Thompson, No. 2; H. G. Muntz, three; Grand challenge cup: H. Muntz, 159; George Doherty, 160; Harry Kirkstone, 165; Joe Wright, 175; Alexander Boyd, 165; Bush Thompson, 170; Fred Thompson, 155; J. N. McKenzie, 150; W. Linton, 175; H. Gooderham, 165; H. Muntz (stroke), 155; R. A. K. Baker (coxswain), 120.

Colonials are allowed the privilege of nominating as many as fifteen candidates for an 8-oared crew for Henley, although the home clubs are limited to their eight and two spare men.

WILL NOT BE RECOGNIZED.

Committee Appointed By the Cuban Assembly to Visit Washington.

Washington, March 15.—The committee which was appointed yesterday by the Cuban military assembly at Havana to come to Washington to secure recognition, it can be stated, will not be recognized in any official capacity. The war department officials are actuated by a conviction that they are bound by reasons of sound policy to avoid carefully any official recognition except to such a fully representative body as shall be created by all of the Cuban people through the exercise of the right of franchise. In making the payments to the Cuban soldiers, which have been arranged for by Secretary Alger, the personality of the Cuban commanders will play little part. The soldiers are to be dealt with individually, and the money will be handled only by the United States army paymasters, receipts being taken from the individuals.

PASSED A GOOD NIGHT.

New York, March 15.—Rudyard Kipling passed a good night and continues to improve.

The Cruel Knife!

It is absolutely useless to expect a surgical operation to cure cancer, or any other blood disease. The cruelty of such treatment is illustrated in the alarming number of deaths which result from it. The disease is in the blood, and hence can not be cut out. Nine times out of ten the surgeon's knife only hastens death.

My son had a most malignant Cancer, for which the doctors said an operation was the only hope. The operation was a severe one, as it was necessary to cut down to the jaw bone and scrape it. Before a great while the Cancer returned, and began to grow rapidly. We gave him many remedies without relief, and finally, upon the advice of a friend, decided to try S. S. S. (Swift's Specific), and with the second bottle he began to improve. After twenty bottles had been taken, the Cancer disappeared entirely, and he was cured. The cure was a permanent one, for he is now seventeen years old, and has never had a sign of the dreadful disease to return.

PREPARED BY SMITH

President of Board of Public Works Drew Mine Inspection Bill.

IS AFTER THE PLACE

If the Bill Passes He Wants to Be the Inspector.

There was recently introduced and is now pending in the legislature a bill providing for the inspection of the mines in the state and for the appointment of an inspector. As to what the chances of the bill are little has been heard and there has been considerable speculation as to where the bill originated. It is learned that W. H. Smith, president of the board of public works, is responsible for the bill and that he will be an applicant for the position of mine inspector under the bill if it becomes a law.

The bill provides for the appointment of a practical miner as state inspector. It will be his duty under the bill to inspect all mines carefully at least once a month with a view to determining their safety for workingmen. It is provided that if he points out to the mine operators any weaknesses or defects and if they fail to remedy them and injury to miners results, it shall be sufficient proof of the company's liability for the accident.

Mr. Smith originally drafted a bill that covered many pages and was very verbose. He exhibited it to an attorney of one of the iron mining companies and he volunteered to greatly shorten the bill. He did so and returned it to Mr. Smith, remarking that the companies would not object to it in that form. This is considered rather doubtful, however, in fact opposition to the bill is looked for.

It is said, however, that even should the bill pass Mr. Smith is not at all certain to secure the place. This, in view of the fact that he originated the bill, would probably cause Mr. Smith to feel that he had been deprived of a place to which he was entitled, but it may be so. The place, it is said, is more likely to go to a range man.

THE OLD WAY

Of Treating Dyspepsia and Indigestion By Dieting a Dangerous and Useless One.

We say the old way, but really it is a very common one at the present time and many dyspeptics and physicians as well consider the first step to take in attempting to cure indigestion is to diet, either by selecting certain foods and rejecting others or to greatly diminish the quantity usually taken, in other words, the starvation plan is by many supposed to be the first essential.

The almost certain failure of the starvation cure for dyspepsia has been proven time and again, but still the moment dyspepsia makes its appearance a course of dieting is at once advised.

All this is radically wrong. It is foolish and unscientific to recommend dieting or starvation to a man suffering from dyspepsia, because indigestion itself starves every organ and every nerve and every fiber in the body.

What the dyspeptic wants is abundant nutrition, which means plenty of good, wholesome, well cooked food and something to assist the weak stomach to digest it. This is exactly the purpose for which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are adapted and this is the method by which they cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, in other words the patient eats plenty of wholesome food and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest it for him. In this way the system is nourished and the overworked stomach rested, because the tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not. One of these tablets will digest 3000 grains of meat or eggs.

Your druggist will tell you that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the purest and safest remedy for stomach troubles and every trial makes one more friend for this excellent preparation. Sold at 50 cents for full-sized package at all drug stores.

Maternity

If every expectant mother would put herself under Mrs. Pinkham's care and follow her advice, which costs nothing, the experience of maternity would be approached without peril and passed with the least possible pain.

Mrs. Perley Moulton, Thetford, Vt., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine. I took several bottles of it before the birth of my baby and got along nicely. I had no afterpains and am now strong and enjoying good health. Baby is also fat and healthy."

Mrs. Chas. Gerbig, 304 S. Monroe St., Baltimore, Md., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: Before taking your Vegetable Compound I was unable to become pregnant; but since I have used it my health is much improved, and I have a big baby boy, the joy and pride of our home."

It is not Nature's plan that bearing children shall destroy comeliness or wreck health. Write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. for practical counsel.

Mrs. Cora Gilson, of Yates, Manistee, Mich., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: Two years ago I began having dull, heavy, dragging pains in my back, menses were profuse and painful, and was troubled with leucorrhœa. I took patent medicines and consulted a physician, but received no benefit and could not become pregnant. Seeing one of your books, I wrote to you, telling you my troubles and asking for advice. You answered my letter promptly and I followed the directions faithfully, and derived so much benefit that I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. I now find myself pregnant and have begun its use again. I cannot praise it enough."

Mrs. Ed. Waddell, Philbrook, Mont., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: I wish to tell my suffering sisters about your Vegetable Compound, to which I owe my life and three fine, healthy children. Five years ago now, I had three miscarriages and at the time of the second one the doctor said another would kill me. In six months I had another. Well, I did nothing; I was lifeless and listless, cared for nothing. I thought I would ask your advice and try your medicine, and I am so glad I did, for it made such a change in me. I gained strength, slept well and gave birth to a nice boy with comparatively little suffering. Since then have had two children, which through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was able to bring to maturity. I feel that I could not do without your medicine at such a time. I am now well, and do all my own work. I thank you for your kind advice and shall not be without your medicine. I recommend it to all who suffer."

Mrs. Ehlinger Thanks Mrs. Pinkham.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: I have many, many thanks to give you for what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. After first confinement I was sick for nine years with prolapsus of the vomb, had pain in left side, in small of back, a great deal of headache, palpitation of heart and leucorrhœa. I felt so weak and tired that I could not do my work. I became pregnant again and took your Compound all through, and now have a sweet baby girl. I never before had such an easy time during labor, and feel it was due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now able to do my work and feel better than I have for years. I cannot thank you enough."—Mrs. Edward Ehlinger, Devine, Texas.

Bowery Bums Will Get No Mercy In Judge Edson's Court Hereafter.

TOUGHS CATCH IT

Ninety Days Each For Disorderly Conduct—Their Offense Serious.

Two Bowery bums, William Graham and James McKay, who were caught holding up a woodsman named Alex Bolander last night by Officer Brigham, were fined $100 and costs each by Judge Edson this morning, with the alternative of ninety days in the county jail. This is the limit for the charge against them, disorderly conduct, and the court intimated that the ante would be made pretty high for any of the rest of the Bowery crooks who fall into his clutches. The court remarked that Duluth's Bowery is about the worst place in the Northwest, if not in the country for its size, and that it was time something was done to clean it out.

One of the men, McKay, asked the judge if he could go back to his job.

"There is a job of more importance waiting for you on the hill," remarked the court, "and you will have to attend to that first." Both men went up.

Bolander, the victim of the hold-up, was arraigned on the charge of drunkenness. He was very anxious to get back to his job at Foxboro, Wis., he said, but the court recognized him as having been up before on a similar charge and told him that he would have to make it ten this time. The court remarked as a further reason for putting an assessment on Alex that he did not care to encourage any of the people of Foxboro to come to Duluth and get full by letting him off. Bolander will put in ten days breaking rock.

Officer Brigham found one of Bolander's Bowery friends holding him and the other one going through his pockets. Bolander was yelling like an Indian and it was his cries that attracted the officer.

AN UNSAVORY DIVORCE CASE.

Result Is That Court Room Is Constantly Crowded.

The Woollen divorce case was taken up in room No. 2 before Judge Cant in district court yesterday afternoon, and it was still on trial today. It has been somewhat extensively advertised as an unsavory mess, and the crowds that always flock to anything of that kind have been in attendance since the trial began. The little court room is crowded constantly, and spectators were wholly absent this morning from the other court rooms. The testimony was of such nature as to highly delight the hangers-on, who got what they came for in abundant quantities. The suit is for divorce on the ground of adultery. The defendant claims that her husband plotted to have one Kelly, the man with whom she was found, drug her and place her in a compromising position, which he was to burst in and get evidence on which to found a divorce case. She claims further that after she had been found in this situation her husband condoned the offense and lived with her. She brings a counterclaim for divorce on the ground of cruelty.

The damage case of John M. McLeod against King & Steele was still on trial before Judge Ensign this morning, and it was not expected to go to the jury before tomorrow.

M. S. BURROWS' IMPRESSIONS.

He Tells How Eastern Business Men Are Talking.

M. S. Burrows, who is just back from a four weeks' business trip to New York, has returned to Duluth impressed with the overwhelming confidence in the business future which now exists in Eastern trade and financial centers. Business men are well pleased with the expansion policy, he says, and declare that the Spanish-American war is the greatest advertisement America ever had. As American customs are introduced into the dependencies business men expect to see a great trade grow up between them and America. In the markets Mr. Burrows found that sharp advances had begun in woolen and cotton goods. The great subject of concern in the business world is the development of trusts. No one can tell where the universal tendency towards industrial and commercial consolidation will end. Mr. Burrows is inclined to think that trusts are good things on the whole, that they insure American commercial supremacy. He thinks silver is a dead issue and the next campaign will be fought on the Nicaragua canal, the subsidizing of ocean commerce and the problem of the trusts.

Some Probate Matters.

In the matter of the estate of Charles Slaughter an inventory of the estate was filed in probate court this morning. It shows a life insurance policy of $5000 in the Northwestern Mutual, which has been paid, and some professional bills and implements.

In the matter of the estate of F. H. Frisbie, P. M. Graff was this morning appointed administrator with the will annexed, the executor named in the will, D. P. Frisbie, a brother of the deceased, having refused to act.

BIG CHUNKS OF GOLD

Two Lots of Gold Bricks Brought Down From Seine Country.

Two shipments of gold bricks from the Seine River district, aggregating close to $18,500, reached Duluth this noon on the Duluth & Iron Range railway. The bullion comes from the Olive and Golden Star mines and the man who doubts the existence of gold in paying quantities should gaze on those very bricks.

Fred R. Merritt, assistant secretary of the Golden Star Mining company, accompanied by Mrs. Merritt, brought down the bricks from the Golden Star. They were 912 ounces and, and at $17 an ounce possess a value of $15,500.

The concentrates for the February run were very heavy. Careful and thorough assays showed their value to be $10,000, makin gthe total gold production for the month $25,000. The company now has $25,000 worth of concentrates on hand and as soon as navigation opens they will be shipped to the Rat Portage reduction works for treatment.

Mr. Preston brought down the bricks from the Olive. He carried them in a grip in one hand and bore his personal effects in a satchel in the other hand. He walked from the Union depot and had to set down his burden and take breath and rest his arms now and then. Few people on the street even dreamed that the short little man with a muskrat cap, big ulster and long dowling beard had in that bag over $7000 worth of yellow metal wrested from old mother earth.

"I have been succeeded as manager of the Olive by Mr. Hall, of Buffalo," said Mr. Preston, as he registered his name on Alex Michaud's roll of honor at the St. Louis hotel, "and am now overdue in Winnipeg. I brought down 420 ounces of bullion gold, representing a mill run with ten stamps for eleven days and nine hours and the treatment of 220 tons of ore. Of course, these bricks do not show the gold values in the concentrates. Matters are in splendid shape at the mine. Our main shaft is down 240 feet and we soon will push sinking on shaft B. We have now a total development of 750 feet and both working shafts will be pushed down t othe 500-fot level. The ore body in the bottom of the main shaft is improving in value and is between three and four feet wide. We were somewhat delayed this month with low water in the Little Turtle lake. We started up the new 10-stamp mill Feb. 20."

While Mr. Preston has given up the management of the Olive, he still will represent his company in that district and give his attention to some important development work on other properties. He reports all the other mines and properties under development as making fine showings. Mr. Preston leaves for Winnipeg this evening.

IT WILL ALSO FIGHT.

St. Paul & Duluth Objects to Anderson Law Taxes.

The St. Paul & Duluth railroad this morning filed its answer to the proceedings to enforce the payment of taxes delinquent for the year 1897. This is the second answer to be filed in district court which attacks the validity of the Anderson tax law, providing for the taxation of unused railroad lands in the same manner as other property. A constitutional question is raised in this as in the other case, and this will permit the matter to go up as high as the supreme court of the United States. The answer of the St. Paul & Duluth claims that the state by its grants, and the road's acceptance of them, in effect entered into a contract that the land granted by the state and federal governments should not be taxed as other real estate, but that the payment of the gross earnings tax should be in lieu of all other taxes. The road claims that it has always paid its gross earnings taxes, and that any attempt to levy additional taxes is in violation of the contract. The United States constitution prohibits states from abrogating contracts made by them, and it is therefore claimed that the tax levy is void.

WORKED ST. PAUL ALSO.

Young Man Who Used W. M. Prindle's Name Visited There.

The smooth young man who passed forged checks purported to have been drawn by W. M. Prindle & Co. on several Superior street merchants a couple of weeks ago played it on several St. Paul merchants Saturday night, according to a clipping received by Detective Troyer. The latter had sent one of the checks to the St. Paul police to see if the same artist had turned up there, and the clipping was sent in response, together with a letter stating that the writing on the checks passed in St. Paul is the same as on the one sent from here. A wholesale hardware merchant, living on St. Anthony hill, began to receive a variety of articles at his office on Monday, including cigars, trousers, lady's jewelry, etc. Packages continued to arrive at intervals all day, and he heard from his house that carts and wagons were unloading groceries, coal and enough other supplies to equip a first-class hotel for a month. He began chasing around by the time half a cord or so of packages had been left at the office. Every man to whom he telephoned hung up the receiver and tore his hair, or stood around looking as if he were waiting for the doctor to come, or tried to lay it on to the clerk, according to his nature. The St. Anthony hill merchant had everything but coffins and goats left at his home or office during the day. The smooth young man had, it was thought, gathered in about $50 or $75.

TO HAVE A CAKE WALK

Big Attraction at the Labor Bazar--More Exhibits In Place.

There will be a special attraction at the labor bazar tonight in the shape of a grand cake walk. It will be open to all comers, and all the "walkists" at the head of the lakes are expected to be there, and enough amateurs to make it amusing as well as interesting. Dick Harris, who is considered one of the warmest walkers around these parts, will give an exhibition of fancy walking. Another walk will take place Saturday night.

The work of completing the unfinished booths was vigorously pushed yesterday and last evening a decided change was noticed. Among the additions to the exhibits yesterday were those of the Bruce-Gordean-Wells company and the Big Duluth Clothing store and the Duluth Brewing and Malting company. The latter will distribute cut flowers to the ladies Friday night. The Richardson Electric company is putting in a complete miniature electric lighting plant for its booth.

One of the most attractive displays is that of Cutler & Gilbert. It is very extensive, including every line of goods carried by the firm, most artistically arranged, and would do credit to a state fair.

On the program for tonight there are two amusing sketches, "Fun in a Photograph Studio" and "Silence and Fun," in the former J. J. Musolf, A. E. Woodbridge, Hugo Halling and E. Coleman will take part, and Messrs. Musolf and Coleman will present the second one. The West Duluth band will give a concert this evening, and Miss Georgia Alexander will sing. Ex-Commander C. E. Lovett will deliver an address.

The bazar was well attended last night, considering the blustery weather. A feature of the program was the singing of Miss Davidson, of West Superior. She first rendered "Merry Zingara" and was given several encores. The Angelus orchestral recitals in French & Bassett's booth are a most enjoyable feature and the booth is a center of attraction.

All of the electric lights except several of the arc lights went out last night and were in eclipse for about half an hour. The supplementary wiring has been interfered with by some boys in erecting a storming tower to effect an entrance through one of the gallery windows.

Among the new exhibits put in at the bazar this morning are those of the Studebaker Wagon and Carriage company and the Duluth Artificial Limb company. An interesting feature is a frame in front of the carpenters' booth containing the first six ballots voted in what was then the town of Portland, now part of Duluth; a protograph of Duluth in 1868, and other curiosities. The ballots are written in ink.

A FINE PROGRAM.

St. Patrick's Day Entertainment at the Lyceum Thursday Evening.

The renowned St. Patrick's day entertainment at the Lyceum tomorrow evening, at 8:15 sharp, promises to be the best the cathedral parish ever presented to the Duluth public. Flaaten's orchestra will render the choicest selection of Irish airs ever heard in Duluth. Miss Julia Donovan, Duluth's most talented vocalist, and whose musical abilities are unsurpassed in the Northwest, will delight the audience by her masterly rendition of the genuine Irish melodies. Our own local talent, unequaled at the head of the lakes, will present a most attractive and popular drama, entitled, "Among the Breakers." The following are the well-known actors and actresses; Messrs. Joseph R. McKinnon, Vincent Grady, John E. Foran, Francis Dacey, Harry Carroll, James Lynn, and the Misses Anna Carroll, Julia Donovan, Catherine O'Donnell and Sarah McNulty. Very Rev. Dean Corbett will deliver the oration.

More Talks on Bottled Beers

We Don't Misrepresent—

When we tell you that our Bottled Beer is made from the best material obtainable; we don't do so for the purpose of hearing ourselves talk; we say so because we know it to be so. Good material alone, however, does not make good beer, it must be used in right proportions, handled with proper care, in an up-to-date brewery. Any one who has seen the "New Brewery" knows that they have these facilities. The beer itself substantiates the fact that they take advantage of them.

DESPERATE FIGHTING

Strongly Fortified Village of Cainti Captured By the American Forces.

Rebels' Loss Was Heavy While Seventeen Americans Were Wounded.

Manilla, March 16, 3:55 p. m.—The strongly fortified village of Cainti, northwest of Pasig, was captured today, after a desperate fight, by the Twentieth regiment of infantry.

The Americans lost seventeen wounded, while the rebels' loss was heavy.

Manilla, March 16, 1:30 p. m.—The insurgents at the outposts and trenches beyond Caloocan fired several volleys last night upon the Kansas volunteers and a part of the Fourth regulars, desiring, it is supposed, to discover if the American line had been thinned by the movement of Gen. Wheaton's command. The Americans in the trenches replied warmly to the fire.

A battalion of the Twentieth regular infantry routed a small band of Filipinos on the Laguna road and some sharpshooters who were firing from a house, over which a French flag was flying, were dislodged.

THE MASCOT WOUNDED.

The Twentieth Regiment Clears the Country to Cainti.

Manilla, March 16, 5:50 p. m.—The First battalion of the Twentieth regiment advanced from Pasig today, clearing the country to Cainti, a well-defended village of 700 inhabitants, five miles northwest of the foothills. The troops first encountered the rebel outposts in the dense jungle on the banks of the river. The enemy was dislodged after an hour's fighting. The Americans advanced in a splendid manner under a heavy fire until it was ready to volley the rebels from the trenches. The latter had a great advantage and dropped a number of our men. The Americans charged across the rice fields, making four advances on the enemy, who numbered 1000, 500 of whom were entrenched, and in the face of a cross-fire. Our troops carried the town after four hours' fighting and burned the outskirts, the rebels firing from the windows and keeping up a running fire in the streets. The Americans then withdrew in order to obtain more ammunition.

The rebels lost about 100 men and the American loss was Corp. Johnson, of Company C, and Private McAvoy, of Company L, killed.

In addition the following Americans were wounded: Sergt. Check, Company L, Corp. Households, Company M; Private Kelley, Company C; Private Kinney, Company C; Private Tinkler, Company C; Privates Varley and Gilley, Company G; Private Caley, Company F; Privates Mahan, Griffiths, Lafeyth and MacFarland, Company L.

Artie Cluckmann, the regimental "mascot," carried a parrot into action and was wounded in the knee.

FROM OTHER ISLANDS.

Reports From Iloilo, Cebu and Negros Are Encouraging.

Washington, March 16.—The following from Gen. Otis reached the war department today:

Manilla, March 16.—Adjutant General, Washington: Reports from Iloilo indicate improvements; less activity on the part of insurgents of the islands. Reports from Negros most encouraging; inhabitants enthusiastic; quiet prevails throughout island, and Col. Smith directing affairs in framing internal government. Cebu quiet, business progressing under United States protection; reports from Samar and Leyte indicate desire of inhabitants for United States troops; these islands occupied; insurgents control confined to Luzon and the occupation of the Pasig river line with control of Laguanda de Bay has cut the country occupied by the Tagalos in nearly two equal parts.

CHOATE COMMENDED.

His Address Receives Favorable Comment From London Papers.

London, March 16.—The afternoon newspapers to day contain complimentary references to the speech delivered last night by Joseph H. Choate, United States ambassador, at the banquet of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom, which was held at the Metropole hotel.

The St. James' Gazette says: "The main fact emphasized in the tone, as much as in the words of Mr. Choate's speech, and in President McKinley's words, which he quoted, is that Brother Jonathan has become conscious of his imperial destiny, that he is going out to see the world, and that he believes his best friend, companion and guide in the new adventure will be found in the mother country."

The Westminster Gazette, pointing out Mr. Choate's remark, "although we are friends, we shall not cease to be rivals," says: "We shall be all the better friends if this warning is kept in mind. The real danger of the situation is that its sentimental aspect may be so strongly insisted upon that when differences on material points arise there may be an inevitable reaction."

NEWS FROM TRANSPORTS.

The transport has on board the Twelfth United States infantry and a battalion of the Seventeenth United States infantry, under command of Col. Smith.

The above refers to the transport Sheridan.

Singapore, March 16.—Adjutant General, Washington: Depart for Manilla daybreak tomorrow; all well. READ, Quartermaster.

The above refers to the transport Sherman, which sailed from New York Feb. 3 with the Third infantry and four companies of the Seventeenth infantry, Col. J. H. Page, Third infantry, commanding.

THE ROW IN SAMOA.

State Department Thinks There Will Be No Trouble.

Washington, March 16.—The state department believes there is little probability of a clash in Samoa, at least not one that will involve the European and American colonies. Admiral Kautz was specially charged to maintain the peace and to give protection not only to American interests, but to those of Great Britain and Germany, and these broad instructions may even warrant him in intervening forcibly to prevent a conflict between the native factions, although our government is loath to take any such steps except in case of an emergency.

Commander Tilley of the Abarenda has come to Washington to consult with the authorities of the navy department prior to starting for Samoa. He goes to open the coaling station at Pago Pago, which the United States holds under the terms of a special treaty with the Samoan government. The Abarenda carries on this trip a little over 4000 tons of coal and about 1400 tons of steel building material. The latter is intended for the construction of a wharf and coal sheds.

When the station is established Commander Tilley will assume charge of it as the first commandant. The Abarenda has been thoroughly overhauled and equipped with a good battery of rapid-firing guns, so that she will be an efficient cruiser, with a large radius of action. She will take permanent station in the Samoan islands. The treaty obligation that a United States warship should from time to time perform a tour of service in these waters has been almost entirely overlooked in late years, and will no longer be neglected.

SHERMAN NO BETTER

He Is Now Reported to Be In a Very Feeble Condition.

St. Pierre, Island of Martinique, March 16.—The condition of John Sherman, the former secretary of state, who is a passenger on board the American line steamer Paris, now making a tour of the West Indian islands, is no better today. Mr. Sherman's physicians look for a change this afternoon. He is very feeble.

Washington, March 16.—A telegram was received at the White House today from Colgate Hoyt, who is a traveling companion of ex-Secretary Sherman, dated at Port De France, Island of Martinique, announcing that Mr. Sherman is suffering from an attack of pneumonia and requesting that he be brought to the United States on a government vessel. The message was sent to the navy department and Secretary Long immediately gave orders necessary to comply with the wish. It was found that the Chicago was just about due at Havana and a cablegram was sent to that point to have the ship proceed at once to Kingston, Jamaica, to meet the Paris and take Mr. Sherman off. Unless this is done Mr. Sherman must remain on the ship for two weeks or the excursion which the ship carries must be abandoned.

The Chicago is provided with medical officers so that the patient will have the best of attention on the homeward journey. He will probably be taken aboard the warship Sunday or Monday and should arrive at Hampton Roads in about a week. There he can be taken aboard one of the Potomac river steamers and brought to Washington without much inconvenience. No further report of his condition, in addition to that received last, has come to Gen. Miles.

A RUSSIAN GUILTY.

Very Sensational Dreyfus Story Published By a London Evening Paper.

London, March 16.—The Evening News today publishes a sensational Dreyfus story. It declares that the former Russian ambassador, Count Von Mohrenheim, is the real culprit who sold both Russian and French secrets to the German government, adding that the Russian government itself is convinced of his guilt and that it is only to avoid a public scandal greater than the Dreyfus that he is unpunished, further than the intimation that he is not to show his face within the czar's dominions.

Baron Von Mohrenheim was formerly Russian ambassador at Paris. He was relieved from his post in December, 1897, and was succeeded by Prince Ouroussoff, who was previously Russian minister at Brussels.

LAUGH AT POLICE.

The People of Havana Have No Respect For the Coppers.

Havana, March 16, 9 a. m.—Gen. Fitzhugh Lee has returned here from Cienfuegos.

Chief of Police Menocal, owing to the recent censures of the force, carries his resignation in his pocket. He has tendered it two or three times, but on reconsideration has withdrawn it.

The new police force has unfortunately created a bad impression. During the last few days the policemen have shown timidity in handling people. They appear to be undetermined and undecided what to do or how to do it. People have no respect for them and pay little attention to their orders, which are not enforced. Besides this, the force has no past traditions, esprit du corps or experience. Since McCullagh's departure the only American police official here has been Detective Crowley, and he is concerned with the detective bureau alone.

There have been several amusing incidents showing lack of respect for the force, and several of the policemen have asked for a detail of American soldiers to help them arrest lawbreakers, saying our soldiers are the only men the lawbreakers will obey.

It will take some time for the police to regain the prestige they have lost.

THE NORMA ALL RIGHT.

Colombo, Ceylon, March 16.—The American schooner yacht Norma, belonging to N. J. Weaver, of the Atlantic Yacht club, reported in distress in the Red sea by the British cruiser Brisk, arrived here on Tuesday last and reported all well on board.

A BOY MURDERER.

Cincinnati, March 16.—The murderer of Mrs. Anthony Steigler, of Mount Lookout, whose dead body was found in her home by her son yesterday afternoon, has been found in Albert Luken, a boy 16 years, living with his widowed mother in Clifton. Luken was arrested early today and made a full confession, saying his motive was robbery. He got about $70.

KILLED WITH A POKER.

Cincinnati, March 16.—At Hyde Park, a village east of this city, occurred some time yesterday a brutal, mysterious murder. Mrs. Julia Steigler, wife of the bookkeeper for the Laidlaw-Dunn-Gordon company, was found by her son last evening lying dead on the floor. Her skull had been crushed by five blows from a heavy poker. The poker, which was left lying there, was bent. There was no robbery and no known motive for the murder and therefore no clue to the perpetrators.

THE POPE WEAKER.

Rome, March 16.—The Messagero today says the pope shows signs of increasing weakness and that his physicians are very watchful.

OUTRAGE BY WHITECAPS

Jail at Palmetto, Ga., Is Stormed and Nine Negroes Shot.

They Had Been Arrested on Suspicion of Starting Recent Fires.

Palmetto, Ga., March 16.—A mob of masked men stormed the little house doing service as a jail here at an early hour this morning and shot nine negroes. Four were killed outright and the other five were badly wounded. The negroes were held for the burning of the town, three fires since Jan. 1 having nearly completely destroyed it. The mob rode into the town about 1 o'clock.

The little house, which was being used as a jail since the fire, was near the center of the town. The guard was called upon to turn over the nine negroes held there for trial on the charge of arson He refused, and awakened his assistants. They were quickly overpowered, however, and with a rush the White Caps made for the prisoners, who had been awakened by the noise outside. They began begging for mercy, but were shot down quickly.

The greatest excitement prevailed. Nearly everybody was aroused by the shooting and spent the remainder of the night in the streets.

An outbreak on the part of the negroes of this vicinity is feared. There are many threats to avenge the shooting of the members of their race.

At 8 o'clock about fifty negroes were on the streets, but they were sullen.

Governor Candler was called on for The Capital City guards arrived at 11 o'clock and were put on patrol duty in different parts of the town. The citizens are apprehensive of an uprising of negroes tonight in an effort to have revenge. At noon friends of the wounded arrived at the warehouse and were given those injured. Clem Watts, one of those who had spent the morning groaning loudly, was carefully put in a wagon and taken home. Upon his arrival there it was found he did not bear a scratch.

A LATER ACCOUNT.

Every Citizen on the Streets Is Armed With a Gun.

Palmetto, Ga., March 16.—Four dead negroes lie in Johnson's warehouse. Beside them, groaning in agony, are five of their race, all victims of an assault made by white men of this neighborhood at an early hour this morning. This little city has had two incendiary fires, which have almost destroyed it since Jan. 1, and the negroes who were shot down, while begging for mercy, lie where they fell, on the blood-soaked floor of the improvised jail.

DEAD.

Bud Cotton.
Henry Bingham.
Tip Hutson.
Ed Brown.

DYING.

John Bigby.

WOUNDED.

Clem Watts, shot in abdomen.
George Taylor, wounded in thigh.
Isham Brown, shot in body.
John Jamison, arm fractured.

The citizens are patrolling the main street of the town and dispersing an occasional group of muttering negroes, who seem determined to get some form of revenge for the slaughter of four of their race.

The scene at Johnson's warehouse, where the nine negroes were confined and which is now filled with the dead and dying, is a revolting and miserable one. Blood covers the floor and blackened walls are indented with rifle shots. Wives and children of negroes are kneeling by their sides in the dimly-lighted room and piercing the air with cries and moans of anguish.

The bodies of the dead negroes have not been removed The coroner has been notified of the shooting and will empanel a jury about noon. Several doctors were summoned and spent the morning with the wounded.

Mayor Arnold has summoned a guard of seventy-five citizens to patrol the streets and warehouses and every citizen seen on the streets is armed with a gun. The situation is believed to be practically under control, owing to the work of Mayor Arnold.

The mob was composed of 150 men. Where they came from is a mystery so far as the people of the town know. That some of the people of Palmetto, but not the better class, were in the mob goes without saying. Every face was masked, and when the warehouse was reached the special guard of five men were covered without a word. In a minute the mob was in the big warehouse, and the fusillade opened. The frightened negroes sent up yell after yell, begging for mercy, but it had no effect on the mob. When its work was finished the masked mob turned and quickly disappeared as it had come—on horseback.

Two fires of incendiary origin have occurred here this year, one Feb. 23 and the other five days later. Fourteen business houses in all were destroyed.

Nine negroes were arrested on suspicion and taken to Johnson's warehouse to await preliminary trial, which was to have taken place this morning. Yesterday the leader of the gang, Bud Cotton, is said to have made a written confession of the guilt of himself and associates. He was the first to die in the mob's bloody work.

The negroes of this community have threatened in the past week to burn Fairburn, the county seat, and it is reported that the mob came largely from that town.

The city is quieting down. The militia from Atlanta will arrive about 11 o'clock, but it is not believed they will have anything to do.

OFFERS A REWARD.

Governor Would Give $500 for the Leader of Palmetto Mob.

Atlanta, Ga., March 16.—Governor Candler issued a proclamation offering a reward of $500 for the "apprehension and delivery of the first member of the mob, and a further reward of $100 for each additional person implicated" in the killing of the four negroes at Palmetto this morning.

"The governor said: "I regard the outrage as simply inexcusable. These men had been arrested, as I am informed, and proof was at hand to convict them. The law was amply able to punish them."

THE MILITIA SENT.

Atlanta, March 16.—The mayor of Palmetto, a little town twenty-five miles out on the Atlanta & West Point, telephoned Governor Candler at 5 o'clock this morning that a mob had entered the little house being used as a jail and shot nine negroes. He asked that militia be sent at once to safeguard the people, as it was feared the negroes would revolt and do the whites harm.

Governor Candler at once notified Capt. W. W. Barber of the Capital City guards, to assemble fifty men and, when ready, he would have a special train at his disposal. Capt. Barber sent out notices to his men, but as they had nearly all gone to their places of business, it was some time before they were assembled. The train left at 10 o'clock.

Capt. Barber's orders are to report to the mayor of Palmetto, and to put down any uprising which may occur.

UNIVERSAL PEACE.

Counsel For Venezuela In Boundary Dispute Hope For Such Outcome.

Washington, March 16.—Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Brewer of the supreme court will leave the United States for Paris so as to arrive there about May 25 next, at which time the oral arguments on the British-Venezuelan arbitration will be heard. The hearing is expected to cover three months, after which the court is expected to devote about three months to consideration of the question, giving a decision probably in November.

Ex-President Harrison and ex-Secretary of the Navy Tracy will probably go to Paris at the same time, as they are the leading counsel for Venezuela. Their brief has been presented, and owing to its general interest copies have been distributed among senators, representatives and public men generally in Washington. It covers about 800 printed pages, and is in rather marked contrast to the brevity of the British brief of Sir Richard Webster, covering only fifty-five pages. The conclusion of the brief is as follows:

"Venezuela, with great respect, but with great confidence, now submits to this high tribunal the very serious issues involved. She does this in the happy belief that in the short but brilliant history of arbitration tribunals this one will find a conspicuous place, and will recommend to other nations the use of this great agency of peace. Venezuela has no direct representative upon this tribunal; and, by this fact, it is more nearly assimilated to the great court of justice from which the idea of representation is wholly absent. No other international tribunal has presented this feature. They have been too much the conferences of representatives, rather than the consultations of judges, to whom the parties are quite indifferent. The one tends to unsatisfactory compromises, the other to decrees that establish rights. In the very constitution, therefore, of this tribunal we have the strongest appeal to the sense of impartial justice, and the surest ground of hope that the judgment may conform the faith of those who believe that it is possible to bring the nations to a bar that will treat with the same impartiality that is shown to individual litigants. When a confidence is fully established, the era of a universal peace will be here."

It is signed by Benjamin Harrison, Benjamin F. Tracy, S. Mallet-Prevost, James Russell Soley, counsel for Venezuela.

THE PACE TOO FAST

High Prices For Iron Cutting Off Many Building Projects Contemplated.

THE DEMAND URGENT

The Question Now Is Not One of Price But Material.

New York, March 16.—The Iron Age in its review of trade conditions says: In all the leading distributing centers the iron and steel interests are excited and advances are being made at bewildering rapidity. The demand keeps up surprisingly well, and for prompt and early delivery it is not a question of price, but simply a matter of obtaining the material. Still, indications are cropping up that the pace is too fast, and instances have come to our notice repeatedly of late of work which is being delayed or postponed because prices are regarded as too high. Such cases are isolated still and do not cut any figure when compared with the urgency of the demand from many quarters.

A further sharp advance has been made in pig iron all along the line, including special grades. In the Central West some large blocks of Bessemer pig may be offered by the association at an early date. In the East there have been large sales of low phosphorus iron and of basic pig.

Steel has rushed up squarely to $25.50 to $26 in the East and close to the same figures in the Central West, but the transactions are not of great magnitude.

Prices on finished material have been sharply advanced. Sheets, bars, pipe, structural material and wire and wire nails are higher, and yet the market is kept clear. The fact is that large orders keep cropping up for product of all kinds.

In one day a tide-water shipyard had inquiries for eleven large steamers and could not accept a single one.

Occasionally facts come to the surface which seem to invalidate the conclusion that we are cutting off our export trade completely. Among these we may note the sale of about 3500 tons of merchant pipe by the National Tube works to South Africa, or the contract taken by the Pennsylvania Steel company for the Great Drogtiek viaduct in Burmah, which is to be over 300 feet high and will call for about 3000 tons of material. As against this we note that this week an order for about 8000 tons of cast iron pipe for Buenos Ayres was lost by the American bidders, an English concern taking the order at 12 cents per ton less than the American bid.

In consolidation matters little that is new has cropped up. It is understood that the option to take the ore of the Oliver company on a sliding scale arrangement continues open to the National Steel company until the return of S. H. Wolliver from the Antilles. The National Steel company has acquired the Thomas furnace at Niles and is negotiating for other furnaces.

It looks as though the close relations necessary between the tin plate interest and the sheet mills would be established. Options on the plants are now being obtained and an organization may be perfected in a few weeks.

The reports of the sale of the Ashland plant to the American Steel and Wire company are decidedly premature, to put it mildly.

It is understood that an option has been obtained on the splendid plant of the Riverside works of Wheeling by those working on the pipe consolidation.

The organization of the cast iron pipe consolidation is to be effected this week.

THE COUNT ACQUITTED.

Von Biedenfeld Found Not Guilty of Murdering McDonald.

Chicago, March 16.—Baron Curt Von Biedenfeld was acquitted last night of the charge of murder in the killing of Constable Charles McDonald. The jury was out five hours.

The baron did not show a tremor while waiting his fate. Immediately the baron arose and held out his hand, first to one juror and then to another, grasping the hand of each in a warm, vice-like grip.

"I thank you," he said to each.

One juror, Henry C. Latis, refused to shake hands with the man he had helped to make free.

When the baron reached the sidewalk and sniffed the free air for the first time in four months he looked around for a while as if to satisfy himself that he was at liberty. Several of his German friends crowded around him, and ex-Mayor Washburn pushed him into a carriage which went whirling away to take the freed man home.

LIBERTY OR DEATH.

Change of Taskmasters Makes No Difference to Filipinos.

New York, March 16.—Sixto Lopez, the secretary of Agoncillo, the representative of Aguinaldo, leader of the Filipinos, with Dr. Jose Losado, a member of the Filipino junta, sailed for Southampton yesterday on the American line steamer St. Paul. They refused to discuss national affairs with the jurisdiction of the United States, but said: "The Americans who boast so much about freedom are trying to make their poor people slaves."

"The Filipinos were fighting for liberty long before the United States came into existence," remarked Lopez, "and they are not going to give up the battle because the taskmasters have been changed from Spaniards to North Americans. Our cry is liberty or death."

ITALIANS OUSTED.

Lake City, Col., March 16.—The Italian strike leaders at the Hidden Treasure and Ute and Ulay mines have agreed to surrender today the men for whom warrants have been issued on account of the disturbances Tuesday. If this is not done Sheriff Dick will ask the governor for aid to enable him to afford protection to miners who wish to take the places of the Italian strikers. The mine superintendents have agreed to discharge all of the 200 Italians who have been employed in the mines. They were paid off last evening.

PINGREE HEADS THE LIST.

Detroit, March 16.—Eltweed Pomeroy, of Newark, N. J., has issued a call for a social and political conference at Buffalo, June 28 to July 1. Governor Pingree's name heads the list of signers, which includes nearly 100 prominent reformers. Some here construe it as the beginning of a Pingree move for a presidential nomination.

To be idle is the hardest of all tasks. Our grandmothers understood this and even in their leisure moments were never found without some little task in their hands, if it were only knitting, tatting or crocheting. There was a reason for this that does not appear upon the surface. Our grandmothers were healthy women, imbued with a spirit of ambition and activity that would not permit them to be idle.

If many modern women are much less active and more given to idleness than the stately dames of yore, it is because they enjoy a smaller measure of good health. A woman who suffers from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organs, who is racked with pain, and tortured with headaches and nervousness, cannot be active and helpful. Idleness and invalidism are the natural results of suffering of this description. The poor invalid woman is not at fault, save in her ignorance of her own physical make-up or neglect of her womanly health.

Thousands of women are neglectful in this way because they shrink from the embarrassing examinations and local treatment insisted upon by the majority of obscure physicians. Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., has discovered a wonderful medicine that cures all diseases peculiar to women, in the privacy of the home, without the necessity of these embarrassing ordeals. This great medicine is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of wifehood and motherhood. It makes them strong, healthy and vigorous. It heals internal ulceration and inflammation and stops debilitating drains. It transforms weak, nervous invalids into healthy women.

Trenton, N. J., March 16.—Papers have been filed with the secretary of state increasing the capital stock of the Havana Electric Railway company from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000. Articles were also filed increasing the capital stock of the International Traction company from $85,000 to $15,000,000. The papers were signed by Benjamin W. Franklin, president, and Charles McVeigh, secretary. The company is formed to construct railroads and bridges, to build machinery and equipment for railroads and to acquire stock, bonds and other indebtedness of other companies.

MINERS RIOTING.

A Call Made Upon the Governor of Colorado For Troops.

Denver, March 16.—The rioting at Henson, near Lake City, broke out late last night and the sheriff of Hinsdale county wired the governor for troops. The message came about 1:30 this morning. The sheriff had just returned from Henson and said the situation was extremely critical and that the strikers were in control of the place and had threatened to burn everything in the camp. A red glare in the sky a few minutes after the sheriff left the camp indicated that the threat was being carried out.

The message to Governor Thomas asked for at least 150 men and the governor decided to grant the request at once. Company B, First regiment of infantry, and Troops B and C of the cavalry, under Capts. Smith and Hill, were summoned and left at 5 o'clock this morning. Col. Macarey commands the troops.

A stop was made at Pueblo for thirty men of B company. Second infantry, at that place, and it is likely the run to Lake City will be made by 7 o'clock tonight if not before. The snows in Marshan pass may delay the time a little, but the men will be in readiness to leave for Henson by conveyance during the early night and be prepared to take charge of the situation at daylight tomorrow.

As the road winds through a narrow canon for most of the distance, the troops will depend upon the Lake City people to prevent ambushing, for at some places it would be possible for a few men to hold the entire attacking force at bay, and especially as the snow and ice in the gorge are so deep as to render the sides impassable.

SAMOANS ARE UGLY

The Mataafa People Have Threatened to Burn the Malietoa Villages.

FIGHTING IS LIKELY

It Is Generally Believed That a War Will Be the Result.

Apia, Samoa, March 10, via Auckland, New Zealand, March 16.—Owing to threats by the Mataafa people to burn the Malietoa villages in the island of Savaii unless they sent taxes levied upon them and a number of soldiers to support Mataafa, the British consul visited Savaii on the British cruiser Porpoise, and the commander of that vessel threatened to shell the villages of Mataafa's followers if peace was disturbed.

The British and American consuls have issued proclamations denying the rumors in circulation to the effect that Mataafa has been recognized, and threatening strong action if the provisional government interfered with the Loyalists.

The German consul refused to join with the British and American representatives, and issued a proclamation upholding the provisional government and denying that there had been any interference by the Malietoa party. He added to this document an extraordinary paragraph expressing the hope that the provisional government "would be able to encounter the danger caused anew to the peace of the country and the safety of the inhabitants by the English and American proclamations."

This has put more heart into the rebels, and therefore numbers of armed warriors are gathering.

The United States cruiser Philadelphia, Admiral Kautz commanding, has arrived here, and the admiral has held extended consultations with the various consuls. Chief Justice Chambers and Capt. Sturde of the Porpoise.

The provisional government has removed the Malietoa prisoners to a stronghold on the mainland, firing volleys over their heads during the transfer in order to intimidate them.

A friendly feeling is shown by officers and men of the American and British navies here. The admiral convened a meeting of the consuls, the chief justice and the captains of the various warships, including German, on board the flagship, and it is probable that the result will be the presentation of an ultimatum. It is generally thought that fighting is likely to occur.

THE BIG PRIZE FIGHT.

Offers of Clubs Considered But No Decision Made.

New York, March 16.—William A. Brady, representing Jim Jeffries, and Martin Julian, manager for Robert Fitzsimmons, met yesterday to consider the bids made for the proposed fight between these pugilists. As soon as Brady and Julian received the $30,000 bid from a San Francisco syndicate through H. P. Taylor, it was taken up. Julian said that if any person connected with the National Sporting club, of San Francisco, was connected with the new syndicate he would not accept any proposals from that body. In fact, he said, he would rather have the bout take place in the East, as their experience in California in the fighting line was not agreeable either to himself or Fitzsimmons. Brady then asked Mr. Taylor what he was prepared to concede for picture privileges and the Western representative replied that the purse was large enough to cover all that. Brady objected and so did Julian. Both claimed that the picture privileges would prove to be a large factor in the matter and that no club offer would be considered, unless the participants in the bout should receive a percentage of the profits arising from the production of pictures of the fight.

Brady said: "I will give a sum equal to 75 per cent of the net receipts of the fight for the privilege of taking and reproducing the pictures."

Mr. Taylor then asked for time to communicate with the San Francisco people, whom he represented, so that he could find out what terms he could offer.

W. B. Gray, representing the West Chester club, offered a purse of $21,000, but would not concede any privileges to the fighters, claiming that the purse was in itself sufficient. His offer was tabled quickly. Then came the Coney Island club's representative, John H. Dunn. He said the club was willing to put up a purse of $20,000, and, also, so far as he knew, to divide the proceeds of the picture privileges equally between the contestants and the club. He also requested twenty-four hours time to enable him to communicate with the management of the club.

It was finally agreed to give all parties twenty-four hours to make final offers. There will be another meeting at 2 o'clock this afternoon when it is expected a final settlement will be arranged.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

Vermont G. A. R. to Hold an Encampment In Canada.

Lyndonville, Vt., March 16.—The decision of Department Commander Harris to hold the next state encampment of the G. A. R. in Montreal in June will mark an epoch in the history of the order, as this encampment will be the first held by a state commandery outside of the prescribed limits of the Union. Commander Harris believes that the plan will be popular among Vermont comrades. The objects are twofold, first, to benefit and encourage the G. A. R. posts which this department has established in Quebec and Montreal, and, secondly, to show in a methodical way the cordiality existing between the United States and our neighbors across the border.

BRYAN WILL HELP.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 16.—Thomas W. Milan, grand chancellor of Knights of Pythias, of this city, has been notified by W. J. Bryan, now in Texas, that Mr. Bryan would be here March 25 to deliver a lecture for the benefit of the proposed National Pythian sanitarium to be located here. Mr. Bryan was invited by the Knights of Pythias.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

How to Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours. A sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. If it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble: too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50-cent and $1 sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention that you read this generous offer in The Duluth Daily Herald.

JOHN SHERMAN ILL.

Dr. W. H. Magie of Duluth Is One of His Physicians.

Fort de France, Martinique, March 16.—John Sherman, who is a passenger on board the American line steamer Paris, Capt. Frederick Watkins, which arrived here today from Trinidad with the party of excursionists who are making a tour of the West Indian islands, is suffering from pneumonia.

While at San Juan, Porto Rico, last Wednesday, Mr. Sherman was entertained by Brig. Gen. Fred Grant, commander of the military department of San Juan, and caught cold. The malady was not considered serious until last night. When leaving Port of Spain pneumonia in the most serious form developed.

Dr. Graf of the Paris and Dr. Magie, of Duluth, are attending him, and Mr. and Mrs. Colgate Hoyt, of New York, and F. B. Wiborg, of Cincinnati, close relations of Mr. Sherman, are constantly near him.

St. Pierre, Martinique, March 16.—On the arrival of the American line steamer Paris, Capt. Watkins, from Fort de France, last evening, Mr. Sherman's physicians reported that his condition was much improved and gave ground for encouragement.

NEW TREATY WITH JAPAN.

Sweeps Away Restrictions Formerly Imposed on That Country.

Washington, March 16.—Extensive changes in the relations between the United States and Japan will be brought about on July 17 next, when the new treaty between the two nations goes into effect. It was negotiated some years ago, but its actual operation was deferred so as to give time for adjusting affairs to the changed conditions.

Similar treaties have been made by Japan with most of the other first-class powers. Their essential feature is to give Japan a status as a modern nation, instead of imposing the restrictions which she was under, along with China and other Eastern countries, before her advance to modern methods. The entire extra-terr torial system is swept away by the new treaties. This gave to foreign powers, including the United States, a right to try civil and criminal cases relating to their own citizens, in consular courts instead of in the Japanese courts. Hereafter these foreign courts will be abolished and Japanese courts will try all cases alike.

Another feature is in opening the entire interior of Japan to the capital and enterprise of foreign merchants. At present the restrictions on aliens are very severe, except at Yokohama and a few large places, the interior being practically in the exclusive occupancy of the natives. Now, however, foreign settlement and trade are invited, and the richness of the interior promises large commercial returns. The rates of duty between the two countries will not be much damaged, as this branch of the new relation already has gone into operation.

CAUSES A SENSATION.

Madrid, March 16.—An extraordinary speech made by Gen. Castellanos, the Spanish governor general of Cuba, who was recently appointed captain general of Madrid, to the soldiers during an inspection which he made of the barracks, has caused intense anger in military circles.

The captain general said: "There is only one thing good in the army and it is the soldier himself. As to the officers, if they are derelict in their duty, I am accustomed to send them to the galleys."

The officers have demanded that the minister of war, Gen. Polavieja, take action in the matter.

WILL RATIFY THE TREATY.

Madrid, March 16.—The cabinet council last evening decided that the treaty of peace with the United States should be ratified immediately after the dissolution of the cortes, which will probably be decreed today. The elections to the new chamber will be fixed for April 16 and the senate for April 30 the new cortes to re-assemble on May 2.

CARRIED IRON ORE.

Baltimore, March 16.—A British steamship which stranded at 3 o'clock yesterday morning off Cape Henry life-saving station proves to be the British steamer Brator, of London, bound from Balquirl, Cuba, for Sparrows' Point, Md., with a full cargo of 3900 tons of iron ore. She went ashore during a dense fog and her position is regarded as dangerous, owing to the high winds and sea. The Merritt & Chapman Wrecking company has sent a steamer to her assistance from Norfolk. Her cargo will likely be jettisoned.

NO REFORM FOR PITTSBURG.

Harrisburg, March 16.—What is known as the Bruce charter bill, which was designed to materially change the method of government of the city of Pittsburg, was reported to the house from the committee with an adverse recommendation. This action kills the attempt to pass reform legislation for Pittsburg at this session.

GREEN AND SMITH.

San Francisco, March 16.—George Green and "Mysterious" Billy Smith have been matched to box twenty rounds in this city some time next month.

WHITE PINE TRUST.

Seventeen Lumber Barons of the Northwest Meet In Wisconsin.

Chippewa Falls, March 16.—Seventeen of the lumber barons of the Northwest held a meeting here yesterday. All are members of the lumber pool which controls the price of white pine of the United States. The object of the meeting was to elect officers for the ensuign year, talk over schedules, review the preceding year's business, and outline the succeeding year's work to be done in the various mills owned by the pool in the Northwest. Preceding the meeting a banquet was indulged in by the members at the Hotel Taylor. Following are the members of the pool in attendance at the meetings: Frederick Weyerhaeuser, of St. Paul; F. E. and B. W. Weyerhaeuser, Cloquet, Minn.; F. B. Poole, Cloquet; A. Lamb, Clinton, Iowa; M. G. Norton, Winona; P. M. Musser, Muscatine, Iowa; F. G. Denkmann, Rock Island, Ill.; John McAlpin, Duluth; J. F. Barber, C. A. Chamberlin, S. G. Moon, F. W. Woodward, F. McDonough and H. H. Hayden, of Eau Claire; William Irvine and A. B. McDonnell, of this city. The C. L. and B. company officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows: Directors, F. Weyerhaeuser, M. G. Norton, Artemus Lamb, O. H. Ingram, William Irvine; president, F. Weyerhaeuser; vice president, O. H. Ingram; manager, William Irvine.

The Northern Lumber company, which is incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin, but which operates at Cloquet, Minn., similarly to the C. L. and B. company, of this city, and whose office is here, also held its annual meeting here today and elected the following officers: Directors, F. Weyerhauser, F. C. A. Denkman, W. S. Laird, A. B. McDonnell, William Irvine; president, F. Weyerhaeuser; vice president, F. C. A. Denkman; secretary, William Irvine; manager, R. M. Weyerhaeuser. Mr. Irvine said that there was a healthy demand for lumber, and that there were good prospects for a continuance of such demand, and further that there was a very satisfactory feeling among the lumbermen as to all present conditions of the lumber trade.

HEAVY DAMAGES AWARDED.

Brainerd, Minn., March 16.—In the personal injury case of Libbie A. Everest vs. Northern Pacific Railway company, in which action was brought to recover $250.00 for injuries resulting from being carried by the station of Crow Wing, at which place she wished to leave the train, necessitating her having to walk an unusual distance when the train was stopped, the jury found for the plaintiff a verdict of $1000.

HARRISON SUCCESSFUL.

Chicago, March 16.—Carter H. Harrison was yesterday chosen as mayor of Chicago on the Democratic primary ticket. There was no opposition to Mr. Harrison's election. The rest of the city ticket will in all probability be as follows: City treasurer, Adam Ortelfson; city clerk, William Loeffler; city attorney, Andrew J. Ryan.

NOT KNOWN THERE.

Chicago, March 16.—Nothing is known in Chicago of the contemplated consolidated copper interests backed by Standard Oil influences reported from London. Levy Mayer, who was reported to be the counsel for the alleged combine, said that the story, so far as he knew, was utterly without foundation.

THREE MEN DROWNED.

Worcester, Mass., March 16.—A car on the Mulberry division of the Worcester Suburban railway run off the track from McGowan's bridge and plunged into the Blackstone at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Three occupants of the car were penned up and drowned. A fourth passenger, George Pluff, of Abrahamville, was severely injured, but may live. The dead are: Michael Shea, motorman; Frederick White, of Whitinsville, conductor; Morris Welsh, of Milbury, motorman.

CHARGED WITH SWINDLING.

New York, March 16.—Mrs. Ruth Howard, 28 years old, and Herman Cohen, 30 years of age, a broker, both of Brooklyn, were arrested on the charge of grand larceny. It is alleged by the police that these two prisoners belong to a notorious gang of swindlers which operated last month under the name of W. B. Deming & Co., at 32 Broadway.

Another Cabinet Officer.

Congress will soon be called upon to pass a law creating a new cabinet portfolio. This official will probably be known as secretary of the colonies. It will be his duty to look after the welfare of the Islands which were seized by the United States in our war with Spain. While he is attending to his duties, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will continue to attend to its duties of curing the sick of stomach, liver and kidney disorders, just as it has been doing for fifty years. Its greatest virtues are in building up run-down systems, in quieting and toning unstrung nerves, in overcoming dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation. Try a bottle if you feel "out of sorts."

A DEPUTY MURDERED.

Tahlequah, I. T., March 16.—Joe Henrichens, a deputy United States marshal, was murdered at his home here while asleep, by Mathew Craig, who had been arrested by the victim for selling liquor to Indians. Craig escaped.

A SLUMP IN WHEAT

Market Weak Mainly Owing to the Heavy Rains In California.

THE CABLES LOWER

Heavy Offerings of Argentine Wheat at Antwerp Helped the Decline.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 16.—Wheat started weak and lower today on account of the heavy rains in California which have fairly drenched the districts where the long continued drought was creating much apprehension regarding the crops. The bearish sentiment was also increased by lower cables. As the session advanced, however, there was a big budget of crop damage reports from the Southwest thrown on the market and this was the cause of considerable buying and a consequent reaction in prices. The Price Current furnished material for an advance by putting the condition of winter wheat at only 85 per cent and claiming that the total wheat supplies are only 2,000,000 bus greater than a year ago. Another strengthening feature was a falling off in the receipts. Later in the day St. Louis began selling July freely at Chicago on what were claimed to be better crop prospects, and the Antwerp market was easy on large Argentine offerings. With this and the early bearish features considerable weakness was developed and prices dropped rapidly, and the close showed a net decline for the day of 2c at Chicago and 1⅝c in Duluth for the May option.

Trading in futures was dull on the Duluth board. May wheat opened ⅛c off at 68⅞c, sold at 68⅝c at 9:32, rose to 69c at ..., reacted to 68¾c at 11:40 and was quoted at 68⅝c at 12:10. Then it declined steadily to 68c at 12:15 and touched 67⅞ at 1:10. It closed with buyers at 67⅛c, a net loss of 1⅝c for the day. Cash business was quiet, 40,000 bus being sold at 2c under May for both wheat to arrive and spot stuff. Barley closed unchanged. Oats and flax each declined ½c, rye fell off 1c and corn dropped 1½c. Following were the closing prices:

San Francisco wires: Storm which has been, become general throughout the state and still continues, has completely changed the complexion of the grain market.

Antwerp private cable says the market is weak and declining on increased offerings. Liverpool cables wheat ⅛@½ lower; corn unchanged to ⅛d higher than yesterday's close.

ON THE CHICAGO BOARD.

Rains In California and Weak Cables Affect Wheat.

Chicago, March 16.—The thorough drenching of California wheat after the winter plant has suffered severely from a protracted dry spell, gave wheat today a weak start. Lower cables also aided the bears. May opened ¼c lower at 69¼@⅜c, and the price slipped off to 69⅛c. At that point, however, the selling pressure disappeared and traders started to buy freely on crop damage claims which became numerous as the session advanced. Another helping factor was the Price Current's statement which made the winter wheat condition only 85 per cent and said the aggregate wheat supply was only 26,000,000 bus greater than a year ago. From 69⅛c for May the price rose gradually to 69⅞@⅞c. Chicago received only 42 cars of which but 2 graded contract. Receipts in the Northwest were comparatively small, Minneapolis and Duluth receiving only 279 cars compared with 582 cars last week and 231 the same day a year ago.

Light receipts, higher cables and an entire absence of country offerings, strengthened corn. There was a slight dip early on selling account of the weakness in wheat but the offerings were quickly absorbed and the market developed a strong undertone. Receipts 216 cars. May opened unchanged at 35c, sold sparingly at 34⅞c, then improved to 35⅛c.

Oats were dull but ruled steady in sympathy with corn. Receipts were 140 cars. May began a shade lower at 26¼c and rose to 26⅜c.

Covering of pork by shorts and buying of lard and ribs by packers strengthened provisions. There was very little pressure to sell anything. May pork opened a shade up at $9.17@9.20, rose to $9.25@9.27. May lard and ribs ruled 2½@5c higher at $5.35@5.42 and $4.75@4.77 respectively.

Close: Wheat, May, 67½@67⅝c; July, 66½@66⅝c. Corn, March, 32⅝c; May, 34@34⅛c; July, 34⅝@34¾c; September, 35¼c. Oats, March, 24⅝c; May, 25⅞c; July, 24c. Pork, March, $8.97; May, $9.17; July, $9.35. Lard, March, $5.25; May, $5.37; July, $5.52; September, $5.65. Ribs, March, $4.60; May, $4.62; July, $4.85; September, $4.97. THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, March 16.—The cotton market opened steady with prices 1 point higher to 2 points lower and after reaching a level of 2 to 3 points below last night's bid prices, became dull and uninteresting. The English news proved disappointing, futures easing ½ to 1 point at Liverpool following reports from this side of heavier interior receipts and better weather in the cotton belt. New Orleans purchased the near months in a small way for a time but later left the market severely alone. Commission houses were poorly supplied with orders except of the limited class, the restrictions on these being too great to permit of the execution at anything like the prices current this morning. Conflicting accounts were received from Mississippi and Tennessee, the scene of yesterday's heavy storm, as to the exact damage done to plantations. In Texas rain is still badly needed while in the Atlantic states further precipitation was reported this morning. Receipts at the ports were no larger than counted upon but at interior towns ran considerably over expectations.

Spot cotton closed steady, 1 1-16c lower. Middling uplands, 6⅜c; middling gulf, 6⅝c; sales, 300 bales. Cotton futures quiet. March and April, $6.10; May, $6.11; June, $6.14; July, $6.17; August, $6.16; September, $6.08; October and December, $6.08; November, $6.07; January, $6.11.

MIDWAY HORSE MARKET.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul.—Barrett & Zimmerman's report: Attendance of buyers, large, mainly Manitoba and Dakota dealers. Wholesale trade brisk and a very active bidding at the special was experienced. Supplies of all classes of horses were ample and satisfactory. Prices were on an increase, especially on the better grades of horses. Sales of mules rather limited. Drivers had a good disposal, some of them bringing as high as $500 a pair. The nominal value of serviceable, sound horses from 4 to 8 years is as follows:

Drafters, choice to extra	$100@140
Drafters, common to good	70@ 85
Farm horses, choice to extra	80@125
Farm horses, common to good	50@ 75
Drivers, choice to extra	150@250
Drivers, common to good	75@100

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, March 16.—Any market having for a foundation a large scattered long interest and the hope or expectation of crop damage reports or crop damage itself while existing natural conditions are all against the price is pretty sure to have a break. May wheat opened around 69¼c, shorts were liberal buyers and the price gradually worked up to 69⅞c, then the break started and forced a great deal of liquidation, the market broke to 67½c, closed at 67⅝c and during this break there never was any rally, there never was a chance for one. Long wheat continued to pour into the market to such an extent that it forced a steady decline. Crop news as a rule today was favorable, California has been released from all fears of drought by good rains all over the state. Liverpool at the close today shows a decline of only an ⅛@⅛c per bushel; they will quite likely show more declines tomorrow. Northwestern receipts 279 cars, against 231 last year. Rain and snow is again predicted for the winter wheat country, which seems just now to be getting the best kind of weather. Total clearances, wheat and flour, 342,000 bus. Attention was called today by a Duluth paper to the fact that their stocks now include 8,500,000 bus wheat, 5,000,000 bus corn, and 2,000,000 bus oats which with flax and other grains has practically resulted in filling their elevators.

Corn went with wheat today; we have been surprised as we have told you for some time that it has not broken sooner. Conditions warrant just what we have had today.

Oats broke 1 cent per bus, closed practically at the bottom and lower than they have sold for a long time, without any prospect that we can see of higher prices.

Provisions have been the only thing on our floor that we believed were worth the price, they held their own today in spite of the decline in grains. There is but little speculation in the market, there is not likely to be any for a while, there is probably considerable liquidation ahead of us; we firmly believe provisions are cheap and will make the buyer money.

Puts, May wheat, 66¾@66⅞c.
Calls, May wheat, 68¼@68⅜c.
Curb, May wheat, 67⅜-½c.
Puts, May corn, 33⅝@33⅞c.

THE COPPER STOCKS.

Copper stocks were stronger today on the whole. They dropped a little toward the close having been well up during the morning. Following are the closing prices furnished by Paine, Webber & Co., Hotel St. Louis:

Boston, March 16.—Closing prices of copper shares: Adventure, 14; Arcadian, 82; Allouez, 10½; Arnold, 10; Atlantic, 32@34; Baltic, 27½; Boston & Montana, 365; Butte & Boston, 87; Calumet & Hecla, 740; Centennial, 45½; Franklin, 24½; Humboldt, 2½@3; Old Dominion, 42; Osceola, 90; Mohawk, 30; Old Colony, 16½; Rhode Island, 13⅞; Tamarack, 230¼; Tecumseh, 8¼; Union Land, 9; Wolverine, 46¾; Washington, 2½; Winona, 16½; Quincy, 165; Isle Royale, 68¼.

GREAT NORTHERN BOOM.

Great Northern sold up to 195 Monday on an urgent demand for a relatively small quantity of stock. The buying was on a belief that a melon of some kind is about ready to be cut. In connection with this it must be remembered that the Great Northern property has purchased the Spokane Falls & Northern road, the Wright-Davis company, and another small road, the aggregate price of which amounts to a good many millions of dollars. Judging from the past, stockholders will be given an opportunity to take stock at par to an amount sufficient to pay for these properties. This will give them valuable rights, and people who know most about the property tell their friends that the stock is worth at least 200 and it will at least sell higher. By the purchase of the Wright-Davis road the Great Northern secured for itself a very profitable business.

Rumors of a settlement of the trade war is the cause of the advance in Sugar, and if the rumor proves true Sugar will go to 200.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

New York, March 16.—The opening of the stock market was very confused on active trading. The specialties generally made a decided progress upward. New York Air Brake figuring for 8 points, Metropolitan Street Railway 3¼ and Consolidated Gas and Sugar 1¾ and Brooklyn Transit a point. The iron and steel shares were slightly off. Railway shares were mostly lower with Burlington, Rock Island and Atchison preferred conspicuous exceptions. Sugar resumed its old time leadership in activity and added 4 points to its price. Meanwhile the general market underwent many rapid fluctuations either way owing to special considerations affecting certain stocks. Tobacco was offered freely and lost 7½ points. The market generally showed a tendency to sag, but the losses were slight in the railway division.

The standard stocks came into favor and marked improvements followed in the grangers, Pennsylvania and New York Central. The tremendous bull movement in Sugar lifted it to 149 and Brooklyn Transit worked up to 102. Tobacco made a full recovery of its earlier break, but the iron and steel shares hung back. Trading was in larger volume than of late and widely distributed. Sales of stocks to noon, 396,822 shares.

The trading in the Sugar crowd today eclipsed everything of the sensational order in the stock market of recent years. There was an immense crowd of surging brokers who were clamoring for the stock at any price. Blocks of 1000 shares changed hands frequently and the rapidity of the rise can be judged by the fact that while 148 was the ruling price at midday, 170 was current a half hour later. The shorts were panic-stricken and fought for the stock at any price. Large amounts were unloaded at the high level and there was a rapid descent in the price to 151, with a recovery to 158 by 1 o'clock. Glucose Sugar Refinery, which was mentioned as a factor in the rumored deal with Sugar, jumped nine points, but lost half of the improvement. The general market, particularly the railway shares, was at a standstill, while the bull swing in Sugar was on, but subsequently there was a revival of interest in Manhattan, Metropolitan and Third Avenue. The former which was under a drive earlier, ran up eight points to 112½.

TROUBLE WITH SOLDIERS.

Palma, Island of Majorca, March 16.—Repatriated Spanish soldiers have caused turbulent demonstrations here and the municipal guards have been compelled to charge on them. There have been several conflicts between the soldiers and the authorities. Shouts of "Down with the government," and "Long live the army," were raised. More trouble is expected.

TO SETTLE THE SCALE.

Columbus, Ohio, March 16.—The leading operators are in conference here today with representatives of the Miners' union looking to a settlement of the scale question. At the meeting held a week ago nothing was accomplished, but it is understood that the prospects are now good for an amicable adjustment of differences.

It's trains are most frequent and the best patronized. Steam heated and electric lighted.

It's Pioneer limited is the only perfect train in the world, and carries private compartment sleeping cars that are models of comfort. Dining car service the finest.

ARMY BILL ADOPTED.

German Reichstag Passes the Bill Finally Amended.

Berlin, March 16.—When the army bill was taken up Dr. Lieber, the Centrist leader, moved the acceptance of the committee proposal to reduce the peace effective by 7000 men, adding a resolution to the effect that the house is willing, in the event of the future granted by the committee being inadequate, to enter into fresh negotiations with the government. Dr. Lieber also moved that the civilian artisans, in addition to being soldiers, should work in the workshops of the arsenals. Gen. Von Gossler, minister of war, then urged the adoption of the entire government demands, and concluded with declaring that if the whole peace effective was not voted now it must inevitably again come before the house. The imperial chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, said the federal government accepted Dr. Lieber's motion with the reservation that, in conformity with the readiness expressed by the reichstag to enter into fresh negotiations, the government will introduce fresh proposals before the expiration of the agreed term. After further debate the general discussion was closed and the articles of the army bill were debated.

Article 1, which the committee did not alter, was adopted.

Article 2, as drafted by the committee and amended by Dr. Lieber's motion, was adopted.

The whole bill was adopted by the vote of 222 to 132.

STILL A MYSTERY.

St. Louis, March 16.—An element of mystery still surrounds the case of the West End widow, Mrs. McVean, whose face and body were badly burned Tuesday night, by acids thrown by some unknown hand. The police are unable to find any trace of the assailant. From what can be learned from Miss Megraw, sister of Mrs. McVean, it is thought a man attired as a woman committed the deed. Another anonymous letter was addressed to Mrs. McVean, and is now in the hands of her attorneys.

HIS NECK SAWED OFF.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 16.—Ivor Olson, a wealthy farmer living near Baltic, S. D., came to his death last night in a horrible manner. He was driving home in a sled, and turned out of the road to avoid a snow drift. The sled upset, and Olson's neck was thrown on the sharp points of a barbed wire fence, while he dragged about thirty feet. His neck was literally sawed off.

MURDERED IN MEXICO.

Washington, March 16.—The state department has received the following report dated Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, Feb. 23, from Consul Kindrick of that place:

"On the evening of Feb. 21, George Wilson and Forest Smith, two American citizens employed at the San Pedro mining camp, were held up and robbed by three Mexicans. Wilson was shot and instantly killed for resisting the bandits. They escaped back to the camp.

"The robbers secured about $300. The murderers have all of them been captured and will be punished according to the law for their crime. Wilson came to Mexico from Colorado, but no one seems to know the particular place, nor anything of his family and relatives."

DESIGNS PUBLISHED.

Milwaukee, March 16.—The directors of the Milwaukee Carnival association today gave to the St. Louis builders of floats a contract for $15,000 for the carnival pageant to be held here June 30. Through the treachery of an employe at St. Louis, drawings of the first designs already well under way in construction were sold to and printed by a local German paper. Notwithstanding the delay to be caused by preparing new designs, the contractors, by working night and day, will deliver the pageant on time. The directors hold blameless the contractors for the unfortunate expose.

FATALLY SHOT.

Cincinnati, March 16.—James Patterson, a well-known character and prominent in local politics, was fatally shot this afternoon by James DePugh, a lookout at one of the gambling establishments in the city. Patterson was standing at his door yard with his wife when DePugh fired five times at him. The fatal wound is in the abdomen. Mrs. Patterson was shot in the wrist.

THE FEDERAL TREASURY.

Washington, March 16.—Today's statement of the condition of the treasury shows: Available cash balance, $279,559,249; gold reserve, $241,737,852.

THE SAMOAN QUESTION.

London, March 16.—The parliamentary secretary for the foreign office was asked in the house of commons today if definite results had yet accrued from the deliberations over the Berlin treaty by the powers, with reference to Samoa and the kingship of Mataafa. He replied that the question was still under consideration, and that further reports on the subject were expected.

MISREPRESENTING LIND.

Even the political editor of the Minneapolis Journal has become satisfied that the policy pursued by the Republican newspapers in falsely charging Governor Lind with all sorts of mistakes is a very serious blunder that is certain to help Mr. Lind because the people clearly see the falsity of the organs' assertions. The Journal man says:

"The Republican press bureau is trying at every opportunity to belittle John Lind and give out the impression that he is making many mistakes. This is unwise, because the facts do not justify any such position. Lind is making a good governor, and should he continue as he has begun the Republicans will have no easy task before them in accomplishing his defeat. Misrepresentation at this early stage of the proceedings surely does not help the Republican party or cause the general public to have more confidence in it. Better say nothing at all, it seems to me, than some of the very foolish things which have been said by the bureau of late. Lind has lost no ground with his own following. A few of the would-be officeholders are offended, but this was to have been expected in any event. The masses of the fusion people who are with Lind and believe in him and the politicians will be with him when the time comes. They know they cannot hope to win with a new man. Lind will make it a point so to act in office as to give the Republicans no ground for just complaint, and all complaint which is unjust will react powerfully on those who make it."

There is much truth in the above, but the Republican organs will hardly profit by the Journal's warning. The most of them are devoid of political sense. Many of them, like the News Tribune in this city, are repeatedly making blunders that injuriously affect their party.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

The matter of the Venezuelan boundary dispute is revived today by a dispatch from Washington which quotes a portion of the brief of the counsel for Venezuela. It might be well for those people who look so lovingly upon our English cousins just at the present moment to remember that England was forced to accept arbitration of this dispute only by the determined stand of the United States through its president, Grover Cleveland, and had it not been for this interference Venezuela would have been forced to give up the disputed territory.

Little consideration would have been shown the Venezuelans if England had not feared the power of the United States and the history of England shows that fear has prompted whatever of justice she has ever granted to other peoples. When the United States begins to ape the foreign policy of England it will place itself pretty low down in the scale, no matter how much the Anglo-maniacs may shout about duty and destiny.

AN EXCEPTIONAL TRUST.

The Detroit News draws attention to the fact that there is one trust which cannot raise prices—the combine with a capitalization of $46,000,000, to bring under a single management all the smelters and refineries in the United States. The United States statute and the statutes of the states that have legislated against trusts proceed upon the one only assumption that the trusts do mischief by controlling the markets through the control of the output. Eliminate this single power to oppress the people by dictating prices, and there is nothing left in the trust for legislation to attack. In the popular mind, eliminate the one element of the power to control prices by the combination of capital and there is no motive for combining, and therefore the trusts would not exist.

But this one combination of $46,000,000 of wealth for the monopolization of the mining and reduction of the precious metals, says the News, sweeps away at once the whole mass of reasoning on the line indicated. The one substance of human production whose price is not regulated in the markets of the world, and whose value is not and cannot be determined by any conscious human will, is gold. By the consensus of mankind it is the measure of all other things, but itself cannot be measured by any one thing. It goes out into the world to gravitate to its own value by a law of nature as unsusceptible of human manipulation and control as any law of chemistry. All that is done with it by the intelligent act of man is the work of governments. The large part of it goes directly from the mines to the mints. The United States declares that each 23.22 grains of it that shall be minted shall be denominated "dollar," and that is the beginning and the end of governmental "fixing of the value" of gold. Man puts whatever estimate he pleases on the thing by law called "dollar." No miner or syndicate of miners can make an ounce of gold worth more nor less than $20.67.

EXPOSE THE CULPRITS.

The evidence before the military board of inquiry is overwhelmingly strong in support of Gen. Miles' charge that much of the beef furnished to the soldiers was unfit for food. Take the testimony of Lieut. F. E. Lewis of the Third Illinois volunteers before the board at Chicago yesterday. He said that in Cuba one-half the canned roast beef issued to the soldiers was thrown away because it was unfit to eat. He testified that he had opened a can himself and found maggots in it. Maj. Lee asked—How did the maggots get in there? "They were canned in there," the witness replied. Col. Davis asked—Are you aware that in the process of canning, this meat undergoes such an intense heat that no animal life could survive in it? To this Lieut. Lewis made the prompt reply: "I don't mean to say they were alive: they were dead." Is it any wonder that most of the soldiers threw away their beef, preferring to remain hungry rather than eat the disgusting stuff in the tins, that those who did eat became sick, and that intestinal diseases were produced by the rotten beef.

Some of the Chicago papers have made strong efforts to assist packers in hushing up the scandal, and have tried to produce the impression that the beef was good, but the soldiers had bad stomachs! This would be laughable were it not for the serious results that followed the dastardly action of some of the packers in palming off poisonous beef on the government, thus probably causing the deaths of many brave soldiers. The Times-Herald even went so far as to assert that the report of the board of inquiry would declare that all the meat furnished by the packers was good and palatable, and that if any was spoiled the hot climate was responsible for its condition. The Chicago Journal, however, has not joined in this white-washing scheme for the packers' benefit. It declares the board cannot fail to find that the charge of uneatable, and perhaps poisonous, beef having been furnished to the soldiers has been proved, and urges that the packers might as well admit this fact. The only question, it says, now to be decided is what firms delivered bad beef on their contracts. Not all the houses are guilty. Some of the contractors carried out their obligations fairly and earned their profits honestly. But one or two firms, it is quite certain, must have taken advantage of the opportunity, on the theory that anything is good enough for the government, to unload a vast quantity of bad beef at an enormous profit, and this is the beef that the poor soldiers cast overboard on the voyage from Tampa and scattered along the roadside on the march to Santiago.

The guilty and swindling firms should be exposed, and the men at the stock yards who know the facts should give all the information to the board. "But," says the Journal, "whether these men talk freely or not, the duty of the board is plain, and it is a duty in whose performance they will find they have the support of a great majority of the people of Chicago. They must ruthlessly tear aside the curtain which interested parties have attempted to draw over the operations of the packers in the days before the declaration of war. Let them summon not only the agents of the contractors, but stock yards men who had no contracts. Let them demand to see the books of the concerns interested in this inquiry. If they can find out what firms bought enormous quantities of old tinned beef—beef that was put up eight or ten years ago and proved unsalable—and disposed of it to the government as fresh product, they may be able to fix the guilt of a great felony."

The Journal has taken the right stand on this question. The Chicago meat trade has been seriously injured by the facts already disclosed, and the honest packers should not be made to suffer for the crimes of the swindling firms. It is an offense against the health and lives of the nation's soldiers, and the culprits should be ferreted out and properly punished.

Mme. Blanchi, who has been condemned in Paris for attempting to kill her husband by atropia poisoning, is receiving great attention since her attempt to commit suicide. Her husband, who did not believe his wife guilty from the first, is working strenuously for her justification. The case presents some of the strangest features on record. No one can tell why the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. Three doctors who had attended the patient were equally convinced that nobody could tell whether it was a case of poisoning or not. Five other doctors made different diagnoses. The patient was taken away from the doctors to St. Germain and the patient immediately recovered.

According to the figures furnished by the treasury department, the consumption per capita in this country during 1898 was, of cotton 25.26 pounds; wheat and flour, 4.21 bushels; corn and meal 22.73 bushels; sugar, 61 pounds; coffee 11.45 pounds; tea, .91 pound; distilled spirits, 1.10 gallon; malt liquors, 15.64 gallons, and wines, .28 gallon. During the same time every man, woman and child paid $2.30 of internal taxes and $1.90 of customs taxes, or in round numbers $4.25 a year. It took $2 per capita of this lacking 2 cents, to pay pensions. The rest went for interest and running expenses, including the war. The estimates are made on a population of 74,359,000.

Rev. Dr. A. B. Leonard, senior secretary of the Missionary society of the Methodist church, takes a gloomy view of the situation in Cuba and Porto Rico after a prolonged visit to those islands. In Cuba he "found little trace of morality or religion." Well, we might send down a few more warships and compel the benighted inhabitants to become moral or religious.

A mob at Palmetto, Ga., took up the white man's burden last night, and after battering down the jail doors, shot nine negroes who were suspected of incendiarism. Uncle Sam is setting the pace for all his sons who feel the burden of duty and civilization hanging heavy on their hands.

Sixto Lopez says a change of taskmasters makes no difference to the Filipinos. Their motto is "liberty or death." Do we Americans applaud that sentiment today, or is the famous utterance of Patrick Henry a back number as well as the Declaration of Independence?

The Filipinos can be whipped into submission, but a "man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still." There are better ways of conquering a foe than by the use of bullets.

It is not at all to the credit of the United States that the representatives of the Filipinos were not given a hearing by the Washington authorities. "Pride goeth before a fall," it is related.

The Kansas City Star expresses the opinion that the young man who can win and marry Miss Helen Gould and keep her in America will be doing more for his country than Hobson did.

The Topeka State Journal says those political purposes for which Dewey wanted the Oregon seem to have sailed away to Hong Kong.

American baseball has become popular in Cuba. They might welcome football there as a substitute for bullfighting.

With $20,000,000 in the pot Spain can be depended upon to ratify the peace treaty at the earliest possible moment.

There is more than one "Pop" Republican in the country. There's Pingree, you know. And he's a warm number.

And now it is denied that Admiral Dewey is in failing health. This is good news.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

New York Press: Probably the lions thought maybe Daniel was a new woman.

When a woman knows she is wrong she may not admit it, but a man never believes he isn't right.

When a girl is in love she can never quite believe that any married people can possibly know just how she feels.

Intuition in a woman is probably what would tell her if she was a man when one trousers leg hung down lower than the other.

When a girl who is visiting town talks about the "conservatory" at home, you can be pretty sure that her mother raised house plants in the bay window.

THE GATES OF DREAMS.

Two diverse gates there are of bodiless dreams,
Those of sawn ivory and those of horn.
Such dreams as issue where the ivory gleams
Fly without fate, and turn our hopes to scorn.
But dreams which issue through the burnished horn,
What man soe'er beholds them on his bed,
These work with virtue and of truth are born.

—Homer, the Odyssey.

POINTED REMARKS.

Detroit Journal: The tall, dark man was furious.

"You have been stealing coal from me!" he hissed.

The other man was livid with rage.

"You are no gentleman!" he shouted. "If you were you'd say coals, not coal!"

Indianapolis Journal: "This man," said the attendant, "has an idea that he can compose popular songs."

"And can he?" asked the visitor.

"No."

"Perhaps," said the visitor, "he is not really insane."

Detroit Free Press: "It is hinted that Miss Tenspot is indebted to the druggist for her complexion," said Miss Gazzam.

"Oh, I can't credit that, for I know her well," replied Miss Ricketts. "In fact, I am her dearest friend."

"Then she doesn't use cosmetics at all?"

"O, yes, but she pays cash."

Philadelphia Record: Novice—Say, friend, can you tell me whether Slugger, the pugilist, is a heavyweight or a lightweight?

Old Sport—Neither; he's a paperweight.

Novice—Paperweight?

Old Sport—Yes; does all his scrapping in the papers.

"Now, I suppose," remarked Mrs. Snaggs, "that the surgeons of the army are attached to the medical corps."

"Your supposition does you great credit," replied Mr. Snaggs, sarcastically. "It's a wonder you didn't imagine that doctors joined the army for the purpose of building bridges or going up in balloons. Where should army surgeons be except in the medical corps?"

"Well, I thought that they might possibly belong to the Lancers."

FRUITS OF IMPERIALISM.

Baltimore American: The most startling thing in British politics is the discovery of a deficit in the budget of considerable proportions, which must be met by extra taxes. This comes, too, after the institution of taxes of a somewhat exceptional character by the present government, which it was supposed would meet all demands. The increases in the army and navy have been too much for the budget, and, as it is generally conceded that there will be no decrease in these expenditures, the government will be put to its trumps to raise the necessary revenue.

New York Evening Post: It is an essential part of the imperialistic gospel that salvation for subject races comes high for those who do the saving. The English imperialists are beginning to worry about this. They find their expenses for the empire growing uncomfortably large. This year, for the first time in history, the expenses of the English army on a peace footing exceed $100,000,000. We can give our cousins odds in this game and beat them easily, as our army appropriations, including pensions, will easily be upward of $250,000,000. In England, however, they are nervous over the smaller sum. One troubled member of the government said the other day, in a speech to a Tory club, that they ought to go about among the people explaining that "imperialism could not be run on the cheap." But, as Mr. Morley reported, this is entirely unnecessary, as "the tax collector is a more telling missionary of that gospel." He is, and he will be busily preaching it throughout this fair land for many years to come.

St. Patrick's Day In the Morning.

St. Patrick's day in the morning,
An I donned a sprig av green,
An away for the day, wid laughter gay,
Wid me own dear, swate colleen;
Wid Nellie, me blue eyed darlint;
Wid Nellie, my own colleen!
An it's green, I ween, on our brists is seen
St. Patrick's day in the morning.

Ah! St. Patrick's day at midday—
It is thin the bands are seen,
An the way they play all the blissed day
At the "Wearing av the Green!"
Yis, chunes like "God Save Ireland"
An "The Wearing av the Green,"
An the rhyme an chime av that chune sublime,
"St. Patrick's Day in the Morning!"

St. Patrick's day in the avening,
Whin the sun has gone to rist,
Thin I'll tell me Nell what she knows so well—
Who it is I love the bist.
An shure it's this I'm thinkin,
Whin I say, "Jist name the day,"
She will say, so gay: "Arrah, now, the day?
St. Patrick's day in the morning!"

—ARTHUR J. BURDICK.

Sense of Bereavement.

I'm standin' alone on the Capitol steps
A-watchin' the cars go past,
An thinkin' of stories
That tell how life's glories
Must all go to pieces at last.
An' the world seems so holler an' cruel an' sad
As I think of each great empty hall!
No more 'propriation;
No burnin' oration;
No congress; no nothin' at all!

Like the sailor all weary who leaned to the helm
An' trusted a star in the sky,
An' found that his beacon
Was only a weak 'un—
A meteor to flicker and die,
I ponder again with sensations of pain,
While the crows in their mockery call;
No more jolly friskers,
No jokes an' no whiskers;
No congress; no nothin' at all!

—Washington Star.

FEW USEFUL HINTS.

Great care should be taken in cleaning silver-trimmed tortoise shell or ebony toilet articles. Ammonia or silver powders destroy the finish of these materials. A little powder may be put on a piece of chamois and the silver rubbed carefully, after which a perfectly fresh piece of dry chamois may be used to polish it without injuring the shell or ebony.

A pretty table decoration recently seen was accomplished with pressed ferns. The center piece was of growing ferns, and strewn in careless but artistic profusion about the cloth were pressed specimens of the same green. The fresh ferns cannot be so well used for this purpose, as the leaves will turn and wrinkle. The pressed variety is obtainable at a florist's and may be used more than once if properly put away in flat boxes or between the leaves of a book.

Dealers in cut glass announce a return to the high-stemmed goblet style of water glass. It cannot be denied that goblets are more decorative in effect on the table than the tumbler shape, but in careless hands the destruction of the former is much more rapid. The bowl of the new goblet is rather broader than formerly, while its stem is not as long as that seen on the same glasses when they were in almost exclusive use for water service a few years ago.

THE PEOPLE OF SHADOW STREET.

Ah, long and narrow is Shadow street,
Where the sunlight never can fall;
Whose mile after mile can but repeat
The crumbling house and the broken wall;
The marsh beyond and the cypress trees—
A misty veil and a somber pall.

Over its lichened pavements, see
The people of Shadow street creep.
They seem so like unto you and me.
As they stare or frown or weep;
But they're something more and something less,
And their eyes are dim with sleep.

They think they are live and wide awake.
They are busy with dreams long dead.
Their hurrying feet no progress make.
And their clocks tell time that has fled.
They are planning the triumphs of yesterday,
They are coining the words long said.

They toil and moil; they rhyme and they sing,
But none of the other takes heed.
Their hopes are ravens on weary wing
That out of their hearts they feed:
Each man and woman in twilight blur
Clasps tightly a mildewed weed.

This corner house on Market Square
Is the place where they first abide.
They climb one room in its creeping stair.
And by dusk steal out at the side.
They come, pushed out of the pulsing town
And so into Shadow street glide.

From house after house, from day to day,
They move when the night has paled;
Thin and grizzled and farther away.
And by many a pang assailed.
They pass at last 'neath the express trees,
But they never know they have failed.

WORK IN THE WOODS

Roads are Excellent But the Condition Will Not Last Long.

MEN ARE COMING OUT

Work in the woods around Duluth is drawing to a close, and it is not expected to last much more than a week longer. Just at present the roads are excellent, and if there was no thaw work would continue longer, but this is too much to be expected. A couple of days of thaw, which are not unlikely to occur, will put an end to hauling, probably for the season, and after that the camps will break up rapidly. The season has been a fairly good one for work in the woods, though the periods of extreme cold and warm weather have made it uncomfortable alternately for the men and for their employers.

Some camps have begun to send in their men already, and as soon as the general break-up takes place, which will probably be next week some time, the annual flood of men from the woods will come in. Then the bowery resorts and the "big mitt" men and other enterprises, as well as many legitimate business houses of Duluth, will reap a harvest for, as The Herald has stated before, there are more men in the woods this winter than ever before, and they will bring in a larger sum to spend in Duluth than in any previous year. This money always flows freely, for the men have few chances to use any of it while they are working. Therefore when the men get to town their "wads" begin to burn holes in their pockets, and in most cases they take little rest until they spend most of their capital. They are then ready to look up the next job.

THE LABOR BAZAR.

Great Crowd Present at the Armory---The Cake Walk Amuses Everyone.

The labor bazar was thronged last evening. According to a conservative estimate, fully 3000 people attended. There were several additional exhibits put in yesterday and the finishing touches were put on the booths that were not ready for the opening. The program was excellent. The cake walk was immense and afforded a deal of fun.

C. E. Lovett was the speaker of the evening. He spoke on the certain future of Duluth as a manufacturing center. The great commercial cities are the great manufacturing cities, he said. Pittsburg, he many supposed to be the greatest manufacturing city in the country is well down in the list. New York, the greatest commercial city leads in manufacturing. He argued that by the building up of Duluth along commercial lines its ambition to be a manufacturing center will eventually be attained. He pointed out how the nation has grown under a protective tariff and said that the same policy pursued locally—the fostering of home industries—would result in building up Duluth's industries. Home patronage is the best support they can receive. Mr. Lovett was liberally applauded.

The sketches, "Two In a Photograph Gallery," and "Silence and Fun," were excellently rendered and kept the audience in roars of laughter throughout. The first named sketch was presented by Joseph Musolf, A. E. Broadbridge, Hugo Helling and Ed Coleman, and the other by Messrs. Musolf and Coleman. The West Duluth band rendered a concert program, and Miss Georgia Alexander sang.

Dick Harris and lady, who were to have given an exhibition of fancy walking in the cake walk, did not appear owing to the sudden illness of the lady, and Shots Carmichael and Miss Ida Gouyen took their places. They did the latest and most approved things in the way of frills, curves and pigeon wings, and were heartily applauded. There were four couples of juvenile walkers, who displayed great proficiency and grace. There were no prizes.

Tonight there will be a band concert, and Miss Davidson, of Superior, will sing. Thomas J. McKeon will be the speaker of the evening. There will be dancing in the Armory hall, beginning at 9 o'clock.

George L. Robinson Dead

A telegram was received yesterday by C. W. Robinson, of Superior, saying that his brother, George L. Robinson, had died at Republic, Wash. G. L. Robinson was well known in Superior and was one of the old residents of this city. In 1883, during the early days of the town, he settled here and engaged in the meat business. At one time he was justice of the peace at Hibbing, Minn. About three years ago Mr. Robinson and family removed to the Pacific coast, taking up their residence at the little town of Republic, situated in a mining district in Washington. There Mr. Robinson went into the mining and prospecting business. He was about 45 years of age and leaves a wife and three children, and a brother and a nephew in this city. The remains will be brought to this city for interment.

Is an Old Offender.

In George Thayer who was recently arrested in St. Paul for robbing the postoffice at Newport, the police here recognize a crook who was sent to Stillwater for a year from Duluth in September, 1897, for forgery under the name of George Clark. Previous to that he had served a year's term at Waupun for a forgery committed in West Superior. Thayer's brother was recently sent up for twenty years for complicity in the holdup of a Great Northern train near Fergus Falls not long ago.

To Build Steel Cars.

One of the principal reasons of President James J. Hill's visit to Superior was to look over the facilities of the company's shops with a view of deciding upon their capacity for building steel cars, says the Evening Telegram. The management of the road has long entertained the opinion that steel cars could be built cheaper by the company than they could be purchased from exclusive car-building concerns, and it is given out by those in close touch with Mr. Hill that at no distant date the Great Northern company will be building its own cars.

HIBERNIAN ENTERTAINMENT.

Program to Be Given at the Lyceum Friday Evening.

A treat is in store for those who attend the Hibernian celebration of St. Patrick's day at the Lyceum theater tomorrow evening. The best available local talent has been secured, and in addition Miss Millie Pottgieser and John F. Gehan, of St. Paul, will be heard, and Fred Langley, of New York, will give some of his finest dances. Miss Pottgieser is one of the finest contraltos the country has produced and Minnesota is naturally proud of her. John F. Gehan has been prominent in the musical circles of the Northwest for many years and is a great favorite in the Twin Cities. The Hibernians could not have secured anyone who will charm the audience more on Friday evening than these two popular singers. Mr. Langley is known as a dancer from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and his specialties in clog and jig dancing are well worth seeing. The orchestral numbers have been selected especially for the occasion and are particularly fine.

There will be sung the oldest and choicest of the musical gems of the Emerald isle, as well as all that is bright and new. Altogether, the Hibernians are going to furnish a high-class and brilliant entertainment that will be a fitting celebration of their national holiday, St. Patrick's day. The oration will be by Charles A. Towne. The program is as follows:

THE LION THE BEST.

Yousouf Not Up To It With Hali Adali Who Comes Here.

Some writers have seen fit to make comparison between Hali Adali, the "Sultan's Lion," who is matched to throw McMillan and Lundin four times in ninety minutes at the Armory Monday night, March 20, and the late Yousouf, and this to the disparagement of the "Sultan's Lion." There is only one line on which to base a comparison and that is on the showing of Adali and Yousouf against Wittmer, of Cincinnati. The "Terrible Turk" tugged away in violent fashion for three hours and fifteen minutes against Wittmer without gaining a fall, while Adali threw Wittmer two straight falls, the first time in twenty minutes and the second time in 1 hour and 10 minutes. On this showing Adali is easily the better man of the two Turks, but the best ties in the two meetings of Yousouf and Adali. In both instances Adali made the "Terrible Turk" look cheap. If Adali were minded to use his brute strength on all holds there are few men who could withstand his first assault.

The Burton Lectures.

"The Society for the Encouragement of Art" has arranged for a course of three lectures by Professor Richard Burton of the Minnesota university, to be given in the Duluth High School, April 15, 22 and 29. Dr. Burton will lecture upon "Cyrano de Bergerac," "Love in Modern Fiction" and "The Relation of Literature to Life." Dr. Burton's lectures have been gaining in popularity in Minneapolis and St. Paul, and Duluth is fortunate in securing him for a course of lectures. The tickets are in the hands of the following officers of the society and committee on arrangements: Col. C. H. Graves, president; Dr. A. H. Shildt, treasurer; executive committee, Mrs. J. B. Weston, Mrs. James Dow Morrison, Mrs. F. W. Paine, Mrs. A. H. Comstock, Mrs. A. H. Shildt, Mrs. Henry C. Marshall, chairman; lecture committee, S. T. Harrison, Watson S. Moore, J. W. Hunt, Mrs. R. N. Marble, Mrs. J. W. Crowley, Miss Welch, Miss McGiffert, Miss Markell, Miss Poirier, Miss Neff, Miss Sehen.

The Davies Concert.

Increasing interest continues to be shown in the forthcoming Ffrangcon-Davies concert at the Lyceum, March 28, under the auspices of the Cecilian choral. Persons desiring to hear this artist, generally recognized as the greatest living interpreter of oratorio, are recommended to sign, as early as possible, the subscription list, and thus entitle themselves to the choice of seats in advance of general sale. The lists may be found at the following places: All the music stores, Boyce's Drug store, Max Wirth's and the Lyceum.

Liberty Lodge Social.

Liberty lodge of Loyal Orange ladies gave a basket social last night at Masonic Temple. A feature of the evening was the auction sale of the lunch baskets, W. W. Butchart acting as auctioneer. The bidding was lively and there was great fun over it. There was dancing.

A first use of Dent's Toothache Gum convinces you of its excellence. All Druggists 15c.

STOCK IS VERY LOW

MAY PULL THROUGH

Supply May Last Until the Opening—No Further Advance Expected.

The supply of hard coal on the docks at the head of the lakes, according to well posted coal men, does not exceed 20,000 tons and may not reach that figure. Nearly all of it is egg and grate coal although some of the companies still have a small supply of stove coal. There is no nut coal on any of the docks. The stock on hand will probably be sufficient to barely squeeze through the spring with, if the weather continues mild and spring opens early.

The shipments of hard coal from the head of the lakes during the present month have been 75 to 100 per cent greater than March of last year. The Twin Cities have been drawing heavily on the stocks here. Much of the coal being shipped is going into territory heretofore supplied from Lake Michigan ports.

The Philadelphia & Reading company and St. Paul & Western company are practically out of hard coal, except possibly some reserved for the local trade. The Ohio company has only egg coal left. The Pennsylvania & Ohio, Pioneer, Northwestern and Youghiogheny & Lehigh have egg and stove and the Lehigh only egg coal.

The soft coal supply will last until the opening of navigation, but the amount left on the docks will be smaller than for several years past.

The St. Paul & Duluth railroad has cancelled its hard coal rate with the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad on its Pacific division running from Minneapolis to Watertown. The result is to cut the companies here out of the towns along that line. This step is a result of the railroad commission's recent ruling. An adjustment of the difficulty will doubtless be made.

IS FREE FROM DEBT.

Duluth Boat Club Wipes Out All of its Obligations—Officers Elected.

During the last couple of years the Duluth Boat club has been saying nothing and sawing wood. Two years ago the club owed debts amounting to about $2400. Last night the annual meeting was held, and there was a good deal of rejoicing over the announcement that not only was the club clear of debt, but that it had a balance to the good of $150. It is said that this is a better condition than any other boat club in the West can boast of, and the members of the club are quite elated over the report. The officers of the club are naturally proud of the accomplishment, and they deserve no end of credit for having cleared the club of debt.

An important action taken at last night's meeting was an offer to new members. Heretofore the membership fee has been $25, but as an inducement to new members it was decided to let them in until May 15 upon payment of $10. There are now 100 members of the club, and it is expected that there will be no difficulty in increasing the membership by about fifty or seventy-five within the time allotted.

There was an attendance of about fifty at last night's meeting, which was held in the Spalding house. The good news presented by the officers made the meeting an animated and interesting one. This is the first time in the history of the club that it has listened to such a report, and the elation that followed it is not surprising. The new material that will come into the club as the result of the offer of reduced entrance fees will be utilized in forming new crews, and Duluth will have the strongest club in the West.

The following officers were elected last night:

President, E. P. Towne; first vice president, C. A. Duncan; second vice president, J. L. Greatsinger; secretary, D. R. McLennan; treasurer, F. H. Hulbert; captain, Sheriff W. C. Sargent; lieutenant, M. A. Thomson; ensign, S. A. McPhail; directors, C. A. Viele, E. M. Peyton and T. W. Hoopes

The club appointed a committee consisting of W. C. Sargent, D. L. Mahoney and F. J. Carr to look into the matter of changing the location of the club house and finding a new and more acceptable site.

Congratulated Mr. Murphy.

Hon. John D. Murphy, of Tower, arrived in the city yesterday and was the recipient of quite an impromptu reception at the St. Louis last evening by a large number of his friends, all anxious to congratulate him on his great victory in the municipal campaign in his city when he was re-elected mayor of Tower.

Arranging the Entertainment.

The boys are training hard and the program will be an excellent one.

CANDY CATHARTIC Cascarets REGULATE THE LIVER

Did You Have the Grip?

Perhaps you have got it yet. You may be one of the many people who have recovered from the first acute attack, but have been left in such a condition that you are losing strength and your vitality is slowly ebbing away. A weary, nervous, exhausted feeling possesses you. That lack of ambition, loss of appetite and your inability to sleep is a direct result of La Grippe's poisonous germs.

Do not wait until you are completely run down before you try to do something for it. Dr. Miles' Nervine will cure you, and it doesn't cost a tenth as much as doctors' fees. It stops the headache, the dizziness, the irritation and the restlessness. It soothes the tired brain and brings refreshing sleep. It strengthens the nerves, stimulates the appetite, invigorates the digestion, overcomes the exhaustion and makes you feel strong and hearty.

"Grip left me so weak that my legs would become numb, my head would begin to swim and I would fall to the floor from sheer exhaustion. I did not seem to care whether I lived or died. I commenced taking Dr. Miles' Nervine, and the first bottle did wonders for me. After using it for a few weeks I was able to be at my business regularly all day. W. G. WHITE.
"McGregor, Texas."

A trial package of Dr. Miles' favorite treatment for the grip, consisting of Dr. Miles' Nervine, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills, will be sent absolutely free of cost to any person sending name and address on a postal card, requesting the sample and mentioning the name of this paper. AMUSEMENTS.

DR. IZER'S LECTURE.

Tomorrow evening Dr. George Izer, of Allegheny, will lecture at the First Methodist church on "Gen. Grant." The famous soldier and president is said to have had no more eloquent eulogist than Dr. Izer. This is the verdict wherever his lecture has been heard.

"WHAT HAPPENED TO JONES."

The people of Duluth will see a first-class comedy Saturday evening at the Lyceum in "What Happened to Jones." The Jones of the story is a drummer for hymn books and playing cards. He gains the knowledge that Ebenezer Goodly, a staid professor of anatomy has attended a boxing match in company with his son-in-law, and that the place was raided. When Goodly flees to his home he follows after him, and, being himself in danger of arrest, is protected by being put into the coat of a bishop, who is expected to visit the home, which only adds to his embarrassment because of the maiden lady in the household, who is waiting to be claimed by the bishop and leads to situations both interesting and amusing.

"WHO IS WHO?"

"Who is Who?" introducing the Kelly & Mason company of twenty-two comedians and pretty girls, will be seen at the Lyceum next Monday. This organization ranks with the best farce comedy companies en tour, and possesses the added novelty of having a real authentic and distinguishable plot. Of course there are numerous vaudeville introductions and pretty musical selections to give the public full measure of the qualities which go to make up farce comedy. The artists employed this year have been selected with care to maintain the high standard set during last season. The entire entertainment is one which possesses the most sterling qualities necessary to make high-class amusement.

BLEEDING PILES

And all other forms of this common and often dangerous disease readily cured without pain or inconvenience.

Thousands of men and women are afflicted with some sort of piles, without either knowing the exact nature of the trouble, or knowing it, are careless enough to allow it to run without taking the simple means offered for a radical cure.

The failure of salves and ointments to permanently cure piles has led many to believe the only cure to be a surgical operation.

Surgical operations are dangerous to life and moreover not often entirely successful and at this time are no longer used by the best physicians or recommended by them.

The safest and surest way to cure any case of piles, whether blind, bleeding or protruding, is to use the Pyramid Pile cure, composed of healing vegetable oils, and absolutely free from mineral poisons and opiates. The following letter from a Pittsburg gentleman, a severe sufferer from bleeding piles, gives some idea of the prompt effectual character of this pile cure. He writes:

I take pleasure writing these few lines to let you know that I did not sleep for three months, except for a short time each night, because of a bad case of bleeding piles. I was down in bed and the doctors did me no good. A good brother told me of the Pyramid Pile Cure and I bought from my druggist three 50-cent bottles. They cured me and I will soon be able to go to my work again.

WILLIAM HANDSCHU,
46 Cotton Alley, below Butler Street.
Pittsburg, Pa.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is not only the safest and surest remedy for piles, but is the best known and most popular. Every physician and druggist in the country knows it and what it will do.

Send to Pyramid company, Marshall, Mich., for little book on "Cause and Cure of Piles," describing all forms of piles and the proper treatment.

ELEVATOR AT DULUTH.

Grain Growers' Association Wants State to Lease Site.

St. Paul, March 16.—The plan of the Grain Growers' association for an elevator at Duluth took definite form yesterday afternoon when Mr. Ojen introduced in the house a bill to authorize the state to lease the state site in Duluth to the association.

The bill which was referred to the committee on grain and warehouse, provides for the creation of a state commission, which shall be empowered to lease the site to the Grain Growers' cooperative association of Minnesota, fixing the terms of lease and rental, and authorized to have jurisdiction as acting for the lessor. One of the conditions of the lease, it is provided, shall be that the association shall build a terminal elevator of not less than 400,000 bushels capacity within three years, and before the lease is delivered the association shall give due guarantee that this is to be accomplished.

The state railroad and warehouse commission is directed to turn the plans prepared for a state elevator in 1896 over to the association. The life of the lease is to be thirty years, except that if the state shall desire at any time to erect an elevator on the site, the lease shall be given up on the payment by the state of the amount expended by the association is important. The general offices of the association are at Minneapolis, and it is declared to be its purpose to do a general storing and selling business at Duluth.

A BOLD ASSERTION.

The Assertion Made in the Introduction to this Duluth Citizen's Statement is Literally True.

There is only one proprietary medicine on the market which gives local evidence touching its merits; home proof to back up its claims: Duluth evidence for Duluth people. Statements from people we know in place of statements from strangers. That preparation is the one endorsed by C. Coons, conducting a meat market at 101 East Fourth street, who says: "For three or four years I suffered a great deal with my back and kidneys, and although at different times I treated for it I could get nothing to effectually remove the trouble. There was a severe, heavy aching across the small of my back; I did not rest well nights and rose in the morning feeling tired and worn out; the secretions from the kidneys were irregular and highly colored and on standing deposited a heavy sediment. I felt generally run down and had no energy or ambition left. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and having them highly spoken of, I procured them at the Duluth Drug company and commenced to use them. In a few days I noticed an improvement and the aches and pains soon left me. My appetite became good, I slept well and felt refreshed in the mornings. I began to gain weight, and, in fact never felt better in my life."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the United States.

GO TO THE GOVERNOR

The Three Duluth Tax Bills Now Ready For His Signature.

MR. NELSON TALKS

House Member From Lake County Has Opinions on Insanity.

From a Staff Representative.

St. Paul, March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The third Duluth tax bill, which was slightly amended by the house, was reported to the senate today and the bill passed as amended. The bills now go to the governor for his approval, which is considered sure to come.

Senator DuToit's bill providing for seven instead of five boiler inspection districts, was passed as also was Senator Benedict's bill relating to liability of husbands and wife, and a couple of minor local bills.

Among the new senate bills today were:

Johnson—To amend law relating to assessment and collection of taxes.

Young—To amend statutes 1894 relating to use of court records from other states as evidence.

McGovern—To prevent riding bicycles on sidewalks.

Young—To provide for the better enforcement of the liability of stockholders or corporations.

Fitzpatrick—To amend laws relating to time allowed creditors to present claims in probate court.

Nixon—To amend laws 1878 relating to disallowance of claims by county commissioners.

Senators Jepson and McGowan, the North Minneapolis members, made a strong effort for the passage of the bill to legalize the bonds for the building of a bridge over the river in North Minneapolis. Every other member of the delegation opposed the measure and it was defeated.

Next on the calendar was the Grindland bill, to license commission men and require them to give bonds for the faithful performance of their contracts. This was passed after debate.

ON THE COTTAGE PLAN.

Anoka and Hastings Insane Hospital Sites Both Accepted.

St. Paul, March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the house met at 10 o'clock this morning, Speaker Dare announced that the special order, which was unfinished at adjournment last evening, still held and the discussion of the various insane hospital measures was resumed.

N. C. Nelson, of Lake county, believed there was need of more provision for the insane, but maintained that a second site now was unnecessary, arguing in favor of Anoka and against Hastings and suggested that when any additional hospital was provided for it should be in the rapidly settling northern part of the state.

Several amendments were proposed, that limiting the capacity of cottages to fifty was defeated, the number sixty being adopted. Five cottages on any one site was proposed, but defeated. Amendments by Staples relating to description of the Hastings site were adopted. Donohue's amendment to strike out all referring to the Hastings site was defeated on roll call, 47 to 63. Jacobson's amendment to strike out the provisions for Anoka was, on roll call, defeated by a vote of 28 to 86. Amendment by Foss to reduce from $26,000 to $15,000 the appropriation for the Hastings site was adopted, 60 to 50. Jacobson's amendment to limit the total number of inmates to 500 was adopted.

After a call of the house the previous question, on motion of Laybourn, was put, and the vote on final passage of the Staples bill, for hospital sites at Anoka and Hastings and beginning work on cottages, was taken, resulting in its passage. Yeas, 74; nays, 42.

Recess.

REDEMPTION PERIOD DESIRED.

Mr. Congdon Would Amend the Forfeited Tax Law.

St. Paul, March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. H. Congdon arrived here this morning, bringing with him a petition to the St. Louis county delegation urging the passage by the legislature of an amendment to the forfeited tax law giving property owners a short period of redemption. The time for redemption suggested in the petition is one year. Mr. Congdon has presented arguments in favor of the proposed amendment to Senator Baldwin and others, and the matter will be taken under consideration. It is alleged in the petition that syndicates are being organized to bid on desirable property at the coming tax sale, and that unless property owners are given some time in which to redeem their holdings that a large portion of the suburban property of the city of Duluth will have clouded titles as a result of the sale, which will have a very injurious effect on the development of the city and tend to retard its progress, thereby defeating the primary object of the much-discussed forfeited tax law.

Madison, Wis., March 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The anti-pass resolution came back to the senate this morning with the forfeiture of office clause tacked on by the assembly, and was sent to the railroad committee. The same amendment was defeated when the senate passed the resolution, and a lively fight is probable over it now. Eight bills were passed in the senate, one providing bounty of $3 for wolves, $1 for lynx or wildcat to be paid by counties where killed. The medical bill was laid over. The bill taxing non-resident ice shippers 10 cents a ton was referred to the judiciary committee.

In the assembly the insurance committee reported a substitute for the warehouse certificate bill. The claims committee reported the geological survey bill with an appropriation of $7500. The bill requiring acceptance of normal school certificates by county superintendents was reconsidered and passed. Six senate and four assembly bills were ordered to a third reading. The assembly adjourned to 9:30 tomorrow morning, half an hour earlier than usual.

The assembly this morning killed the joint constitutional amendment resolution, which, if finally adopted, would have permitted the governor to ask for supreme court decisions in important cases, by a vote of 71 to 16. The resolution to change the qualifications of voters so that only full citizens may vote is on the calendar for tonight and will be killed.

The Mills bill relating to the municipal court of Douglas county went to third reading in the assembly.

At a previous trial Gen. Alger was given a judgment for the amount asked.

String, of Manayunk, condemning the polygamous practices of Congressman-elect Brigham H. Roberts of Utah, and asking for his expulsion from the halls of congress. The resolution was referred for modification to a committee. Before this action was taken Rev. T. C. Iliff, presiding elder of the Utah district and one of the committee of three appointed by the Evangelical Ministerial union of that state to prepare a formal protest to be presented to the Fifty-sixth congress against Roberts' admission, stated that the committee had secured satisfactory evidence that Roberts was at present living in polygamy with three wives.

MEDILL IS DEAD

Editor of the Chicago Tribune Passes Away Down In Texas.

FORMERLY A WHIG

He Was One of the Organizers of the Republican Party.

Chicago, March 16.—Word was received here today from San Antonio, Tex., that Joseph Medill, proprietor of the Chicago Tribune, died there early this morning.

Mr. Medill was born in New Brunswick in 1823. When he was 9 years of age his father moved to Stark county, Ohio, where the son worked on a farm while acquiring an education. He subsequently studied law and practiced for a time at Massillon. In 1849 he founded a Free Soil newspaper in Cosehocton and in 1852 established a Whig newspaper in Cleveland. In 1854 he became one of the organizers of the Republican party, and since that time has been prominent in its councils. He removed to Chicago and in 1855 became one of the owners of the Tribune. He was a member of the Illinois constitutional convention of 1870 and the author of the minority representation clause, and in 1871 was a member of the United States civil service commission. He was elected mayor of Chicago in the same year and later spent some time in Europe. On his return he purchased a controlling interest in the Tribune and had since been its editor-in-chief.

Mr. Reed is said to be worth several million dollars.

THEIR EMBALMING FLUID.

Swift Company Claims It Is Made of Salt.

Omaha, March 16.—The army board of inquiry arrived in this city today and started to work by looking through the packing plants at South Omaha. Particular attention was paid to the point brought out in the testimony of the Philadelphia physician to the effect that he had seen meat chemically treated in the Swift plant here. That company maintained that the operation the doctor saw was simply the injection of salt into the interior of hams for the purpose of producing an even cure. The process was exemplified, and a sample of the fluid used submitted for analysis.

NO SUNDAY TRAINS.

One of the Reforms Desired By Trainmen.

New York, March 16.—Frank P. Sargent, grand master of the Locomotive Firemen's brotherhood, was before the Industrial commission today. He presented a report prepared by himself and other chiefs of railroad brotherhoods replying to the printed questions of the commission. This statement was suggested by Chiefs Arthur of the Engineers; Sargent of the Firemen; Clark, of the Conductors; Morrissey, of the Trainmen, and Powell, of the Telegraphers. It covered all the points involved in the remodeling of employes to the transportation companies in a general way. The statement gave a scale of wages paid to railroad men in all branches of the service and it was stated that the scale was determined by conference with the railroad managers.

It was contended that while blacklisting was no longer followed, the railroad companies have adopted a system of inquiries which has about the same effect as the blacklist. Some instances of apparent attempts on the part of the United States courts to compel service for the railroad companies were referred to.

There was some complaint of the long hours required of telegraphers and yardmen, but it was stated there was no fault to find on the part of the trainmen under this heading. The chiefs united in the expression that the practice of running trains on Sunday should be abolished.

INDUSTRIAL RELIEF.

Condition of the Cubans Is a Blot Upon Our Civilization.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 16.—William Willard Howard, general manager of the Cuban industrial relief fund, of New York, passed through Jacksonville on his way home from Cuba, on his way North to purchase agricultural implements and seeds for the use of the industrial relief station which has just been established at Guines, Cuba. He reports the condition of Cuba really worse than it was at this time last year when he made his first investigation. The fields are vacant and the farmers idle. The people still remain in the towns and cities, where army rations are issued to them. Our government has done nothing to enable farmers to resume the cultivation of their lands.

He says the condition of Cuba is a reproach to the American people and a blot upon civilization. We are going to do something to improve that condition, and we invite all lovers of humanity in the United States to help us, for the good name of the American flag. Money for orphans or for our industrial relief work should be sent to the Continental Trust company, 30 Broad street, New York city, marked "For the Cuban Industrial Relief Fund."

STORM REDUCED EARNINGS.

Baltimore, March 16.—On account of the severe storm which swept over the eastern portion of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad during February, and which practically closed the road for five days, the gross earnings for the month of February, 1899, were $1,792,881, a decrease of $119,486. The net earnings show a decrease of $288,500, caused by extraordinary expenses in removing the snow and other impediments from the tracks during the storm and to improvements that are being made. The gross earnings for the eight months of the fiscal year 1897-98 were $18,179,382, an increase of $642,182.

DISORDERLY PROCEEDINGS.

Berlin, March 16.—In anticipation of the third reading of the army bill today both the reichstag and the public galleries of that house were packed. KIDNEY CURE

THE DAKOTAS.

A Village Forty Miles From a Railroad Threatened With Two.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Bismarck—The town of Washburn, a little village in McLean county, at present forty miles from a railroad, is threatened with two railroads in the coming summer. One of the expected roads is the Soo, which is expected to extend its Braddock branch through Bismarck and on up to tap the coal veins and farming regions of McLean county, and the other is the Sykeston branch of the Northern Pacific, which, according to present calculations, will extend to the Missouri river. It is understood the Soo has already secured the right-of-way in the present probable terminus, and has purchased in addition a large tract of land near the new town, which was named after W. D. Washburn, one of the promoters of the Soo enterprise.

Judge Winchester denied an application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of one Baker, a prisoner at the state penitentiary for twenty years on the charge of rape. The application for a writ was made by Attorney Ingwaldson, of Fargo, who set forth that Baker had been tried and convicted at a special term of the district court, which had no jurisdiction over criminal matters.

W. A. Dillon, of Bismarck, formerly cashier of the First National bank, has been appointed special assistant state examiner, under the law passed at the last session of the legislature, authorizing the addition of another assistant to the force of the office.

After the insistence of the attorneys of the Red River valley for the holding of terms of supreme court in the cities of Fargo and Grand Forks, only five cases out of a total of forty-five on the calendar have been notified for trial at the March terms of the supreme court at Fargo, as the law requires must be done. The other forty will be heard at the second session of the term at Bismarck in April.

Under the amended game law, the state will receive about $1200 annually from the issuance of hunting permits.

Pembina—Smith, the saloonkeeper at St. Vincent, has been indicted for manslaughter for the murder of George Bates of this town. The bonds were fixed at $2000. Senator Steenerson of Crookston is retained as counsel to defend Smith.

Fargo—It is claimed a deal has been fixed up by which the new Jamestown asylum board will restore Dr. Archibald into the superintendency. It is said he will accept only to resign at the end of thirty days when Dr. Moore, his son-in-law, will again be re-elected superintendent. The best part of the story, however, is that the minutes of the first meeting of the board, yet to be held, were shown in typewritten form at Bismarck, before the board was even appointed. When the success of the move was questioned, the promoters laughed confidently and claimed the whole deal was fixed, and the appointees would either agree, or not get the position.

Sam Magill, a son of Col. Magill, has been granted a three months' leave of absence from the battleship Oregon, upon which he made the famous trip around the horn, and went through the Santiago fight. He left the battleship at Honolulu and has just received his commission as ensign.

Manager Sasseen of the Geiser Manufacturing company has just secured a valuable site on Northern Pacific avenue, in the machinery district, and will erect a big warehouse, 50 by 200 feet, two stories high.

Grand Forks—The cases of the St. Anthony and Dakota Elevator company against the treasurer of Bottineau county, recently decided in favor of the plaintiff, involved a somewhat curious point. It appears that certain Bottineau county farmers stored in the elevators of the company quantities of wheat, which wheat was listed by the assessor among their effects subject to taxation. When the county board of equalization met a resolution was passed instructing the county auditor to transfer the grain from the property list of the owners to that of the elevator company. The company objected, but finally paid the tax under protest, and subsequently brought suit to recover. The point sought to be established was that the equalization board and the county auditor had exceeded their authority when they undertook to perform the functions of an assessor and to assess as the property of a firm grain which did not belong to it. The court took this view of the case, and judgment was rendered for the amount of taxes paid, with damages.

Havana—Andrew Mann has the banner cow of Sargent county, and as far as we know she may be the banner cow of the state. During the month of January she gave 1252 pounds of milk for which he received $7.85. The cow is a holstein and he takes the milk to the Fairview creamery.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Yankton—The failure of the legislature to make an appropriation for the state fair entails an additional burden on Yankton. Three years ago it won the location of the state fair and entered into a contract to maintain it for nine years. The first year proved a success, the second the attendance was less, still it paid out, and last year was a failure. The grounds, buildings and unpaid expenses have cost the city $12,000. Now it devolves upon the city to raise $2000 to guarantee the payment of premiums for the next fair, or let it go elsewhere. It is safe to say, however, that Yankton will be equal to the emergency and hold the fair for the entire period under contract.

Ashton—A foot of snow has fallen in this section, or the most at any time for many years. The ground will be placed in excellent condition for seeding.

Sioux Falls—Professor John Clark has been selected by the board of commissioners of McCook county as county superintendent of schools to fill a vacancy caused by the death of F. O. Kingsbury.

Lead—The first emigrants to arrive in this city were the families of J. C. and Will Folson, from Kentucky. The brothers have spent their lives in the coal mines, mining coal for 50 cents per ton. By the closest economy they have saved up in the past years enough to come to the Black Hills. They can scarcely realize they will receive from $3 to $3.50 per day for their work out here.

QUAY LEADS.

Harrisburg, March 16.—The fiftieth ballot for United States senator resulted: Quay, 86; Jenks, 71; Dalzell, 14; Stewart, 7; Stone, 4; Irvin, 3; Huff, 4; Widener, 3; Rice, 2; Grow, 1; Riter, 1; Tubbs, 2; Smith, 4; Markle, 1; total vote, 203; necessary to a choice, 102; paired or not voting, 48; absent and not voting, 2.

TO SUCCEED HERSCHELL.

London, March 16.—The Pall Mall Gazette says it understands definitely that the lord chief justice of England, Baron Russell of Killowen, has been selected to succeed the late Baron Herschell on the American-British-Canadian joint commission.

FROM COPPERDOM.

The Different Village Elections Did Not Create Much Interest.

Houghton—The village elections throughout the copper country were as a rule rather quiet, very little interest being taken because of the lack of candidates in the field, the contest in each case being centered on some minor candidate. Probably the lights over trustees in Hancock and Lake Linden were the warmest of the day. The following were the results, the greater majority of the officials chosen being re-elected:

Houghton—President, Joseph Croze; clerk, Casper Brand; treasurer, C. S. Rondo; trustees, J. H. Rice, F. J. Bawden, Joseph Strobel; assessor, E. J. Dube.

Hancock—President, A. J. Scott; clerk, Michael Finn; treasurer, Angus MacDonald; trustees, W. H. Mason, Samuel Payne, W. A. Washburn; assessor, Frederick Francis.

Lake Linden—President, A. F. Heldkamp; clerk, Jacob Gries; treasurer, F. G. Weissenauer; trustees, William Tappe, William Paul, Laurence Jacques; assessor, Joseph Brault; constable, Alex Barbeau.

Laurium—President, Henry Filege; clerk, Joseph R. Murphy; treasurer, Hon N. Swartz; trustees, John Manier, Charles Heasu, Jr., John K. Finlayson; assessor, Barney Hallstrom.

Red Jacket—President, John R. Ryan; clerk, W. W. Ellis; treasurer, James Wilcox; trustees, Michael Kemp, James McHardy, Charles Wickstrom; assessor, James F. Wiggins. A very light vote was cast, and W. W. Ellis, for clerk at Red Jacket, who was re-elected, was the only slip candidate successful in the county.

Houghton—Eight deeds have been filed by Allen E. Rees, of Chadbourne & Rees. They carry $2090 in stamps, aggregating a $1,300,000 consideration and conveying lands secured under Reginald C. Pryor's options to the Miners' Copper company and the St. Mary's and Highland properties to the Arcadian. On Saturday Mr. Rees also filed with the register of deeds at Houghton a deed from the Edwardses estate to R. C. Pryor for the e¼ of the se¼ of section 9, town 54 north, of range 34 west, the consideration being $16,000.

Hancock—The mile race at the Twin City Ice rink Saturday evening between Elmer Thompson and Elgin Troyer, both of the famous backward skater, drew a large crowd and was won by the youngster, Troyer, with about twenty feet to spare. Thompson is not satisfied and the race will be repeated for the same stakes, $25 a side, at Laurium's big rink next Saturday evening.

Marquette—Some time ago Capt. Daniels, who has been conducting exploratory operations in the Sauk's Head region, sent a sample of ore secured to Chicago for analysis, and the result, together with the showing already made at the property, has been so gratifying as to lend encouragement to operations on a more extensive scale. Mariner & Hoskins, assayers, reporting the ore to go 25.8 per cent copper to the ton, with a trace of gold and 1.75 ounces of silver.

Calumet—Anthony Rost, aged 78, died Friday evening at 8 o'clock of Bright's disease.

Women Save Drunkards

It takes a woman to overcome obstacles. Mrs. Chas. W. Harry, 920 York St., Newport, Ky., had for years patiently borne the disgrace, suffering, misery and privation due to her husband's drinking habits.

MRS. CHAS. W. HARRY.

Learning there was a cure for drunkenness which she could give her husband secretly she decided to try it. She mixed it in his food and coffee and as the remedy is odorless and tasteless he never knew what it was that so quickly relieved the craving for liquor. He soon began to pick up in flesh, his appetite for solid food returned, he stuck to his work regularly and they now have a happy home. Mr. Harry was told about his wife's experiment and he gives her the credit of having restored him to his senses. It is certainly a remarkable remedy, cures a man without his effort, does him no harm and causes him no suffering whatever.

Dr. Haines, the discoverer will send a sample of this grand remedy free to all who will write for it. Enough of the remedy is mailed free to show how it is used in tea, coffee or food and that it will cure the dreaded habit quickly and permanently. Send your name and address to Dr. J. W. Haines, 177 Glenn building, Cincinnati, Ohio, and he will mail a free sample of the remedy to you, securely sealed in a plain wrapper, also full directions how to use it, books and testimonials from hundreds who have been cured, and everything needed to aid you in saving those dear to you from a life of degradation and ultimate poverty and disgrace.

Send for a free trial today. It will brighten the rest of your life.

BIG PROPERTY SOLD.

M. C. French of Superior Closes Deal For AL115 Location.

M. C. French, of West Superior, bought AL115, known as the Randolph property, adjoining the Golden Star mine in the Seine River gold district, from George and Edward Randolph and Neil Burgess, who were the original owners of the Golden Star property. The deal was consummated last evening. The consideration was upwards of $40,000, it is understood.

Mr. French has behind him W. R. Fanning and Charles H. Sunderland, besides other people who are well known on both sides of the bay. The property will be capitalized at $1,000,000. The work of sinking shafts on the property will be begun at once.

The report made on the property by Julius Ropes, of Ishpeming, Mich., in 1895, was more favorable to AL115 than to the Golden Star, and what he stated as to the Golden Star has proven true.

Several Buffalo parties, several at the head of the lakes, and the Canadian syndicate, headed by the Hon. George E. Foster, were all after the property sold to Mr. French.

Case Is Not Serious.

Sheriff Nelson of Lake county left last night for Fergus Falls with Thomas Hannon, of Two Harbors, who was adjudged insane yesterday afternoon at an examination held by Judge of Probate Middlecoff and Dr. Bowers at the city jail. Hannon's mind is in very bad shape, his insanity taking on alternate phases of noisy and excited behavior and melancholy. He worries over money matters, thinks he is the deity, and hi smania seems to be increasing. It is thought that his case will yield to treatment.

Has Not Been Dropped.

County Attorney Halden returned this morning from St. Paul. He inquired while he was there about the bill for the apportionment of the gross earnings taxes received from the railroads by the state, and the members of the Duluth delegation told him that the bill would be introduced as soon as the other tax matters are out of the way. Nothing having been heard from the matter for some time, it had been supposed that it had been suffered to drop.

Akey swore out a search warrant for the document yesterday and it was found at Polinsky's place, No. 501 West Superior street. The court ordered it returned to the complainant.

DULUTH'S TAX BILLS

City Officials Return From a Conference Held With the Delegation.

CANNOT BE DIVIDED

Members Are Confident That Assessments Must Go Into the Tax Sale.

The mayor, city treasurer and Alderman Krumsieg returned this morning from their trip to St. Paul to confer with the Duluth delegation in regard to the forfeited tax and refunding bills. As to the former, the committee found that the delegation was firmly set in the opinion that to pass an amendment as to the assessments in judgment to divide them from the general taxes would be to invalidate the judgment. As legal opinion seemed divided on the question, and, in the opinion of the committee, it might be difficult to arrive at a satisfactory agreement between the city, county and school board, the committee concluded that it would be best to acquiesce.

The mayor said this morning that he thought that the city would be amply protected by the amendment to the law providing for a refund with 3 per cent interest in case the judgment under which sale should be made was set aside, because of the effect it would have in stimulating bidding.

The delegation also promised the committee to favor a bill allowing the issuance of interest-bearing certificates against the tax levy to the extent or not over 50 per cent thereof. The mayor is of the opinion that this, or even 40 per cent, would do. The delegation expressed surprise at the committee's statement as to the shape the city would be in under the funding bill unless the power to issue certificates was given, and readily promised to work for a bill granting such power. With what could be realized from this source and the money paid into the water fund, the mayor thinks that all needed extensions of the water system could be made. The city could not buy the West Duluth plant, but the mayor said that he would rather give that up than lose the benefits of the law.

As to the county commissioners' plan for settling delinquent taxes, the state auditor told the committee that he would consider the recommendations of the committee appointed by the council on applications for reduction together with those of the county commissioners, so that the city's interests will be kept in view.

City Treasurer Voss has a plan to relieve property owners who cannot pay the interest and costs to obtain an extension of assessments from the danger of losing their property under the sale May 1. He proposes allowing an extension for five years without the payment of the interest and costs as a condition precedent. A bill embodying his idea will be presented to the council Monday night if prepared in time. The assessments contemplated in the plan are those not certified up to the auditor. The property covered by them is in the heart of the city and amply good for the assessments, the city treasurer says.

It is reported that another amendment to the forfeited tax law has been made up and sent to St. Paul for introduction into the legislature. This bill, it is said, provides for an extension of the period of redemption from the sale of one year. The law as it stands provides for no redemption except on taxes for 1898. The authors of the bill are said to be the ones who have been opposing the bill providing for a refunding of the money paid if the sale is proved invalid.

Andrew Casper, of Two Harbors, was arraigned before Judge Edson this morning on the charge of defrauding William Carlson out of $5 on a check drawn by Casper on the Bank of Two Harbors, Casper having an account there. The accused pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $40 and costs or go to jail for forty days. He was committed. Casper was arrested at Two Harbors yesterday by Deputy Sheriff George Randall.

The Booth Boats.

Hiram R. Dixon—Jacob Hector, captain; E. C. Smith, mate; James E. Evans, engineer.

Hunter—E. S. Smith, captain; George Belloir, engineer.

Barker—Will not go into commission until midsummer.

The steamer Dixon will this year carry mail from Duluth to north shore points instead of from Two Harbors, as heretofore. This will save about a day in transmission of mail, both up and down lake. Both steamers will run on practically same schedule as heretofore.

Stamp Collectors' Club.

Duluth stamp collectors are talking over the project of organizing a Philatelic club, and it is quite probable one may be formed at an early day. Duluth has some thirty or more collections which number up in the thousands, and among the best in the city are those of Dr. Homer Collins, the Fred Koors estate and that of a newspaper man. It is proposed to have only an adult membership of ladies and gentlemen, and to hold monthly meetings at the houses or homes of the members at which stamps, the different methods of collecting and other philatelic items will be talked over.

Flour Cases to Be Again Taken Up In the District Court.

ACKERMAN'S TRIAL

Will Be the First on---Woollen Divorce Case Is Finally Closed.

Tomorrow the flour cases will be resumed in district court, and it is expected that their trials will proceed until all of them are finished. The first case to be taken up will probably be that against James A. Ackerman, the driver for the Fitzsimmons-Derrig company, who was indicted for receiving stolen property. He is accused of having purchased 1000 pounds of the stolen property from John Casey, knowing it to have been stolen by him. Oscar Mitchell will defend him.

The jury in the case against Nels Erickson yesterday afternoon brought in a verdict of guilty of assault in the second degree. No other cases were ready for trial this morning, so nothing was done in Judge Moer's court this forenoon.

The divorce case of Morton Woollen against Eugenia Woollen went to the jury this afternoon after a trial marked by more washing of disgustingly dirty linen than any the district court has witnessed for some time. The evidence was all in this morning and the addresses to the jury were begun this forenoon.

The personal injury case of John McLeod against King & Steele was still on trial before Judge Ensign in room No. 2 this morning, the defendants' testimony being in progress. It was not expected that the case would go to the jury before tomorrow morning. There are only four civil jury cases remaining to be tried.

JOHN PANTON RETURNS.

Glass Block Receiving Big Shipments as a Result.

John Panton returned last evening after a six weeks' absence in the Eastern markets, spending most of the time in New York, Philadelphia and Boston. When seen by a Herald reporter this afternoon he was as busy as could be, surrounded by the heads of the different departments of the big store, handing out invoice after invoice of what he says is the biggest stock he ever bought.

"Business is good everywhere—that is the conclusion one must come to after meeting merchants and buyers from all parts of the country," he said. "As for Panton & White, they have prepared for the biggest trade ever done at the head of the lakes. Our stocks this season will be more varied and finer than ever before, and buying in the quantities we have, our prices will be a surprise to Northwestern competition. Politics you hear little of. One of the largest Eastern wholesalers said to me that Minnesota had done her self proud in returning Senator Cushman Davis without a dissenting vote, and that it was a grand thing for the state in commercial circles."

THE SHIP-BUILDING COMBINE.

Among Other Things Authorized to Mine Iron Ore.

Trenton, N. J., March 16.—The American Shipbuilding company was incorporated here today with capital stock of $30,000,000. The objects of the company, as stated in the papers, are the building and equipment of ships, vessels, wharves and docks, and the transportation of freight and passengers, and also manufacturing and mining of all kinds; the assumption being that the company is not only to build its vessels, but to mine the ore for the building of ships. The combination originated in Ohio, and is said to include all the shipyards on the lakes. It is also stated, but with less authenticity, that the lake shipping interests are also included. The net capital stock of the company is divided into $15,000,000 preferred, with 7 per cent non-cumulative dividends and $15,000,000 of common stock. The incorporators are James B. Dill, Fred W. Klein and W. T. Coleman.

BATTLE IN THE NORTH

Americans and Canadian Miners Fight and Four Men are Killed.

Fears That There Will Be Another Conflict With Canadian Officers.

New York, March 17.—A special from Vancouver, B. C., says: Carl Slumnerfelt, a German, who was a passenger on board the steamer Tees, which has arrived here from the Lynn canal, brought the news that a battle had been fought between American and Canadian miners a few miles off the Dalton trail. Four men are reported to have been killed outright and a number of others are said to have been seriously wounded.

When the alien mining law of British Columbia was enforced a few months ago the American miners left Atlin, the new Canadian gold district, and struck north. They found a short distance off the Dalton trail, on the Porcupine river, a district rich in placer gold. It was generally conceded that the new placers were in American territory, and the miners vowed that no Canadian should stake a claim. Some Canadian mounted police, however, did stake claims in the American territory and justified their action by moving the Canadian flag from Mount Pleasant on the trail so as to make the line take in a rich part of the district. They were followed by at least forty Canadian miners, who all located good claims. A fortnight ago about 100 American miners held a meeting and decided to send notice to all Canadians to leave the country within five days. The notices were sent out, but no heed was paid to them.

Slummerfelt, who left the Porcupine River district two weeks ago, says: "Early on the morning of the sixth day the American miners met and proceeded to the Canadian camp. I don't believe they intended bloodshed, although they were fully armed. Before they could even state the object of their visit some one, I don't know from which party, fired a shot, and then every one seemed to be shooting. Several rounds were fired and four men were killed outright, an American and three Canadians.

"The battle was very brief and resulted in the Canadians, about fifty in number, flying across the border. The Americans then retired to their own camp. I was informed that the following Americans were leaders in the battle, but cannot say for certain: C. G. Lewis and Charles Leitch, of Los Angeles; W. Shevean, Minnesota; A. McConaghy, Chicago, and F. Will Borough, of Denver.

"I did not ascertain the names of the killed. From my location, about fifteen miles north of the Porcupine river, I heard that a squad of Canadian Northwest mounted police had left Lake Tagish for the Porcupine, the news of the fight having reached them. The Americans are determined and I fear there will be another conflict.

"There is no doubt in my mind that that the new district is in American territory."

Slummerfelt's story is unconfirmed, but reports received here about two weeks ago from the district predicted a clash if the Candians did not leave the territory.

THE TRADE SMALL.

Washington, March 17.—Some indication of the actual trade of the Ladrone islands, whose commercial status has been lost sight of in published statistics about the East, is given in figures included in a recent report of Chief Frank H. Hitchcock of the foreign markets section of the agricultural department on the trade of the Philippines. The figures, fragmentary at best, are mostly combined with other islands. It is known that the imports in the United States from the Ladrones and the Caroline Islands combined in 1897 had a value of $54,47, in 1887, ten years previously, of $3823.

The only available figure as to exports is for 1899, when the exports from the United States into the Ladrones and the Carolines footed up $8884. What trade the Ladrones have is naturally mostly with other Pacific islands.

Western Australia exported to Guam, to the Ladrones, $108,881 of domestic merchandise in 1887 and but $15,187 in 1892, and foreign merchandise fluctuated from $15 in 1887 to $245 in 1894. The total exports from Western Australia to Guam in 1896 were $157,139. Exports from New South Wales to Guam increased from $8915 of domestic merchandise in 1889 to $15,145 in 1891, and in 1896 the foreign merchandise exported to Guam was only $19.

Although Victoria's commerce with the Philippines during 1887-97 was extremely small, exports of considerable value were sent to Guam. In 1892-96 the average annual value of the merchandise, foreign and domestic, shipped from Victoria to Guam reached as high as $868,209. Domestic merchandise shipped from Victoria to Guam is mainly wheat, wheat flour and biscuits. The total exports to Guam from Queensland were $2789 in 1889 and $20 in 1890 of domestic merchandise, and of foreign merchandise just $10 in 1892.

New Zealand does a better business, however, her shipments to Guam footing up $14,531 in 1893 of domestic merchandise and $63 of foreign merchandise in 1896. The foreign merchandise in 1895 scored only $5. Oats, wheat, potatoes and lumber were the principal of these export items.

NEW LINE TO DULUTH

The St. Paul Road Is Seeking an Outlet For Grain.

Milwaukee, March 17.—The Daily News says: The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway company is planning to build a direct line from St. Paul to Duluth, as an outlet for the big wheat belt of the Northwest, and giving the company a cheap water route by the great wheat shipping center to the East.

Charles W. Sheldon, of this city, one of the civil engineers in the employ of the road, left this city with a surveying party to make the preliminary survey for the new line.

The object of the St. Paul road in building this line is evident. It will give them a shorter and cheaper route from the Northwestern wheat belt. At present the Great Northern and Northern Pacific carry the greater quantity of wheat grown in Minnesota and the Dakotas to Duluth for shipment to eastern points by the lakes. If the proposed line is constructed the St. Paul road will be able to enter into competition with these roads for this lucrative freight.

All the plans for the new line have been quietly made at the general offices of the company in Chicago and up to this time not an inkling of them has leaked out.

"LONG JOHN" HEALY DEAD.

Was a Famous Baseball Pitcher Several Years Ago.

St. Louis, March 17.—John Healy who, ten years ago, was known as a great baseball pitcher and familiarly designated as "Long John" Healy, is dead in this city of consumption. In 1887 he was one of the American players who made the trip around the world and played in Europe, Asia and Australia. He quit the diamond ten years ago and became a St. Louis policeman, but was obliged to give up his position last year on account of ill health.

VICTIM OF HAZING.

James J. Mount Will Be a Life-Long Invalid, It Is Claimed.

Chicago, March 17. Hazing as practiced at the Chicago College of Dental Surgery may make James J. Mount of the class of 1903 an invalid for life, if it does not cause results even more serious. He is now in the Presbyterian hospital. The cords of his neck are injured and the doctors think he has been hurt internally.

Mount is the victim of the custom of "passing up." "Passing up" consists in seizing a man in the class room and passing him from one tier of seats to the one just above or below until the outer or inner circle of the seats occupied by the class during a clinic is reached. Then the victim is started on a journey in the opposite direction. Student Mount belongs to the freshman class. He has been ill for some time but during the hazing process he was tossed back and forth from tier to tier of seats and then shot down to the floor, where he lost consciousness.

Mount's parents reside in Petersburg, Ind. The faculty of the college have suspended six students for complicity in the hazing and more are threatened.

TO CALL UPON WILLIAM.

King of Sweden and Norway to Visit Potsdam.

Chicago, March 17.—A Stockholm cable to the Record says: It is announced that King Oscar, who is now in France, will call upon Emperor William at Potsdam on his way home to Stockholm. Wednesday his majesty visited Paul, the home of the Bernadotte family.

A commission under the leadership of M. Bogdanovitch of the engineer corps of the Russian army has just returned to St. Petersburg from Eastern Siberia, M. Bogdanovitch reports finding large deposits of gold, and expresses the belief that another Klondike may be developed on the Russian side of Behring strait.

WILL SIGN THE TREATY.

Queen Regent Dissolves the Cortes and Convokes New Parliament.

Madrid, March 17.—The queen regent will sign the ratification of the peace treaty with the United States today.

The queen regent last night signed the decrees dissolving the cortes, convoking the new parliament and authorizing the payment of arrears of pay to repatriated troops.

"OLD HUTCH" NO MORE.

The Famous Board of Trade Operator Passes Away.

Chicago, March 17.—Benjamin P. Hutchinson, at one time the leading grain speculator in the United States, died last night at Lake Geneva.

Benjamin P. Hutchinson, the former board of trade operator and packer, died of heart failure at 5:30 o'clock last evening at the Lakeside sanitarium, Lake Geneva, Wis. He was 70 years old. The remains will be brought to Chicago for interment. Mr. Hutchinson's health began to fail rapidly three years ago and during the last two years he has been at the sanitarium, where he died.

Mr. Hutchinson was at the height of his fame in 1888, when he ran his corner in September wheat. After that his decline began, and the financial end came in 1891. His last deal was a big one, he being on the wrong side of the market for $2,000,000. Financially crushed, he left town and went to New York city, where he opened a second-hand store. He gave that up and returned to Chicago, where he traded in a small way when he could get people interested in his schemes, but his career may be said to have closed with the big deal of '91.

None knew how much he was worth. He would never talk about private affairs. The estimates of his wealth, when at its height, place the amount anywhere from $2,000,000 to $16,000,000. A conservative estimate places his richest days at $4,000,000 to $6,000,000.

DYING OF SCURVY.

Many People Are Sick of the Disease at Copper Center.

Seattle, Wash., March 17.—Passengers who arrived from Copper river, Alaska, on the steamer Excelsior say that scurvy is reported to be present in all the camps in the interior, and many miners are coming to the coast either to escape it or to recover from its effects. Six deaths have occurred during the winter in the Copper river district. They are: S. Milligan, Los Angeles; John Rohr, Honolulu; Nick Urban, Pittsburg, Pa.; Jack Haden, San Jose, Cal.; D. G. Cushman, Mendville, Mo.; Dan Manard, Meadville, Mo.

At Copper Center there are twenty scurvy patients in the hospital. The last report from Dr. Townsend was to the effect that they were all improving, and that he expected no further fatalities. Among the sick are the following: W. O. G. Cullick, Warrenburg, Mo.; Dan Cashman, Chicago; Dr. Winslow, Los Angeles; Joe Markowitz, San Francisco; Valentine Sipick, Santa Fe, N. M.; George Costey, Hartford, Conn.; Samuel Brady, Elliott, Iowa; George Lowe, Elliott, Iowa; Judan Mueller, Miami, Fla., and W. B. Crane, Lee Summit, Mo.

WOLCOTT WALLOPS EDWARDS.

The Colored Pugilist Too Much For the Australian.

New York, March 17.—Joe Wolcott, the colored pugilist, knocked out Billy Edwards, of Australia, at the Broadway Athletic club last night in the thirteenth round of what was to have been a 20-round bout.

The men met at 148 pounds and Wolcott was a very pronounced favorite in the betting. The colored man was the aggressor and outpointed the Australian. Edwards exhibited remarkable gameness and staying powers, but the onslaughts of the negro were too much for him, and after going down thrice in the thirteenth round was knocked out.

Both men looked to be in excellent shape. Wolcott was a 2 to 1 favorite in the betting.

Beginning the twelfth round the men rushed to a clinch, after which Edwards sent in a hard left on the wind. Wolcott returned with a right on the ribs and a left smash on the face, forcing Edwards to the ropes, where the referee had to pull them apart. Edwards met Wolcott suddenly with a right swing on the jaw which sent Joe staggering fully ten feet to the ropes. Edwards was too tired to follow up, and Wolcott came back to him like a cyclone, mixing it up until the gong sounded.

Edwards landed a left swing on Wolcott's head in the thirteenth, but Joe sent back a left on the face which put Edwards on his back. Nine seconds elapsed before Edwards got up. Wolcott got him at close quarters and sent him down again with a left on the body and fell on top of him. As soon as they shaped again Wolcott rushed and jabbed his left to the face, following it up quickly with a right on the point of the jaw, which sent Edwards down and out with his head hanging over the bottom rope. Edwards had to be carried to his corner, where he soon rallied. Time of round, 2:48.

OTHER PUGILISTIC EVENTS.

At Philadelphia Peter Maher knocked out Charles Stevenson at Industrial hall in the second round of what was to have been a 6-round bout. Stevenson was knocked down twice in the first round, and after being dropped twice in the next round was too weak to continue, and the referee stopped the bout. Stevenson is a local man of no general repute in the listic arena.

At Cleveland "Doc" Payne defeated Jack Baty, of Buffalo, in seven rounds. Baty made a good fight at the start, but failed to respond in the seventh.

At Memphis, Tenn., Paddy Purtell, of Kansas City, and James Scanlan, of Pittsburg, met in a 20-round glove contest at the Auditorium, under the auspices of the Bluff City Athletic club. It ended in a draw.

TRACK RESTORED.

Atlanta, March 17—The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis road has restored its track near Rogers, Ga., and tariffs is proceeding as usual. One piece of the bridge at Hartsville was washed away. Superintendent McCallom says it was the greatest flood ever known along the creek.

DUEL IN A STREET

Officials of Hot Springs, Ark., Engage In a Shooting Affray.

FIVE WERE KILLED

The Row Was a Result of an Exciting Election Contest.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 17.—A shooting affray occurred here at 5:30 yesterday afternoon which resulted in the death of five men and the serious wounding of another. The killed are:

Thomas Toler, chief of police.

J. E. Hart, city detective.

Thomas F. Goslee, police sergeant.

John Williams, son of Sheriff Williams.

Louis Hinkle, driver of a brewery wagon.

Ed Spears, a deputy sheriff, was shot in the neck and may die.

The shooting grew out of the mayoralty contest under way here. The sheriff was a warm supporter of the regular Democratic nominee, while Toler, Hart and Goslee suported a Republican candidate.

Early in the afternoon shots were exchanged between the sheriff and his son John, on the one side, and Sergt. Goslee on the other, but no one was injured. After this both parties determined to have it out.

Toler, Hart and Goslee were together walking south on Central avenue at 5:30 o'clock when they met Sheriff Williams and his two sons, John and Coffey, and Ed Spears, a deputy sheriff.

No one can tell who fired the first shot, but in a moment there was a general fusillade in which forty or fifty shots were exchanged.

When it was over Toler, Hart, Goslee and Hinkle, a non-combatant, were dead, and John Williams mortally wounded. He died about an hour later. Louis Hinkle attempted to separate the combatants and was shot in the head, dying instantly.

The mayor soon after the shooting appointed Judge L. D. Beldin, chief of police. Deputies were sworn in at once and all saloons ordered closed. There is little factional feeling outside of those engaged in the shooting. Order was easily restored and the city is now quiet.

The sheriff and his son Coffey are under arrest and no further trouble is anticipated.

Sheriff Williams says a policeman attempted to assassinate him yesterday afternoon and a bystander disarmed him. The sheriff says he was not present when the fight took place. He claims he did not reach the scene until the shooting was over and that the policeman who attempted to assassinate him in the afternoon began the trouble last night by shooting his son John.

The Daily News in a late extra says that Sheriff Williams was not present when the battle occurred, but soon appeared and on learning of the death of his son became frantic with rage. About twenty minutes after the main battle another affray occurred nearby in which four or five shots were fired. In this fusillade Detective Jim Hart went down with the whole top of his skull blown off. All of the dead men have large families.

IN SEARCH OF HIS WIFE.

Charles Smith of Eagle River, Wis In Hot Pursuit.

Biwabik, Minn., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—A man giving the name of Charles Smith, of Eagle River, Wis., passed through here yesterday in search of his wife, who left Eagle River about two weeks ago in company with Smith's hired man. He traced the couple to Sparta, but when he arrived there he learned they had left several days before his arrival for Iron River, Wis. Smith started at once for Iron River, where he hopes to locate the pair and secure his little daughter, who accompanied his wife, and to whom he seems greatly attached. About $700 of Smith's cash is also missing.

W. J. Olcott, in a Duluth, Missabe & Northern private car, was in town a short time yesterday. Mr. Olcott was accompanied by a party looking over the various mines.

CROWN PRINCE SNUBBED.

Norwegians Do Not Like a Recent Remark He Made.

Christiania, March 17.—Sixty Leftist members of the storthing, the legislative assembly of Norway, have declined an invitation to dine with the Swedish crown prince, Gustaf, who is acting as regent of Sweden and Norway during the absence of King Oscar II, who is in Southern France, seeking to recuperate his health.

The refusal of the Norwegian legislators to accept the hospitality of the regent is doubly significant, as emphasizing the resentment provoked in Norway by a recent saying of the crown prince in a public meeting at Stockholm—that he would not object to leading the Swedes against the headstrong Norwegians in a resort to arms to settle the quarrel between the two countries—and as the most striking indication of open enmity to Sweden that has been shown in Christiania of late.

FATAL ROW OVER POLITICS.

A Negro and White Man Killed at St Louis.

St. Louis, March 17.—In a fight over candidates last night at Grand avenue and Natural Bridge road, "Bud" Price, a negro, and Edward Osterhide were shot and almost instantly killed. It is alleged that the ex-detective, Jack Williams, did the shooting. The shooting took place in front of a saloon and a number of shots were fired into the crowd that had collected, but Price and Osterhide were the only persons hit.

REPORTS OF SPECIAL COMMITTEES.

To the Common Council of the City of Duluth:
Gentlemen: Your committee to whom was referred the matter of the proposed reduction of delinquent taxes embraced in what is known as the "forfeited tax list," as proposed by a resolution adopted by the board of county commissioners of St. Louis county, Minnesota, would respectfully report that we have considered the matter and we recommend the adoption of the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, the board of county commissioners of the county of St. Louis, has adopted a resolution proposing the reduction of all delinquent taxes upon real estate within said county, in manner and form as follows:

By Commissioner Kugler:
Resolved, that this board will, and hereby does, favorably recommend to the state auditor the acceptance of the amount to be deposited as hereinafter provided for, and the reduction to such amount of, unpaid and unsatisfied taxes on lands in St. Louis county included in the forfeited tax list published or filed pursuant to Chapter 290 of the laws of 1897, for the years included in such list and the years 1896 and 1897, provided that a petition for such reduction shall be filed with the county auditor on or before April 20, 1899, and the petitioner on or before said day shall deposit with the county treasurer in cash, certified check or certificate of deposit a sum equal to 50 per cent of the tax for the year 1898, for each year the land described in such petition is delinquent and the tax thereon is unpaid or unsatisfied, but this resolution is not to be construed as including the Spalding hotel property covered by a previous resolution adopted this day.

Commissioner Kugler moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted upon the following vote:
Yeas—Commissioners Kugler, Berg, Kauppi and Chairman Morcom.
Absent—Commissioner Williams.

And whereas, the city of Duluth, its schools and other public departments, is vitally interested in all of such delinquent taxes assessed on real estate within its limits; much the greater part of which delinquent taxes including large sums levied as special assessments for public improvement belong to said city of Duluth.

And whereas, certain real estate within the business and residence portion of Duluth is delinquent in the payment of said taxes, and embraced in said forfeited list, some of which real estate has not within the last five years of depression—in the opinion of your committee—relatively depreciated in value equal to the outlying real estate within said city of Duluth; that as to said business and residence real estate, therefore if reductions of those taxes are granted according to the rule adopted by said board of county commissioners, discrimination and injustice may result, and said real estate may escape its just share of taxation.

Now, therefore, to the end that the interests of the city of Duluth be more fully protected and that no injustice or discrimination be caused in the collection of said taxes, and that valuable and productive real estate should bear its equal proportion of taxes,

Be it resolved, by the common council of the city of Duluth, that it does hereby enter its protest against the carrying out of the rule for the payment of the taxes upon real estate within the city of Duluth embraced in what is known as the forfeited tax list pursuant to Chapter 290 of laws of 1897, as proposed by the board of county commissioners as above set forth.

That the common council of the city of Duluth does hereby recommend to the said board of county commissioners that it modify the above mentioned resolution to the effect that the consent or approval of the common council of the city of Duluth, by its proper officer or officers designate for that purpose, be first obtained, by the approval, disapproval or modification of all applications or petitions for reductions of taxes upon real estate within the city of Duluth, embraced in said forfeited tax list, before the same are sent or presented to the state auditor for his approval.

And it be further resolved, that the state auditor be requested not to sanction or approve any petition or application for such reductions as to real estate within the city of Duluth, without evidence of the consent, modification or disapproval of the common council of the city of Duluth being endorsed upon or accompanying the same.

And be it further resolved, that ——— be and are hereby designated as persons to examine and make the proper report, indorsements and certification upon all such applications or petitions to the state auditor for such reductions of taxes as above set forth. And that a certified copy of the foregoing preamble and resolutions be by the city clerk transmitted to the board of county commissioners and to the state auditor.
THEO. M. KRUMSIEG,
HENRY TRUELSEN,
J. R. CAREY,
Committee.

Alderman Krumsieg moved the adoption of the resolution. Alderman Carey moved that the name of T. B. Hawkes, city assessor, be inserted in the blank left for that purpose to examine and make a proper report, etc.

Alderman Cromwell moved that William S. McCormick city comptroller, be also inserted to act in conjunction with the city assessor. With the consent of the second Alderman Carey accepted the amendment.

Alderman Neff moved to refer the resolution back to the committee to district the city and report a basis of definite discount for specific districts, and that in the meantime the state auditor be requested to not take action on any petitions without the approval of the city assessor and city comptroller endorsed thereon.

The amendment was declared lost upon the following vote:
Yeas—Aldermen Cromwell, Neff—2.
Nays—Aldermen Barnes, Carey, Crowley, Cullum, Griffin, Krumsieg, Nelson, Sang, Schaffer, Swenson, Trevillion, Watterworth, Wing, Mr. President—14.

Alderman Sang moved as a further amendment that Aldermen Krumsieg and Carey and Henry Truelsen, mayor, be also added, making a committee of five to examine and make a proper report, etc., and the amendment was declared carried upon the following vote:

Calls the Beaten Men Heroes Who Fought Against Great Odds.

"Combates y Capitulacion de Santiago de Cuba" is the title which Lieut. Jose Mullery Tejeiro, second in command of the Spanish naval force of the province of Santiago de Cuba, gives to his book, which describes the recent campaign in Cuba.

Lieut. Tejeiro was stationed at Santiago de Cuba before the arrival of Admiral Cervera's fleet, and was cognizant of all of the subsequent operations. He describes in detail the departure of the fleet from Santiago de Cuba, and by means of his diary is able to give a daily report of the doings of the besieged city. The book, which is dedicated "to the memory of the heroes who died, victims of their duty, at Santiago de Cuba," was written with the sole hope of showing to Spain the manner in which her soldiers fought and died for their flag.

The story which Lieut. Tejeiro relates is one of Spanish neglect and bravery. He points out—not, however, for the first time—the true condition of Cervera's fleet. He tells how the coal bunkers were nearly all empty, how the majority of the guns on the ships were useless, and how even the ammunition with which the men were supposed to defend their flag was nearly all damaged.

All on board the doomed fleet knew the exact condition of affairs, yet they went without a murmur to their death. The gallant manner in which they did this more than justifies Lieut. Tejeiro in claiming July 3 as a glorious day for Spain. Lieut. Tejeiro's diary contains every movement of the fleet upon its departure from Santiago de Cuba and its entering into combat. In it and under date of July 3 he says:

"The hostile fleet in sight, about five miles distant, at 9:45 o'clock the Spanish fleet went out. Shortly after a violent cannonading was heard. At 10:40 o'clock the Morro signaled, 'The Spanish fleet is fighting in wing formation at Punta Cabrera. The enemy does not have the range, and it seems as though they would escape. The American fleet is composed of the Brooklyn, Indiana, Iowa, Texas, Massachusetts, Oregon, and one yacht. The ships from Aguadores have come to assist in the battle.'

"At 11:15 o'clock no more firing was heard. At 12:30 o'clock the Morro again signaled, 'When our fleet went out it did so very slowly. After the four large ships had gone out the destroyers followed, and all of the American ships fell upon them. Our fleet resisted the attack, and the destroyers hurried to its assistance. Near Punta Cabrera, however, one of them took fire and ran ashore. The other kept up a strong fire, and when all hope was gone lowered her boats, full of men. One of these reached the beach, the other was captured. Upon leaving the destroyer the crew set fire to it, and she ran aground, burning.'

"When our fleet passed Punta Cabrera one of the ships apparently the Teresa went close to the shore and a great deal of smoke was seen. The Iowa and New York were pursuing her and the others followed.

"At 2 o'clock an English warship was signaled to the south. At 3 o'clock the Morro said that the ships which pursued our fleet were twenty-four in all, fifteen warships, armored and unarmored, the others merchant vessels equipped for war."

In a more detailed account which he received that night from one of the wounded sailors, the author says:

"The Spanish ships, which necessarily had to go out in line ahead, received as each went out the fire from all the American ships, which they could not return until they had passed the bank of Diamante, because they could not present their broadside and consequently their guns to the enemy. Therefore, as long as they were in the channel they sustained a terrible fire.

"They, however, reached the open seas without sustaining much damage. The Vizcaya, which was the fastest ship, but had not had her bottom cleaned during many months, was making only thirteen miles, and the other ships had to regulate their speed by hers, in order to preserve the line.

"I suppose from what has happened, and taking into account the order of the sortie, that Admiral Cervera intended to protect the retreat of the Vizcaya, accompanied by the Colon, which did not have her turret guns mounted, with the Oquendo and Maria Teresa, then have the latter, by putting on forced draught, rejoin the former. His plan, however, did not succeed. The Oquendo and Maria Teresa caught fire, and were soon converted into an immense blaze, going aground on the coast, the latter about seven miles from Santiago harbor, with the Oquendo close by. The Vizcaya took fire and stranded twenty miles up the coast, while the Colon managed to get forty miles further down the coast.

"Such was the hecatomb (for there is no other name for it) of our ill-fated fleet. I do not believe that history records another like it. Not a single ship was saved from the catastrophe. The commanders and officers of all the ships knew well what was going to happen, when, calm and serene in spite of everything, they bade each other farewell as the ships left the harbor."

A fine pen picture is given of a gallant gentleman when Miguel Lopez, who piloted the Teresa, describes Admiral Cervera on his flagship under fire. Lopez relates the story:

"I was in the forward tower at the side of the admiral, who was as calm as though his ship was at anchor in the harbor. He never took his eyes off the hostile fleet.

"'Pilot, when may we shift the helm?' he asked, after a few moments. He had reference to turning to starboard which could only be done after we had passed the Diamante bank. We were nearing it.

"'Pilot, advise me when we may shift the helm,' he repeated.

"'I will tell you, admiral,' I replied.

"'Admiral, you may now shift the helm,' I cried a minute later.

"Instantly the admiral, without becoming excited and without shouting, said: 'To starboard; then fire!'

"Simultaneously the ten turret guns and three of the port battery fired on a ship which seemed to me to be the Indiana. I never heard such a noise. I thought the ship was sinking. Words fail me to describe my sensations. By this time many had been killed and wounded, and I believe, despite the water that was in the ship, that she was already on fire. The admiral turned to me and said:

"'Good-by, pilot. Go now. Be sure that they pay you, for you have earned your money.' Then the admiral turned once more to his men."

Chapter twenty-eight is devoted to the "causes of the loss of the naval battle of Santiago de Cuba." In it the author says that he is surprised at the duration of the battle and at the escape of the Spanish fleet from total destruction while it was in the channel. He says that all the officers on the ships foretold the loss of the ships when orders were received at the Cape Verde islands to start for Cuba. Admiral Cervera so advised his government, and the official telegrams are still in existence. The greater part of the coal which the ships contained when at Cape Verde islands was used in the voyage to Santiago. Lieut. Tejeiro points out how useless was Cervera's attempt at escape. He says that if the ships had been in a cleaner condition, and had more coal in their bunkers, they might possibly have escaped. He praises Cervera for the manner in which he managed to bring his fleet to Santiago de Cuba. He says that every one believed it then to be safe.

"By everybody," he says, "I do not mean the public only, but also the official element. Could there be any better proof that Admiral Cervera complied with the wishes of his government?

"The fleet received definite orders from the captain general to leave the harbor, which, in spite of the admiral's protests, were reiterated. After that what was to be done? Only one thing. Go out to death, as, indeed, they did, those heroes, for they deserve no other name, calm and serene.

"Calm and serene they were, and I shall repeat it always, for only by men in that condition can ships be maneuvered, without any of them running aground, in so dangerous and narrow a channel. The sortie of these ships, under the circumstances in which it was effected, I do not hesitate to call the greatest act of valor, fearlessness, skill, intelligence and practical experience in seamanship that can be conceived. This statement is borne out by the officers of the English corvette Alert and the Austrian cruiser Maria Teresa, who, it may be said, witnessed the battle.

"But there is much more to be added in order to explain what happened in the battle at Santiago, the greater part of which is not known to the people of Spain.

"I have already said that the Colon, the only really protected ship of the four, did not have her turret guns. Of the 14-cm. guns of the Teresa, Oquendo and Vizcaya, which are the ones that did most of the firing, six had been declared useless; and while the Teresa could change hers, the Oquendo and Vizcaya could not do so, and had to fight, the former with one, the latter with two useless guns.

"Moreover, the supply of ammunition for the ships was inadequate, the Teresa having seventy useless charges. The greater part of the primers were no good, and consequently the guns did not go off; the breech plugs were imperfect, so that after the second or third shot they no longer closed. The firing pins blew out, and from many of the survivors I have learned that a number of the men were wounded by their own pieces.

"The majority of the shells did not have the required diameter, and in the Maria Teresa it so happened that seven had to be thrown aside before one good one could be found.

"After what I have written, can the result of the battle of Santiago be wondered at? Certainly not. The only thing that may appear strange is that, under such conditions, a fleet should have been sent out to the scene of war."

Lieut. Tejeiro compares the battle of Santiago to the one of Trafalgar in 1805. He says:

"We are proud of the disaster of Trafalgar on account of the heroism which our navy showed. The battle of Santiago de Cuba is much more glorious to us even than the one of 1805. In the latter battle thirty-two allied ships of 64, 80 and 120 guns fought with twenty-eight English ships, also of 120, 80 and 64 guns. In the battle of Santiago six ships (if the Pluton and Furor may be called such) had to fight against twenty-four that were better protected and armed."

According to Lieut. Tejeiro, the Reina Mercedes was sunk by its own crew. This was done in order to close the mouth of the harbor, which had been left open by the removal of six torpedoes. All the wounded and the valuable papers and instruments were removed from the doomed ship to the steamer Mejico.

The Mercedes left the harbor at 11:30 o'clock on the night of July 4. She was instantly discovered by the American fleet, which began a terrific fire. "Nevertheless," says the author, "the ship went down at the designated place. Unfortunately, a shot from the enemy severed one of her anchor chains and she swung around to one side, leaving the port open and making her sacrifice a useless one. However, the sinking of the Mercedes prevented her from falling into the hands of the enemy."

The author discusses in detail the battles of El Caney and San Juan in chapter 24. Under the date of July 1 in his diary he says:

"At 7 o'clock the sounds of cannon and musketry firing were heard in the direction of Plaza de Marte (east of the city).

"The enemy has a captive balloon from which it observed our movements. The American fleet has opened fire. The majority of the projectiles clear the city. Some, however, have landed in the city, a few without exploding. A 20-centimeter shell which fell in the house of the chief pilot of the harbor did not explode. Several persons have been wounded and many houses injured. The ships which are firing from Aguadores are the New York and Oregon. The streets of the town are nearly all deserted. Occasionally regulars and volunteers are seen going to their posts. Many shells are falling in the bay.

"At 11 o'clock the fire from the ships ceased.

"At 12 o'clock a tremendous firing was heard in the direction of El Caney. At 12:30 the firing of cannon was heard.

"At 3 o'clock the firing resembled a prolonged roar, in which firing by volleys could occasionally be distinguished. At 4 o'clock the firing decreased.

"At 6 o'clock in the morning the larger part of the enemy's force, which is in charge of Gen. Shafter, and which, at the very lowest estimate, numbers 15,000 men, with many modern artillery pieces, not counting the insurgents, attacked our lines at El Caney, which were defended by Gen. Vara de Rey with 520 men and two field pieces, and San Juan was occupied by 250 soldiers.

"The attack was made under Gen. Wheeler's orders, who commanded about 12,000 men. One brigade, about 3500 strong and directed by Gen. Wheeler, attacked El Caney. A little later Col. Chaffee, with 2000, charged the hill and fort at San Juan.

"The Americans, it must be acknowledged, fought on that day with truly admirable courage and spirit. The houses in El Caney, which had been turned into veritable forts by Gen. Vara and his 520 men, vomited a perfect shower of bullets against the enemy, which by companies, unprotected, and with tremendous fury, charged them."

Then follows a description of the repeated charges made by the American troops and of the final retreat of the Spanish force.

"Gen. Vara de Rey was wounded simultaneously by two bullets. Both his legs were shot through. He was placed on a stretcher and was being removed to the rear when a third bullet killed him. Two of his bearers were also shot dead. Nearly all of the officers were either killed or wounded. Out of the original force of 520 men scarcely 100 remained alive at 7 o'clock, many of these being slightly wounded. Without officers to command them, and with the knowledge that no help was coming, these heroes, after fighting during ten hours, were forced to give way before a less valorous force.

"Out of the 520 defenders of Caney only eighty returned, the majority of them suffering from contusions. The Americans had 900 casualties.

"Our casualties were as follows: Dead: Brig. Gen. Joaquin Vara de Rey, three commanders, twelve officers and seventy-eight men; missing, Col. Jose Baquero, four officers and 116 men. It is generally believed that the colonel was killed, but no one was able to identify him. Prisoners, two officers; wounded, Lieut. Gen. Arsenio Pombo, six commanders, thirty officers and 339 men; total loss, 593. The enemy's loss, according to their own estimate, is calculated at 1600.

"During many days the Americans were unable to realize that only 520 men had withstood them at El Caney. When convinced beyond a doubt their admiration knew no limit. When the Americans entered the city they were more than friendly with our troops. The number '29' (the regiment which defended El Caney), on a Spanish soldier's hat was sufficient to attract a crowd of admiring Americans, who insisted upon treating him to the very best that money could buy."

In the closing chapter of his book Lieut. Tejeiro deals with the causes which led to Spain losing Cuba. The chapter is entitled "Mercaderes, No Espanoles," "Shopkeepers, Not Spaniards." He says that during the thirty years that he spent in Cuba, although not a very keen observer, he was yet able to see that one of the chief causes of the dislike felt by the Cubans and the Spaniards was the selfish exploitation of the island by many of the latter, who came to Cuba without any other object than to amass rapidly a fortune. Once in possession of this fortune, they aspired and managed, by being Spaniards, to obtain important positions which were denied others, and which created the hatred which only awaited a fit moment in which to declare itself.

"This opportunity," says the writer, "came in 1868, when the 'Grito de Yara' was the signal for vengeance and extermination. The Spaniards at once responded by organizing the volunteer regiments.

"To deny the services which this organization gave to the cause of Spain would be unjust and useless, but at the same time we must agree that the volunteers committed grave errors. More than once they obliged captain generals to resign, thereby creating an unfavorable impression in the country and abroad.

"The first revolution and those that followed took on the stamp of cruelty and extermination of a savage race. The war served to satisfy vengeance, which gave rise to the pretext, as unjust as hypocritical, of humanity on the part of the United States, which was followed by armed intervention.

The author then describes the condition of the Spanish soldiers in Cuba at the outbreak of the war with the United States.

"The Spanish soldier in Santiago de Cuba, as well as in all parts of the island, was badly dressed and fed. During three years he had sustained a war hard as it was unrewarding, fighting against the enemy, the climate, the sun, and the dew, the roads, and the water, the winds and the plains—in one word, against everything, for here in Cuba everything is against the Spanish army, to which was owed, and is still, I think, near eight months of back pay.

"Before the destruction of our fleet, and more so later on, the enemy was in full control of the sea, its fleet, which at one time was formed by sixty vessels, some of them transports (many armed with cannon), did not allow us of ever hoping to receive relief, except from the interior of the island.

"After the arrival of Gen. Escario, on July 1, which, had it happened sooner, would have retarded events, but never prevented them, the provisions, and, above all, ammunition, decreased, as there were twice as many mouths and guns to feed.

"Eight or nine thousand men, many ill with the fevers, living day and night in trenches, which they could not abandon, as they were too far away from the city, nourished only by a little rice cooked in water, and without more artillery than a few muzzle-loaders, was the force which had to fight 40,000 Americans and 8000 or 10,000 insurgents, with sixty-eight cannon.

"Even the residents of the city abandoned the army, refusing to help the sick and wounded.

"That situation in Santiago de Cuba is the only one of its kind in history."

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 18,992]

"DEAR FRIEND—I feel it my duty to express my gratitude and thanks to you for what your medicine has done for me. I was very miserable and losing flesh very fast, had bladder trouble, fluttering pains about the heart and would get so dizzy and suffered with painful menstruation. I was reading in a paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I wrote to you and after taking two bottles I felt like a new person. Your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me and I cannot praise it enough."—MRS. J. O. BARNARD, MILLTOWN, WASHINGTON CO., ME.

"I tried three doctors, and the last one said nothing but an operation would help me. My trouble was profuse flowing; sometimes I would think I would flow to death. I was so weak that the least work would tire me. Reading of so many being cured by your medicine, I made up my mind to write to you for advice, and I am so glad that I did. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and followed your directions, and am now well and strong. I shall recommend your medicine to all, for it saved my life."—MISS A. P., BOX 21 ABBOTT, IOWA.

A WOMAN AS SPEAKER.

Mrs. Frances S. Lee, of Denver, recently had the honor of presiding over the lower house of the state legislature. Mr. Smith, the speaker, wishing to speak on a measure before the house, looked around for a speaker pro tem. Seated at her usual place, looking lady-like, business-like, very much in earnest and decidedly attractive, was the representative from Arapahoe county, Mrs. Frances S. Lee. It was a bold thing to do, but Speaker Smith called upon Mrs. Lee to take the chair. The summons startled Mrs. Lee, who blushed and showed a good deal of shyness, but she got over it bravely, marched up to the speaker's chair, sat down, grasped the gavel and proceeded to exercise surprising knowledge of parliamentary rules.

Later Mrs. Lee said: "I was born in Chicago, and came to Denver with my parents when I was 11 years old. My education was acquired at the Denver high school, from which I graduated. When I was 17 years of age I married Frank W. Lee. We have had five children. My politics? Oh, I'm a Democrat, and a firm believer in the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. I have taken an active part in politics ever since the franchise was granted to the women of Colorado. My whole heart is in the work of improving the condition of the industrial classes and in increasing the educational opportunities of the people. We are trying hard to make it unlawful to hire a child under 14 years of age. I do want to help the oppressed. My husband is treasurer for the State Federation of Labor, and we are one in our efforts to help the poor."

TYPICAL HEROISM.

It is true that the preparedness for war on the part of the Spaniards was greater in proportion to the strength of the two nations than the preparedness of the United States, says the Century. In cases where we actually had a stronger armament, the great disproportion of loss and the comparative ineffectiveness of the Spanish arms of course redound to the credit of this country. The strength of America being, however, so preponderant, and on some occasions our armament being so much more powerful, it is fortunate that there were occasions for many heroic acts on the part of Americans that were in the nature of "forlorn hopes." Among these the most conspicuous is the case of the crew of the Merrimac. Though the immediate object of the sinking of the collier was not accomplished, no event of the war afforded greater proof of the high morale of the entire navy, officers and men alike. The desire of the officers and seamen to participate in what must have looked like an inevitable sacrifice of limb or life is not the least interesting, and, indeed, pathetic part of Lieut. Hobson's thrilling narrative. The fact that so many stood ready to engage in the perilous duty, while it does not take a single leaf from the laurels of those who actually took part in the maneuver, makes the heroism of the officer and crew of the Merrimac significantly typical.

MISTAKES IN MEN

A Policeman Who Posed as McKinley in a Jubilee Parade.

How a Man Was Mistaken For Cleveland and Greatly Admired.

Experience has many times proved that it is not a difficult matter to get one's self taken for the president of the United States, in case there is the very slightest resemblance in appearance to that distinguished personage. The subject is now brought to public notice by the account in a recent issue of the Detective of how William A. Murphy, one of the seven Chicago policemen detailed to guard the president during the Chicago jubilee, was for half an hour cheered by the crowd as the president himself. It seems that Mr. Murphy considerably resembled Mr. McKinley, so that when at one time Mr. McKinley rode quietly in a closed carriage, Murphy was ordered into the barouche with the chief of police and ordered to take off his shining silk hat whenever the crowds in the street cheered. The device worked like a charm. The crowd howled itself hoarse at the sight of Murphy's fine Roman nose and thin hair, little thinking that the man they greeted was a policeman, who, in his work of protecting the nation's chief, had been directed to pose for a time as the chief himself.

Such occurrences are by no means infrequent. While the president of the United States at any particular time, whoever he may be, is doubtless the best known man in the country, it is also true that he is the easiest man to personate. This is due to the fact that the mental picture most people have of the president is a composite of the various likenesses they have from time to time seen. A composite is never distinct. This mental picture is so blurred that whenever a man possessing the general physical characteristics of the president for any reason gives out the hint that he is the president, he has no trouble in getting himself accepted at that face value. Whenever one person in a crowd makes up his mind that a certain man is the president, the rest readily accept the conclusion, and if there be sceptical ones they dare not raise a voice in protest.

The guides at the White House say that it is the commonest of all happenings for groups of leisurely tourists to gather and watch a man possessed of a smooth face, a Roman nose and a dark complexion who happens to go in or out of the White House. He may be the humblest office-seeker or an everyday citizen of Washington; he may be a foot taller or a foot shorter than the chief magistrate, but still somebody in the crowd whispers "There goes the president." Those who hear this remark suppose that its author knows what he is talking about. A crowd gathers, and the very fact of its gathering is conclusive that there is something to see, and when the object in view is a man going up or down the steps, it is taken for granted by all comers that he must certainly be the president of the United States. Whom else would a crowd stop to look at? In this way thousands of people go away from Washington to tell for the rest of their lives about seeing the president when they had really seen the hero of one of these impromptu gatherings. Any man in the country bearing the slightest resemblance to Mr. McKinley, who might be seen quietly walking on a Sunday afternoon in the grounds back of the White House, would surely be taken for the president, and so proclaimed by all passers-by.

An interesting case in point occurred about a year ago. It was known that Mr. Cleveland, then ex-president, had arrived in the city from a Southern fishing trip, and that at a later hour the same day he would take the train to his New Jersey home. As Mr. Cleveland afterward declared, the interval between the arrival of one train and the departure of the other he had passed in the Pennsylvania railroad station, and had not set foot upon the streets of Washington. But the newsgathers of that city were rather looking for Mr. Cleveland that day, and it is not surprising that several enterprising journals contained a story the next morning of how the late chief executive had been seen gazing into a store window on F street, and how the people, particularly the children, had gathered about him, and how silent and demure he seemed.

It was assumed that he was looking in the store window with a view to selecting presents for Ruth, Esther, etc., when the onlookers disturbed him, and the newspaper commented philosophically upon the fact that a man could have been strolling through F street, who only a year before had held the destinies of the nation in his hand, and was still a leading figure in the country's history.

The story of this incident traveled far and wide. It was copied into the Transcript. For purposes of illustration the story doubtless found its way into many sermons and impressive addresses. As a matter of fact, the strange man who walked through F street that day, silent in manner and demure in countenance, about whom the onlookers, and particularly the children gathered, was Walter H. French, of Massachusetts, the file clerk of the house of representatives. He is a man of about Mr. Cleveland's size, age and complexion. Mr. French's mustache and hair are about as abundant and about as gray as Mr. Cleveland's. So much pleased is Mr. French by the resemblance that he usually selects his clothing with a view to carrying out still further the illusion. On this particular day he happened to glance into an F street window, and the first thing he knew the people were looking at him strangely. The Morning Post had spoken of the expected arrival of Mr. Cleveland in town, and Mr. French was not long in realizing that he was being stared at on that account. He accordingly did his best to act the ex-president, and with the success already noted. He has several facial expressions which he has acquired by carefully observing Mr. Cleveland, and whenever the occasion demands he exhibits these little imitated mannerisms with remarkable skill. For a number of blocks down F street, as he slowly sauntered, the people continued to turn back and look at him as he passed.

The stories, however, of people who have successfully personated Mr. Cleveland would fill a large book. His pictures in the newspapers were deceptive, in that they made him look like a man of dark complexion. It accordingly came to pass that any stout man of the proper age, with a mustache, would in right environments be taken for Mr. Cleveland. On the day of inauguration, in 1893, A. A. Wilson, a citizen of this district, was coming down the steps of the capitol with one of Mr. Cleveland's secretaries, when a small crowd began to gather, and its spokesman came up and thus addressed the secretary: "Do you suppose he would be willing to shake hands with us now?" Mr. Wilson, hearing this, promptly replied in the affirmative, and one by one a considerable number of people paid their respects to an estimable local real estate broker, who afterward became marshal of the district. He greeted each one with a cordial, "I am happy to meet you, sir." One of the last men in line leaned over Mr. Wilson's shoulder to say in a low whisper: "When would be a good time to see you about that postoffice I wrote to you about a few weeks ago?" Mr. Wilson's reply was unmistakably cordial: "Come any time you please, sir, any time; shall be glad to see you." When this man reported to the White House two days later, assuring all the president's buffers that he had been invited by the president himself to come any time to see about a $300 postoffice, they hardly knew what to make of it.

KNEW ABOUT ESAU.

These Sunday school teachers get queer answers to questions sometimes, and the irreverent snicker in their sleeves when they hear of them, says the Louisville Times. A very pious lady, who had a class of boys in a local church, had taken the greatest pains to instruct her charges and keep them posted with regard to biblical events and characters. One of the pupils is a remarkably bright boy, raised almost entirely with grown people, and, like most children who spend their time in the society of their elders, has little of the child about his thoughts and conversation.

Recently as the good lady chatted with her pupils she began asking them about the various characters they had read of in the Old Testament.

"Now, my dear," she remarked, turning toward the sedate small boy at the head of the class, "can you tell me about Esau? Who was Esau?"

"Oh, I know all about him," replied the youngster, wagging his head delightedly; "he was the man who wrote fairy tales and sold his copyright for a mess of potash."

SENATORIAL VACANCIES.

The failure of the legislatures of Delaware and Utah to elect United States senators before they adjourned leaves those states with only one senator each qualified to sit in the next senate. The prospect is that California and Pennsylvania may be placed in the same position. It will be remembered that several years ago, when the governors of three states, Wyoming, Montana and Washington, appointed senators after the respective legislatures had failed to elect anyone, the senate, after a lengthy discussion of the subject, refused to permit the three appointees to take their seats. It was held by a majority of the senators that after a legislature had met and adjourned without electing a senator a vacancy did not exist within the meaning of the law which a governor could fill by appointment. This precedent was further strengthened in the case of Mr. Corbett, of Oregon, who was appointed senator by the governor of that state after the adjournment of the legislature. However, there have been precedents the other way, and the senate was by no means unanimous in its decision in the four cases cited. There was a strong minority, in fact, that maintained that governors did have a right to appoint where legislatures for any reason failed to elect; that a state could not be deprived legally of its full representation in the senate.

The Washington Times is authority for the statement that it is proposed now, in view of the great importance of having a full senate for the next two years on account of the problems that will have to be settled during that time, to reopen this question. It is pointed out in this connection that a senatorial precedent is not a law, and that it has no real binding force on that body. Senatorial precedents have been upset in the past when the exigencies of the situation seemed to demand it, and they probably will be again. The Republicans will have a clear majority in the new senate, and as the governors of three of the four states where vacancies are likely to occur are Republicans they would unquestionably appoint members of that party. The addition of three Republican senators to the senate would be of great help to the administration in putting through party measures. It is said that a quiet canvass of the senate is being made to ascertain what fate would befall the gubernatorial appointees, should they present themselves for admission.

A "prominent Republican" is quoted by the Times as saying: "I do not know just what the result of the poll will be, as it has not been completed. Most of the new senators, I understand, hesitate to express an opinion upon the subject, saying that they prefer to wait until they can look into the matter. We can hold a caucus on the subject, however, and I am confident that a majority of the Republican senators will vote in favor of seating the appointed senators and reversing the precedents recently established. I think that if the governors of the states that fail to elect senators this year make appointments to fill the vacancies their appointees will be seated. Of course it will only be after a hot fight, but you can state that this is the program at present at least."

Possibly the prospect of such action being taken by the senate will have the effect of securing elections in California and Pennsylvania, although in the latter state it might have an opposite effect, because a failure to elect there would undoubtedly mean the appointment of Senator Quay to succeed himself, as the governor is a Quay man. Perhaps if this latest scheme were traced back to its source, it would be found that it originated in the fertile brain of Matt Quay.

THE BRITISH NAVY.

England's great reliance is her navy. She depends upon it as her great bulwark of strength in time of war, and although it is now by far the greatest navy in the world, she is preparing to strengthen it. England may be represented at the czar's disarmament conference, her delegates will probably go there and acquiesce in the desirability of calling a halt on the enormous expenditures on navies and armies, but she will at the same time be getting her navy in better shape than ever. During the coming year it is proposed to expend $132,000,000 on the British navy, and about 4250 men are to be added to her forces, bringing their strength up to 110,640.

In a recent speech proposing these expenditures, Mr. Goschen said they are necessary to the security of England's position. He denied indignantly that the government has any scheme of aggression, and said that such an idea has never entered the head of the administration. While this may be a fact, it is also true that England cannot make such enormous additions to her naval strength without provoking the other great powers of Europe to follow her example in greater or less degree. It seems certain that England is determined to maintain her relative naval superiority. She is far ahead of any other nation now in sea-fighting power, and is amply able to keep her lead. It is also worthy of note that during this year and next the sum of $14,000,000 is to be expended on the harbor of Wei-Hai-Wei, recently acquired from China, to make a strong naval base. So that if the czar's conference agrees, on behalf of the great powers of Europe, in favor of not further increasing naval and military strength, England will be far ahead of the other nations in battleships and fortresses throughout the world.

THE RUSH FOR THE SPOILS.

It is rather amusing to see some of the Republican organs declaring that while the new census bureau is not under the civil service rules, Director Merriam will have rigid examinations of all applicants for positions, and no one will be appointed unless fully qualified as shown by the examination. The fact is that Mr. Merriam's talk of examining applicants is all bosh, and no one knows it better than do the aforesaid organs of the spoilsmen. The real test of fitness will be the recommendation of a senator or congressman, or some politician of influence with the administration. The census bureau will be an annex of the Republican national committee. That is why Mark Hanna wanted William R. Merriam placed at its head. He knew he could depend on Merriam to make it a strong political machine to help in the task of re-electing William McKinley to the presidency.

Many thousands of employes will be required by the census bureau. They will have to perform work which should be done as correctly and as expeditiously as possible. The good of the public service demands that this work should be entrusted to persons who are thoroughly capable of doing it. The surest, and the only sure way, of securing that class of persons for it is the merit system. Every reason for the application of the civil service law of selection applies in this case. And yet these reasons have all been disregarded.

It will be the old grab game over again, and today Mr. Merriam is besieged by the spoilsmen and place hunters who want to join in the raid on the big pile of spoils.

As the Atlantic Journal says, however, there is one poor consolation. The congressmen who voted for this backward step will be besieged and tormented by hosts of applicants for the plums of the census service. They deserve all the worry that can come to them on this score. The only regret is that the defenders of the civil service law will be subjected to the same ordeal as its enemies; the innocent and the guilty will have to suffer alike. It is risking little to predict that the efficiency of the census bureau will be impaired and the expense of the census greatly increased by the action of congress in this matter. Assistant Director Wines, who will do the work of superintending the census, will find it difficult to get good work done by the ward heelers and other political workers chosen by Mr. Merriam.

"The Missouri legislature has been laboring hard all this session and there is reason to hope that it will yet accomplish its great life work before final adjournment," says the Kansas City Journal. "This work, it is unnecessary to explain, is the determination of the question as to how many clerks it ought to have."

The New York Sun is responsible for the statement that the army of a million fighting men commanded by the general of the United States forces in the civil war was the most numerous the world has ever known, not even excepting "the legends of Xerxes and Kubla Khan." A correspondent considers this statement erroneous, saying: "So far as this statement is concerned, I recall a statement in Dr. Smith's 'History of Greece' based upon certain estimates of Herodotus, that when the Persian monarch reached Thermapylae with his invading army his force numbered 2,641,610 men of arms, in addition to which there was a still larger number of male slaves and attendants, making in all the stupendous total of over 5,250,000."

It is said that the erroneous use of the word "this" for "that" in the naval appropriation act will probably prevent the purchase of armor for the three battleships and four monitors under construction. There is sometimes a good deal in a word. On one occasion so insignificant a thing as a comma in a tariff act made a difference of millions of dollars. Another error in one of the bills passed at the recent session of congress gives an Alaska official a salary of $25,000 a year instead of $2500 as intended.

Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court delivered an address on "The Spanish War" before the Liberal club of Buffalo. He declared that "grim-visaged war hath smoothed its wrinkled front and Hobson has kissed his last girl." The justice is inclined to be optimistic. War may be over with Spain, but he cannot shut off Hobson in this summary fashion. Hobson's kiss is likely to be heard from again.

The tenth annual commencement exercises of the school of agriculture at the state university will be held March 19 to 24, and all who are interested in the splendid work of this institution are invited to attend. The school of agriculture is doing good work and should be strongly encouraged.

"High authorities in the British navy" are criticising our naval strategy in the late war as "opposed to all the recognized rules in the maintenance of sea power." But what naval strategy could have accomplished more than the complete destruction of the enemy's fleets at Manilla and Santiago?

Again the story is revived that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad is about to build an air line from St. Paul to Duluth. It may be true this time, and yet the acquisition of the St. Paul & Duluth road by the Milwaukee would seem more probable.

There should be a course at the proposed summer school on conditions in the Philippines for the special benefit of the News Tribune. But the instructor would require patience. Some pupils are very thick-headed and slow to learn.

Olga Nethersole, in a recent lecture before the University of Chicago's Graduate club, said of Rudyard Kipling that he was as Ian McLaren had declared, "the poet laureate of the whole world.

Presumably, says the Chicago Record, Gen. Miles was guilty of neglecting the contract regulations and tried to eat some of the beef after the stipulated twenty-four hours had elapsed.

A sensational New York newspaper is asking its readers to vote on "Who is the most unpopular man in the country?" It will probably be a close run between Alger and Eagan.

Anoka and Hastings can both be happy now. Each may have insane hospitals on the cottage plan, if they can get the senate to pass the house bill.

A queer bill has been introduced in the Texas legislature making it a felony to buy, sell or transfer cotton seed after nightfall.

The Friday edition of The Herald—the shoppers' guide—is the favorite with the advertisers. It gives results.

Where is the Duluth normal school bill? The legislative session is getting nearer to the end.

FOR THE CURZONS TO RIDE.

Forty elephants of state are in the court equipment for use when the viceroy is to make a field meeting with an amir or maharajah of the native tribes, the governor general's own mount being a gigantic animal, with a smaller one as attendant, says the Woman's Home Companion. The viceroy's elephant is made ready by being first vigorously scrubbed with water, soap and brickbats by the agile keepers, after which a professional elephant-painter decorates its forehead and trunk in fanciful frets and scrolls. Then the beast is almost covered with a cloth of scarlet heavily embroidered in gold, with a head-cap to match, the last harness burden placed on the patient animal being the gorgeous howdah for his master and the vice-empress. This is of silver and of great weight, access to it being gained by the elephant first kneeling, when a silver ladder carried by the richly caparisoned attending elephant is placed against its wall-like side for the novel ascent. Scarlet cushions and curtains of silk and gold make the lofty canopy a place of luxury, while an attendant sits behind the occupants to hold a large state umbrella, the native mahout being perched on the elephant's head and guiding his course with the feet. The native elephant men ascend and descend by making a loop of the tail of the docile pachyderm as they clamber up behind, or they are lifted by his obliging trunk.

When the viceroy and his suite visit a military camp for inspection, especially in the North of India, elaborate arrangements are made for the party. A grassy street is laid out and bordered by upward of forty tents for the entertainment of the distinguished visitors; water mains are laid, telephones are put in, a postoffice is established near by, and a corps of camels and their riders are made ready for messenger service. The "palace tent" contains an enormous drawing room, with a durbar, or reception room, opening off from it, both being lighted by chandeliers; and then there are his excellency's office, his bedroom, dressing room and bath room, her excellency's boudoir, and other apartments for the lady's use, all richly carpeted in Persian rugs, with arm chairs, sofas, dressers and nearly every luxurious comfort of life. The banqueting room service and general equipment are on such a scale of general splendor as no other encampment can show, while without the tents water fountains play in the courts. Aides de camp and servants are everywhere, and rows of guards secure the privacy and protection necessary, while the playing bands and wild night dances of the hillsmen about the flaring camp-fires make up a bizarre scene, and a unique experience for a newcomer.

Philadelphia North American: "It is outrageous!" she exclaimed. "The idea of a man with three wives daring to seek admission to congress."

"I don't know," he replied, "Mr. Roberts seems to have a clear plurality."

Indianapolis Journal: "I'm going to the Philippines with a ton of shoestrings as soon as peace is declared."

"No, but the shoestrings will make them nice Sunday suits."

Chicago Tribune: Merchant tailor—Shirtings? Yes, sir. How would you like to have them made up? In this style?

Customer—That's all right, only I'd like a little better quality of linenings in the collarings and cuffings.

Ernestine—Of course, mamma. Why do you inquire?

Mrs. Chinner—If he asks you to marry him tell him to come and speak to me.

Ernestine—And if he doesn't ask me?—Mrs. Chinner—Tell him I am coming to speak to him.

Somerville Journal: If a pretty typesetter should slip and fall down in the mud, she would make a miss-print that would trouble her more than any that she ever got by the proofreader.

Chicago Tribune: Telephone girl—You must not swear over the telephone, sir!

Indignant voice (at other end of wire)—I'm not swearing over it. I'm swearing at it!

Detroit Free Press: "Say, on the dead," said the ingenue, "that is drawing it a little too strong."

"What is?" asked the soubrette.

"The thing of her jobbers having her poisoned candy sent to her by special messenger."

Washington Star: "What makes all that noise in the radiator?" inquired the nervous man.

"I don't know," answered the chilly friend, "but I suspect it's so cold that its teeth are chattering."

Indianapolis Journal: "I would be thought more of," Mr. Dismal Dawson explained, "if people only understood my nature more better. I am that kind of a guy that never gives up when he has once started to do something. That's the reason I've always been afraid to start in at anything."

Chicago Tribune: The puzzled old gentleman from Tipperek, who had been watching the switch engine at work up and down the sidetrack, on the occasion of his first visit to a railroad town, scratched his chin and remarked to the lounger on the station platform:

"I can understand how the ingine pulls the cars. I've got that all figgered out. But I'll be durned if I can see how the cars pulls the ingine back!"

Washington Star: "What is your opinion of this new national question?" said the inquirer.

"My boy," said Senator Sorghum, dolefully, "that's a difficulty under which us statesmen have to labor. By the time I get through hustling for votes and watching the schemes of the opposition I don't have a minute left for forming opinions about anything."

THE NEXT SPEAKER.

Chicago Times-Herald: The motion to retire Speaker Reed will be declared out of order by the American people and the man who makes it will be surprised at the diminutive character of the opposition when congress convenes.

Washington Post: In this connection it may not be inappropriate to suggest to those Republican papers which are engaged in a concerted assault on Mr. Reed that they will have occasion for a united party in the next house of representatives. A factional fight in that body might be disastrous to their party. But there will be no such fight. Mr. Reed will be re-elected to the speakership and the papers that are now maligning him will tune their harps to the strains of praise for his masterly ability in thwarting the devices and desires of a large and aggressive minority—a minority so large that but a small Republican defection would be required to change it into a majority.

Philadelphia Ledger: There is no man in congress today who enjoys in fuller measure than Speaker Reed the respect, admiration and complete confidence of the whole country, and his presence in the national council has been the strongest force in preserving the sanity of congress and in preventing unwise and untimely legislation. He has not played into the hands of any ring, nor has he been carried hither and thither by the intrigues of any self-seeking cabal. He has not been swept from his feet by every wind that blows, but has taken his stand on the firm platform of what he believed to be truth and right, and has held his ground tenaciously like a man. He has opinions, and they are his own, and, having the courage of his convictions, he has been a bulwark against assaults on the people's interests. He has throttled jobs, banished "fraud, obliquity and solicitation," and put corruption or folly to flight with trenchant phrase and decisive action. There has never been any imputation on his ability, integrity or broad statesmanship, and if he does not typify sturdy republicanism, where is the standard to be found? Speaker Reed has courageously and manfully defended the interests of the country. The nation needs such men and will retain his services.

A VALENTINE EXPERIENCE.

A friend of mine had rather an odd valentine experience about this time last year, says Polly Pry in the New York Herald. She found occasion to visit Grand street one afternoon, and while in that unfamiliar thoroughfare stopped at a stationer's window that was all ablaze with 14th of February ammunition for lovers, in gold, silver, tinsel lace and all the colors of the rainbow. Two young women—they looked like shopgirls—were also standing there, and one said to the other:

"Have they got a lot here, Jennie?"

"Oh, a fine lot, Sarah."

"Much better than Brown's?"

"Oh, ever so much better! An' they're marked cheap, too."

"See if you can find any that he'd like."

A lump came up in my friend's throat. The speaker was blind.

"Yes, there's plenty of 'em," said Jennie, "but you can't read the verses out here. You want a good verse, you know."

"Yes, yes," answered Sarah, softly; "that's half the valentine, sure."

So they went inside, the younger guiding her companion's steps, and my friend following, full of sympathetic curiosity.

Jennie was soon tossing over the contents of a large box of the tender missives, that stood upon the counter, marked "10 cents."

"Here's a pretty one, Sarah. All white and gold, with a red heart an' a silver arrow stickin' in it."

Sarah smiled.

"That sounds fine," she said. "Is there a verse?"

Jennie read it off, but the blind girl shook her head.

"He'd laugh at that," she said, "an' I couldn't bear to have him laugh at me."

And the sigh that she gave was echoed by my friend.

They found one to suit at last, and it was directed and stamped by the energetic Jennie.

"But you want to put your initials," she remarked, "or else he won't know who it came from."

Sarah's face was aflame.

"That's so," she murmured. "You do it for me, Jen."

So it was done, and the two girls chattered as Sarah paid the bill.

"I s'pose he'll get a lot of 'em," she said, "an' some of 'em prettier than that."

"Oh, no, he won't," asserted the other. "He ain't so awful handsome as you think he is. I can't think what you see in him, Sarah."

At this dreadful faux pas my friend shivered, but the blind girl did not appear to notice it.

"He's got a nice, soft voice," she said, "an' such good manners. An' his breath don't smell of whisky and tobacco. Let's get home, Jen,' 'cause mother ain't very well an' she's all alone. Don't forget to mail that."

And as the two girls went out hand in hand, my friend wiped the tears from her eyes.

"And I was complaining so bitterly this morning," she thought, "because I could not go to a reception next week."

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

The following letter, which is said to have been written by Talleyrand to an intimate friend, appears in the last number of the Public. If genuine it is again demonstrated that history repeats itself:

"Paris, Nov. 25, 1782.—Dear Friend: You have doubtless heard of the arrival here of John Adams, who claims to be an envoy of the American people, but is, of course, a mere tool of that ambitious soldier of fortune, Washington.

"We are making history today, and it will record the disgraceful policy of the government in completely abandoning French sovereignty in the American colonies, wrested by France from the grasp of England. You will ask why the triumphs of our army and navy, and not least of all diplomacy, should have such a miserable result.

"First, this M. Adams, who to the manners of a Cossack joins both ruggrd talents and 'Yankee' shrewdness, appeals to French honor. He claims that M. de La Fayette assured the rebels that his majesty would allow them to establish their independence, not merely of England, but of all governments such as are recognized among enlightened nations. Such an assurance would be quite characteristic of the Quixotic marquis, but he neither affirms nor denies making it, probably following some one's advice. (On croit qu'il suit un conseil.)

"Then the envoy skilfully touches the chord of sentiment, especially when, among his friends the disciples of Rousseau, he quotes from the 'declaration of independence' that governments 'derive their powers from the consent of the governed.'

"What madness to pretend to govern with abstract idcas, rhetorical generalities and incomplete notions of equality. (Quelle demence de pretender gouverner par des abstractions, etc.)

"Calonne says that M. de La Fayette considers chivalry a part of the law of nations, and we all know that such theories hold firm possession of his wooden head.

"But M. Adams reaches the climax of impudence in asserting that the ragged and half-starved guerrillas under Washington, armed with rusty firelocks and pitchforks, except a small nucleus equipped by our liberality, overcame the disciplined forces of England. While it seems to be true that the English (with a view doubtless to render our position harder) made some unimportant surrenders to the rebels in the absence of our forces, yet all was due to the intervention of France, and it was an act of treachery to deny her sovereignty. In fact it has always existed, by virtue of the discoveries of Cartier.

* * * But, in addition, the interests of humanity required that we take possession and guarantee to the ignorant and disorderly population, so long in a chronic state of rebellion, the blessings of a stable government. They are widely separated, dissimilar and discordant communities, few of which could govern themselves under any circumstances, and an independent nation composed of such elements is an Utopian dream. If left to themselves they would degenerate to the condition of the aborigines, called Illini Indians, but they will doubtless fall a prey to some nation not possessed of the fantastic notions of honor which seem to inspire M. de Vergennes. Faithfully yours,

"C. M. DE TALLEYRAND."

TWO DEMOCRATIC LEADERS.

Washington Post: Perhaps it would be better to describe them as one leader and one back number—we refer to William J. Bryan and Grover Cleveland—for the former is alert, instinct with life and vigor, strenuous, enthusiastic, virile and the other reeks with the dullness and the gangrene of mugwumpery. Cleveland left his party weaker, more incoherent and more discordant than he found it. Bryan took up the dying embers of his spirit and fanned them into raging flame. He gave his party inspiration, fervor, hope. He animated and revivified it. Despite the desertions and the treacheries wrought by vanity and avarice in 1896 he developed some 700,000 more votes than had ever been cast for any Democratic candidate before, including Mr. Cleveland. And he gave to the country the spectacle of an ardent, united and homogeneous party organization. While Mr. Cleveland, thrice the nominee of a Democratic national convention, was indebted to the party for all his eminence and prosperity—while Mr. Cleveland sat apart, a sullen conspirator against his quondom benefactors, encouraging infidelity and lauding party wickedness, Bryan flamed in the forefront of the battle, a striking and invigorating figure, the incarnation of youth, and strength and ardor. He relit the fires of Democratic zeal. He gave the party life, put blood into its veins and set its pulses throbbing. He held thousands in the grasp of his imperious eloquence, and sent them from him tuned to loyalty and heroism. He took the dead carcass of the Democracy from the ground upon which his predecessor had contemptuously flung it, and filled it with the fire and joy of youth.

Say what you may as to the soundness of the doctrine Mr. Bryan preached, there can be no two opinions as to his qualities of leadership. Mr. Cleveland hid himself in the temple of his party, solemn, owlish, heavy as a pagan idol, but Mr. Bryan took the vanguard of his army and led it, a palpitating and inspired force, into the red vortex of the fight. He one was an oracle, did away in caves, veiled in mystery, manifesting himself in rumblings and strange noises. The other, an impetuous apostle, with bright sword and flashing armor, cleft the way for those that followed him. No doubt there are doting and infatuated idolaters who still await another advent of the mugwump dispensation, another revelation of the mugwump fetich. But the Democracy on the fighting line have done with ecstacy and superstition. He who leads them next year must be a thing of flesh and blood—a warrior himself.

A Misspelled Tale.

A little buoy said: "Mother deer
May Eye go out to play,
The son is bright, the heir is clear,
Owe! mother, don't say neigh!"

"Go fourth, my son," the mother said;
His ant said: "Take ewer stay.
Your guess knew sled, all painted read,
Butt dew knot lose ewer weigh."

"Ah, know!" he cried, and sought the street
With hart sew full of glee—
The weather changed and snow and sleet
The reign fell fierce and free.

Threw snowdrifts grate, threw wat'ry pool,
He flue with mite and main—
Said he: "Though I wood walk by rule,
Eye am not write, 'tis plane.

"Ide like two meat some kindly sole
For hear gnu dampers weight,
And yonder stairs a treacherous whole;
So sloe has bin my gate.

"A pence of bred, a gneiss hot stake,
Ewed chews if Eye were home;
This cruel fate my heart will brake,
I love knot this too Rome.

"I'm week and pall; I've mist my rode"
But hear a carte came passed—
He aid his sled were sarcly toad
Back two his home at last.

HERE AND THERE.

It is announced a separation has occurred between Senator Wolcott and his wife. Mrs. Wolcott remains at her handsome home on Connecticut avenue, and the senator is living at the Arlington. Mrs. Wolcott will soon return to Colorado and secure a divorce upon the ground of incompatibility. Before her marriage to the senator she was Mrs. Lyman K. Bass, the widow of a former law partner of ex-President Cleveland. One cause of the separation is said to be Mrs. Wolcott's ambition to have her husband resign his office and secure an ambassadorship. Mrs. Wolcott has gazed upon royalty from afar and liked it. She wanted her husband to doff his toga and use his irresistible pull with the president to secure a foreign mission. Wolcott demurred, as the senatorial arena was more to his liking. He wanted to make the battle of his life in 1900. He desired to redeem Colorado and return to Washington for a term of six years.

When Mr. Wolcott entered the senate ten years ago he was comparatively a poor man. He had been successful as a lawyer, and enjoyed a lucrative practice, but he had a reputation of spending money faster than he made it. He used to be something of a plunger, and on one occasion, it is said, he won $20,000 at faro at a single sitting. The next day, according to the story, he dropped the entire amount and about $5000 more trying to beat the bookmakers at Sheepshead bay. But he had sown his "wild oats," and had settled down to a commonplace existence when he came to the senate. He had nothing except his salary and a retainer of $10,000 a year from a Western railroad corporation, of which he was the chief attorney.

The Salvation Army at Boston is going into the business of selling second-hand furniture and lending money. It has opened a small store at the corner of Dover street and Harrison avenue, which is to be devoted entirely to the buying and selling of second-hand furniture and money-lending in a small way.

The Rev. Frank B. Hoagland, secretary of the Young Men's Christian association of Paterson, N. J., has aroused the wrath of every man of Scotch descent in his state. He was asked to rent the association hall to a Highlander society and replied:

"The Highand clostume is indecent. Kilts are improper. No Highlanders in their native dress shall appear in the Young Men's Christian association hall in this city and corrupt the community if I can prevent it."

"There is no reason whatever why Spokane should not handle sixty or 100 cars of flour per day. If the right sort of flour from this city is put in the Asiatic trade the rates will be low and results will be better, but at present there is no ship room. I don't know that there is a man in Washington who ever raised his voice to do anything to bring ships to provide a market for the enormous wheat crop grown here. If anyone has I have never heard of it."—James J. Hill to a Spokane Chronicle reporter.

A reporter has discovered that 70 per cent of the cleverest men of the Chicago stock exchange were brought up on farms. Think of it! Seventy-tenths of the men in Chicago who are preeminently successful in this fight of finance were fitted for life, not in our great commercial centers, but in the country. Where are Chicago's city-bred sons, who have had all the advantages of city life and city schools and colleges? Only three-tenths of the successful men on the exchange are representatives of this class.

A cheese factory is to be established at Langdon, N. D., and the Republican thus sets forth some of the possibilities:

The average cow will give milk 200 days out of the 365. If she brings in but 10 cents a day there you have $20 a year, your herd has increased by double the number of cows you have for the year. Thirty dollars a year is a very conservative estimate of what a cow will earn during the year, but even at that figure, how many cows will it take to wipe out that store bill in the fall? Or in other words, how much money will it take to keep you from having a store bill in the fall or any other time?

It almost invariably happens that after a short session of congress, when legislation is rushed through at lightning speed, mistakes of more or less importance are discovered in the statutes. This year is no exception to the rule. Already there have been found nearly a score of minor errors which affect the meaning of the acts in which they appear to a greater or less extent. The most amusing of these minor errors is that which authorizes the supervisors of the census to subdivide their districts and to appoint one enumerator for each subdivision and resident therein. It was evidently the intention of the framers of the law to compel the supervisor to appoint residents of each subdivision as enumerators in their own districts, the purpose being to prevent the colonization of officeholders. But this is not the way the law reads, and a strict interpretation of it would require every man in the United States to be his own enumerator.

The pathway of the newspaper publisher is strewn with thorns. Now comes the North Dakota Record with an humble apology. The Record made the statement that a man named Hall had been in the habit of stealing wheat three times per week, and Hall demurs and says it is was only once. And the Record very promptly and properly makes the correction.

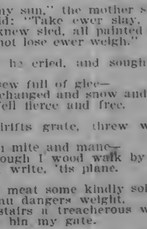

Sixth Should Have Had It.

Elk River Star News (Rep.): The selection of William Grimshaw, of Minneapolis, as United States marshal is generally looked upon as a Davis appointment, and is a very good one from some points of view, but not from a political one. The Sixth district was in line for this appointment, and ought to have had it, but things politically don't always go as they ought to.

Must Answer For It.

Princeton Union (Rep.): It must be admitted that there was nothing in Governor Lind's message which could be construed to ask for the cutting down of the oil inspector's fees to take effect upon the expiration of the term of his present incumbent. That piece of unspeakable folly was left to the accomplishment of a Republican senate, which will answer for it at the proper time.

NO ACTION WAS TAKEN

Council Committee Considers West Duluth Land Company's Application.

A SUGGESTION MADE

County Officer Suggests That City Offer Reduction On Delinquent Assessments.

The committee appointed by the council Monday evening to look after the city's interests in the settlement of delinquent taxes according to the plan adopted by the county commissioners met yesterday afternoon at the mayor's office and considered informally the application of the West Duluth Land company for a reduction. O. H. Simonds appeared for the company. No action was taken. The committee consists of the mayor, assessor, comptroller and Alderman Carey. The committee adjourned to meet at the call of the mayor.

The city officers having been offering Adler's to the county officers in connection with tax matters, a county officer yesterday offered some advice to the city officers in the same connection.

"The prayer says," he said, "that the forfeited tax law as it stands deprives the city of all of its delinquent assessments for 1895 and prior years. It does, and the mayor never said a truer word. Now, what the city wants to do is to get down to the same plan as the county has. Let it offer a reduction of 50 per cent on all its delinquent assessments for 1895 and prior years, providing they are settled up within a certain time, and it will get some money out of it. If they let it go to the forfeited sale they will get nothing, and if they walk in expectation that the owners of property will ever pay up in full they will be about the same. If they make as the county did, and enable owners to clean up all taxes and assessments at a reduction, they will get some money into the treasury and they will get those dead assessments cleared up. They have got to make a settlement of it no matter some time, and they might as well make it now while they need the money. They will never in the world get all of those back assessments, and if they settle at 50 per cent they will be doing splendidly."

WANT CUBA FREE.

Newsboys of Havana Take a Hand in Political Affairs.

Havana, March 17.—Two hundred newsboys, members of the Newsboys' protective association, called at the office of El Diario De La Marina yesterday and informed the business manager, through a committee, that they would not sell the paper. He asked them why.

"Because," said the spokesman of the association, "in the editorial this morning you favor a long American occupation."

He added, however, that they might sell tomorrow's issue if no more "displeasing" editorials appeared.

The newsboys, encouraged by the success that attended similar efforts against

DR. IZER'S LECTURE.

Dr. Izer, of Allegheny, Pa., will lecture at the First Methodist church this evening on "General Grant," the lecture taking the place of the one which was to have been delivered by Bishop Fowler. Somewhat singularly the title is the same, for Bishop Fowler was also to have lectured on "General Grant." Dr. Izer's lecture has met with great success.

"WHAT HAPPENED TO JONES."

Tomorrow evening, at the Lyceum, Duluth theater-goers will see one of the best attractions that has visited here for some time. "What Happened to Jones" has captured the entire country. The comedy will be presented by the following players: John Allison, E. Soldene Powell, Barney McDonough, Frank X. Hope, Louis Reinhardt, Charles Green, Cora Williams, Juliet Sager, Helen Harcourt, Elanore Brodhay, Katharine Weston and Maude Allison. George H. Broadhurst, the author, modestly declines to dignify it with the name of comedy. He insists on calling it a farce. Whatever one may choose to call it, "What Happened to Jones" is good. Without a coarse or suggestive line or situation, it is mirth-provoking in the extreme.

"WHO IS WHO" COMING.

"Who is Who" will be presented at the Lyceum next Monday evening by the Kelly T. Mason company. The piece is full of specialties, among them "Kitty Clover," by Grace Cummings and the pretty girl contingent; the German Singing society, with Charles A. Mason as director, and Messrs. Welch, Pusse, Le Fever, Roche and Maples as members; "The Girls of Yankee Land," by the pretty girl contingent; Sisters Whiting, premier comedistes; an operatic travesty by Katherine Miller and Messrs. St. John and Mason; Grace Cummings in a new waltz song, entitled "Bell O'Bell;" Harry N. Welch, acrobatic comedy specialty; "My Gal's Gone Wrong," a rattling cakewalk specialty, introducing the entire company.

HIBERNIAN ENTERTAINMENT.

Fine Program of Music—Address By Charles A. Towne.

A treat is in store for those who attend the Hibernian entertainment at the Lyceum theater this evening. Miss Pottgieser, St. Paul's charming contralto, will be heard in Irish ballads, and John F. Gehan, the Irish-American baritone, will render the great patriotic solo, "The Wearing of the Green." Miss Pottgieser is one of the finest contraltos the country has produced and Minnesota is naturally proud of her. She leaves for Europe shortly after this concert in order to finish her studies. John F. Gehan has been prominent in the musical circles of the Northwest for many years and is a great favorite in the Twin Cities. He is the possessor of a rich, manly bass voice and is sure to please his audience both with his voice and his selections. The Hibernians could not have secured anyone who will charm the audience more this evening than these two popular singers.

Among the many excellent numbers on the program Fred Langley, of New York, will appear in characteristic Irish songs and dances. Mr. Langley is known as a dancer from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and his specialties in clog and jig dancing are well worth seeing.

The best available local talent will also appear on this occasion. Mr. Woodward will sing "I'm Off to Philadelphia in the Morning," Mrs. Dr. McAuliffe will sing Molloy's bright song, "The Kerry Dance," J. E. Foran will sing one of Chauncy Olcott's pleasantries, "My Beautiful Irish Maid," Miss Tena Shannon will render the ever popular "Athore," and Crouch's charming melody "Kathleen Mavourneen" will be sung by Miss La Stella Solon, of West Superior. P. Doran and C. F. Murphy will be heard in new songs, and West Superior's clever elocutionist, Miss Mamie C. Murphy, will render "Erin's Flag."

The orchestral numbers have been selected especially for this occasion and are particularly fine.

The address will be by Charles A. Towne and that it will be a fine effort is certain. Altogether the Hibernians are going to furnish a high-class entertainment that will be a fitting celebration of their national holiday, St. Patrick's day.

CROWDED EVERY NIGHT.

The Labor Bazar Is Meeting With Tremendous Success.

The labor bazar was crowded again last night. T. J. McKeon was the speaker of the evening. He delivered an interesting address on "Labor Questions." Miss Davidson sang a solo and was enthusiastically encored, giving an impersonation of May Bell, the soubrette, in response. There were a couple of excellent specialty dances by Joseph J. Musolf and Ed Coleman.

There will be a cake walk tonight. Dick Harris and lady, who were to have given an exhibition of fancy walking Wednesday night, but who were prevented by the illness of the latter, will appear. The mayor will speak, there will be a violin solo by Miss Elsie Thiel, a baritone solo by E. W. Prophet and the West Duluth band will give a concert. The program for the concert is as follows:

Two-step—"Twentieth Century.." ..... Miller
Waltz—"Cuba Libre" ..... Shaw
Patrol—"Blue and Gray" ..... Cox
Dance—"Southern Idyll" ..... Baxter
Two-step—"Ebenezer" ..... Boettger
Selection—"Return of the Troops" ..... Eilenberg
March—"Coxey's Army" ..... Safranek
"The Star Spangled Banner."

THE SULTAN'S LION.

His Manager Says He Suffers Because of Yousouf's Rough Work.

Hali Adali, the "Sultan's Lion," and one of the greatest wrestlers the world has ever seen, will meet Duncan A. McMillan and Hjalmar Lundin on the mat at the Armory on Monday night in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match. It will be a handicap affair, similar to the one Hali engaged in against Burns and Rooney in Chicago and McLeod at St. Paul. In a recent interview Adali's manager said:

"If Anoli in his matches in America uses any of the holds which are fair and allowed by the rules, he is hissed unmercifully by the crowd. He has to suffer for Yousouf's rough work while here, but I will try to break him of his gentleness. See that I will tell him to go in and break his opponent's leg, but I will have him make use of all the holds permitted by the rules, and let the crowd hiss if it wants to. I wish some of the men who Adali goes against would try to throw him, then you would see some pretty defensive work, but all they do is to try and keep from being thrown. He has never yet been put on his back, and I think he will go home without a blemish on his record."

VOODOO IN CHICAGO.

The Socerers Use Powerful Herbs Not Innocent "Love Charms."

Witchcraft is very commonly supposed to be a thing of the past, says the Chicago Chronicle. In the mind of the average person it is connected in some vague way with Salem in prerevolutionary days, Cotton Mather, burning at the stake and other unpleasant features of a past century. But that witchcraft should have earnest devotees in Chicago, that thousands of people in this most progressive and enlightened city should believe firmly in spells and charms and hoodoos and evil eyes and all that sort of thing seems hardly possible, yet it is true. It is not exactly the witchcraft of the early days, when old women were burned at the stake as sorceresses; it did not have its rise those infant hours of the new world when suspects were "tested" gravely by their neighbors to determine whether or not they had dealings with the devil and consigned to flames or the gibbet if they were found guilty, according to the prescribed forms. Yet it is witchcraft, which has as firm a hold upon its believers as ever the black art had on the people of Salem, though it is known by another name. It is "voodooism," the black art of the negroes, the witchcraft which has flourished for centuries in Africa, which is a religion with the natives of Hayti and San Domingo, and which in a modified form flourishes in Clark street and South State street, even as it does in the mahogany forests, where its weird incantations and mystic spells are as frequent as are the rites of any Christian church here.

Voodooism is probably almost as old as the world. It is an outgrowth of Shamanism, a sorcery based upon the belief in evil spirits, which is the instinctive faith of rude peoples. It flourishes today in Africa, where it rules millions of devotees, numbering, indeed, all the native inhabitants of the continent except the Mohammedans. On the Guinea coast, where the rites are practiced extensively and whence the sorcery came to this country, it is called Vodun—a term strangely similar to the Woden and Odin found in all mythologies. In Central America there is a deity called Vuotan, symbolized by a serpent. In Hayti and San Domingo the name of the so-called religion closely approaches the term used by the negroes of Chicago, it being called Vaudax, which signifies an all-powerful serpent, and in the United States the term has been corrupted by the unlettered negroes to "voodoo," and from that the transition to the familiar "hoodoo" is easy. Everyone knows what a hoodoo is, something which brings bad luck. Yet perhaps not one in a million who use the term daily ever stopped to trace its origin or question what the strange term really meant. It goes back, as can be seen, almost to the beginning of things, to the Shamanism of the Babylonians. When history was first recorded the cultured people of Babylon adhered to the tenets of this strange faith of evil spirits which could be evoked at will to harm an enemy to "bring bad luck," or, in short, the "hoodoo." Ever since there have been millions of semisavage races which followed obediently the teachings handed down by the High priests of voodooism and the descendants of those peoples, civilized and educated to a degree though they be, still keep alive even here in Chicago a semblance of the old witchcraft of the Aryans.

And not only the colored people have a lingering belief in the power of evil spirits and the ability of certain people with "charms" and incantations to bring about the bedevilment of those against whom they level their evil lances. The little superstitions of everyday life which most people affect to scorn, for which they more than half believe in, nevertheless, the accidents which are supposed to bring "bad luck" are but a reflex of voodooism. The spilling of salt which fills thousands of housewives with dire dismay until a pinch of the spilled salt is thrown over the left shoulder is one of the commonest happenings which is said to bring bad luck. And in voodooism the spilling of salt on the fire is the simplest way by which a person is to be bewitched. It is the form of "conjurin'" most often practiced to bring from their hiding places the witches and evil spirits expected to visit trouble upon the head of the victim of him or her who holds the secret of voodooism. Passing under a ladder, breaking through a funeral, opening an umbrella under a roof—all the common superstitions of everyday life which have an immense hold upon nearly everyone—are the faint traces of the old Shamanism, divested of its gross and repulsive features, which remain with the Caucasian races.

The most remarkable superstitions are common to actors for some unexplained reason, various sayings and happenings being shunned as bringing "bad luck" to a company or a troupe, and one of these is the widespread belief among Thespians that bad luck is sure to follow the carless or thoughtless repetition of the well-known witch's incantation from "Macbeth:"

"Double, double, toil and trouble; Fire burn and caldron bubble."

If an actor hears this quotation, except, of course, professionally in a regular presentation of the tragedy, he will quake with fear and beg the speaker not to repeat lest the season should prove disastrous or the treasurer abscond with the receipts. The fact that the lines are really the witches' incantation over the seething caldron is doubtless responsible for the aversion actors feel toward them, but the hint of voodooism is there.

There are rites and rules of voodooism which are unknown except to the initiated. For centuries these have been handed down by the so-called priests of the faith and, of course, have been used to prey upon the ignorant believers, extort tithes from them and hold them in subjection. The "medicine man" of the African tribes and of the American Indian is usually the high priest of voodoo and by his incantations, spells and charms professes to produce sickness and even death among the victims of his frenzy. And it is a well-attested fact that by a species of hypnotism or autosuggestion a negro who knows that the spell of voodoo has been directed against him will often fall into a decline superinduced by his own terror of the mysterious power, just as people have fallen sick and died during smallpox and yellow fever plagues through fear that they had been exposed to the infection. Believers in voodoo have not the least doubt that the "doctors," as they are styled in Chicago and other cities of this country, can produce madness, disease and death through their intimate connection with the evil one.

The professors of voodooism in Chicago are mostly old colored people, who carry on their semblance of witchcraft under the guise of being herb doctors. Down in that section of the South Side so largely given over to colored people are several practitioners who make a very comfortable living out of their supposed powers as voodoo doctors. The herb business is usually only a blind. They have a lot of simple compounds if such be applied for, but their principal trade is in "charms" and fortune telling and the practice of the "black art" as it survives in these degenerate days. "Love charms" are most in demand, young men and women seeking mysterious aid in drawing toward them the objects of their affection, and the shrewd old voodoo doctors do not hesitate to sell various magical looking powders and jackets to bring loving hearts together. Peace is restored in disunited families through the aid of the voodoo doctors, and this is really brought about of course by a species of mind cure, the one seeking the charm believing firmly it will do away with family wrangles, and bending every endeavor to bring about that end, and generally succeeding.

A big colored man whom the denizens of the "levee" call "Jumbo, the Irishman," stood in the Harrison street station a few days ago and rolled his eyes vastly when the subject of voodooism was introduced.

"Why, noah goodness, mistah, I shol' sat they was voodoos," he answered. "Why, I'm voodooed mahself."

"How is that?" he was asked.

"Well, about three years ago I was witness agin' a colored man in this here town that was sent down to Joliet. I couldn't help it that I was witness. I seed the whole thing an' I had to tell about it in co't. But that man just voodooed me, suah. He stood in Jus' Everett's co't an' he said: 'I hope y' lose a drop o' blood foh ev'y yeah I'm down theah, Yessah, tha's wha' he say. An' I ain't nevah had no luck since," concluded Jumbo.

"Why haven't you? What's the matter?"

"Oh, ev'ything go wrong. I ain't got no luck nohow. Mah mothah, she was voodooed too. A woman come and throw black ink agin' her house, an' tha's the meanest thing you can do. An' she never had no luck, neither." And Jumbo sighed and walked heavily out into Pacific avenue.

The sorcerers use certain powerful herbs, too, which are not so innocent as some of the amulets and "love charms" which the simple believers wear about their necks. The real object of voodoo, of course, instead of being to do good is to do harm, to revenge, spite and hate, and to the passions of its devotees it appeals. If two servants in a household fall out one of them may hasten to a voodoo doctor, pay her $2 and get a "charm" to bewitch her enemy. From that day nothing goes well with the girl on whom the spell has fallen. She will have trouble with her mistress, break household articles, lose her sweetheart, be robbed of her money, and perhaps lose her position unless she goes to a voodoo doctor as soon as she realizes what has happened and pays for a charm to take off the "spell." The use of poisons in charms administered to the unconscious victim is not carried on to any extent in Chicago, although it is a component part of voodooism in Hayti, and some of the doctors in this city are supposed to have stocks of "slipher wood" and "ground ivory" to prepare the decoctions which produce results when needed. Slipher wood is a grayish bark from which a tea is made as a test of suspected guilt in cases of robbery or the like. If a man suspects that his friend has stolen his watch or his money he gets the slipher wood for a voodoo doctor and, after preparing the tea, induces the suspect to drink it. It has no effect upon him if he is innocent, but if he is guilty he will at once fall down in a faint, according to the traditions of voodoo. As there are few constitutions which can withstand the strong decoction, the guilt of nearly every suspect is at once established.

"Ground ivory" is a root with a dark skin, but milk white inside, and from it a charm can be made, the voodoo doctors say, which will affect both the body and mind of the person toward whom it is directed. And "ground ivory root" has the advantage over slipher wood that it is not necessary to introduce it into the system to produce results.

If the person to be bewitched even touches the charm or if it lies in his path he will suffer. His mind may be affected or his limbs swell up or dwindle away, according as the sorcerer may will. There are other roots besides these used and sold by voodoo doctors, "button root" and "carminative root" and "alterratives" and "sedatives," the former being used to change the events of daily life and the latter to smooth away difficulties. From Dongola comes a powerful root called cresses, shipped from Alexandria to Liverpool, and from there to Hayti and the United States, and palm oil is used by some voodoo doctors to counteract the effects of ground ivory root. Blindness may be mysteriously produced, according to the voodoo doctors, by a charm composed of strammonium and the powdered head of a snake which has been carefully dried.

But voodooism has so far degenerated, as practiced in Chicago, that the use of powders and roots has been largely overshadowed by spells cast by mind power or by following out some formula of the voodoo doctor. The spilling of salt in the fire, at the same time, wishing that the object of hatred might never have another day's luck, is a favorite charm and another is the throwing of ink against the side of the house occupied by the hated one. If a colored man or woman comes out of the house some morning and discovers ink splashed against the house there is trouble at once. The voodoo is at work and there is no more peace of mind or happiness for that victim until the "spell" is removed by means equally mystical with those which brought it about. The use of the breast bone of a chicken is very old in connection with voodooism. The belief is that if the chicken bone is buried under the doorstep of the house someone in the family will die within a year.

A favorite form of witchcraft is for the witch to make the victim take the form of a horse in his dreams and then ride him half to death over hill and dale night after night, leaving him tired, nervous and scared when he awakes. To avoid this, the voodoo doctor says, the victim must make on the floor of the house outside his room a great cross made of rice or some similar grain, which the witch must eat up grain by grain before she can get at the victim, and usually that takes so much time that morning comes, when all witches must flee.

All these rites are practiced and firmly believed in by thousands of colored people in Chicago. The great stretch of territory on the South Side where they most do congregate, is filled with people who, while they apparently laugh at the superstition secretly fear the voodoo doctors more than they do any power on earth and who are thrown into a panic by the merest suggestion that they are "voodooed." As the term is used here, "conjurin'" is evaded by the uneducated negroes and the word carries with it mystical meanings for them. Nothing is impossible to the "conjurer" and the money that flows into the pockets of the "doctors" who secretly practice the "black art" is no inconsiderable sum. Like most superstitions, it is denied by those who pretend to education and enlightenment as superstition is the child of ignorance, but voodooism is of too ancient origin and is too firmly engrafted on the African people to be cast off in a few generations and doubtless the twentieth century will see voodooism practiced just as the countless years before the Christian era did.

Catarrh is Not Incurable

but it can not be cured by sprays, washes and inhaling mixtures which reach only the surface. The disease is in the blood, and can only be reached through the blood. S. S. S. is the only remedy which can have any effect upon Catarrh; it cures the disease permanently and forever rids the system of every trace of the vile complaint.

Miss Josie Owen, of Montpelier, Ohio, writes: "I was afflicted from infancy with Catarrh, and no one can know the suffering it produces better than I. The sprays and washes prescribed by the doctors relieved me only temporarily, and though I used them constantly for ten years, the disease had a firmer hold than ever. I tried a number of blood remedies, but their mineral ingredients settled in my bones and gave me rheumatism. I was in a lamentable condition, and after exhausting all treatment, was declared incurable. Seeing S. S. S. advertised as a cure for blood diseases, I decided to try it. As soon as my system was under the effect of the medicine I began to improve, and after taking it for two months I was cured completely. The dreadful disease was eradicated from my system, and I have had no return of it."

Many have been taking local treatment for years, and find themselves worse now than ever. A trial of will prove it to be the right remedy for Catarrh. It will cure the most obstinate case.

IRELAND'S GREAT DAY

Father Corbett Delivers an Eloquent Address on the Irish Race.

PLAYED GREAT PART

Its Sons Have Ever Distinguished Themselves--"The Breakers" Presented.

A large audience filled the Lyceum theater last evening to witness the entertainment prepared by the cathedral parish in celebration of St. Patrick's day. The orchestra opened the program of the evening by rendering a selection of Irish airs, which so pleased the audience that it had to give an encore. Then followed the address delivered by the Rev. Dean Corbett. He said in substance:

"Tomorrow millions and millions of Irish hearts will beat in glorious unison throughout the world, it being the celebration of the feast of the apostle of Ireland, the anniversary of the birth of St. Patrick. He was so grand a personage that several nations have claimed him as their own, the Scotch asserting that he was a Highlander. Dangerous it would be to say to the ordinary Irishman that St. Patrick did not first see the light of day in old Ireland, but we will say to you if he was not born there he showed his good sense to die in Ireland."

The speaker then related a humorous story that provoked much laughter, it being an illustration of the characteristic wit of Pat. The feast of tomorrow, he said, is dear to the Irish people and to civilization. "How dear to the Irishman's heart is his birthplace. Patriotism begets nationality, Ireland never wanted for patriots. Did the Picts invade Ireland, the Irish people met them and drove them from their native land. Did the Danes make a landing, the Irish defended home and country. The flame of Celtic patriotism can never be extinguished. The memory of his dear land is ever dear to him. Though the broad Atlantic rolls between the Irishman and his native land, his heart is ever there. What Herculean efforts they are making to throw off the thraldom. From Ireland has come the genius of the world. From Ireland has come the greatest statesman—William Gladstone. From Ireland has come the greatest and best of all countries—America. England has no more right to enslave the Irish than it has to enslave America. Unity is the need of the hour. Experience has taught the people a good lesson, and they will never let up their work until home rule is wrung from England. (Great applause.) After centuries of cruel barbarity England has not yet swallowed up Ireland. Tomorrow the harp on the green shall wave all over the world. England can never affectionately govern Ireland, for Ireland, formed by the hand of nature, was never made to be enslaved. During Irish legislation the industries of the land flourished and prospered. Tyranny has stopped all, and has made Irishmen seek a home in this broad land. Does a nation seek military servants, it finds the Irish ever ready to defend. Two centuries ago 2,000 Irishmen were in the service of France. Look at the glorious victory on the plains of Fontenoy.

"From the cradle the Irish have guarded the American republic. The sons of St. Patrick contributed $500,000 to the cause of American independence. Where were Irishmen to be found under Meagher at Fredericksburg? Ever where the fight is the thickest, ready to lay down their lives in the cause of liberty. We furnished a Barry, the first American commander; a Montgomery and a host of others. Celtic blood flows in the veins of governors, senators, lawyers, etc. Chili has an O'Higgins for her patriot. Give the Irishman a chance and he will go ahead and progress. The enemy across the water says the Irish are indolent. Are men indolent who will work from early morning to late at night for the miserable pittance of sixpence? Truly Irishmen seem to be born rulers, but other nationalities are not left out in the cold."

The speaker then told a story of a convention to name candidates where all the delegates were Irishmen, and the nomination of one candidate created one of the delegates to ask who he was, and the answer was: "Hell be over in the next boat." This brought a roar of laughter.

"The martial spirit," he said, "is inherent in the Irish people. The warlike spirit has been formed in the people of Ireland by England. Formerly there were no policemen in Ireland. The world renders its grandest encomiums to Irish character. Under the rough exterior is found the grandest specimen of liberality and generosity. For Ireland, though formed by nature to be England's sister, was never made to be her slave. Irishmen cherish and transmit this noble heritage of love of your native land, and love America as well, the dearest and best friend of Ireland."

The 2-act drama, "Among the Breakers," was then put on by a number of young people of the parish. Miss Donovan played the part of Bess Starwright, and did it splendidly, and in the first act sang "Asthore," and had to respond to an encore. Miss Catherine O'Donnell played the part of Mother Carey, and did it well. The others who took part in it were: Misses A. Carroll and S. McNulty, and Messrs. J. R. McKinnon, V. Grady, J. Foran, F. Dacey, H. Carroll and J. Lynn. The orchestra closed the entertainment with a medley of Irish airs.

FIRE DEPARTMENT EXPENSES.

Analysis of the Figures For the Last Fiscal Year.

The actual running expenses of the fire department for the fiscal year ending Feb. 28 amount to $75,132.34, as shown by the report of Secretary Truelsen of the department. This is $9617.84 less than the expenses for last year. The total expenditures were $80,075.94, which includes old water bills amounting to $4023.60, contracted for several years ago, and bills for new hose, amounting to $2620. Payment of the old water bills has been deferred pending litigation with the old water company, and they were ordered paid last year.

There were also paid water bills to a considerable amount that are properly chargeable to last year's account. Excluding the water bills from both years for the purpose of comparison, a reduction last year of $10,022.37 is shown.

The expenditures were, in detail, as follows: Salaries, $2457.35; building repairs, $135.82; light, $741.18; feed, $2229.02; laundry, $241.76; fuel, $1633.81; salaries, $66,161.87; water bills, $1812.13; hose, $3620; total, $80,075.94.

ENORMOUS DIFFERENCE.

Change Wrought In Vessel Carrying Capacity Within One Year.

A few days ago, when Maj. Sears' report of the commerce at the head of the lakes was made, The Herald called attention to the fact that while the total tonnage last year was nearly 4,000,000 in excess of that of 1895, the number of arrivals and departures was less, this showing the great increase in carrying capacity of the vessels. A Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad official, referring to this, made an interesting comparison along the same line. In 1898 the ore dock shipped about 2,500,000 tons of ore. To carry this from 630 to 640 boats were employed. The year previous, 1897, the total amount carried was about 1,800,000 tons, and 980 boats carried it. In 1898 the average load was from 3575 to 3600 tons, and in 1897 it was from 1825 to 1850 tons. This shows the result of the building of the big Rockefeller Bessemer fleet. Rates have come down, too, and it is not probable that a $1 rate for carrying ore will be seen again, or at least it will probably never be maintained for any great length of time.

Court Phoenix Ball.

Court Phoenix, the women's auxiliary order to the United Order of Foresters, held its first annual ball last night, and it was a very successful initial ball. There was a large crowd, and everybody seemed to agree that everything went off as smoothly as might be. There were 130 couples, and they danced many hours and partook of refreshments. Court Phoenix is a new organization, as it is but recently that the United Order of Foresters has admitted women. Court Phoenix was one of the first courts to organize.

GEN. GREELY'S PROBLEM.

How to Make Green Men Become Expert Telegraphers.

Washington, March 17.—Gen. Greely of the signal corps is just now trying to solve the problem of how to manage the telegraph system of Cuba and Porto Rico, which is in the hands of 500 volunteers, with 300 regulars who do not know anything about telegraphy and little about the management of telegraph lines. The general has been trying, and was most successful, to have the volunteer operators enlist in the regular army and be detailed to the signal corps for the purpose of working the telegraph lines and managing the different stations and offices. The Nineteenth signal corps company has recently been organized at Manilla and is composed of sixty men who have been serving in the volunteers in the Philippines. This corps insures a good working force for the signal corps in the far East.

THE STANDARD OIL ANSWERS.

Columbus, Ohio, March 17.—An answer has been filed in the supreme court in the contempt case against F. B. Squire, secretary of the Standard Oil company. He declined to produce the books of the company, and the contempt proceedings are in that connection. In his answer he says that it is an unreasonable search for the state to demand the books; that they may disclose facts which may be used against the Standard Oil company, and because they disclose facts which may render them personally liable. The whole answer is based on his constitutional rights.

PIGS RAISED FOR BRACELETS.

The natives of the New Hebrides islands in the Pacific ocean raise pigs for bracelets. The upper canine teeth of the pigs are removed and that gives the lower tusks a chance to grow as much as they wish. The lower teeth grow and, finding no resistance, attain a good length. The teeth grow in a spiral and the tip often lies beside the root of the tooth. Very rarely the point grows into the root of the tooth and makes a complete circle. Sometimes the tooth grows clear around twice and makes a coil.

The natives of the New Hebrides prize the boars according to the length of the tooth. A complete pig tooth bracelet is a very valuable jewel, which is worn around the wrist or attached to a string around the throat. The native man of wealth has many of these teeth and many more growing all the while. They pass current in barter as money of value. The boar with bracelet teeth is not killed till his teeth seem to have reached the limit of their length, and the killing is done at the "Sing Sing" feast, which corresponds to "hog-killing time" in various localities in America.

Squirrels, woodchucks and other rodents occasionally have accidents to one of their teeth which allows the tooth facing it to grow unobstructed to great length. Squirrels deprived of their food, which requires gnawing, starve to death, but the grass-eating woodchuck manages to exist for a considerable time. One woodchuck recorded had a tooth nearly six inches long, which curved down and back from his upper jaw to behind his ear. He was terribly emaciated and would probably have soon starved to death. Queer effects could be produced in white mice and the like by a systematized training and deforming of their teeth.

BAD SNAKE TO KILL

The Southern Cottonmouth Is a Terror of Serpentine Hatred.

Destroy One and Its Mate Will Sting You to Death.

"Down South," said Dr. Jerome Hampton, of Mobile, Ala., "there are five varieties of poisonous snakes—the cottonmouth and highland moccasins, the rattlesnake, the ground rattler, which differs from other rattlers in that its size is greatly inferior and that it is void of rattles, and the elaps, frequently called 'the calico snake,' or 'the thunder snake,' the first name being descriptive of its variegated, brilliant colors," in the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"Is there any truth in the stories published from time to time of the cottonmouth following and wreaking vengeance on the destroyer of its mate?" asked one of the company. Two or three of the skeptical smiled derisively, in anticipation of denial, but the little herpetologist looked serious and nodded affirmatively.

"In all the lower counties of the gulf states," he returned, "more or less veracious tales are current of this singular vengeful trait of the cottonmouth. By the time they gain wide circulation, however, the facts are usually much inflated and interwoven with many purely imaginary details, which naturally leads those who look upon the snake as a creature without reasoning force or higher instincts to regard them as wholly fictitious. When I heard of these stories I confess I was as much inclined to doubt as the next one. I would not admit of the possibility of snake vengeance, let alone its probability, but subsequent observation and experience changed my doubt to unalterable conviction.

"A most remarkable case of genuine cottonmouth vengeance came to my notice some time ago, and, being in the vein, I don't mind telling of it. Down near Pollard, Ala., not far from the Escambia river, there lived a stalwart young negro, Todd French. Cottonmouths abound in that section, and although the darkies of the south are famous snake hunters they rarely kill them, owing to their extreme terror of expiating the destruction at the fangs of faithful mates. If a darky kills one by accident it is a safe wager he will make tracks for the next county five minutes afterward.

"Young Todd, however, professed to hold the cottonmouth and the theory of serpentine vengeance in contempt. He boasted to the other young bucks that he would kill any and all snakes which crossed his path. He was admonished by the older darkies, and tales of fatalities which had followed cottonmouth executions were repeated for his warning, but he laughed at admonitions and stories alike.

One fine evening Todd and a negro companion were driving the former's cow home to be milked, when they came upon a good-sized cottonmouth stretched full length in the road not far from Todd's hut. The wide berth usually given this species of the moccasin by darkies—and whites, too, for that matter—has made them bold, and far more intrepid than the rattlesnake, which loses no time in making good its retreat at man's approach. So this one made no offer to clear the path until the two negroes and the cow were almost upon it. Then it started to crawl away at its leisure. This display of fearlessness enraged Todd and inspired him, no doubt, with the desire to "show off" but his rather timorous friend. He had a short stick in his hand which he used to steer the cow and rebuke her inclinations to loiter, and before his companion could raise a protest he rushed after the retreating snake and struck it on the back. The blow nearly severed the body and killed the snake.

"Todd's friend fell down in the road, beat the dust into a cloud, and invoked the protection of Voo-doo.

"'Lawd help us, Todd, wha' fo' hab yo' done!' he wailed. 'We's mocked (marked) men, we is; we's dade (dead) sho's yo' stan'in' whah yo' is! Ole mate done got us slated, so he hab! O, debbil! debbil! debbil!' and he fell to drawing in the dust those cabalistic figures which are practiced by the Southern darkies as temporary protection from menacing evils.

"Todd might have been a trifle frightened at his own rashness, but the deed was done, so he put on a bold front, and growled savagely at his companion:

"'Kim along, yo' whitesome niggah!' he retorted. 'Nothin' gwine to hu't yo'!'

"His friend rose to his feet, still muttering invocations, and followed Todd and the cow in silence. But he could not resist an occasional backward glance at the dead serpent. Suddenly he clutched Todd's arm and shrieked like one possessed.

"'Look thar, Todd! Look! Look!' he gasped. 'Oh, Lawdy, marse cottonmouth; 'deed 'twa'n't me! 'Deed 'n 'deed 'twa'n't!'

"Todd followed his friend's transfixed gaze and beheld a second cottonmouth hovering about the mutilated carcass. Just then his friend recovered sufficiently from his horror to bolt for home like freshly lubricated lightning, and Todd, giving the cow an accelerating whack with the stick, lit out after him without further delay.

"The story of his reckless deed soon spread, and consternation ran riot in the neighborhood. His cabin was crowded that night with friends and neighbors, who came to cheer him up with tales of other darkies cut off in the prime of life by vengeful mates of murdered cottonmouths, and to predict his death in the near future. But he still professed disbelief and asserted that he intended to pass the spot where the snake had been killed as often as necessary. Indeed, the next evening he went after his cow and piloted her home by the usual road. Sure enough, he found a cottonmouth lurking about the scene of the tragedy, so he afterward said; although, strange to say, the carcass of the other had disappeared. But Todd believed that the mate had dragged the body away and buried it in the swamps, which is a belief common to the Southern darkies.

"The snake waited until Todd was within a few feet of it, and then darted for the opposite side of the road. The negro, being on the alert, struck at its head with a heavy club with which he had taken the precaution to arm himself. The blow failed to reach the mark, but fell upon the tail and broke it. In a flash the cottonmouth's head flew toward the tail, but, as Todd aimed a second blow, presto! the snake had disappeared in the bushes which fringed the road. As it did not show itself again, Todd continued on his way home, where he boasted of his adventure with the presumable mate of his victim, and repeated his assertions of fearlessness. Still the older darkies shook their heads. They know the patience and persistency of the cottonmouth, and looked upon Todd as one doomed.

"'Dat cottonmouf bound to fotch yo' yet, Todd, if he wait six months,' was the consolatory offering of one old fellow. 'Isc knew 'em t' do hit.'

"Todd continued to pass over the road every evening for a week or more. Sometimes he saw a cottonmouth hanging around the place where he had killed the snake; sometimes he didn't. Once or twice he noticed that the cottonmouth had a broken tail. Gradually he grew confident the snake meditated no harm, until one evening after he had passed the spot he happened to glance back. It was well he did, for there was the cottonmouth making for him up the middle of the road, and would have nipped him in the heel in short order. Discovering the intention of the snake, Todd grasped the club he always carried and ran back to destroy it. But the cottonmouth was as wary as his antagonist and dived for the sheltering bushes. After that adventure Todd was not so contemptuous of cottonmouths, and brought his cow home by a different route.

"Several days passed and he ceased to think of the snake. The agitation in his neighborhood subsided. But one afternoon as he leaned over the fence to gossip with a passing friend he was horrified to see, not fifteen feet away, a cottonmouth with a broken tail. It had crawled from the bushes and lay basking in the sun with its round, unblinking eyes upon its enemy. Todd shouted and climbed to the top of the fence. His alarmed friend did the same, and united his voice with Todd's in calling for help. A negro in a nearby cabin heard their cries and rushed out with an old shotgun. But by the time of his arrival the snake had disappeared.

"Todd was frightened. He organized a search party and the woods, roads and fields were scoured. The snake with the broken tail was not to be found, however. Todd was advised to go away for three or four weeks until the cottonmouth should forget him. He said he would do so as soon as he made certain that the snake was 'tracking' him. Its presence near his cabin might have been a purely adventitious circumstance, he argued. Nevertheless, when his family turned in for the night all the sills of the doors and windows were generously coated with tar as a safeguard against the cottonmouth, for the popular supposition among Alabama folk is that no snake will attempt to pass over this product of the pine.

"Two or three nights after the snake had been seen near Todd's cabin a small party of negroes gathered about the doorstep of that establishment to sing and shout and laugh as only the light-hearted colored people can on a weird moonlit night. Todd was sitting on a box thrumming an ancient guitar, and for the moment the cottonmouth was forgotten. But only for the moment. At the height of the merriment Todd dropped his instrument, gave an agonized groan and fell writhing and tossing upon the ground. The rest of the company sprang up and started toward him.

"'He done got me! He got me!' he cried, struggling with something long and rope which curled and squirmed with his every movement.

"'Fo' de Lawd sake! Wha' done got yo', honey?' cried one old crone, working her way toward the grovelling man, while the others, overcome by terrible fears, fell back to let her pass.

"But just as she reached his side Todd jumped up, holding the long, ropy thing aloft. His eyes were fairly bling on his cheeks, and he was shaking from head to foot like a man with the palsy.

"'Hit's de cottonmouf's mate!' he shouted, spinning round and round and whirling the snake above his head.

"The assembled friends stood not on the order of their going. It was the quickest adjournment on record in Alabama. Only the old crone remained with Todd, who suddenly dropped the snake and tumbled over in a fit. Then she caught up a spade and extinguished the little life Todd had not choked out of the reptile. She noticed that it had a broken tail.

"In the cabin was a small bit of whisky. This she poured down the throat of the unconscious man, and then tramped into Pollard to find a physician. By the time she returned to the cabin with the medical man the cottonmouth's poison was too well distributed through Todd's system for medicine to avail, and he died a few hours afterward."

THE WRONG ROAD.

A drummer lost his way in a southwest Georgia county, where there was a great deal of religious enthusiasm at that time, says the Atlantic Constitution. So he gave his horse the rein and made the best of it.

Presently he was confronted by a signboard nailed to a pine tree at the forks of a road.

The sign read: "Turn, sinner, turn!"

The drummer followed its advice and turned on the road nearest the sign.

A little farther on he was confronted by another sign: "You are on the way to hell!"

That was rough, but like many another man, he kept on. Yet one signboard faced him: "Sinner, you are lost forever!"

"God help us!" cried the drummer. "Between all these signs, what's a poor lost devil to do?"

"Git right down on your knees," cried a voice from the bushes, "an' cry for mercy!"

That was too much for him and, putting spurs to his horse he fled like the wind, nor did he stop until he reached a railroad, where he signalled a freight train and shook the dust of that ghostly neighborhood from his shoes.

A CRACKER COMBINE.

Options on the Pacific Coast Bakeries Expire Soon.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—It has been learned from a reliable source that March 27 is the date upon which expires the options which were secured on seven of the largest biscuit and cracker manufactories on the Pacific coast by Charles M. Warner, of Syracuse, N. Y., who is associated with a number of New York capitalists, among them being Thomas A. McIntyre, of the firm of McIntyre & Wardwell, commission and grain brokers. It is thought that several other Syracusans, including Mayor Jacob Amos, may be stockholders. The cracker factories in Los Angeles have agreed to sell out to the trust. They are the Southern California Cracker company and Bishop Biscuit company. It is said that about $2,000,000 will purchase the seven coast factories. The trust is capitalized at $15,000,000.

UPPER MICHIGAN.

Baraga—A cook, cookee and blacksmith started to walk to Baraga Monday afternoon from Nester's Clear Creek camp, twelve miles southwest of Baraga, the camp being broken up because through cutting, and the men not caring to wait for the supply team. The three men became exhausted, but the blacksmith pushed ahead and finally reached shelter. The cookee met the team and his life was saved with difficulty, but when the team found the cook he was too far gone and died in the night before he could be gotten back to camp. The other men are badly frosted.

Houghton—The Mining Journal is most reliably informed that mining operations will be resumed at the Belt mine in Ontonagon county during the current season. From the same source it is learned that control of the property has passed into the hands of F. M. Delano, of Detroit, who will organize a new company to be known as the Arctic Copper Mining company.

An impression seems to prevail that the Standard Mining company is being organized to mine the Calumet conglomerate vein which underlies its property at a depth of about two miles. The Mining Journal is informed that the company intends doing nothing of the kind and, further, that such an idea was never even given consideration. The Standard property is traversed by a conglomerate and two amygdaloid belts of which the former will be given attention when the mountains of snow have disappeared.

Ishpeming—The Lake Angeline company has had its turn. The first serious accident of the year at its workings occurred Monday morning about 6 o'clock, causing the death of William Bennetts. The man received his injuries in a fall of about seventy-five feet through a chute. The chute in which the accident occurred is located between the second and fourth levels.

THE TREATY SIGNED.

War Between Spain and the United States Now Officially Ended.

Madrid, March 17.—The queen regent has signed the treaty of peace between Spain and the United States.

Washington, March 17.—In the absence of any direct diplomatic communication between the United States and Spain, Secretary Hay expects to receive his first formal notice of the ratification of the peace treaty by the queen regent through the medium of the French embassy here.

The next step must be taken by Spain; that is, she must name her special envoy and notify the United States government of the probable date upon which he will present himself in Washington with the exchange copy of the treaty of peace. Although in most instances little more than a perfunctory ceremony in the case of the exchange of ratifications of this treaty, the details will be of more than ordinary interest, for the occasion will be historical.

The draft of the treaty of peace between Spain and the United States was signed in Paris on Dec. 10, 1898. It was approved by the United States senate by a vote of 57 to 27, on Feb. 6, and was signed by the president on Feb. 10.

A COSTLY FIRE.

New York, March 17.—Fire broke out about 1:30 this morning in the two 5-story houses belonging to A. J. Hague & Co., at 351 Broadway, and the Elliott & Co. building next to it. When the fire was discovered the flames had gained such headway that the fire department had but little to do but save the property adjoining. The Hague building is a large linen importing establishment, and the Elliott company importers of laces. The total loss will amount to several hundred thousand dollars, as the entire stock of both companies and the buildings themselves were destroyed. The cause of the fire is not yet known.

BASEBALL MATTERS.

Chicago, March 17.—The Tribune says: Frank DeHaas Robison will take his Cleveland National League Baseball club to St. Louis, and that of St. Louis will occupy Cleveland with Loftus will occupy Cleveland with his Columbus Western league team. The National league circuit cannot be reduced to ten clubs without difficulty. Tom Loftus, it is said, has secured an option on the Browns from Gustav Gruner, who bid in the St. Louis club at the sheriff's sale. He will nominally buy the club, and will then permit Robison to vacate Cleveland and go to St. Louis.

NEW LINE PROBABLE.

San Francisco, March 17.—Word has been received here from Berlin that Dr. Wiegand, managing director of the North German Lloyd Steamship company, will visit San Francisco. Dr. Wiegand was in this city last October. He also visited Tacoma and Seattle and then went to Yokohama en route home. While here he stated to several prominent citizens that his company was desirous of putting on a line of steamers across the Pacific ocean from Hong Kong and Yokohama to either San Francisco or Tacoma and that he fully intended to do so in the near future.

PARTIES POOR PAY.

St. Louis, March 17.—A comparison of the figures from two sources submitted to the senate's Lexow committee shows that Clerk Wagenman, of the court of criminal correction, is short $820 on naturalization papers issued from 1895 to 1898. Mr. Wagenman claims that there is a considerable amount owing him from the central committees of the political parties for naturalization.

FIREMAN KILLED.

Middlesboro, Ky., March 17.—In a wreck on the Louisville & Nashville railroad, near Wheeler, nine miles from here today, caused by a landslide, Charles Painter, of Jellico, fireman, was killed, and the engineer, Charles Snively, injured.

DEPARTED FOR MANILLA.

Oswego, N. Y., March 17.—Company G, Ninth infantry, left for Manilla today, via San Francisco. A public demonstration was given on their departure. The post here may be abandoned.

TO BE MUSTERED OUT.

Washington, March 17.—Four companies of the Second volunteer engineers now at Honolulu have been ordered to San Francisco to be mustered out of the service.

A MOSQUITO FLEET.

Government Will Fit Out One For the Philippines.

Washington, March 17.—The navy department is taking steps toward the formation of a mosquito fleet for the Philippines. The conditions now prevailing in Luzon indicate that for a long time it will be necessary to maintain a strict police of the coast and inland waters. For the inland work especially the department will need some very light draft boats. For this work the big ocean tugs that formed the "mosquito fleet" that operated around Cuba during the blockade may be utilized and the department is looking over them with a view to just this service. Some of them are on the Pacific coast. The department has figured out a coasting voyage that will take them up the Alaskan coast, coaling at Sitka, Unalaska, Cook's Inlet and so down through the Aleutian Islands to Hakedota, the northern point of Japan. Thence they can make the run across the China sea, down to Hong Kong and thence to the Philippines. It will be about a two months' voyage but one that can be made safely. Spain had a large fleet of small gunboats and torpedo gunboats, admirably suited for this work, in the Philippines, but Spain has recently sold thirteen of them at Hong Kong. It is possible some of these vessels may be repurchased by the government in case they are in good condition and can be had for a reasonable sum. The tugs destined for Philippine service will be armed with an abundance of machine guns and with heavier rapid-fire guns up to 6 or 12-pounders.

HER APPETITE POOR

Mrs. Place Does Not Eat Well Since Hearing Roosevelt's Decision.

New York, March 17.—Warden Sage of Sing Sing prison will send out some time today the invitations to the witnesses who will be present at the execution of Mrs. Martha Place for the murder of her stepdaughter, Ida Place. It is generally understood the execution will occur on Tuesday at about 11 a. m.

The warden said today that Mrs. Place had passed a quiet night, and seemed to be resigned. She has now given up all hope, and when her spiritual adviser, Dr. Cole, of Yonkers, left her last evening she assured him that she would place her trust in God.

Mrs. Place has had but little appetite since she learned Governor Roosevelt's decision that the law would have to take its course, and she ate sparingly of the breakfast which was sent to her apartments this morning. She wrote a number of letters to her 15-year-old son, who is adopted in a family in Newark. The boy has not answered any of the letters, although his foster parents allowed him to visit his mother after her arrest in Brooklyn.

By order of Governor Roosevelt the execution of Mrs. Place will be conducted as privately as possible. There will be present only the required number of doctors, including one female physician, the warden's deputies, a woman attendant for Mrs. Place, who will adjust the electrode at the leg, and a limited number of newspaper men, possibly but two. The warden has secured a woman who will attend Mrs. Place as she is strapped in the chair.

The removal of hair from the back of the woman's head, where the electrode must be placed, will probably not be done until everything is prepared for the execution, and just before she is taken from her cell to the execution chamber.

MONEY FOR CUBANS.

The Berlin Arrives at Havana With Her Treasure.

Havana, March 17, 10:30 a. m.—The U. S. transport Meade (formerly the Berlin), having on board $3,000,000 for the payment of the Cuban troops previous to their being disbanded, according to the agreement arrived at between Robert P. Porter, President McKinley's representative, and Gen. Gomez, commander in chief of the Cuban army, arrived here at 10 o'clock this morning, escorted by the U. S. cruiser Chicago.

TO EFFECT SAVING.

Worcester, Mass., March 17.—The American Steel and Wire company announces that its business center hereafter will be in New York and its executive business will be transferred to Chicago and San Francisco. The large business offices at Cleveland and Worcester will be the first to be abolished. It is stated that this will result in saving nearly $250,000 in the annual expense account. The heads of the cost and sale departments, insulated, flat and barbed wire departments and the purchasing agents will be transferred to Chicago, it is reported.

TO BE PAYMASTERS.

Washington, March 17.—The president has appointed Hugh R. Belknap, of Chicago; Brandon D. Slaughter, of Nebraska, and Capt. Charles Newbold, of the District of Columbia, to be additional paymasters in the army. Mr. Belknap has served two terms in congress and is the son of the late Gen. Belknap, ex-secretary of war. Capt. Newbold is well known here. He entered the regular army as a lieutenant at the breaking out of the civil war and was advanced for gallant and meritorious service in action. He resigned from the army in 1867.

ST. LOUIS CLUB SOLD.

St. Louis, March 17.—Edward C. Becker, a capitalist of this city, has purchased the St. Louis Browns from the creditors, who bought the club's assets last Tuesday at sheriff's sale. The price paid is not stated, but is in excess of that offered today by Frank Tate, the theatrical manager. Mr. Tate offered to pay the creditors $35,000 and in addition meet the dues of the club to the National league and the debt due Chicago, a total of $37,900.

WESTERN SCHEDULE ADOPTED.

Philadelphia, March 17.—At a meeting of the Eastern Bar Iron association held here it was unanimously agreed to adopt the Western schedule of extras. This action is very important as it not only secures uniformity in the American markets, but will abviate confusion in the export trade. No change was made as regards prices, but the new list is equivalent to an advance, varying according to specification of sizes, the average being in favor of manufacturers.

NOTICE TO ASPIRANTS.

Washington, March 17.—The announcement was made at the postoffice department that no more fourth class postmasters would be appointed until the return of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow. He is at present in Cuba with the postmaster general and will be absent about ten days longer.

SITE FOR ELEVATOR

Bill to Permit Grain Growers to Lease the Duluth Site.

BOILER INSPECTION

House Concurs In the Senate Amendment Relating to Private Houses.

From a Staff Representative.

St. Paul, March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the house today Jackson's bill to prevent any city from assessing or collecting a water frontage tax for a longer period than five years was passed under suspension of the rules as also was the Dwinnell bill to empower cities of over 50,000 population to restore to their original purchasers, streets or highways that have been taken for park purposes.

It was decided to adjourn over until Monday morning.

Among the new bills were:

Dwinnell—To provide for four assistant county attorneys for Hennepin county. Passed under suspension of the rules.

Lynds—To amend laws of 1897 relating to newly organized counties.

Dwinnell—To repeal laws 1887 relating to justices of peace.

Abbott—To amend statutes 1878 relating to notaries public.

Olson, A.—To regulate private detective agencies.

The house concurred in the senate amendment to the boiler inspection law, the amendment being the exemption of heating plants in private houses.

The effort by the three largest counties of the state, Ramsey, Hennepin and St. Louis, to secure a fair representation upon the state board of equalization, was today frustrated in the house through the jealousy and suspicion of the country members. The Dwinnell bill, H. F. 337, which changes the method of organizing the state board of equalization, came up. There was a sharp tilt over it between the representatives from the larger counties, led by Dwinnell and Roberts on the one side and O'Neil on the other side.

Dwinnell's bill would have made the state board of equalization consist of three members from the seven congressional districts, or twenty-one in all. As Hennepin constitutes a congressional district in itself, it would have given that county a representation of nine on the board. Dwinnell said that Minneapolis and St. Paul, which pay two-fifths of the taxes of the state, now have only two members on the board out of twenty-one. Even the most violent opponent of the measure could not but admit this was grossly unfair.

O'Neill, instead of presenting any arguments in opposition, fell to abusing Minneapolis and the big cities, and he moved that it be indefinitely postponed. There was a sharp parliamentary struggle to prevent this, but it carried by a small majority.

Mr. Dwinnell gave notice of a motion to reconsider the vote, and as this must be done within two days, and the house would not meet again until Monday, his friends moved for a recess until 2 o'clock. The opponents of the motion mustered but 36 votes, the friends 37, and Speaker Dare declared it carried. Mr. Jacobson and others who were fighting the bill were said to be of the opinion that the vote was not correctly counted, and intimated that the two Minneapolis clerks had given their city the best of it in counting noses.

WORK OF THE SENATE.

Mr. McGowan Would Make March 17 a Legal Holiday.

St. Paul, March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Among the new senate bills today were:

McKusick—Defining a legal newspaper.

Everett—To amend laws relating to privileged communications to physicians.

Buckman—Relating to duties of county commissioners.

Buckman—Appropriating $10,000 for a bridge in Morrison county.

Schellbach—Relating to the assessment and collection of taxes.

Knatvold—To amend insurance laws.

The Wilson bill to place the state oil inspector upon a salary basis was today reported from the finance committee of the senate, with a number of important amendments. It was responsible for another spirited discussion, in which the senators made some pointed remarks to each other.

The bill came back to the senate with a recommendation that it be amended, first by providing that no money shall be paid for salaries or for any other purpose in the department, except from the funds collected from the inspection of oils. This was adopted without debate.

An amendment to make the law take effect from and after its passage was adopted without question. Then came the amendment which caused the trouble. It was to strike out the entire last paragraph, which carried the appropriation of $20,000 per year for the enforcement of the act and all provisions for the payment of the inspector and deputies.

The report substituted for that provision another to the effect that no money whatever should be paid out under this act, save from the oil inspection fund. A vote was secured and the amendment was lost by 22 to 26. Finally the lieutenant governor decided that the presentation of the report placed the question of its adoption before the senate.

KAIULANI IS DEAD

The Heir Apparent of the Hawaiian Throne Expired on the 6th.

TOWN IN MOURNING

Thousands of People, Native and Foreign, Viewed the Princess' Remains.

Honolulu, March 10, via San Francisco, March 17.—Princess Kaiulani died March 6, of inflammatory rheumatism contracted several weeks ago while on a visit to the island of Hawaii. She was the daughter of Princess Miriam Liliuokalani, a member of the Hawaiian royal family, and A. S. Cleghorn, an Englishman, and was born in 1875. In 1891 Kaiulani was proclaimed heir apparent by Liliuokalani, who was on the throne of Hawaii.

The funeral of the dead princess will occur on Sunday, March 12, from the old native church, and will be under the direction of the government. The ceremonies will be on a scale befitting the rank of the young princess.

The body is lying in state at Aniashau, the princess' old home. Thousands of people, both native and white, have gone out to the place, and the whole town is in mourning. Flags on the government buildings are at half mast, as are those on the residences of the foreign consuls. Bishop Willis of the Church of England will conduct the funeral services.

All the Chinese in quarantine whose permits from the old Hawaiian government are in good form will begin to land in Honolulu without further delay. In accordance with a final decision of the matter by the treasury department at Washington received in a short dispatch by Special Agent Brown by the Peking. The dispatch requests that the decision be submitted to the Hawaiian government at once for its guidance.

Agent Brown's dispatch is short and to the point. The instructions mean that all Chinese holding permits from the Hawaiian government, issued up to the time of Mr. Brown's arrival here, may come in. Annexation and the flag raising on Aug. 12 are ignored in dealing with the matter. As no permits of any kind were issued after the arrival of Mr. Brown, the situation is that all Chinese who have left this country with regular or even conditional permits may come back.

ALL QUIET NOW.

No Further Trouble Is Expected at Hot Springs.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 17.—Peace and quiet prevail in this city today, although the details of yesterday's bloody street riot, in which five well-known citizens were killed, are eagerly discussed on the streets. Governor Jones arrived early this morning from Little Rock. Judge Belding, who was sworn in as chief of police last night, has appointed 150 special policemen, and no further trouble is now anticipated.

A coroner's inquest will be held this afternoon.

Sheriff Bob Williams, who was so prominently identified with yesterday's tragedy, is one of the best known public men in Arkansas. He has served a previous term as sheriff and was a long time mayor of Hot Springs.

Chief of Police Thomas C. Toler, one of the slain, was a man of great courage. He was absolutely fearless of danger. He had lived in Hot Springs about twenty-five years and had had a somewhat stormy career.

ENJOYED A PERFECT DAY.

President and Party Enjoy a Drive In the Country.

Thomasville, Ga., March 17.—President McKinley enjoyed the sunshine and delightful atmosphere of a perfect day. A half hour was spent in dispatching early business, including the signing of some army commissions. Shortly after 10 o'clock the party left the house for a drive to Melrose, the beautiful plantation of M. A. Hanna. Senator Hanna drove one team and President McKinley himself held the reins in the smart yellow trap which followed, both teams going at a good sharp gait.

Vice-President Hobart and two ladies of the party were with the president. Luncheon was served at Melrose and nearly the entire afternoon spent in the country.

The latter has not yet reported at Havana, but there is still plenty of time for her to reach Kingston in season to meet the Paris.

GOVERNOR IS BITTER

Georgia's Chief Executive Expresses Himself on the Palmetto Lynching.

SOLDIERS TO BLAME

Presence of Rowdy Colored Troops Had Baneful Influence on Negroes.

Atlanta, Ga., March 17.—Governor Candler is very bitter in his denunciation of the Palmetto affair. He attributes the trouble to the fact that negro regiments and soldiers have been passing through and the sight of them has placed in the mind of the negro a spirit of boldness.

"The Palmetto lynching was as deplorable as it was bloody and cowardly," said the governor. "It is true the town was burned in the night time, endangering the lives of all its women and children. It is true that I had offered rewards for the apprehension of the incendiaries, and that these negroes had been arrested and some of them had confessed their guilt and implicated the others in the crime, but it was cowardly and barbarous to slaughter them as this mob did, for they had been arrested and were in the hands of officers of the law awaiting a committing trial. The law was adequate for their punishment and there was no doubt of their speedy trial and punishment, if convicted.

"Until recently there was no race friction in the state. The Georgia negro is not naturally vicious or predisposed to the commission of atrocious crimes. This was demonstrated during the years of slavery. Such outrages as this never, or seldom, occurred in this state until regiments of insolent, drunken negro soldiers, the scum of the dives of the cities North and South, were quartered here and there in the state and the South.

"A mob of negro soldiers ran riot in Tampa and outraged women in broad daylight. Another gang of drunken vagabonds in Macon defied and tried to fire on the police. For months another regiment of these lawless vagabonds wearing the uniform of the United States soldiers, terrorized Chickamauga and the town of Lytle, in North Georgia, to say nothing of the Griffin episode and other similar occurrences.

"They had to be escorted through every Southern city through which they passed, after they were discharged, by a battalion of police to prevent their looting the stores and terrorizing the people.

"The Leesburg outrage, the Palmetto burning and many other similar crimes committed in Georgia by negroes during the last few months are due to the baneful influence and example of these lawless rowdies, who disgraced the uniform they wore. This is the primary cause of all these troubles. Still, this does not justify the bloody and barbarous retaliation of Leesburg and Palmetto.

"The white men who participated in these sanguinary dramas are as unjustifiable for their conduct as the negroes they lynched. Both are a disgrace to our civilization and a reproach to our state, and all the power of the state shall be used to prevent a recurrence of such crimes and to punish the perpetrators."

THE LIEGE EXPOSITION.

Our Consul Calls Attention of American Manufacturers Thereto.

Washington, March 17.—Consul Winslow, at Liege, informs the state department that the Liege international exposition will be held in that city beginning about May 1, 1903, and continuing six months, under the patronage of the government of Belgium and the province and city of Liege.

A beautiful and convenient site has been selected, covering about 200 acres, partly in the valley and partly on the hills, the importance of the manufacturing industries of Belgium, especially of the province of Liege, the consul reports, should suggest to the manufacturers of wood working and labor-saving machinery in the United States the propriety of making extensive exhibits of their products at this exposition.

The promoters of this enterprise are leading men of Liege and it is planned on a more extensive scale than the Antwerp exposition of 1894 or the Brussels exposition of 1897.

Work on the construction of the buildings will begin early in 1900 at a cost of several millions of francs.

REACHES SOUTHERN COUNTIES.

Rain Has Relieved the Anxiety of California Farmers.

San Francisco, March 17.—The rain which began on Tuesday has reached the southern counties of the state, relieving the anxiety of the farmers of that section. A great industry in San Bernardino and Ventura counties is beet raising and the present rainfall has assured large crops. Hay and grass will now be plentiful and cattlemen are correspondingly happy. Mines which last year were closed down owing to the lack of water will be able to run the entire summer as there is plenty of snow in the mountains and the streams are full. The rain of the past three days has been of great benefit to California and its value in resultant crops will amount to millions of dollars.

WILLIAMS' OFFER.

New Yorkers Make a Bid For the Big Fight.

New York, March 17.—William A. Brady and Martin Julian, representing Jim Jeffries and Bob Fitzsimmons respectively, met in this city last night to consider bids for the proposed fight for the heavyweight championship. Several offers were received but R. R. Williams of this city made one which overshadowed all others. He said it was the intention of a number of responsible men in this vicinity to erect a building at Bergen Beach, which would accommodate 20,000 people. He said that he would give all the receipts of the fight and the entire picture privileges, less the amount of the cost of the erection of the building. He asked for a week's delay in could make the offer an assured fact. The men agreed to meet again at the same place a week from today.

ANOTHER STREET DUEL.

Columbus, Texas, March 17.—A deputy sheriff was engaged in an altercation with a man named Scott today, when Scott remarked that if he had a gun he would fight. Ex-Sheriff Reese offered him a revolver, and the shooting began. Reese was killed at the first fire. Charles Boeme, a bystander, was also killed, and a small boy, named Williams, was badly injured. The trouble had been expected for some time.

There are weeds in everybody's garden, and no garden was ever planted in which weeds did not insolently present themselves. They come without invitation and without a welcome. If you recognize them as weeds, and if you have sense enough to know that weeds choke flowers, and pull the weeds up, root and branch, you will save the flowers.

There are weeds in the health-garden of many a man and woman. The doctors call them disease germs. If you have sense enough to distinguish them from the flowers of health, and root them out, you will be robust, healthy and happy. The most dangerous of all the weeds in the flower garden of health is that deadly creeper consumption.

There has never been but one medicine that would choke out this weed, root and all. That medicine is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts directly on the lungs through the blood, driving out all impurities and disease germs, and building up new and healthy tissue. It restores the lost appetite, makes digestion and assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver, purifies the blood and fills it with the life-giving elements of the food and tones and builds up the nerves. It sustains the action of the heart and deepens the breathing, supplying the blood with life-giving oxygen. Medicine dealers sell it.

"A doctor, who is considered an expert on lung troubles, told me I had consumption and could not live long," writes Mrs. James Gatfield, 77 Mary Street, Hamilton, Ont., Can. "Three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cured me completely."

San Francisco, March 17.—D. W. Semple of Dawson City, business manager of the Klondike Nugget, is in this city, en route to Ottawa, Ont., formally to present charges against ex-Government Commissioner Thomas Fawcett. His mission is the outcome of a persistent and uncompromising attack upon the methods and practices of the office from which Fawcett was recently removed. He is still chief of survey, however, and from this place his removal will be asked. A demand will also be made for prosecution on a number of charges of alleged official misconduct.

THE CRAZE FOR COMBINE.

Two ship building companies of Cleveland will be absorbed by the American Shipbuilding company, that was incorporated in New Jersey yesterday. These are the Cleveland Shipbuilding company, with headquarters at Cleveland and yards at Lorain, Ohio, and the Globe Iron Works company, whose yards are located at Cleveland. Each of these companies is capitalized for about $1,000,000 and each employs several hundred men. They build modern steel steamers.

There is now being formed a syndicate of prominent Philadelphia bankers who will furnish the capital for a corporation to be known as the Bethlehem Steel company, the purpose of the incorporators being to acquire the property and business of the famous Bethlehem iron company, which was founded in 1857 at South Bethlehem, Pa.

A consolidation of the canning interests in New York state is being formed and the Erie Preserving company, with offices in Buffalo, will probably be one of the members. It is intended to embrace all the concerns packing fruits and vegetables and it is to be capitalized at $20,000,000.

A combination of the chief woolen mills in the East, a counterpart in many respects to the American Woolen company the worsted mills combined, is reported to be under consideration by several wool houses in Boston, although how far it has progressed is not yet known. Five concerns in Boston, two in Hartford and three in Philadelphia are said to have offered assistance.

THE OLD WAY

Of Treating Dyspepsia and Indigestion By Dieting a Dangerous and Useless One.

We say the old way, but really it is a very common one at the present time and many dyspeptics and physicians as well consider the first step to take in attempting to cure indigestion is to diet, either by selecting certain foods and rejecting others or to greatly diminish the quantity usually taken. In other words, the starvation plan is by many supposed to be the first essential.

The almost certain failure of the starvation cure for dyspepsia has been proven time and again, but still the moment dyspepsia makes its appearance a course of dieting is at once advised.

All this is radically wrong. It is foolish and unscientific to recommend dieting or starvation to a man suffering from dyspepsia, because indigestion itself starves every organ and every nerve and every fiber in the body.

What the dyspeptic wants is abundant nutrition, which means plenty of good, wholesome, well cooked food and something to assist the weak stomach to digest it. This is exactly the purpose for which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are adapted and this is the method by which they cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, in other words the patient eats plenty of wholesome food and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest it for him. In this way the system is nourished and the overworked stomach rested, because the tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not. One of these tablets will digest 3000 grains of meat or eggs.

Your druggist will tell you that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the purest and safest remedy for stomach troubles and every trial makes one more friend for this excellent preparation. Sold at 50 cents for full-sized package at all drug stores.

ALASKAN FARMING.

Prof. Georgeson Will Go to That Territory to Make Experiments.

Washington, March 17.—Professor S. S. Georgeson of the department of agriculture will leave here Saturday for Alaska to establish at Sitka an agricultural experiment station and look after the agricultural possibilities of that region. Professor Georgeson is a native of Denmark and thoroughly familiar with the conditions of agriculture in Northern Europe and has had a long experience as a professor and experiment worker in Japan and Kansas. The inquiries will be conducted on a systematic basis and advantage is to be taken of the experience of the past two seasons in Alaska.

Professor Georgeson was conducting investigations in the territory last year and despite late planting, he not reaching Sitka until the middle of May, the oats, barley, flax, potatoes and a number of different kinds of vegetables of good quality matured and grasses made an excellent growth.

This spring an experiment office building will be erected at Sitka to contain offices, laboratories and quarters, not only for the special agent in the experiment work, but also a weather observer. A full equipment will be purchased to meet the requirements and later small buildings will be erected on reserved land at Sitka and Kenai for field experiments. The experiments now are limited to growing different crops, studies of soils and different methods of culture, and preservation of grasses and forage plants and before long experiments in the care and feeding of live stock may be feasible.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE MOLINEUX CASE.

New York, March 17.—District Attorney Gardiner yesterday filed his brief opposing the motion of the defense for the inspection of the proceedings of the grand jury which indicted R. B. Molineux for the murder of Mrs. Kate J. Adams. The brief is a very voluminous affair. It sets forth, in short, that the idea of the application is to get ammunition from an inspection of the proceedings of the grand jury for the purpose of quashing the indictment. The district attorney argues that the motion is not in the nature of those who shall grant an application, but is discretionary with the judges. Judge Blanchard took the papers. The defense have until tomorrow to file a brief. The matter will probably be determined next week.

THE WAGE QUESTION.

Representatives from the Stove Founders National Defense association and delegates from the Iron Moulders' union of North America held a conference at Chicago and voted a raise of 10 per cent in wages, which directly benefits 25,000 stove moulders and increases the salary rolls of the big stove firms $45,000 per week.

The Ohio coal mine operators signed the Pittsburg agreement under protest last night, and the threatened strike has been averted. The miners held out firmly for the Pittsburg agreement and the operators were unable to gain the slightest concession. The prices mined for the next year in Ohio are 66 cents per ton for screened coal and 47 1-2 cents for run of mine. The agreement dates from April 1.

The meeting between block coal operators and miners held at Brazil, Ind., to make a final effort to adjust a scale for a year, closed also without an agreement being reached. All the men employed at the Big Four mine belonging to F. S. Peabody of Chicago, quit work because no settlement was reached.

Notice has been issued to the 240 employes of the Penoyol Iron works, at West Manayunk, Pa., that an advance and readjustment of wages will be made in all departments of the plant on March 27. The works are running full time in all departments, and in some departments double time is necessary to fill orders.

BURGLARS MAKE A HAUL.

Saginaw, Mich., March 17.—Burglars entered Charles H. May & Co.'s bank at Clio, Genesee county, twenty-six miles south of here, early yesterday morning, blew open the vault and safe with nitro-glycerine and took $1500 from the safe and made their escape without making their presence known until the bank cashier found the bank's door open on going to work. Last night two persons were arrested at Durand on suspicion. They hired a rig yesterday morning from a livery stable in Clio to drive them to Saginaw. When two miles out of the village they alighted and, at the point of a revolver, compelled the driver to go back to Clio. The driver has gone to Durand to identify them.

MAY BE A STRIKE.

Denver, Col., March 17.—General Counsel M. M. Dolphin of the Order of Railway Telegraphers has summoned the grand chiefs of the federated railway orders to this city to decide whether a strike shall be ordered on the Colorado & Southern railroad, in consequence of the refusal of Superintendent Dunaway to treat with the telegraphers' order in regard to all the telegraph offices of the Colorado & Southern system.

ONE CENT DECLINE

Wheat Started Weak, Turned Strong But Later Took Another Slump.

THE CABLES LOWER

Argentine Shipments Show an Increase and Rains In California Continue.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 17.—The wheat market opened weak and lower this morning, there being a continuation of the bearish sentiment that prevailed yesterday. The cables showed that Liverpool had declined about equal to yesterday's break in the American markets. [illegible] Northwest receipts were large, [illegible] cars at both Duluth and Minneapolis. This heavy movement was regarded as a strong bear argument, but it is fairly likely that the receipts will keep up to these figures long if prices continue to decline, because the farmers will not be disposed to sell at low prices [illegible] of their wheat over. Another bearish feature was a continuance of the heavy rains in California and [illegible] weather in the winter wheat belt, while Argentine shipments were larger than last year. The expected liquidation [illegible] was not as heavy as expected [illegible] orders started the shorts to covering, with the result that the market became stronger and prices advanced. [illegible] the reaction was short-lived. The [illegible] sentiment and the bearish news [illegible] powerful to be so easily overcome, and down went the price again until [illegible] selling at [illegible] in Duluth and [illegible] in Chicago. The close was [illegible] lower [illegible] Chicago and [illegible] in Duluth.

[illegible] are many people who believe that [illegible] is a good purchase at present [illegible]. The Chicago Chronicle thus interprets [illegible] general sentiment: "If it [illegible] that the winter wheat plant [illegible] seriously injured then higher [illegible] inevitable, perhaps considerably [illegible]. If there is no crop damage, and [illegible] is as claimed, even though [illegible] in excess of that harvested in 1898, the lower prices are in- [illegible]. The [illegible] points to the small visible [illegible] the large invisible, and [illegible]. Neither deny both [illegible] and foreign demands are very [illegible] agree that the big first hand [illegible] have not tarried by the way [illegible] direct to the consumer [illegible] agree also that the average [illegible] world's stock is away under the [illegible] last decade—about 25 per [illegible]—and the price also below an [illegible]. To offset this we have lower [illegible] and cheaper money, besides lessened cost of production following improved and cheapened mechanical appliances [illegible] farmer. Then too the character of the buying has changed from distributors carrying liberal stocks to buyers [illegible] from hand to mouth. In an unprofitable and disastrous sense too [illegible] speculation has practically gone [illegible] we won't tell why, though [illegible]. To sum up, the wheat trade [illegible] basis—whether for the better or worse remains to be seen—so [illegible] calculations based on the past are [illegible] or appear to be. Sentiment believes the crop has suffered severely, but [illegible] proof."

Trading in futures on the Duluth board [illegible]. May wheat opened [illegible] lower [illegible] sold at [illegible] at 9:22, rose to [illegible] at 9:40, slumped off to [illegible] at 10:40, recovered to [illegible] at 12:10 but took a slump [illegible] declined [illegible] at 12:50. The close was at [illegible] bid, or [illegible] under yesterday. There was small cash business, only 35,000 bus being delivered, at [illegible] under May for wheat to arrive and 2c [illegible] for spot stuff. It is estimated Duluth wheat stocks will increase 350,000 bus. [illegible] and corn each declined [illegible], rye fell [illegible] and barley closed [illegible] lower. Flax [illegible] unchanged. Following were the closing prices:

ON THE CHICAGO BOARD.

Wheat Prices Continue to Slide Downward Rapidly.

Chicago, March 17.—Fear of further liquidation [illegible] and a full response at Liverpool to the break here yesterday gave wheat a weak start. May opened ⅛c [illegible] at 67⅜@[illegible] and under the influence of [illegible] selling slipped off to 67⅛c. Northwest receipts were large, Minneapolis and Duluth receiving 752 cars compared with 278 for the same date last year. California continued to get heavy rains and the weather over the winter wheat [illegible] was reported mild. Argentine shipment figures were wide apart, one report [illegible] the [illegible] 2,168,000 and another [illegible] 1,264,000 bus, but both were larger [illegible] last year. The export demand was reported to be slack, but as the liquidation was not as heavy as expected some outside buying orders started shorts covering [illegible] decline. The market developed [illegible] tone, May advancing to 67⅝@[illegible] [illegible] selling to liquidate the holdings of [illegible] caused a dip in corn at [illegible]. Receipts were light, however, [illegible] general buying by yesterday's [illegible] a strengthening influence. Receipts 171 cars. May opened ⅛ [illegible] lower at [illegible], sold sparingly at [illegible] and improved to 33¾@34c.

[illegible] shorts and good buying [illegible] cash sales accentuated an upward tendency in oats. Receipts were 151 [illegible] May began [illegible] down at 25@[illegible], [illegible] advanced to 25⅛c.

Provisions developed moderate weakness, owing to a light trade and selling by packers. May pork opened 5@10c lower at [illegible] 12 and sold at $9.10@9.12. May lard and ribs ruled a shade lower at $5.35@5.3[illegible] and $4.70@4.72 respectively.

Close: wheat, May, 66¼@⅜c; July, 65⅝c. Corn, March, 32½c; May, 33⅞@34c; July, [illegible]; September, 35¼c. Oats, March, 21½ [illegible]; May, 25½@⅝c; July, 24c. Pork, March, $8.75; May, $8.97@9.00; July, $9.12. Lard, March, $5.2[illegible]; May, $5.32; July, $5.47; September, $5.60. THE COTTON MARKET.

Trade Disappointingly Small and Foreign News Bearish.

New York, March 17.—The cotton market opened steady in tone with prices unchanged to 3 points lower and slowly eased off under liquidating orders and scattered selling for foreign account, brought out by freer receipts at all points and continued very favorable weather news from nearly every part of the belt. Trading was disappointingly small and, while a good share of the offerings of long stuff were absorbed by several of the stronger export and spot cotton houses, the foreign news was of bearish tone, reflecting apathetic conditions abroad, with futures 1 to 1½ points lower at Liverpool. While sales of spot cotton at that point were smaller, the latter said to be the natural result of the more reassuring crop news from this side. May sold off to $6.08 and August to $6.12. The new crop deliveries, notably October and January, held relatively steadier on light investment buying for Wall street account.

Cotton spot closed easy and unchanged; sales, 1300 bales. Futures closed steady; March, $6.05; April and May, $6.05; June, $6.07; July and August, $6.10; September, $6.09; October, $6.04; November, $6.02; December, $6.05; January, $6.07.

NEW YORK MONEY.

New York, March 17.—Money on call firm at 1½ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 3½@4½ per cent; sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.85½@4.85½ for demand and at $4.83@4.83¼ for sixty days; posted rates, $4.84@4.84½ and $4.86@4.86½; commercial bills, $4.82½. Silver certificates, 60⅛@½c; bar silver, 59⅝c; Mexican dollars, 47½c. Government bonds strong. United States 3s, $1.07⅝; new 4s registered and coupon, $1.28⅜; old 4s registered, $1.11¾; coupon, $1.12½; 2s, 99½; 5s registered and coupon, $1.12.

WILL OBSERVE EASTER.

Liverpool, March 17.—The cotton exchange will observe the Easter holidays by closing March 31, April 1 and 3.

MIDWAY HORSE MARKET.

Minnesota Transfer, S. Paul—Barrett & Zimmerman's report: Demand urgent on all grades of horses and sales easily effected. The market was flooded with consignments, but the large outlets made lots of room for new arrivals. The trade has the highest activity and the aggregate sales this month will undoubtedly exceed by far those of the corresponding months the past five years. Farm horses make up the principal outgoing stock, although the demand for heavy drafters, drivers and carriage horses is good. The nominal value of sound, serviceable horses from 4 to 8 years, is as follows:

Drafters, choice to extra......	$100 to $140
Drafters, common to good.....	75 to 95
Farm horses, choice to extra..	85 to 120
Farm horses, common to good..	45 to 60
Mules, 1250 pounds	70 to 90

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, March 17.—Wheat ruled weak early, declining to 66⅝c, but later, owing to heavy covering by shorts the market advanced to 67⅝c. With the short interest pretty well eliminated, the market became weak and sold off sharply to 66⅝c, closing at 66¼@⅜c for May. We have had a good decline on wheat but can't see a thing to advise buying wheat to hold, and look for a still lower range of prices.

Corn closed ⅛c lower than it did yesterday. Speculation has gradually been growing lighter; we noticed houses long on corn increasing their lines a little today, but shorts on the whole were the best buyers; they are buying it because their sales show a profit. They are still bearish and will be sellers on any advance. Receipts light. Of course there is a good deal of difference between 34c and 39c, but we see no reason to change our opinion that corn will sell lower.

May oats sold free early at 25c, and later in the session were firm, closing at 25¼@⅜c, some higher than yesterday. New York is the best buyer of oats here today.

Provisions were lower and are now practically as low as they sold at, notwithstanding hogs are selling at very close to the best prices of the season. There is a steady liquidation in provisions in a small way; packers the best buyers.

Puts, May wheat, 65¾@66¼c.

THE COPPER STOCKS.

Copper stocks were mostly off today. Atlantic was 3 points off, Tamarack 3½ off and Quincy 2 off. Butte & Boston was 2½ up and Old Dominion 3½ up. Following are the closing prices furnished by Paine, Webber & Co., Hotel St. Louis:

Boston, March 17.—Closing prices of copper mining shares: Adventure, 14; Arcadian, 81; Allouez, 9⅝; Arnold, 10½@11; Atlantic, 31; Baltic, 28½; Boston & Montana, 365; Butte & Boston, 89½; Calumet & Hecla, 740; Centennial, 45½; Franklin, 21¾; Old Dominion, 45½; Osceola, 90; Mohawk, 30; Old Colony, 17; Rhode Island, 13½; Tamarack, 227; Tecumseh, 8; Union Land, 8; Wolverine, 46⅞; Winona, 17; Quincy, 163; Isle Royale, 68.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

New York, March 17.—The repetition of yesterday's exciting scenes in the Sugar crowd were hardly looked for this morning. Nevertheless a great body of brokers were congregated about the Sugar posts prepared to take advantage of any manipulation which developed. The ball was started with simultaneous sales of 4000 shares from 160 to 158. Then the price went down to 157 and back to 161¼ in the first five minutes. Last night's final transactions were at 159½. The general market was strong with material gains in Metropolitan, Tennessee Coal, People's Gas and Brooklyn Transit. The aggressive manipulation in the specialties stimulated pool operations in other stocks and prices therefore mounted rapidly upward. Sugar was the star performer, touching 165½, and then slumping to 162. Air Brake and Third Avenue mounted up 4 points and People's Gas 3. The granger shares, New York Central, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, were foremost in the railroad group. Manhattan sold ex-dividend and ex-rights at 105½. The rights brought 3⅛. The high level all round was reached at 10:30 a. m. and the market then yielded sharply on realizations.

The rapid evolutions in Sugar produced considerable feverishness in other stocks with the hesitancy causing a generally lower level. The declines were most severe in the shares which had participated most largely in the opening bulge, the heavy liquidation in American Steel and Wire dragging kindred stocks down with it. Toward midday Sugar spurted up to near 167 and the general market followed to a moderate extent. The monetary situation excites considerable interest in the street and the steadiness of call loans around 4 per cent naturally creates some discussion as to the stability of the current bull speculation. Sales of stocks to noon, 417,822 shares.

COULD ANSWER ONE.

The jury in the Woollen divorce case, after sitting under the testimony several days, had the hard luck to be compelled to stay in a jury room all last night owing to its failure to agree upon the three questions put to it by the court. The questions were as follows: "First—Did the defendant, Eugenia Woollen, commit the act of adultery with the man Kelly substantially as and at the time and place alleged in the complaint? Second—Was the offense alleged committed by the procurement or connivance of the plaintiff? Third—After the commission of the alleged offense was there voluntary cohabitation of the parties with the knowledge on the part of the plaintiff that the offense had been committed?"

The jury made no bones about the first question. It was answered in the affirmative with little ado. The other two were posers, however. The jury spent the entire night wrestling with them, and no progress whatever was made. At 10 o'clock this morning the jury filed into court and wanted some instructions. Among other things the jury wanted to know the exact meaning of the word "connivance." It became plain that the jury could not agree on the second and third answers, so the court, by consent of the attorneys on both sides, withdrew consideration of the two latter questions from the jury, and Judge Cant will answer them himself. It took the jury but a little while to fix up a verdict on the first question, which it returned to court. It was then 11 o'clock, and the jury was excused until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The matter will come up for argument tomorrow morning, when the defendant will be allowed to produce another witness. At that time Judge Cant will answer the questions.

The jury in the personal injury case of Joan M. McLeod against King & Steele took the case at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and it agreed upon a verdict at 7 o'clock. The court was not in session then, so the verdict was sealed and delivered in court this morning. The jury found in favor of the defendants. McLeod sued for $5000 damages for personal injuries.

As the jurors were all engaged in room No. 1, where a jury was being drawn in the Ackerman case, neither Judge Ensign nor Judge Cant took up another case this morning.

TRADERS OBSERVE IT.

It's a pretty insignificant holiday that does not get some sort of an observation on the board of trade. Today is St. Patrick's day, and it was observed in great style by the traders. When they got around this morning the pit was decorated in an amusing way. From the great dome in the center was suspended a typical "Mick," with galways, a plug hat with a clay pipe in it, and a map of Erin for a face. On the back of this dummy was a legend that informed the spectators that the hanging was done for "the wearing of the green." All round the walls there were great shamrocks, mostly of green. Some of them, however, were of a color most unseemly for a shamrock, yellow. A large picture drawn by a local artist was displayed, of an Irishman riding a mule. It was labelled "Mike McCarthy, the first duke of Galway." Most of the traders had green ribbons or shamrocks, and one had a green necktie and a green handkerchief. G. S. Barnes had the temerity to appear with a yellow ribbon prominently displayed, and he became involved in an impromptu wrestling match with E. N. Bradley in which the latter was awarded the decision. The match was very much catch-as-catch-can. The calendars all over the trading pit had the 17th of March covered with green chalk. Even the oranges at the lunch stand were painted green.

WEST DULUTH

At present, in order to have deceased relatives buried in consecrated ground, it is necessary for the Catholics of West Duluth and vicinity to make a trip of sixteen miles and upwards whenever a funeral occurs. During the rigors of winter such a trip tries the strength of the strongest constitutions and is often the cause of serious illness to the physically weak. A remedy for this condition of affairs is being sought and a meeting has been called to discuss the matter tomorrow evening. The meeting will be held in Gilley's hall, beginning at 8 o'clock, and it is proposed to form an association and purchase a suitable site for a cemetery in this neighborhood. All Catholics of Fond du Lac, Smithville, New Duluth, Proctorknott, West Duluth and vicinity are earnestly urged to attend the meeting.

A. J. Filiatrault is taking a prominent part in the matter, and the meeting is called after consultation with a number of prominent Catholics in West Duluth.

NO LONGER CAPTAIN

Capt. Teare Sends In His Resignation as Commander of Company G.

COMPANY POLITICS

Air Full of It at Present Time—Lieut. Wigdahl For Captain.

Capt. Charles C. Teare has forwarded his resignation as captain of Company G of the Fourteenth regiment to the adjutant general of the state, and it will take effect as soon as it is acted upon. It was intimated a few days ago that he would take this action. Capt. Teare has been commander of Company G about two years and has brought the company to a fine degree of proficiency.

Company politics will now be in the air for some time, in fact is already very much in evidence. So far no one has been talked of for captain except First Lieut. Alfred Wigdahl, and it is generally acknowledged that he will get the place. It is also generally admitted that he thoroughly deserves the honor. He has made a careful study of militia work for several years. When elected first lieutenant he underwent a captain's examination and passed with a very high mark. At Chickamauga he was one of the most popular officers with the men that the Fourteenth regiment had.

The election of Lieut. Wigdahl to be captain will leave two lieutenancies vacant. For these positions there are four aspirants. They go in pairs, however. One clique of the company favors C. P. McCormick for first and Henry Meining for second, while the other wants W. Chapman for first and Scott Cash for second. The latter were thought by some to be out of the race, but their friends claim they are very much in it.

THE JURY SELECIED.

Twenty-Four Men Examined For the Ackerman Jury.

The case against James A. Ackerman, who was indicted by the grand jury for receiving stolen property, was taken up before Judge Moer in room No. 1 of district court this morning, and it took until noon to complete the jury. Twenty-four men were drawn, including two talesmen, before the panel was complete. Most of the men called had heard too much about the case to enable them to sit as jurors. If it took as long as this to draw a jury in the Ackerman case, the prospects are that it will be even more difficult to get juries in the other four cases in which the defendants are more widely known than in the Ackerman case.

The jury was completed just in time for the noon adjournment, so nothing was done beyond that. This afternoon the county attorney made his address, and the taking of evidence was begun. The indictment against Ackerman charges that he bought 1000 pounds of flour from John Casey, one of the men indicted in connection with the flour and copper thefts, knowing to have been stolen by him. William B. Phelps, county attorney, appeared for the state, and Oscar Mitchell and P. C. Schmidt for the defendant.

Scottish Rite Services.

The Tenebrae and Feast Obligatory on Maundy Thursday will be observed by A. T. C. Pierson chapter, Rose Croix, No. 4, at the Spalding hotel. The feast day falls on March 30 this year. The celebration will begin at 7 o'clock. All members of the Scottish Rite who have attained the eighteenth degree are under the obligation by Masonic law to attend the mystic banquet. On this occasion the impressive ceremony of extinguishing the lights is gone through with, and on Easter Sunday they are relighted. The ceremony of relighting will take place at the Masonic Temple at 4:30 in the afternoon.

Inspected Railroad Street.

The council committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks and the board of public works this afternoon inspected Railroad street, between Eleventh and Fifteenth avenues west, where the board has recommended that improvements be made. Later in the afternoon the board was to have a session with the light and water board in regard to a question between them as to whether certain bills incurred about the time the latter board took charge of the water system should be charged to it.

To Give an Entertainment.

The Westminster auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will give an entertainment in the church parlors Tuesday evening, entitled "The Spinsters' Fortnightly Club, or Old Maids' Convention." Professor Makeover will be present with his wonderful machine to change old maids into young girls. It is the first time this machine has been seen in Duluth. It is in immense demand in the East. The entertainment will begin at 8 o'clock. The entertainment has proven a great success in the East.

Bids For Fencing.

The board of public works opened bids on wire fence for the new reservoir this morning. Bids were asked on four kinds. Thompson & Dunlop were the lowest bidders on all kinds, as follows: Woven wire, $929; galvanized iron wire, $1249; wrought iron, square pickets, $1013; wrought iron, spear head pickets, $1290. The other bidders were J. Rothwell and Farrell & Turnbull. Thompson & Dunlop's bid has a clause providing that it must be accepted within four days.

The Result of Sending Troops to Henson, Col.

Denver, March 17.—A special to the Times from Lake City, Colo., says: Special trains bringing three companies of infantry and two troops of cavalry from Denver and Pueblo arrived here this morning. There are 235 soldiers here under comand of Col. Macarey. They will march to the mining camp Henson, three miles from here, this afternoon. The coal strikers have been kept in ignorance of the arrival of troops.

A conflict has already arisen between the civil and military authorities as to which shall be in control. Col. Macarey announced that he would take charge, but the civil authorities deny his right to do so unless martial law is declared.

ROW WAS EXPECTED

Authorities at Washington Anticipated the Trouble on the Boundary.

THE PLACE UNKNOWN

Therefore It Cannot Be Determined Who Was In the Fault.

Washington, March 17.—The hostile collision between the American and Canadian miners, reported from Vancouver, is exactly what was apprehended by the representatives of the United States government in the late Canadian conference. It is said by one of these officials that they were sadly embarrassed in their efforts to settle the Alaskan boundary dispute by the British Columbia legislature, which so far from endeavoring to secure a peaceful adjustment of the boundary difficulties had, by the passage of irritating legislation, done much to retard an agreement.

With infinite difficulty the joint commissioners had succeeded in reaching an agreement, to which all could subscribe, looking to the settlement of this boundary question, and of the conflicting mining interests generally. Within a week the British Columbia legislature had passed an act nullifying completely all of the interests which the American miners had so painfully and expensively acquired in the new Atlin district. This caused great irritation, and was the subject of considerable discussion before the commission. It was believed, however, that with the ratification of the treaty which was expected to be negotiated, carrying with it the proposition for the settlement of the mining controversies, the obnoxious law would be vacated by the superior force of the treaty.

Apprehensive of trouble in the failure of that instrument, the two governments, United States and Great Britain, reached an arrangement in the nature of a modus vivendi, roughly defining by certain landmarks the boundary between the British and American possessions in the Klondike section, down to British Columbia.

The officials here cannot tell from the vague report brought by the Vancouver dispatch just where the collision took place between the American and Canadian miners, so it is impossible to tell who is at fault. It is said, however, that the Canadians have been particularly aggressive in this boundary matter right along; that they have several times advanced the lines of the boundary claimed by them, and that in each case this extension coincided or followed very closely the discovery of new gold fields in the vicinity.

The indications are that the United States government will be obliged to take steps to police its side of the border in Alaska in a method corresponding to the Canadian system. There will be nothing threatening in the adoption of such a course, for in the official belief there is much less risk of conflict between the regularly organized and responsible bodies, like the Canadian mounted police on the one side and the United States military on the other, than between bands of miners as opposed to the Canadian police. Consequently it is probable that as soon as Col. Ray arrives here from Porto Rico, or perhaps even before, the war department will take steps to organize a suitable force for this purpose.

The reports sent by the United States army officers in Alaska refer to the Porcupine River locality, where this conflict is reported. Lieut. Richardson reported that eighteen prospectors had gone up the Porcupine and Salmon rivers. He gave in detail the geography of the Porcupine, and its sudden and dangerous floods in the spring, but he did not indicate that any question existed as between the American and Canadian interests.

THE TROOPS DEPART.

All the Negroes Wounded at Palmetto Will Recover.

Palmetto, Ga., March 17.—The Capital City Guards of Atlanta, Ga., who were sent here yesterday by Governor Candler to aid in preserving order, left for home at noon today. John Bigby, one of the negroes wounded by the party of whites, is still alive. The other wounded men will recover. No action looking to the investigation of the affair has been taken by the county authorities.

NO SELFISH MOTIVES.

Mayor Says He Is Working Only For the City's Good.

The mayor says, apropos of the assertion in the News Tribune's St. Paul correspondence this morning that there is a belief in St. Paul that the sentiment in Duluth is that the mayor should not be allowed to "work through any more schemes to put the city in the hole," that he should like to have those responsible for that belief point out a scheme of his that has had that effect. He did not propose to put the city in the hole himself, he said, nor would he allow anybody else to do so.

"I have no doubt," said the mayor, "that the interests that have been constantly at work for selfish purposes in St. Paul have tried to foster such a belief. The two senators referred to by the News Tribune are politically opposed to me, and the seed sown by the interests alluded to has found fruitful soil in their minds. If they think that the measures for relief that are proposed are good, how can they conscientiously oppose them on political grounds? If they think that the people up here favor a measure to tie the city up, they are mistaken. There are but a few desire such legislation, and they are actuated by selfish purposes.

"It seems impossible to take a step in the interest of the people without being accused of being animated by ulterior motives. The trouble is that there are many in public office who are built on that principle, and they naturally attribute selfish motives to others.

"I believe in the people, and had rather trust them than a few individuals at any time. Those who are elected to represent the people make a mistake in assuming that they know it all and the people know nothing.

"The members of the delegation will have to account to the people and not to me. I am asking nothing from the delegation. They must think that I think a good deal of the mayor's office or any other office. I do not. While I am in office, however, I am going to do my duty regardless of the misconceptions of anybody."

Destroyed All His Ties.

Comptroller McCormick appeared this morning wearing a shoe string for a neck tie. He threw a match in the waste basket in his room last night and the contents caught fire and blazed up and consumed his entire stock of ties, which were hanging on the gas jet above.

LAMP MAKERS COMBINE.

Pittsburg, March 17.—A combination of decorated glass and metal lamp manufacturers is in process of formation and it is expected will be in active operation before the middle of next month. The new combination will include all the lamp manufacturers of the country and a petition for a charter will shortly be made in New Jersey. The capital of the new concern has not yet been decided upon, but it will amount to several millions of dollars.

FOR TWO MURDERS

Oliver Prevost Hanged at Port Arthur For an Atrocious Crime.

PARAMOUR ACCUSED

Married Woman He Was Living With Furnished Testimony to Convict.

Port Arthur, Ont., March 17.—Oliver Prevost was hanged this morning. The drop fell at 8 o'clock.

Oliver Prevost was executed for the murder of two French swine herders named Carrie and Delvin, on Feb. 10, 1897. The evidence was largely circumstantial. The principal witness against Prevost was Rosannah Gauthier, a married woman, who at the time of the tragedy was living with Prevost. In his defense Prevost swore the woman poisoned the two men. Both swore that robbery was the motive. During the trial the fact was brought prominently to the attention of the court that Prevost had been taken from an insane ward of Kingston penitentiary, where he was serving a term for another offense, and put upon his trial for murder. For this reason and because the plea of insanity was persistently urged the minister of justice appointed a commission to visit Prevost and examine him. The commission reported that he was in possession of his faculties and was morally responsible for his crime.

THE DAKOTAS.

Ex-State Treasurer L. E. Booker of North Dakota Returns Unexpectedly.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—L. E. Booker, ex-state treasurer of North Dakota and president of the defunct Grand Forks National bank, who was indicted by the federal court for misappropriation of funds of his bank, placed under $5000 bonds and then decamped before his trial, is in the state again, returning from British Columbia yesterday. It is authoritatively stated that he will throw himself on the mercy of the United States district court, which meets here today. Booker's arrival and action will cause a sensation throughout the state.

Mayor Johnson has received a personal letter from President Hill of the Great Northern, who promises to be present at the Interstate Grain Growers' convention to be held here March 21, 22 and 23. The meeting will be conducted under the joint supervision of the agricultural colleges of Minnesota and North Dakota. The faculties of both institutions have been at work on scientific methods to aid farmers in purifying the seed wheat.

Mrs. C. A. Lounsberry, state regent for the D. A. R., was tendered a reception by members of the order here.

Rev. W. D. Rees, the Episcopal missionary for the Indians in this state, spent a part of the week in Fargo transacting business with Bishop Edsall.

Bismarck—Sheriff Bogue has begun the preparations for the execution of the condemned negro murderer, J. W. Cole, who witnessed the preparations without apparent fear or nervousness. The execution will be the second legal hanging that has ever taken place in the state and is attracting general attention. It will take place in an enclosure on the east side of the county jail, 24 by 20 feet, and the erection of the enclosure has already begun. The condemned man cannot see the workmen from his cell, but can hear the sound of the hammers as the timbers are put in place. The scaffold is being made by local workmen, and the rope is on the way from Chicago and will arrive the last of the week. The condemned man entertained about fifteen invited guests in the corridor of the jail a night or so ago with songs, recitations and guitar music, his approaching doom having apparently no effect on his musical spirit.

Jamestown—A large delegation of Dunkards arrived in Jamestown yesterday. They were on their way to Sykeston and were former residents of Iowa. They brought with them cattle, horses, farm machinery and furniture, which filled fourteen cars. The new settlers will secure land west of Sykeston and will break up the raw prairie. They will be followed by their families next year. It is understood that the settlement of the lands west of Sykeston means an extension of the branch of the Northern Pacific which has that place for its terminus.

An ordinance has been introduced in East Grand Forks providing that liquor licenses shall not be issued to non-residents. It will probably pass and become a law, as the mayor has signified his intention of signing it. It affects several now in business in that city who live in North Dakota.

The two young Danes who were held here for the robbery of two jewelry stores in Canada have been sentenced to one and three years respectively. They broke into two stores both in Winnipeg and Emerson.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Pierre—Herds of young cattle are coming in and being placed on sale in the stockyards of this city. This class of cattle is being taken all along the line between here and Huron. There will be hundreds brought to this city alone before the shipping season is over, and probably as many more taken at the small stations this side of Huron. Estimates are that at least 10,000 head will be shipped or driven into this city before the last of May.

NO RATE WAR.

Topeka, Kan., March 17.—General Passenger Agent W. J. Black, of the Santa Fe, who has just returned from a meeting of the Passenger Association at St. Louis, says it is not likely that there will be a rate war on account of the cut in rates made by the Missouri river lines to meet the $25 colonist rates made by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific from St. Paul to Northern Pacific points. Said he: "The rate will not be any lower and the whole question will adjust itself as soon as the bulk of the colonists and homeseekers traffic of spring is over."

WEST END CELEBRATION.

Rev. Father Alfred Delivers a Fine St. Patrick Address.

A crowded house greeted the players at St. Clement's hall last night. After the audience had been, so to speak, tuned up by the lively strains of "Dewey's March," Father Alfred, the pastor, ascended the stage and delivered an address that was as instructive as it was eloquent. The speaker told the people why they should celebrate St. Patrick's day. He briefly recounted what St. Patrick had done for the Irish. He said:

"It is a time-honored custom to celebrate St. Patrick's day. This day is never forgotten by the Irish. Though more than fourteen centuries have elapsed since St. Patrick evangelized and civilized Ireland, yet his name is held in benediction, it is enshrined in the hearts of his spiritual children, and it is but natural and meet that his kindly deeds should be gratefully remembered. It was St. Patrick, who conferred upon Ireland true and lasting benefits. He rescued it from the captivity of Satan, and secured for it the liberty of the children of God. He freed the Irish nation from barbarism, error and superstition and lead it on the way of life, truth, and salvation. He conducted the Irish from the darkness of heathenism and the shadow of death into the broad light of Christianity and civilization. For these inestimable benefits St. Patrick has, indeed, merited the grace of the Irish race. Next to God, he is their greatest benefactor, and as a token of grateful acknowledgement for all the good St. Patrick has conferred upon the Irish, they today commemorate the anniversary of his feast, celebrate with all the enthusiasm of their soul—St. Patrick's day."

The speaker extolled the American and made the distinction between the American and the jingo. He deprecated the idea of nationalism and the hatred against foreigners and strongly and effectively inculcated the opinion that foreigners are not enemies of our country on account of the love they have for their fatherland and on account of their customs and language.

The speaker kept the attention of the audience and was applauded frequently.

After the address, followed the well known 4-act comedy drama "The Deacon's Tribulations." It is a high-class play and was acted well. The audience cheered lustily. All the players certainly deserve praise for their great efforts and pains to make an evening pleasant for the members of the congregation. The costuming could not have been in better hands than it was.

Between the acts, Miss Deborah Heffron delighted the audience with her choice music, and the Misses Louisa Lyons and Sophie Daonst warbled the sweet notes of "Where Are the Roses."

The cast of the play consisted of:

Deacon Thornton, whose weakness for lemonade with "a stick in it" is finally overcome .....Frank Beyenka
George Graef, the Deacon's nephew by marriage ..... Al Lyons
George Darrah, James Reed, escaped convicts..Joseph Miller, Charles Nolan

ROME UNDER WATER.

Rome, Ga., March 17.—The water guage on the bridge across the Oostanaula river is still rising. The lowlands on the right bank of the Coosa, known as Hamilton bottoms, are under water from one to ten feet. Water has penetrated the basements of several stores in the Fourth ward, and four feet of water covers the car line for several hundred feet in that part of the city.

THE PEACE CONGRESS.

London, March 17.—The Brussels correspondent of the Daily Mail says that the disarmament conference, which will meet at The Hague on May 18, will be composed of three sections, dealing respectively with disarmament, arbitration and other matters. The German delegates will be Baron von Buelow, Imperial secretary of state for foreign affairs; Baron Marschall von Biebenstein, German ambassador at Constantinople, and Prince Herbert Bismarck.

TO TAKE TESTIMONY.

New York, March 17.—Virgil P. Kline, a Cleveland attorney, is here today taking depositions in the interest of John D. Rockefeller and other defendants in the Standard Oil company. Attorney General Monnett of Ohio is also said to be in the city with the intention, it is said, of serving subpoenas on some of those who will make depositions before Mr. Kline to appear before Special Commissioner John J. Nealis appointed to take depositions in the proceedings in the state of Ohio against the Standard Oil company.

Whereas, the Supreme Ruler has seen fit to remove from our midst one of the officers of this council, our treasurer, Brother Thomas McDonald;

Therefore, be it resolved, that in the death of Brother McDonald this council loses one of its efficient officers. While in life he earnestly strove to benefit his fellow workman by his actions and advice.

Resolved, that we extend to the family our deep sympathy in their sad affliction, that the charter of this council be draped for thirty days and these resolutions be spread upon a separate page of our record book and printed in the daily papers and a copy be sent the family of the deceased.

THE ANTI-PASS BILL.

Wisconsin Assembly Committee Report Against Its Adoption.

Madison, Wis., March 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The anti-pass bill, which has been held up in the committee waiting disposition of a resolution, was reported in assembly this morning with the majority of the committee for non-concurrence, those dissenting being Holcomb, Galloway, Willy and Thomas.

The senate did not take up the anti-pass resolution today. The assembly committee reported for killing the bill prohibiting the sale of liquor within a mile of soldiers' homes. The barbers' license bill passed the assembly without debate. The bill to take away preference of the state as a creditor in insolvent banks was ordered to a third reading in the assembly by a big majority. The assembly killed a dozen bills.

In the senate a bill was introduced to provide for a Wisconsin exhibit at the Ohio centennial. Five minor bills passed and a like number of assembly bills were concurred in. Bills for four additional factory inspectors went to a third reading in the senate.

The assembly passed the Mills bills relating to the superior municipal court. Senator Mills' bills relating to qualifications of jurors and to fees of sheriffs were non-concurred in by the assembly.

A company will be formed, and it will be made a paying proposition as soon as possible. The men behind Mr. French are able to back the enterprise very heavily.

ARE THEY OUTLAWED?

Milwaukee, March 17.—A mortgage bond issue of $600,000 was executed in 1861 by the Milwaukee & Minnesota Railroad company, now a part of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway system. An effort is now being made to fasten the liability with 30 years' accrued interest on the Milwaukee road. It is claimed by the Milwaukee that the bonds were never issued and sold. However, Roswell P. Flower two years ago came across 225 of them, each of the face value of $1000, and he with other parties are endeavoring to foreclose the morigage, which purports to encumber the old Milwaukee & Minnesota line.

Several witnesses have been examined by Clerk Kurtz of the United States court, but so far no one has been found who knows what became of the bonds. A large number of railway lawyers are interested in the case. It is claimed that the Milwaukee & Minnesota railroad company ceased to exist twenty-five years ago and that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul company claims that negligence on the part of such bondholders, if any, renders the company free from liability.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES

John Grady Brings Unusual Suit Against Northern Pacific For $30,000.

WAS NOT AN EMPLOYE

Claims He Was a Passenger and Was Ordered Off the Train.

John Grady has begun a sensational suit against the Northern Pacific railway. It is not an ordinary action for personal injury damages, but one very much out of the common, and if the road cannot successfully answer Mr. Grady's allegations, the exchequer will undoubtedly have to give up several thousands. The case was begun at Brainerd and has been transferred to the United States circuit court of this division. The plaintiff's attorney is C. A. Allbright, of Brainerd, and Lum, Neff & Hartley, of Duluth, are counsel.

The amount Grady sues for is $30,500. He claims that on Sept. 13, 1898, he bought a ticket to Duluth at Staples, boarded the train and went to bed in the sleeper. About 2:30 o'clock in the morning he was violently awakened by employes of the company and was ordered to leave the train at once, the order being accompanied with much abuse and vile language, and threats to do him bodily harm if he failed to get out. He says that he was drowsy and sleepy and has a naturally timid nature, and proceeded to get out at once. He says the steps were wet and slippery, and the danger was further increased by the fact that the train was going through the Brainerd yards, over frogs and switches, and was jolting and rocking very much. He did not know or realize the speed of the train and did not know that the train would stop a little further on, as he has since learned that it did. He claims that all these facts were known to the defendant's employes who ordered him to get off. In getting off the train Grady slipped and fell and was thrown under the wheels. Both legs were crushed so that amputation near the hips was necessary. He says that the train hands saw him but did not assist, and but for the assistance of others he would have died. He is 38 years of age and a shoe cutter by trade. He considers $30,500 a fair recompense for the loss of his legs.

C. A. Allbright has filed an attorney's lien for $10,000 on any judgment Mr. Grady may secure.

The answer of the company admits the accident but denies all other allegations, and claims he was injured through his own negligence.

The Iron Range Answers.

The Duluth & Iron Range railroad this morning filed its answer in the matter of the enforcement of taxes for 1897 delinquent in January, 1899. Like all the other railroads that have filed answers, the Iron Range attacks the Anderson law for the taxation of unused railroad lands. It claims that the gross earnings tax law, which made the gross earnings tax act in lieu of all other taxes, was a contract between the state and the road when the latter took advantage of it and filed its acceptance of its provisions, and it alleges that to tax the lands is an abrogation of that contract, which is against the constitution. Davis, Hollister & Hicks are the attarneys.

Objects to Assessment.

E. C. Little this morning filed an answer to the state's proceedings to collect delinquent taxes for 1897 on a lot in London addition. He objects to an assessment on his lot of $17.84 for the grading and improvement of Forty-third avenue east, formerly Forbes avenue. The improving was done by the village of Lakeside before it came into the city, and the village made a first assessment on the property. The city attempted to levy the final assessment, which is the one in question, and the objector claims it is void because the city in making the assessment followed the law regulating the levy of assessments in Lakeside and not the law regulating levies in the city of Duluth, and that the court never confirmed the assessment. Therefore the court is asked to set the assessment asside. Crassweller & Crassweller are the attorneys.

A DRUNKARD'S DEED.

Thought He Had Killed His Wife and Hung Himself.

New York, March 18.—John Tuttle, a laborer living at Annsville, near Peekskill, N. Y., went to his home yesterday afternoon in a drunken condition and was reproved by his wife. Her scolding enraged him so that he struck her on the head with a hammer, inflicting a dangerous wound. Believing that he had killed her, Tuttle went into the woods near his house and hanged himself. His body was found today by the policemen who were trying to arrest him for the assault. Mrs. Tuttle is in a critical condition. If she dies four little children will be orphaned.

WILL SAIL TO MANILLA.

New York, March 11.—The auxiliary cruiser Dixie arrived here today from the League Island navy yard. The Dixie will be turned over to the quartermaster's department of the army to be fitted out with accommodations for about 1000 men, and as soon as the accommodations are completed, will sail for Manilla.

IN A TRAP OF DEATH

Fifteen Persons Perish as Result of the Windsor Hotel Fire.

Revised List of the Dead and Condition of the Injured.

Minn Hist'l Society

New York, March 18.—The most complete list of casualties at the Windsor hotel fire shows that fourteen persons were killed, and possibly fifteen, without allowance to speculate on the bodies in the ruins. Forty persons are missing. Fifty-two names are in the list of injured, whose whereabouts are known.

Three fire engines and 100 policemen remained all night about the burning building. These engines poured six large streams of water on the flames, which would start up at intervals in spite of the firemen.

The citizens were kept a block away from the ruins, as pieces of wall were falling every now and then, and there was danger that the portion of wall at the back of the building, and that on the Forty-sixth street side, might fall at any time. The bit of wall on the Forty-sixth street side tapered to a point, and held two chimneys in place. It will be pulled down during the day. The wall on the rear side, seven stories high, was still standing, but it looked as though it might fall with the first stiff breeze. The wall on the Forty-seventh street side was about two stories high, and that in front of Fifth avenue about the same height. The walls are broken in and had jagged tops, adding to the hideous appearance of the ruins behind them, which smoked and steamed and emitted a bad stench.

Fifth avenue and Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh streets were impassable. They were covered with debris from the walls of the hotel, and in many instances flagstones were broken by the great crash of stone and brick.

Gangs of men were kept all the night at the ruins, ready to begin the work of removing the debris so as to find bodies burned underneath. It may be noon before the work can be begun, delay being caused by the continual outbursts of flame and the great heat still clinging to the debris.

Chief Bonner said today that no firemen were missing.

At about 8 o'clock this morning a few were set to work on the Forty-seventh street side to tear down the wall. It is so dangerous that it could not be allowed to stand longer.

The contractor said that as soon as possible he would start the men to overhauling the ruins. He would have 1000 men at work if that number were needed.

Edward Killen, a milkman, said today that he had discovered the fire. He was watching the St. Patrick's day parade, when he saw a curtain take fire. He ran into the hotel and tried to send in an alarm by means of the hotel automatic box, but it would not work. Then he ran into the street, sending in an alarm there, he returned to the hotel. He says that a corporal and a private of the Astor battery ran in with him. They found the fire burning up through the air shaft. He and the other two men got down the hotel fire hose and played streams on the main stairway, which had caught fire, and which they saturated with water. Their efforts were unavailing, and they had to give it up when the flames came up to them.

Bicycle Policeman Charles Liebold said he rescued five persons from the fire. He got four men out from one of the lower floors, and carried a fifth man down on his shoulders. He heard a woman on the fifth floor, but though he tried to get to her he was unable to do so, and he had to hurry out of the burning building.

The loss on the hotel is estimated at about $1,000,000. Several adjoining buildings were damaged considerably, but the loss on these is comparatively small.

SOME MISSING FOUND.

Revised List of Persons Who Lost Their Lives.

New York, March 18.—Mrs. Alice W. Price, sister-in-law of Governor Candler of Georgia, who is at Bellevue hospital with a broken leg, was reported this morning as doing well.

Mrs. Sol Smith Russell, wife of the actor, who was registered at the Windsor hotel, was not in the house at the time of the fire and is safe and well.

Kate Forsyth, an American actress, who arrived from England and registered at the hotel, was in Philadelphia at the time of the fire.

Warren Leland is at the Hotel Grenoble and is lying in the rooms just vacated by Rudyard Kipling. At 8:30 a. m. today Mr. Leland's mental condition was reported to be considerably improved.

Mrs. Alfred De Cordova, of this city, wife of the well known stock broker, who had an office at the Windsor hotel, reported last night as missing, is safe.

Following is a revised list of the dead:

Henry, Mrs. Maurice, of this city, who died at Roosevelt hospital at 9 o'clock this morning from burns and injuries.

Leland, Mrs. Warren, wife of the proprietor of the hotel, burns on body, died at Flower hospital.

Unknown child, thrown from window by mother.

DETAILS OF THE FIRE.

Majority of the Dead Were Killed By Jumping.

New York, March 18.—Flames which originated from the igniting of a lace curtain burst forth from the second floor of the Windsor hotel at Forty-seventh street and Fifth avenue shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon just as the St. Patrick's day parade was passing the building, and in a few minutes they had leaped up to the roof and enveloped the entire Fifth avenue and Forty-seventh street fronts of the hotel.

Ten minutes later the flames were roaring throughout the interior of the hotel, and all escape by means of stairways and elevators was cut off.

There was the wildest scene of excitement within and without the building. Hundreds of guests and employes were in the hotel when the fire broke out, and for many of them escape with safety was impossible.

Probably from ten to fifteen lives were lost within a half hour, and thirty or forty persons were injured in jumping from windows and in rushing through the roaring flames in the corridors and on the stairways.

Many who were injured died later at near-by residences and at hospitals, and others who made wild leaps to the stone sidewalk were so badly injured that they are still hovering between life and death.

It may be twenty-four hours or more before the complete list of fatalities becomes known, and it will be longer than that before it can be ascertained definitely how many charred bodies are in the mass of fallen masonry that marks the spot where the hotel stood.

The flames could not be checked, and in two hours from the time the fire broke out the entire structure was in ruins and the streets on three sides of the building were filled with debris from fallen walls and chimneys.

As soon as the flames were discovered shooting from the windows, that part of the St. Patrick's day procession which was near the building came to a halt and in a few minutes the parade was disbanded, for the police came rushing toward the fire from every direction, and, as far as they were able, drove the people from the streets.

In addition to the regular guests of the hotel the windows were crowded by a large number of spectators, residents of this city, who had congregated there to witness the parade. Soon after the first alarm was given people in the lower floors of the hotel, those who had easy access to the street and the stairway, commenced to pour out of the building in great numbers, but it very soon became apparent that a great majority of the occupants of the hotel were either panic-stricken or unable to make their way to the ground floor. Windows were thrown up on every side of the building and guests, mostly women in all stages of terror, made their appearance and uttered frantic appeals for assistance to the crowd below. As the flames gathered about them they became more and more terror-stricken, and presently some of them stood upon the narrow window sills and beckoned to the spectators that they were about to leap. Men collected upon the sidewalks ready to render any assistance they could, and in the meantime some of the women left the window sills and dropped to the streets. In most instances the efforts to catch them and break their awful fall were unavailing, for they struck the sidewalk, and in most cases broken limbs were the result.

As soon as the firemen could get their scaling ladders into position they climbed the sides of the building and entered at every window at which there was an unfortunate guest appealing for assistance, and many cases of heroic rescue were witnessed by the throng in the streets.

At the corner of Forty-seventh street and Fifth avenue, directly across from the hotel, is the home of Miss Helen

MISSING TURN UP.

Several More Guests of the Burned Windsor Found All Right.

New York, March 18.—At about 9 o'clock the rear wall of the Windsor hotel threatened to fall and the occupants of No. 6 and 8 East Forty-seventh street were ordered to leave their houses. The rear wall was bending towards those buildings. The building department wreckers and shorers tried to shore up the walls so that they could be later pushed in and small parts did fall in the desired direction. The gas company's men were busy trying to locate the breaks in the pipes so as to shut off the gas, which was still burning. One big leak gave no end of trouble.

Inspector Harley came up about 10:30 with a lot of extra policemen. They were needed, as the crowd had increased largely and the danger of the falling walls was great. The water poured on the smoldering ruins caused so much steam that work was made very difficult.

The home of Helen Gould on the northeast corner of Forty-seventh street was surrounded by a cordon of police all night and morning, while detectives guarded the interior. A policeman accompanied every person who entered the house. Beyond a few windows broken the house was scarcely damaged at all except very slightly on top, where the fire caught yesterday. The interior was in great confusion. All bodies and all the injured had been taken away.

Miss Gould and her brother Frank slept in the house all night. The surviving daughter of Warren Leland, Fanny, remains at the residence of ex-Governor Flower. She is prostrated by the calamity that has fallen on the family. Warren G. Leland, Jr., stated emphatically this morning that, though his father is prostrated with grief, he is not at all insane as had been reported. "He is grief stricken, but sane as he ever was," said young Leland.

He added that he thought the books of the hotel, including the register, could probably be gotten at some time today; also the safe, in which there was considerable money and valuables of those staying at the hotel. The register will be invaluable in clearing up the list of dead, missing and injured.

At 11 o'clock this morning the police had found no more bodies.

A. A. Nimis, of this city, said he went to the hotel yesterday afternoon, arriving at 3 o'clock. He went up in the elevator to go to the rooms of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wichelmann, who are missing. At the third floor he and the other persons in the elevator heard the shouts of fire, and the elevator stopped at the third floor. He got out and ran to the front of the house to a fire escape. As he passed the end room he saw a man, a stranger, and one who did not appear to be a guest of the house, grabbing up valuables in the room like a miser. He said he was astounded at the sight. "I caught the man," said Mr. Nimis, and said: "Why don't you try to save some lives instead of robbing dead people?"

"The man turned his face to me and gave me a look that seemed to be a murderer's. Then he dashed out. He was about 29 years old and dark. I'm sure he was not a guest of the hotel."

John McGuire, of this city, was looking for his niece, Mary Clare, who is 23 years old, and who was employed as a chambermaid on the sixth floor of the hotel. He had seen nothing of her since the fire.

Mrs. Court and Miss Emma A. Brown, who were variously reported among the missing, are both safe. They are at the home of J. T. Pyle, in Fifth avenue.

Others previously reported missing, but later found at the Waldorf, were: Mrs. H. H. Clarke, John F. Faust, Sarah Tormey, Mrs. Auze, Mrs. Spaulding, Daniel Lace, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Mackay, Mrs. Buch, Margaret Hays.

Mrs. Logan C. Murray, of Louisville, who was reported missing, is also safe. Mrs. Murray, who was in poor health, had been stopping at the Windsor for a month. Her room was on the third floor. Just before the fire broke out she went to the room occupied by Mrs. Donald Mackey, when somebody cried fire.

Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Mackay, Mrs. Jennie Mackay and a Miss Wise went to the stairs and found their way barred by smoke and flames. They went to the Forty-seventh fire escape and reached the street in safety. They were taken to the house of George Mackay in West Sixty-ninth street.

Dr. Bennett E. Kellogg, of this city, reported last night as missing, is safe.

John Kelley called at police headquarters inquiring for his daughter Alice, 17 years old, a domestic employed at the hotel. This is probably the Eliza Kelley reported last night as among the missing. Nothing was heard of her today.

Inquiries made by friends for Mrs. James K. Stokes, reported missing, revealed nothing regarding her fate or whereabouts.

Mrs. George M. Sorrell, one of the guests of the hotel, is said to be safe. She is at the residence of Dr. D. D. Murphy, 133 West Forty-seventh street.

Warren Guyon, an elevator boy, is still reported missing, as is Miss Anna Taylor Morgan, who for years had stayed at the hotel.

The friends of Miss Mary Hayes, 65 years old and who it is believed was staying at the Windsor hotel, today gave up hopes. Miss Hayes was reported last night as missing.

CONDITION OF THE INJURED.

How Those at the Different Hospitals Are Progressing.

New York, March 18.—The names and conditions of persons injured at the Windsor hotel fire were reported at various hospitals today as follows:

Bellevue hospital—Miss Alice W. Price, sister-in-law of Governor Candler of Georgia, fractured leg, sprained back; condition not serious.

Kate Beach, domestic of hotel, burns of face and broken ankle; will recover.

Mrs. C. Simmons, resident of the hotel, burns, shock; condition doubtful.

Mrs. Nellie Thomas, assistant housekeeper, shock; condition doubtful.

Mrs. Leo Rosenthal, resident of hotel, slight injuries, shock; condition not serious.

Kate Flanagan, chambermaid, burns, condition serious.

Dr. Neil McPhatter, fractured ankle, improving.

Later in the day the following, who had been recorded as missing, were reported as safe: Margaret Quinn; Anna Thomas, a domestic; Mrs. James Brandt, at Hotel Savoy; Ellen Casey, a domestic; Kitty Quinn, a domestic; Jennie Wrigley, housekeeper of the hotel; Gladys Thompson, this city; Sadie Betts, this city.

A FIRE VICTIM.

Baltimore, March 18.—It seems almost certain that the lady who died at the home of Miss Helen Gould after jumping from a window of the Windsor hotel during yesterday's fire, was Miss Dora Hoffman, of this city, whose name appears in the list of missing. Miss Hoffman was the sister of R. Curzon Hoffman, former president of the Seaboard Air Line railway system, and lived with her brother at 1039 St. Paul street, this city.

TORONTO WOMAN MISSING.

Toronto, March 18.—Mrs. Isabelle McDonald, of this city, has been living at the Hotel Windsor in New York. Nothing has been heard from her by her friends since the fire.

UP TO LEGISLATURE.

Sale of Pine Lands on Reservations Depends on Legislature's Action.

Washington, March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The commissioner of the general land office today gave out the official list of the pine lands in Minnesota that have been estimated and were slated to be sold in May. They include township 144 north, ranges 25 to 29 west inclusive; township 145 north, ranges 25 to 32 west inclusive, and township 146 north, ranges 25 to 30 west inclusive, in the Leech Lake reservation, and townships 143, 144, 145 and 146 north, range 37 west, in the White Earth reservation.

The White Earth Indians have petitioned the interior department to sell their lands, but they will not be sold until Secretary Hitchcock, who will return to Washington next week, has decided whether the people of Minnesota through the legislature want them sold. The legislature has passed two resolutions, the first asking that all sales be suspended for two years, and the other asking that lands in the Winnebegoshish, Red Lake and Leech Lake reservations be withheld from sale for that length of time.

According to Land Commissioner Hermann, the legislature may be given another chance to say what is wanted before adjournment, and the secretary may not render his final decision until the term has expired. If the department waits until adjournment, the sale must necessarily be postponed, as the legal length of term in which lands are to be advertised will not intervene between adjournment and the date originally set for sale, namely, May 10.

GIVES US THE KLONDIKE.

Alleged Boundary in Alaska Discovered By Five Finlanders.

Seattle, Wash., March 18.—News has reached here that five Finlanders claim to have discovered evidences of the origin of the Russian boundary line inscribed in a series of old mounds which, if established, will place the Klondike country within the United States. It is said that United States Consul McCook, at Dawson, will communicate with the Washington authorities regarding the matter.

A TWO-CENT STAMP.

All That It Will Cost Sailors to Get Additional Pay.

Washington, March 18.—The navy department wishes it known to all of the volunteer sailors who served with such credit during the late war and received honorable discharges that it need not cost them more than the price of a 2-cent postage stamp to secure the gratuity, in the shape of extra pay, which congress allotted to them in the closing hours of the last session. Very many applications have been pouring in upon the navigation bureau for information as to how the men should proceed to collect their money. In reply to these the following circular letter is being sent out:

Washington, D. C., March 18.—Dear Sir: Replying to your letter requesting information concerning the extra pay allowed men and officers of the volunteer navy by the last congress for services rendered during the war with Spain, I have to inform you that your application should be addressed to the auditor for the navy department, treasury department, Washington, D. C. Very respectfully,

A. S. CROWNINSHIELD,
Chief of Bureau.

OPERA HOUSE FIRE.

Houston, Tex., March 18.—A fire broke out about midnight in the opera house, which was completely destroyed, together with an office building adjoining, and the fire was still raging at 1:20 a. m. The loss at that hour was estimated at $135,000, including several fine libraries which cannot be replaced.

SPAIN'S NEW MINISTER.

Madrid, March 18.—The Pais says it believes it to be certain that the duke of Arcos, the former Spanish minister to Mexico, will be appointed minister of Spain at Washington.

An attack was made by the rebels yesterday upon the battery at Loma church, but were repulsed by the Pennsylvanians with heavy loss. Lieut. Thompson and Privates McVay and McCans of Company C were wounded.

A gunboat with a company of the Twenty-third regulars on board is now on the lake attacking the small towns. She was last heard of off Morong and Santa Cruz.

FOR PORTO RICO.

Judge Morris Will Sail on Wednesday on a Government Transport.

Washington, March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Morris announced this morning that he intended to leave Washington tonight, and would sail next Wednesday on a government transport from New York, in company with several other members of the house of representatives, for Porto Rico. The weather at San Juan is said to be delightful at this season, and the air is perfectly salubrious for American legislators. A number of well known congressmen will sail on the same vessel with Judge Morris, and the knowledge which they will undoubtedly secure as to the conditions existing in the island of Porto Rico will be given to the general public through the Congressional Record next winter.

Representative Morris had intended to accept the invitation of the Panama canal directors to accompany their excursion to Nicaragua to look over the several Isthmian canal routes, but decided today to decline and accompany the small congressional party to Porto Rico and Cuba.

BAD BEEF RETURNED.

Some Canned Meat Returned From the Army Badly Spoiled.

Kansas City, March 18.—The beef court of inquiry resumed the taking of testimony today at its headquarters in the Midland hotel. The court will probably go to Fort Leavenworth, Kas., this evening. L. A. Raabo, who formerly worked in the canning department at Armour's, and who had previously testified that at one time as high as 50 per cent of canned meat had been rejected after being prepared by his firm, was recalled. He said that while he was employed in that department two carloads of spoiled canned beef were returned from the army. When the cars were opened many of the cans were found burst, and maggots were crawling everywhere. About two cans out of each were spoiled.

CHOATE'S ADDRESS

A London Editor Says the American Masses Are Anti-British.

QUEEN IS WELCOMED

Her Reception In the South of France Is Very Cordial.

London, March 18.—(Copyright, 1899, by the Associated Press.)—The event of the week has undoubtedly been the debut of Joseph H. Choate, the United States ambassador, as a public speaker at the recent banquet of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom. While his speech has been much admired as straight utterances from a self-respecting nation, there is a tinge of disappointment in many quarters. Thus, David Christie Murray, the novelist and editor of London Morning, writes: "We have had the intellectual and spiritual best of America with us for many years; but, we have not had the mass of Americans with us and we had no right to expect them. The feeling still exists in millions of minds in the United States, that we are guided solely by our selfish interests and it is deference to this feeling that the newly appointed ambassador, in his maiden speech, treads warily along with brilliantly expressed generalities about friendship, and safeguards himself by one or two declarations which are unmistakably intended to prove that America's friendship for England is in no wise of the self-sacrificing order. Mr. Choate was as genial as could be desired, and at the same time he was most admirably dexterous. It is a pity he should feel it necessary to be dexterous, but we must take what we can get in the way of friendship and confidence from America and be thankful that we can still look forward to the time when Americans will universally recognize the basis of our desire for an actual, binding union with themselves."

At the same time Mr. Choate is being feted by the chambers of commerce.

The commander in chief, Gen. Lord Wolseley, speaking before the institution of civil engineers during the week, made a very cordial reference to the United States. He said: "Our great kindred English-speaking nation across the Atlantic is now embarked in re-establishing itself as what it was once before—a great naval power. I feel sure that every Englishman understands that it is a question of defense and will wish America all sorts of good luck in its efforts. I believe it will be of the greatest possible advantage to Great Britain that the navy of America should reoccupy its former position, but as second to ourselves, but as our equal. The best guarantee of the peace of the world would be these two great fleets each under its own flag, keeping the ocean highways open to the world, no matter what happened."

The government's automatic couplings' bill has created such an outcry that there is little likelihood of its passing into law this session.

Up to now the reception given to Queen Victoria in the South of France has been all that could be desired. There was a pretty sight at Cimiez when a deputation of fishwives and marketwomen from Nice attended, in their picturesque costumes, this week, to present the queen with a bouquet of choice flowers and an address of welcome. Queen Victoria, on approaching them, ordered her carriage to be stopped and spoke a few kindly words of thanks to the delighted fishwives.

The queen held a family council at Cimiez recently to discuss the Saxe-Coburg and Gotha succession, the death of Prince Alfred of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, making such a step necessary. The duke of Connaught, younger brother of the duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha and third son of the queen, came from Cairo to Cimiez in order to take part in the deliberations. It has been arranged that the son of the duke of Connaught, Prince Arthur, who was born Jan. 13, 1883, and who is being educated at Eton, is to leave that school in July and go to Germany for the purpose of completing his education before he enters the German army. Very large and valuable estates go with the succession to the duchy as the debts of Duke Ernest died with him, he having no power to encumber the ducal revenues or estates.

By the advice of his physicians, the prince of Wales has commenced playing golf, under the tuition of the Grand Duke Michael of Russia. A portion of the links at Cannes have been set aside for their exclusive use.

The emigration returns show a continued decrease of emigration. In the month of February, 223 persons went to the United States, compared with 247 during the same month of '98. Emigration to Canada has not changed but the emigration to Australia shows a substantial increase.

Maj. Count Esterhazy has made some trenchant strictures this week to an interviewer. He said that the French headquarters staff supplied him with anti-Dreyfus articles "ready written for insertion in American papers." He also expressed a wish that he had enough money to join Aguinaldo and serve in his little army."

A squad of Fife's carpenters has begun the Alhambra's repairs and other wood-work. The log for the mammast has arrived. It is a beautiful stick of Oregon pine a little over 90 feet long. Therefore it will be much longer than the Valkyrie's. Fife, it is thereupon claimed, evidently intends to go to the limit in canvas.

The Westminster Gazette has issued an appeal to Great Britain and America for further funds for the relief of the Armenians, whose condition this winter is described as pitiable. About 90,000 persons are said to be entirely dependent upon the charity of Europe and America.

Bishop Grant of Philadelphia, has arrived at Liverpool from Liberia. He says that Germans and French are visiting and watching the little republic. He added: "The United States, of course, will do everything reasonable to protect Liberia, but Liberia's concessions to foreigners might put protection out of the power of the United States. But if a disaster occurs Liberia certainly ought not to have France or Germany as a protector. The Liberians naturally favor the United States or England, if they are ever forced to give up their independence."

The arrangements for the reception of the remains of the late Baron Hersche at Portsmouth and for the ceremony at Westminster abbey are now completed. The British cruiser Talbot, which is bringing the remains from New York, will reach Spithead during Sunday night and will enter Portsmouth harbor on Monday morning. The body will be landed at the dockyard at noon with military honors. The coffin will then be carried to a mortuary car and will arrive in London the same evening, it will then be taken to the Hesckel residence in Grosvenor Gardens. On Tuesday morning a procession of carriages will be formed at the residence. The body will then be placed in an elaborate glass paneled hearse and procession will proceed to Westminster abbey.

The lull in the theatrical world continues and will do so until after Easter, when a feast of new and important plays is promised. Pinero's for John Hare at the Globe; Henry Arthur Jones at Her Majesty's; Haddon Chambers for Charles Wyndham at the Criterion theater; Sir Henry Irving's production of "Robespierre" and a play by Edward Rose to succeed "The Ambassador" at the St. James' theater.

ABUSED HIS WHITE WIFE.

Educated Indian Kills a Policeman In Resisting Arrest.

Gordon, Neb., March 18.—At Porcupine subagency at the Pan Ridge agency north of here, an attempt was made to arrest White Thunder, a full blood Sioux for abusing his white wife. White Thunder was armed and resisted arrest, killing one Indian policeman and badly wounding another. He escaped to Sand Hills, but six Indian trailers followed and captured him, bringing him in irons to the agency today. White Thunder, who has some education, married his white wife while traveling with a show in the East. She is young and refined, but has been obliged to work as a domestic to support herself and husband.

There are many thousands of wise women in this country who, when they found that they were suffering from weakness or disease of their distinctly womanly organisms, promptly wrote to an eminent and skillful physician, with a world-wide reputation, instead of trusting their cases to some obscure physician with but limited practice and experience. There are many reasons why a wise woman follows this course. The chances are that an obscure physician of small practice will not diagnose troubles of this nature properly. If he does, he will insist on the obnoxious examinations and local treatment from which every sensitive, modest woman shrinks.

The specialist referred to is Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Thirty years ago he discovered a wonderful medicine for diseases peculiar to women, that may be used effectively in the privacy of the home, and does away with all necessity for examinations and local treatment. This medicine is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in wifehood and motherhood. It makes them strong, healthy and vigorous. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and tones and builds up the nerves. Taken during the period of prospective maternity, it banishes the usual discomforts and makes baby's coming easy and almost painless. It insures the little new-comer's health and an ample supply of nourishment. Over ninety thousand women have testified to its marvelous merits. Medicine dealers sell it.

It is a druggist's business to give you, not to tell you, what you want.

Any ailing woman may write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and get free advice. By inclosing 21 one-cent stamps in her letter, to cover cost of mailing only, she may secure a paper-covered copy of the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." Cloth bound, 31 stamps.

DEWEY TO RETURN.

He Says He Is In Good Health But Somewhat Fatigued.

Rutland, Vt., March 18.—George Dewey has received a letter from his father, the admiral, in which he says he is in good health, although somewhat fatigued.

The admiral expressed the hope that his task will be finished before long.

Charles Dewey expects that his brother will arrive in Washington on or before June 1, and will soon thereafter visit his old home in Vermont.

Greenier, it seems, has been ordering goods from jobbing houses in the cities and upon arrival of the bills guaranteeing them and signing Mr. Summerfield's name.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

SAVED HIS FAMILY

A Jamestown Man Performs a Cool Deed at the Windsor Fire.

HE USED THE ROPE

Lowered First Daughter, Then Wife, Then Slid Down Himself.

New York, March 18.—Edward P. Wells, his wife and daughter, of Jamestown, N. D., had apartments on the sixth floor of the Windsor hotel, on the Fifth avenue side, and were watching the St. Patrick's day parade when the fire broke out. They had hardly time to realize that something had gone wrong when the smoke rolled through the corridors, and their escape was cut off in that direction.

The window was now the only hope, and to jump meant certain death. In this emergency Mr. Wells besought his family to remain calm, and he then proceeded with great deliberation to measure the chances of escape. He first paid out the fire escape rope in the room until he saw that it would reach the ground and, hauling it back, he quickly but securely fastened it about his daughter's waist.

He then lifted the form of the girl to the window ledge, and slowly allowed it to descend. He wound the rope tightly about his hands and braced his feet against the wall of the room, meanwhile slowly paying out the rope, at the end of which dangled the almost inanimate body of his daughter. Smoke and flame shot out at intervals from the windows below, but the passage of the girl was not retarded, and in a few seconds she had reached the ground.

There she was quickly taken care of by the firemen, who released her and the rope was quickly hauled back by Mr. Wells and exactly the same performance was gone through with in the case of his wife, who had meanwhile stood at his side at the window. For the third time Mr. Wells pulled the rope back, after he had seen his family safety, and he then made preparations for his own descent. He recognized, seemingly, that it would be impossible for him to go down hand over hand and, knowing the lacerations that would result if he slid down the rope, he first carefully tied up his hands in towels. Then he clambered over on the window sill and swung clear. He slid down like lightning, but there were ready hands below to break the fall and when the bandages had been removed from the hands it was found that he had not even a blister on them.

A great shout went up from the crowd as they saw Mr. Wells land in safety. He aided to the wife and daughter, thanked the firemen and others for their assistance and disappeared. He found temporary shelter with his wife and daughter with some friends on Fifth avenue and his subsequent place of abode was not learned.

COL. HILLYER LEAVES.

Goes to England to Perfect His Financial Arrangement.

Col. J. S. Hillyer left on the Omaha this afternoon for New York where, March 22, he will sail on the steamship St. Louis for London, Eng., to close important financial matters in connection with the Alice A mine.

Before leaving Col. Hillyer made a personal statement of his plans and prospects and confirmed a number of reports which heretofore have been unauthorized or mere rumors.

"I leave for London," said Col. Hillyer, "to close my deal with the English syndicate, represented by W. D. Ramsay, the mining expert, who spent several months late in the fall making an exhaustive examination and stay on the property. His clients secured an option on 100,000 shares of Alice A stock, it is certain that fifty stamps will be placed on the property and I feel quite sure that when I meet these people in London, that number will at least be doubled.

"We have secured 320 acres of mineral land to the Alice A holdings and 160 more of timber land. A sawmill is on its way to the location and possibly will be running in sixty days and busily engaged in getting out timber for the new mining mill.

"We have just purchased a drill air compressor plant and that will be at the mine in thirty days. A steam hoist also has been purchased and that will be in use within fifteen days.

"A steamboat will be placed on Little Turtle lake and river this season by us. We have discovered a better route into the Turtle river country and we will be comparatively an easy matter to get machinery to the mine as there is only a short and easy portage between the two bodies of water. It also has been decided to put in a system of telephones between Mine Center and the Alice A, Lucky Coon and Emma Abbott mines.

"This week I negotiated for a diamond drill. That will be employed in testing the large ore bodies and also will do custom work for other mine owners who may desire its services.

"As soon as the Ontario & Rainy River railway is nearer completion a townsite will be laid out near the Alice A, which we hope and rather expect will be the headwood of Western Ontario.

"On the Alice A, No. 2 shaft will be sunk as fast as possible, probably to a depth of 100 feet. This was advised by Mr. Ramsey, and will both test the ore body and be of practical use when we have to go to mining under ground. We are positive we have a second Homestake and it will have to be run on a large scale."

Col. Hillyer was accompanied as far as Chicago by Henry Clay Clark, president of the Emma Abbott Gold Mining company. Arrangements have been made whereby he will give his best time and efforts to that property, which undoubtedly will insure the success of the enterprise. Mr. Clark will spend a few days at his home in Chicago attending to pressing matters of business, after which he will return to the head of the lakes for a time.

Water Board Organizes.

The light and water board organized for the ensuing year yesterday. C. A. Duncan was elected president, and Giles Gilbert, vice president. L. N. Case was appointed secretary and manager, and J. S. Matteson, assistant secretary.

Manager Case recommended that five miles of kalomine pipe be replaced by iron pipe and a resolution providing that this be done was passed. Of the pipe to be substituted, about three miles is gas pipe and the balance is water pipe. The cost will be about $18,000.

Gould, and at her direction many of the injured were carried there and were treated by physicians and nurses whom she had sent for.

Several occupants of the hotel appeared at the windows of the sixth and seventh stories, and even on the roof, and leaped to the streets from these points. Very few of them escaped either instant death or injuries which resulted in their death a short time later.

Within forty or forty-five minutes after the fire first broke out the walls on the Fifth avenue side showed every indication of falling, and presently, with an awful crash, they struck the ashy halt covering of the street in front of the hotel and caused the hundreds of people who were standing there to scatter in every direction. This fall weakened the walls on the Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh street sides and they followed a moment later.

A number of employes who were on the roof jumped to the court yards and received fractures and injuries which it is thought will cause death.

The loss on the contents of the building is almost complete. The salvage men managed to save $20,000 worth of paintings on the first floor of the hotel, but very little else was carried out. Many of the guests who lived at the Windsor lost valuable jewelry and bric-a-brac and furnishings, among them being F. F. Flower, a nephew of ex-Governor Flower, who among other things lost a package of jewelry valued at $8000.

Victor Regnan, a nurse in Flower hospital, says he saw fifteen persons fall and jump from the building in the space of a few minutes. He happened to be across the street at the time of the fire.

John Connelly, one of the "unknown" to die soon after reaching Flower hospital, was furniture man at the hotel. He was 50 years of age and had lived with his wife and two children at 54 East Forty-fourth street.

CHIEF BONNER INTERVIEWED.

Finds Nothing to Criticise In the Hotel Management.

New York, March 18.—In an interview Chief Bonner declared that he had found no violations of either the building laws or fire department regulations in the Windsor hotel.

"It was an old building," said the chief, "and it was built under the laws that existed many years ago. The rapidity with which the flames spread was due to the fact that the building was not fireproof. There were no fireproof 'stops' in the corridors, such as are required in all modern buildings, and the corridors were so wide that a great draught went through them.

"How many fire escapes were there? Why, the rear and sides of the building were literally covered with them, and rope escapes were in every room. As is usually the case, people were frantic from fear and did not know enough to use the escapes."

"Have you any criticism to make because there were no fire escapes on the front of the building, presumably because it would detract from its ornamental appearance?"

"No," replied the chief, "I have no criticism to make on that point. Such matters are under the jurisdiction of the building department.

"The stairs? I want to say right now that two-thirds of the people who live in hotels do not know the location of the stairs—that is, it would take them several minutes to find them. The reason is that hotel patrons always use the elevators.

"Our laws require that a red globe be placed at the head of every stairway, and in fact that every exit be marked by a red globe. Besides, diagrams of exits are posted conspicuously, but people pay little attention to such things."

MRS. KIRK'S REMAINS.

Her Daughter Will Accompany Them to Chicago.

New York, March 18.—Mrs. Mary Kirk Haskins, the daughter of Mrs. Kirk, of Chicago, remained at Bellevue hospital all night. Her daughter, Miss Leslie Haskins, who is a pupil in a school at Pelham Manor, was sent for and arrived this morning. Mrs. Haskins improved somewhat and left the hospital about 10 o'clock. Mrs. Haskins said that she has lost all her own and her mother's jewelry in the fire. She will leave for Chicago with her mother's remains by today's 1:50 p. m. train over the Pennsylvania railroad.

When Mrs. Maurice F. Henry died at the hospital this morning she was attended by her nieces, Mrs. Bingley and Miss Adeline Lantheir of Boston, who came on from that city last night immediately after learning of the disaster.

Mrs. Henry was a widow, and had been married three times. Her first husband was Judge Francis Livermore, of Cambridge, Mass., and her second husband was Harrison Maynard, of Boston. Her permanent home was in Boston. She had come to New York early in the winter, and had taken rooms on the fifth floor of the Windsor hotel for the season. While trying to escape from her room by means of a rope, she lost her hold, fell and received the injuries which resulted in her death.

Addressed By Mr. Holt.

The executive committee of the county W. C. T. U. held a meeting at the M. E. church parlors Tuesday, to arrange a program for the convention which will be held in the Grace M. E. church, April 19. The Central, which had met an hour earlier, had invited Mr. Holt of the Anti-Saloon league to give a talk to the ladies on this subject.

The gentleman, after a brief introductory, said: "The object and aim of the Anti-Saloon league is to have the laws of the state of Minnesota enforced." He had every confidence in the judges of the courts and believed each would do his duty. The laws are often defective, although in the main the laws of the state are very good. But the trouble is to enforce them. He then cited some of the difficulties the league has met along this line, and said when it tried to enforce law and order a cry went forth from our citizens, "The trade is in danger." On Sunday, the saloon is closed in front, but to the initiated the latch string will be found hanging out at the back door. A good many arrests have been made and parties found guilty, but these have made an appeal and there the matter rests with the city attorney. Unless he pushes it there it will stay, said Mr. Holt. There is a bill before the state legislature now to have the law amended so that the officer whose duty it is to bring the matter up again can be removed unless he sees that the guilty person suffers the penalty of the law. Mr. Holt closed his talk by referring to an advertisement in a want column where a boy was wanted to work around a saloon. This called forth a protest from the members.

THE BEST SPRING TONIC.

As winter passes away it leaves many people feeling weak, depressed and easily tired. This means that the blood needs attention and sensible people always take a tonic at this time of year. Purgatives are not the right medicine — they weaken instead of strengthening.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best tonic medicine in the world and do not act on the bowels. They stimulate the appetite, enrich the blood, strengthen the nerves and make people feel bright, active and strong.

Do not accept a substitute. Look for the full name on the package.

Many women are languid, peevish, sallow, no appetite, full of aches and pains, and generally out of sorts. This condition prevails because the blood has become impure. No one is better able to speak of this fact than Miss Hazel Snider, a charming young woman of Arlington, Ind. To-day she has rosy cheeks, sparkling eyes and a plump form, which prove that she is in good health. A year ago Miss Snider did not look so. She was very thin, her cheeks were pale, her eyes sunken and dull. She was troubled with nervousness and general debility.

"I had been sick some during my life," she said, "but not any more than the average girl, and was considered strong and healthy. I had prepared to teach school, but became so run down that I did not feel like teaching, and gave it up. I disliked to do this, but my mother and physician urged it. I began to grow pale, weak, lost several pounds of flesh, was stupid, and had no ambition. My appetite failed. My blood was in a bad condition, having become thin and watery. After several months' treatment from the family physician we saw he could do me no good. I was discouraged and did not know what to do.

"One day I read an item in a paper of the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Shortly afterwards a neighbor came in and told me about her experience, and how they cured her. I finally tried the medicine, and when nearly through with the second box noticed a change for the better. After I had taken eight boxes I was cured, and have had no occasion to take any kind of medicine since. I feel that I owe much to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, probably my life, and I advise any one suffering with troubles similar to mine, to take these pills."

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—Josephine Balke, a woman about 50 years of age, met Carl Rudd on the street and charged him with having accomplished her ruin. She pleaded with him to marry her, but he laughed at her. She threatened to commit suicide and he told her she would be better off dead than alive. At this remark she drank carbolic acid and fell on the sidewalk at his feet. Rudd walked away. Medical assistance was summoned, but death will paste from the latter. The woman formerly lived at Lake Park, Minn.

Valley City—M. Peterson, private Co. G, First North Dakota volunteers, has returned home from Manila, being discharged for physical disability. He was three weeks in the San Francisco receiving hospital.

Grand Forks—E. M. Prouty, of St. Paul, formerly of Grand Forks, spent Thursday in the city on his way to the cattle ranges of Dakota, a part of the state, in which he is heavily interested. Mr. Prouty says that his information is to the effect that the losses on the South Dakota and Northern Montana ranges have been practically nothing during the past winter, the herds having escaped the disasters which befell their neighbors in Wyoming, in which state the terrific snow storms of the middle of February destroyed thousands of cattle, bringing inestimable loss to their owners.

Jamestown—An interesting session of the board of trustees of the state hospital for the insane is promised at the next meeting. It is said that a new steward of the asylum will be appointed at that meeting. There are four Jamestown men who are candidates for the position. At present the position is filled by Mr. Olmstead, of Wheatland. It is not believed that any appointment will be made for the position of superintendent of the asylum.

Miss Maggie Haas, a former resident of this city, died a few days ago at Helena, Mont., from the effects of burns received by her dress catching fire. The accident occurred about two weeks ago. She has some brothers residing in Jamestown.

SOUTH DAKOTA

Elk Point—L. W. Garfield, whose home is at Mason City, Iowa, was fatally burned in the city calaboose here. Garfield and W. G. Weiss were arrested for disorderly conduct and put in the calaboose. Garfield complained of being cold and according to Weiss deliberately set fire to the Excelsior mattress. The wooden building was soon in flames. Weiss was unable to get out, but Garfield was behind the door when it was opened and was rescued with difficulty. The hair was all burned from his head and his legs, and his hands were so badly burned that the skin peeled off. Weiss was burned about the face and the skin has also peeled from his hands, but his injuries will not be fatal.

Douglas Huntley, of this place, has invented a repeating rifle that is attracting considerable attention. It resembles the old magazine gun in appearance somewhat, but the great point about it is the invention which makes it possible by the pressure of the trigger to carry the loaded shells from the magazine to the barrel of the gun, fire the gun and eject the shells. The gun does not need to be taken from the shoulder, but is loaded and fired as rapidly as the trigger can be pulled. The mechanism is said to be very simple and not easily put out of repair. Huntley, the inventor, is one of the best hunters in South Dakota and is a crack shot with the rifle. He is at his first invention.

Yankton—As a result of an investigation made by Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue W. J. Howland, some time ago warrants of arrest were served upon B. S. Williams and E. P. Wilcox, of the firm of Wilcox & Williams grain buyers, charging them with violating the United States internal revenue laws.

Armour—Word has just been received that Peter ver Wolfe, formerly of this county, has pleaded guilty to the charge of adultery with one Wilhilmina Brink, in the circuit court of Yankton county. Ver Wolfe is the party who left his family and went to Texas with Mrs. Brink some months ago, in which state they were apprehended.

BARONESS KOSCIELSKI.

She Once Had an Influence Over Emperor William.

The great Muscovite financier, multi-millionaire and philanthropist, Ivan Bloch, who is primarily responsible for the issue of the peace manifesto of the czar, is the father of the lovely and fascinating baroness, Jennie Koscielski, who for a time wielded so powerful a sway over Emperor William as to excite not only open demonstrations of jealousy on the part of his consort, but likewise public condemnation in the press and even from the platform. Prince Bismarck actually went out of his way during the course of a public speech at Friedrichsruh to denounce in the most unmistakable manner the pernicious influence which the fair Pole was wielding over the emperor, an influence which he compared to that which an ex-prominent Polish beauty, Princess Elisa Radziwill, exercised over the old kaiser, says the Washington Post. With the ominousness of his wife, of his mother, the empress Frederick, of his grandmother, Queen Victoria, and the abuse of the press, as well as fatherly advice from the king of Saxony, Emperor William has by no reason to remember the baroness, all the more as toward the close of her reign over his affections she allowed him too plainly to perceive that she was exercising her fascinations upon him solely from patriotic motives, to advance the interests, political and private, of her fellow countrymen; in fact, that she aspired to the role which the Countess Waldersee played in connection with the late Napoleon.

The result was that the kaiser ended by banishing both the baroness and her husband from the court of Berlin and it is decidedly that it is the memory of the latter which has so imbittered the kaiser against the great financier in consequence of his daughter. For otherwise there is no knowing whether he himself might not, like his brother monarch at St. Petersburg, have become a convert to the views of old Ivan Bloch.

EXTRAVAGANCE OF FASHION.

Really, in behalf of the economical women who cannot afford to employ the ragman every ten weeks or so, when the fashion takes a lurch this way or that, legislation should step in to establish some one pattern or weave of black silk as the fashion. Here it was, as we remember, only yesterday every woman felt compelled to buy at least a black moire velours skirt to wear her fancy waists with, or who was she, with soul so dead to the needs of her wardrobe, that she couldn't afford a skirt of fine black silk, all covered with sprawly brocaded designs? Well, now, forsooth, the moire velours, or the plain moire, or the brocaded patterns are utterly abhorred of the well-dressed, and the manufacturers have got out of new black silk. It is a crêpe watered silk, with great broad checks dots or giant triangles, or long wavylike lines running and sputtered all over it. The lustrous effect is undeniable, as is that of the new evening silks, all of which are shaded from deepest tones to palest hints on every breadth. They, too, are watered and brocaded, and are meant for magnificent reception, dinner and ball dresses. It is plain to see that the advantage has been made necessary by the long trains, and for the beautiful new tea gowns and wedding costumes a wonderful velvet embossed silk is adopted. On a pearl de soie ground of palest coral-pink or Nile green, long, black fern waves and fronds are embossed in velvet and these new fabrics, made up with the ever-insinuating black lace, result in great splendors of the toilet.

There Was a Decidedly Better Tone to the Wheat Market.

THE CABLES HIGHER

An Indication of Freezing Weather In the Winter Wheat Sections.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 18.—The wheat market was in better shape today, and prices showed an improvement. There [illegible] of the bearish sentiment that has existed for some time past, and this [illegible] was aided by the news which was of a fairly bullish character. The cables showed that the Liverpool market was [illegible] ½d higher, and in addition to this bullish factor there were indications of freezing weather after the recent rains in the winter wheat belt. Should there be a freeze, it is almost [illegible] that damage will be done to the crop, and a rapid [illegible] in prices would follow any serious damage. Other causes of strength were the moderate size of the world's shipments, [illegible] acceptances and a belief that the liquidation at Chicago is over.

There was good trading in futures on the Duluth board. May wheat opened [illegible] at 67¼c bid, sold at 67¼c at [illegible], declined to 67c at 9:15, recovered to [illegible], fell back again to 67c at 10:25, [illegible] to 67¼-⅜c at 11.10. It closed [illegible] or 1¼@1¾c higher than yesterday. [illegible] bus of cash wheat was sold [illegible] over May for wheat to arrive and [illegible] to millers in store. Rye and [illegible] advanced ½c, oats gained ½c [illegible] while barley was unchanged. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 67⅞c; March, [illegible]; May, [illegible]; July, 71⅛c. No. 1 northern, cash, [illegible]; March, 67⅜c; May, 67⅝c; [illegible]. No. 2 northern, 62⅞c. No. 3 [illegible]. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 67⅞c; No. 1 northern, 67⅜c; No. 2 northern, 62⅜c. [illegible]. Rye, 49c. Barley, 37@40c. [illegible]; May, $1.21¼. Corn, 30½c; May, [illegible].

Car inspection—Wheat, 141; corn, 52; [illegible] rye, 2; barley, 1; flax, 7. Receipts—[illegible]; corn, 18,120; oats, 3552; rye, [illegible]; barley, 371; flax, 7222.

BOARD NOTES.

[illegible]—Puts, 67c; calls, 71c. Corn, puts, [illegible]; calls, 31½c. Good all next week on [illegible] Chicago board.

[illegible] shipments indicated 6,800,000 [illegible] 520,000 bus Australian.

One New York exporter sold four cargoes and twenty-four [illegible] wheat on the [illegible] yesterday, all of it being to the [illegible]. Ocean rates from New York [illegible] Antwerp have advanced ½d per bus [illegible] and 2½d bus on deferred shipments of grain.

Exporters say American wheat is now [illegible] on the list and foreign market [illegible] better tone, with sales of wheat [illegible] being made. Paris, 1¼c up.

[illegible] Baker: I consider this break an [illegible] good opportunity to take the long side of wheat and corn and [illegible] purchases at once. Old longs [illegible] liquidated and the market is in [illegible] to advance easily.

[illegible] Rupley: This July wheat is a [illegible]. We have had a big break [illegible] reaction is sure to come.

[illegible] & Co.: Our advices are that [illegible] even at the advance, is the best [illegible] on the board and that it will [illegible].

ON THE CHICAGO BOARD.

Chicago, March 18.—A better tone to [illegible] than expected today, together with [illegible] of freezing weather following [illegible] heavy rains in the winter [illegible] sections, strengthened wheat at [illegible]. The reaction was also largely [illegible] to the belief that the liquidation of [illegible] two days was about over for the present. May opened [illegible] higher at 67⅞ [illegible] and touched 67⅞c on the first couple [illegible]. At the advance scattered [illegible] traders, who bought yesterday [illegible] the break, forced the price off to [illegible] but the weakness was only momentary and the price soon improved to and [illegible] steady at 67⅝c. Another helping [illegible] was the moderate world's shipments, which were placed at 7,500,000 bus. [illegible] York reported acceptances on a liberal scale and export houses buying freely [illegible] cash sales. Chicago [illegible] 51 cars compared with 121 [illegible] same day last year and Minneapolis [illegible] Duluth 257 against 312 a year ago. [illegible] would be an interesting [illegible] of wheat at Western primary [illegible] in excess of those of [illegible] year the receipts today were considerably smaller, being only 232,000 bus, against 185,000 the previous year. Numerous crop damage reports were received [illegible] correspondents of commission houses, and this added to the buying. The market ruled strong throughout the session with May closing at an advance of [illegible].

[illegible] receipts, higher cables and the [illegible] wheat were strengthening influences [illegible] corn. Receipts were 201 cars. May [illegible] higher at 31½@⅝c and rose to [illegible].

[illegible] active and higher with shorts [illegible] buyers. Receipts 155 cars. May [illegible] up at 25¾@26c, sold sparingly at [illegible] firmed up again to 25⅞@26c.

[illegible] Receipts of hogs and moderate [illegible] of lard and ribs helped [illegible]. May pork opened 5@7½c higher [illegible] steady at $9.02½@9.05. May [illegible] a shade higher at $5.35 [illegible] respectively.

[illegible] Wheat, May, 67½@67⅝c; July, [illegible]. Corn, March, 32½c; May, 31¾c; July, [illegible]; September, 33½@33⅝c. Oats, March, 24¾c; May, 25¾c; July, 24⅝c. Pork, March, $9.75; May, $8.97½@9.00; July, $9.15@[illegible]. Lard, March, $5.17; May, $5.30; July, [illegible]; September, $5.55. Ribs, March, $4.50; May, $4.67; July, $4.80; September, $4.92. Cash: No. 2 red, 67@70c; No. 3 red, 64@66c; No. 3 hard winter, 60@62½c; No. 1 northern, spring, [illegible]; No. 2 northern, spring, 65@67c; No. 3 spring, [illegible]. Corn, No. 2, 33½@33½c; No. 3, 33c. Oats, No. 2, 26@26½c; No. 3, 25½c. Flax, cash Northwestern, $1.22; Southwestern, [illegible]; May, $1.20¼. Clover, March, $5.60. Barley, cash, 38@46c. Rye, cash, not quoted; May, 51½c. Timothy, March, $2.35. Estimated receipts Monday: Wheat, 55 cars; corn, 20 cars; oats, 150 cars.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, March 18.—The cotton market opened steady with prices 1 to 3 points higher and after a brief period of activity at the start, became very quiet with business almost entirely of a local nature. The improvement was due to a rather better average to the English news than expected and to reports that general rains in the Mississippi valley had again brought field work to a halt. The long continued contingent continued their liquidating methods. Very few outside orders were received and those reaching the market from abroad were too scattered to have much bearing either one way or the other. The private dispatches stated that Southern markets were [illegible] with a declining tendency [illegible] increased offerings. New England [illegible] markets were reported very firm but [illegible] at unchanged prices.

[illegible] spot closed quiet. Middling uplands [illegible]; middling gulf [illegible]. Futures closed [illegible]. March, [illegible]; May, [illegible]; June, [illegible]; July, [illegible]; August, [illegible]; September, [illegible]; October, [illegible]; November, [illegible]; December, [illegible]; January, [illegible].

LIVERPOOL GRAIN.

Liverpool, March 18.—Wheat firm, [illegible]; March, [illegible]; May, 5s [illegible]; July, [illegible]. Corn steady unchanged to ¼d higher to ¼d lower; March, 3s 3½d; May, 3s 3⅜d; July, 3s 3⅜d.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, March 18.—Wheat opened strong. There were buying orders distributed all over the pit, some of them large ones. Wheat was bought from 67⅝c to 67¾c. The demand did not last long, the market gradually sagged down to 67⅜c, had another rally to 67¾@⅞c and closed at 67½@⅝c. The fact that some large short lines of wheat have been covered yesterday and today by some of our leading operators gave the market considerable support both from the buying of wheat and the sentimental effect that went with it. Besides that, wheat has just had a break of 13c a bus and nobody, even though they feel bearish, are likely to be very free sellers at a time when we are likely to have some further crop scares. Northwestern receipts light, 2750 as compared with 3500 cars last week. Northwest reports a good flour trade. Liverpool cables showed a steady market; they closed ⅜@½c higher than yesterday. The existing weather, while likely to make farm work late, seems exceedingly favorable for wheat. Warmer weather is predicted for tomorrow with more or less rain and snow. Elevator people say they are getting but little wheat from farmers, who are not inclined to sell at present prices. Week's clearances 4,114,000 bus.

Corn closes higher than it did yesterday, but for all that does not act strong. Receipts light. The market has been a great disappointment to people who have been looking for higher prices, and as a result speculation has fallen off materially. On rallies we think corn a sale. Clearances for the week 1,211,000 bus; last year 5,323,000 bus. The Liverpool market was steady and closed ¼d higher than it did yesterday. Our stock in store here will show a good increase for the week.

Oats were firm and steadier than yesterday, advancing ⅛c, and closed ⅛c higher than yesterday. There is a sufficient demand for cash oats to clean up all offerings daily.

Provisions were dull again. Packers were the best buyers of ribs. Receipts of hogs, 42,300 lbs against 32,000 lbs last year; market a little easier; shipments for the week about the same as last year. There is very little speculation at present, changing from May to July being about the only feature.

Puts, May wheat, 66¾@66⅞c bid.
Calls, May wheat, 68¼-⅜@68⅜c.
Curb May wheat, 67⅜c.
Puts, May corn, 31⅞-31@31c asked.

Not Reported Correctly.

In the report of Rev. Father Corbett's address at the Lyceum Thursday The Herald quoted him as saying: "From Ireland has come the genius of the world. From Ireland has come the greatest statesman—William Gladstone. From Ireland has come the greatest and best of all countries—America."

The statement was incorrectly reported. It should have read as follows:

"To Ireland's cause has come over the genius of the century. To Ireland's cause had come over the most renowned statesman of the age, Gladstone; to Ireland's cause has come over the noblest nation of them all—America."

Special meeting of plasterers Monday evening Kalamazoo building. All are requested to attend.

BOYCOTT AN INJURY.

Mayor Tells Labor Unions That It Has Hurt Them.

Tonight is the last night of the labor bazar. There will be a fine program. A special feature will be the trapeze performance of Mr. and Mrs. Leoni, who were only secured last night. Mr. Leoni formerly traveled with Barnum & Bailey and is a prominent artist in his line.

Miss Mamie Wells, who is achieving fame on the stage in character sketches, will give several sketches and sing a number of negro melodies. Fred Langley will give a buck and wing dancing exhibition and will sing several solos. There will be a concert by the West Duluth band and last, but not least, there is the big cake walk. President Kriz of the Trades' assembly will be the speaker of the evening.

There was a large attendance last night. The mayor delivered the address. He spoke to the members of organized labor on the boycott law as follows:

"You need not fear the boycott law. It is not going to interfere with your Look in the past and see what has been rather an injury than a benefit to you. Look in the past and see what has been accomplished by it. It has been no benefit to you and it has probably been an injury to the city."

The playing of Miss Elsie Thiel on the violin elicited great applause. Dick Harris and lady gave a fine exhibition of fancy walking, in which they were assisted by two couples of juvenile walkers.

FROM COPPERDOM.

Houghton—Chief Engineer H. J. Payne of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, has returned from his trip to the Michigan, Mass and Adventure mines, where he went to inspect the progress made by the South Shore's surveying party under Frank Brotherton, and he reports that the party has already commenced the survey of the line southeast from Greenland to intersect the main line again at Gogebic lake and traverse the lower end of the south copper range. The great problem to be solved is the crossing of the valley of the Ontonagon, which valley is very wide and very deep at that point, but Mr. Payne believes that a crossing has been found and that the problem will be completely solved within a few days. As for himself he is rapidly recovering from the severe frosting he received in the blizzard and can get around in very fair shape once more although his feet are still very tender.

Allan F. Rees, alluding to the picture of the battleship Maine which is borne upon Uncle Sam's revenue stamps, declared yesterday that he had "remembered the Maine" and that the office of the register of deeds of Houghton county had about paid for that ill-starred battleship in the past few minutes, alluding to the $2266 in stamps borne by the eight deeds which he filed just before the office closed for the day Monday conveying lands secured under Reginald C. Pryor's options to the Miners' Copper company and the St. Mary's and Highland properties to the Arcadian.

Hancock—The carpenters and joiners of Hancock have formed a union as No. 150 Carpenters & Joiners' union, with Samuel McCall, president; A. H. Johnson, recording secretary; Louis Verville, financial secretary; Eric Anderson, treasurer, and William Gorman, conductor. Although the union started only in the first week in February, it now has forty-two members, and at its meeting tonight expects to enroll ten more. The leading spirits in the union are largely men who were members of the union at Marquette, and their objects are principally the securing of death, funeral and total disability benefits for themselves and their families.

GRIMSHAW'S DEPUTIES.

St. Paul, March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. H. Grimshaw, the newly appointed United States marshal, took the oath of office today before Henry Lang, clerk of the United States district court. AT WEST DULUTH Citizen Raises a Point In Connection With Settlement of Taxes.

THE LAND COMPANY

Would It Not Be Best to Allow It to Hold Its Property?

During a discussion of tax matters participated in by several West Duluth citizens one of them raised a question in connection with the taxes of the West Duluth Land company which is thought worthy of general consideration. It is this: Would it be better in the end for West Duluth citizens generally to force collection of all back taxes against the property here or to accept a reasonable compromise or even nothing at all and start in afresh?

This citizen contended that in case the first named policy is pursued the result would probably be that the property would be divided up into many small parcels and the West Duluth Land company would be practically eliminated as a factor in affairs at this end of town. In that case, he insisted, there would be nobody here with sufficient interest in the place to make any effective efforts to obtain new industries or to start the plants now here into operation. He further maintained that if the company is allowed to settle its taxes on a compromise it will be interested in disposing of the lands in its hands at the best advantage and for that reason will do work that nobody else would do. He claimed therefore that it would be better in the end for property owners here if the company retains its possessions.

Admitting that the concern had made mistakes in the past and had not been very successful in its efforts to establish paying industries, he maintained that the management had now obtained much valuable experience and would be in a position to avoid such errors in future. Therefore he thought it would be in a better position than ever before to help the community and he even asserted a willingness to pay a few more dollars in taxes each year if by so doing the land company might be kept in the field and in active working condition.

FAREWELL FOR MRS. TOUCEY.

Mrs. Ellen Toucey, who is about to remove to Minneapolis to make that place her future home, was tendered a farewell reception last evening in Odd Fellows' hall by the members of Ellen Toucey lodge, L. O. L., of which she is the worthy mistress. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion and a splendid literary and musical program was followed. At the close of a bountiful supper a beautiful silver cup was presented to Mrs. Toucey by her sisters and she voiced her thanks in a feeling manner. There were about fifty persons present and the occasion proved very enjoyable.

A PERSECUTED TRUST.

Armor plate is steel and steel is made of iron. Both are very cheap substances now, with the improved methods of converting the ore into iron and then to steel. There is a big profit in steel rails at $20 per ton, but for steel armor plate the steel trust is determined to have $400 per ton for the cheapest sort made. The Democratic senators, aided by a very few Republicans, voted to reduce the price of armor plate to $300 per ton, providing $1,500,000 with which to build a government armor plate plant in case the steel combine refused the $300. It was too late in the session for the house to try to coerce the senate, and the amendment went into the naval appropriation bill.

This persecution of the steel trust grieves the administration. When a Pennsylvania trust is hit we are sure to hear a wail of anguish from Washington, D. C. The secretary of the navy says all naval construction will have to stop. Of course he will not have the face to ask the steel trust to sell armor plate to the taxpayers for $300 per ton, when the trust is paying nearly $10 per ton for pig iron.

Neither will the navy department build an armor plate plant, as congress has ordered, because $1,500,000 is not enough money for that purpose—so the secretary says. It is certain, at any rate, that the steel trust would not like to see this country belittle itself by building a small $1,500,000 armor plate plant. The secretary of the navy and his superior officer, President McKinley, will not abet congress in persecuting any trust. The attorney general has made no effort during the life of the present administration to enforce the anti-trust law, and it is not likely that he ever will, because the last Republican national convention was controlled by the trust representatives, who took care that the platform should not say a word against trusts. Nor is it surprising to be told now that naval construction will cease until the next congress assembles, when there will be a trust-controlled majority in the senate that will fix a price for armor plate that will suit the steel trust.

NO BRITISH ALLIANCE.

David Christie Murray, editor of a London paper, hit the nail on the head when he said: "The feeling still exists in millions of minds in the United States that we (the British) are guided solely by our selfish interests." But he fails to reach a true conception of affairs when he adds: "We have had the intellectual and spiritual best of America with us for many years."

The fact is that the few sniffling and slobbering Anglo-maniac apes of aristocracy in the effete East who have endeavored to place this nation in a false position with respect to England and imperialism represent neither spiritual nor intellectual America. This faction is composed mainly of the heirs to great fortunes, born without brains, who are ashamed of their immediate ancestors, and some with good reason, and that other class of human toadies who fawn upon wealth, spew when the stomach of riches turns sick with surfeit and greedily lick the unclean golden hand that smites them.

Real Americans—clean Americans—want none of England nor her policy of colonial conquest and robbery. And this numerous class possesses the intelligence and the honor of America.

JOHN PAUL JONES.

A Deer River subscriber of The Herald asks the following question: "Is it not a fact that John Paul Jones was the first admiral in the United States navy, and that George Dewey is the fourth and not the third admiral?"

John Paul Jones was never created a full admiral. There have been but three full admirals of the American navy—Farragut, Porter and Dewey.

When congress decided in 1775 to equip a navy "for the defence of American liberty," Jones was named as the senior first lieutenant. His most notable engagement was with the English warship Serapis, 44 guns, on Sept. 23, 1779. His own ship was an old Indiaman, which he named the Bon Homme Richard. An account of the fight says: At 7 in the evening the Bon Homme Richard closed with the Serapis and began one of the most desperate conflicts on record. After a few broadsides they fouled and lay side by side until the fight was over. The Serapis let go an anchor to swing clear, but Jones lashed the two ships together to deprive the enemy of the advantage of his superior battery and sail power, and to prevent his retreat. Two of the Richard's eighteens had burst at the first fire, blowing up the deck and many of their crews. The fire of the Serapis silenced her opponent's maindeck battery and crashed through her sides. Jones kept on fighting with a few light guns on the spardeck and musketry in the tops. A hand grenade that was dropped from the mainyard of the Richard down a hatchway in the Serapis caused a terrible explosion on the lower deck. Jones drove back a boarding party, and the Serapis struck her flag at 10:30 at night. Each ship had nearly half her men killed or wounded. Capt. Pearson of the Serapis reported that on going on board the Bon Homme Richard he "found her in the greatest distress, her counters and guns dismounted, on fire in two places, and six or seven feet of water in the hold. She had to be abandoned, and sank the next morning.

Franklin commended "the sturdy, cool and determined bravery" which Jones displayed in this action, and the victor was received with enthusiasm. The king of France gave Jones a gold sword and the order of merit. He also received the thanks of the United States congress, and was designated by a unanimous vote to command the ship of the line that was then building. It was proposed to create the grade of rear-admiral for him, and he was considered "the principal hope of our future efforts on the ocean," as Jefferson styled him in 1788. But he had no further opportunity for active service under the American flag. He entered the Russian service in 1788 with the rank of rear-admiral, but soon returned to Paris in broken health. In 1792 an appointment as commissioner and consul of the United States at Algiers was sent out, but he died before receiving it.

CURRENCY REFORM.

The Republican members of the house, shortly before the adjournment of congress, appointed a committee to draft a plan of currency reform for submission to the next congress. The senate authorized its finance committee to sit during the recess to consider the currency question. It is understood that the Republican members of that committee will sit with the special committee of house Republicans and it is said that the advocates of currency reform are hopeful that a plan will be devised acceptable to the next congress and to the country. Congressman Morris is a member of the house committee, which will hold its first meeting at Atlantic City next month.

Whether the committee can produce an acceptable bill, one that will pass congress, is doubtful. The Omaha Bee, a strong Republican journal, says it is inclined to doubt whether an acceptable plan will be devised by this joint committee, for the reason that it is likely to be largely under the same influences which dictated the bill reported from the house banking and currency committee—a measure that did not command the support of a majority of the Republicans in the last congress. That bill was a compromise, but it proposed to eventually eliminate the legal tender notes and give to the banks a monopoly of the paper currency of the country. No measure of this character will ever be adopted, because no political party will take the dangerous responsibility of striking down the government paper money and giving the banks the exclusive privilege of supplying the people with a paper currency.

"A large majority of the people," says the Bee, "believe that the United States legal tender notes should remain a part of our currency. They are satisfied with the greenback and they reject the theory that there is danger in that currency and that its existence is a barrier to prosperity. These people are also inveterately opposed to giving the banks a monopoly of the paper currency. No party can afford to ignore this public opinion and it is safe to say that none will do so. If, therefore, the men who have been designated to consider the currency question will do this with a due regard for popular sentiment they may be able to propose legislation that will have some chance of adoption. Otherwise their labor will be to no purpose."

Three per cent per annum is all that great financial institutions can count on receiving from conservative investments of large amounts of money, according to the opinions of the most prominent bankers of the country. An Eastern life insurance company recently issued a pamphlet containing expressions of opinion on this subject from sixty-six well-known authorities, and two-thirds of them think that the average net return on safe investments will not be over 3 per cent per annum for the next twenty years.

The News Tribune is right in urging that the Duluth delegation request the house to reconsider the memorial to congress regarding a state park, which has been used at Washington as an argument against opening to settlement the Indian reservations west of Duluth. The effect of creating a vast park there would be to prevent the settlement and development of a large and rich territory tributary to Duluth. There is not a single good reason that can be advanced in favor of such a project.

It is stated that ex-Congressman Henry U. Johnson, of Indiana announced over two years ago his intention of retiring from congress at the end of the last session, and his going out has had nothing to do with his sharp arraignment of President McKinley. He expects to return to the practice of law, removing possibly from Indiana to St. Louis. This is a complete answer to the misrepresentations of Mr. Johnson by the administration press.

Governor Candler of Georgia has a novel explanation of the cause of the trouble at Palmetto which resulted in the butchery of nine negroes. He says that "negro regiments and soldiers have been passing through and the sight of them has placed in the mind of the negro a spirit of boldness." And whenever a negro shows a spirit of boldness shoot him, of course.

Mr. Foraker's anti-Cuban franchise amendment to the army appropriation bill is said to hit Senator Proctor and Abner McKinley as well as Senator Hanna and some of Alger's friends. It was an excellent move on Foraker's part.

The Springfield Republican says that eulogists of the census arrangement evidently agree with Lord Palmerston, that the chief recommendation of the order of the garter was that "There was no d—d nonsense of merit about it."

For some reason The Herald cannot help having more respect for the word of Filipinos than it has for that of the News Tribune and other imperialist organs which squeal whenever the administration is stuck.

The Kansas City Star has a lengthy editorial article on the "Subsidence of Bryan." This is the 'steenth time the article has appeared since 1896, and yet Bryan is still alive and popular.

And yet, despite the fulsome praise by the British press, Ambassador Choate's speech does not appear to have been remarkable for either ability or eloquence.

The Philadelphia Bulletin man insists that "Gen. Eagan will never consider his punishment as complete until his pay is raised."

Romance and Reality.

He held her hand! Delightful peace
Pervaded all the souls of both.
His arm he stole around her waist:
She nestled closer, nothing loath.
They talked about their wedding day.
And for a happy future planned.
And joyous hours like minutes flew
And all the time he held her hand!

He held her hand! Her eye flashed fire;
She writhed and twisted in his grasp!
He realized that trouble dire
Would come, if she should break his clasp.
For wedlock—goal of all true love—
Now held them in its potent band.
And she was trying to throw a carving knife at him! He held her hand!

HONOR TO IRELAND

Brilliant Entertainment of the A. O. H. In Memory of Emerald Isle.

MR. TOWNE'S SPEECH

Comments on Expansion and Philippine Policy—Great Musical Program.

The celebration of St. Patrick's day at the Lyceum theater last night under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was a thoroughly complete success in every respect. The house was tremendous. Every seat was filled, and before the program was commenced the management of the house had done a thriving business in standing-room tickets. A large number of these were sold, and though the performance was quite long there were many people who found it no hardship to stand all through it, and no one became weary enough to leave before the very last number had been given. The program was fairly long originally, but encores spun it out a third longer than it stood at first, and no one complained. The program was an excellent one, and the audience appreciated the fact. There was plenty of applause, and performers could not ask for a more enthusiastic audience.

The decorations of the stage were interesting and appropriate. The front was adorned by a row of potted plants and flowers. On the scenery at the back were hung shields bearing the names of Irishmen who have carved their names on the scroll of history. Among them were Sarsfield, Smith O'Brien, Wolf Tone, Emmett, O'Connell, Father John Murphy, Grattan, Sheridan, Goldsmith, Moore, Farnell, Edmund Burke, John Boyle O'Reilly, Thomas Davis. Over all these hung the Irish welcome, displayed on a broad streamer: "Cead Mile Failthe," which means "a hundred thousand welcomes." In short, the entertainment was a great success, and the Ancient Order of Hibernians did itself proud and made itself thousands of friends.

The first number on the program was an overture from the orchestra, "Sounds From Ireland," by Max Bendix. This, as well as the other numbers by the orchestra, was very good. Miss Tena Shannon sang "Asthore" pleasingly, receiving warm applause. Charles P. Murphy sang "Brian Boru" in good voice, and in addition to his share of applause he received a cabbage tied with a green ribbon. He was quite equal to the occasion. His native wit gave rise to the following remark: "Friendship is a beautiful thing. Next to the friendship of the man who would lay down his life for me, I value the friendship of the man who has sent me his head."

Miss Mamie C. Murphy recited "Erin's Flag," by Father Ryan, and she did it with spirit and feeling and she was warmly applauded. John F. Gehan, of St. Paul, sang "The Wearing of the Green," and he displayed a bass voice of strong, rich quality that captured the audience bodily. Mrs. James C. McAuliffe sang "The Kerry Dance" beautifully, and she responded to a hearty encore with "Killarney." Miss Millie Pottgieser, of St. Paul, sang "Come Back to Erin," and she was most enthusiastically and most deservedly applauded. Her contralto voice is rich and full and displays considerable cultivation.

The next number on the program was an address by Hon. Charles A. Towne, and when he was introduced by John Flood, county president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, he received the warmest kind of a welcome, the applause keeping up for several minutes. Throughout his speech the applause followed, and he received another ovation at its close. As usual, his speech was good, though he explained in starting that he had just risen from a bed of sickness where he had been for several days.

"After having been out of the city for several weeks and having on my return been confined to bed with sickness for several days I have not had an opportunity to choose a subject for this address. A friend made the happy suggestion that I 'whoop it up for the Irish.' A person on such an occasion as this can always turn to that much-worked, but never overdone expedient of 'whooping it up for the Irish,' for there is a good deal to 'whoop it up' about. Ireland has filled the world's space all out of proportion to her size. Driven from home by England's cruelty and oppression, her sons have found other fields for their talents and there they have given them expression to the added luster of their own names and those of the countries they have sought. But I want to impress upon you tonight that above all other things, no matter how your hearts turn to that fair little isle and how it lives in your hopes and determinations, you are Americans. As Americans I want to tell you that there has never in the history of the nation been any more need of patriotism than there is today.

"Americanism. What is Americanism?" Mr. Towne under this head discussed the leading topics of the day, expansion and the issues leading out of the war with Spain. He said that the war with Spain in the cause of Cuban liberty was all right, but he condemned the war with the Filipinos now in progress as useless slaughter. He declared himself against expansion. He said that the nation cannot remain half republic and half empire any more than in Lincoln's time it could remain half slave and half free. With a great military establishment it will be easier for tyranny to travel from the Orient to America than it will be for liberty to travel from the United States to the Philippines, particularly when the messengers of peace are thrown from the 13-inch guns of the Oregon. The war that has just closed had the noblest inspiration of any war since the crusades. "We started in with no selfish intentions, but to free a people to whom had been wafted from our shores the aroma of liberty and law. But the minute we began to reach out and fight for territory the war became a cheap, land-grabbing, murderous escapade that any bullying, bragging brigand among the nations might stoop to."

In conclusion Mr. Towne declared himself against an Anglo-American alliance, and he ridiculed the idea that colonization is needed to obtain markets for American products.

A. Hoelscher next gave a flute solo, "Come Back to Erin." He performed it excellently, as usual. Francis E. Woodward sang "I'm Off to Philadelphia" in a very pleasing manner, and Miss Pottgieser sang a charming selection from Italian opera. Paddy Doran made a great hit. He sang "Dearie," and when he was called back sang "Kittie." Then he was called back again and sang "Put Me Off at Buffalo." The crowd wanted him to come back and sing some more, but Mr. Doran begged off, and gave as his excuse the length of the program and the alleged fact that he understood that there were several people in the audience that desired to catch the 3:30 o'clock train in the morning. John E. Foran sang a tenor solo, "My Beautiful Irish Maid," and responded to an encore. Miss La Stella Solon, of West Superior, sang "Kathleen Mavourneen," and she made an excellent impression on the audience. Her voice is very pleasing, and both her first number and her encore were warmly applauded. Fred Langley gave a characteristic Irish song and dance, and his number was a clever exhibition of solo clog dancing. The program closed with an American medley by the orchestra. Mrs. A. Hoelscher was the accompanist, and her work added not a little to the pleasure of the vocal numbers.

THE BLESSINGS OF WAR.

"This here last war," remarked the old lady, according to the Atlanta Constitution, "has been a blessin' to my family; John's drawin' of a big pension for one ear an' three fingers; the old man's writin' a history; Moll's engaged to a sergeant, an' Jennie's gwine to marry a feller that come within an inch of bein' a general."

HEALTH RESTORED.

When I see a man who is an easy and steady eater and a sound and regular sleeper, I see a man who has no occasion to be afraid of the world, the flesh or the devil. For, from those still solemn hours of the night when human figures lie like recumbent statues in the darkness, and from those other hours when busy forks and fingers deliver to the mouth the food which the palate stands ready to welcome—from these two things, I say, proceeds all human power, together with the clearness and sanity of mind which lends it to every valuable accomplishment.

"When we sleep," said Leigh Hunt, "is the time when the mysterious spirit goes to take its airy rounds." "I advise you to sleep in peace and wake in joy," said Sir Walter Scott. "Sleep," said Bulwer, "is the happiest of earthly boons." "Sleep," said a poet-philosopher of Boston, "lingers all our lifetime near our eyes as the night hovers all day in the boughs of the fir tree."

What these gentlemen say is very good and fine, and makes sleep seem as easy a thing to come at as a ham sandwich is to the fellow who has 5 cents still left in his pocket. Nevertheless, if you could take the roofs off the houses and look down into them from above, passing from one to another, swift as Asmodeus, you would see millions of people tumbling about on their beds, praying in vain to the somnolent gods from early evening to the crack of day.

"I couldn't sleep," writes a lady, "I tossed and tumbled with pain and excitement. This was some five years ago. I suffered greatly from pain in the back, strange mental hallucinations, loss of appetite, scanty and dark fluid which scalded in passing, bad taste in the mouth in the morning, loss of nerve and tone, restless nights, gradual failure of weight and energy, and dark and sallow skin. I had no ambition to go about my daily duties. Even the weight of my clothes was oppressive.

"My sister had taken Warner's Safe Cure for female weakness and been immensely benefited. I gave up my doctor and began using the Safe Cure. Soon I felt like another person. I could eat heartily and my system was filled with fresh vigor. My health was restored and I worked with ease and slept like a tired school girl." (Signed) Mrs. J. H. PAGE, Brockton, Mass.

DR. IZRE'S LECTURE.

Delivers an Eloquent Panegyric on General Grant, the Great Soldier.

Despite the many other attractions last evening, there was a fair-sized audience at the lecture delivered by Dr. George W. Izer, of Allegheny, Pa., on "General Grant," at the First M. E. church. It was an eloquent panegyric. The great chieftain was viewed on all sides of his character, and in all his relationships, as a man, a warrior and a statesman; the light of what he was and what he did. In his exordium, the speaker compared his subject to some great mountain peak, the relative proportion of which to its surroundings can best be appreciated from a distance. The standpoint of today is too near in point of time to accurately estimate this great character. At some future centennial of his death, a fitting verdict may be pronounced. He was the sphinx of the ages. Cold, impassive and inscrutable to those who did not understand him; a personality rich with the graces of the soul to those in sympathy with him. In what he was and what he did, he was alike sublime, glittering like a star in the constellation of great souls who with him make up a group such as no other nation has ever produced in the first century of its existence. He was the crown of the triumvirate of immortals, Lincoln, Garfield and Grant, and the last of that quarternium of great spirits, Washington, Lincoln, Garfield and Grant. To him had been accorded the title of the noblest American and the laureled soldier of the world, and some there were who declared him to be the most illustrious of any living man of his time. To those who regard these encomiums as extravagant, it is but needed to commend a full study of him in the light of his time, his responsibilities, his deeds, the life element he was under as one who played in all his relations. He was the greatest figure in the most gigantic war of modern times, handling more men, marching them longer distances and fighting on more fields than any other general in any war of ancient or modern times. He took more prisoners than Napoleon's army numbered at Waterloo; he marched his legions farther than Napoleon in the Moscow campaign, or Hannibal in Italy. The fame of the first, and all of the greatest and most decisive victories of the rebellion belong to his fame. Twice his victories were made the occasion of special thanksgiving by the nation by proclamation of the president.

His mind glowed with a steady brilliancy—he was perfectly poised, and to this poise was to be attributed his great capability as a commander. He had what Napoleon called "sang froid in the morning courage"—that is, the ability to meet unflinchingly and with decision unexpected contingencies.

The speaker pointed out the hero's personal characteristics—his modesty, simplicity and consideration for others, and illustrated them aptly. Passing to his last six years, which days of his political and financial defeat, and finally his defeat after a long struggle with the death angel, the speaker pointed out how by the sublime strength of his character, the hero had wrenched from them the greatest victories of his life. The address closed with a touching portrayal of the incidents of the hero's last hours, in which all of his great qualities stood revealed with increased lustre.

"None at all. Go ahead. Put it on the ground of extreme cruelty. I told her to get me the best spring medicine she could find. She ordered a bucksaw, a cord of hardwood and an ax. All hope of an amicable adjustment is past."

TRAVELING UNDER GROUND.

Boston people do not find traveling underground uncomfortable, says the New York Post. The success of the subway, in the volume of traffic diverted from the surface cars to gain the speed of the under surface route, exceeds anticipation. This statement is not conjecture, but is based on figures gathered by the Rapid Transit commission, which employs men from time to time to note the volume of traffic, particularly on Tremont street, with a view to possible future use. A count at one station of the subway, the Park street station, proved that more persons enter and leave cars and make transfers at that place than pass through the North Union station, or are expected to pass through the new South station—and this regardless of the number of passengers who merely ride through the Park street station on their way to other points. It is known that 25,000,000 passengers, going in both directions, pass through the North Union station in the course of a year; it is estimated that 24,000,000 persons will take and leave trains through the new station; and it is figured that no less than 26,000,000 men, women and children will enter and leave the Park street station of the subway in a twelve month.

IMPIETIES.

An eloquent Detroit preacher tells this among his early experiences in a rural parish: One of his parishioners was very ill and finally sent for the minister, who found the man rather reticent, and finally asked if there was anything he could do.

"Parson," was the answer, "sleep would make me well, but the doctor can't make me sleep. I wondered if you'd preach me that long sermon I heard last July."

A visitor in a Cleveland school, noticing a bright little colored girl, said to her: "Do you go to church, little girl?" "Yes'm," was the quick reply. "I'm a vehwy conscientious church goah." "You go every Sunday, then?" "Yes'm—twice a day, and Friday evenin', too, mos' gen'lly." "Where do you go?" "I 'tend de ch'ch close by my house. It's the mos' conv'nient." "How do you like your pastor?" "He's a vehwy good man. He preaches sich strong sermons. I's 'fraid we's gwine to lose um, though." "What makes you think so?" "Well, everybody says dat jest as like as not he'll mos' likely go back again to barberin'."

Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia is one of the most genial prelates in the American Catholic church. At the reception given in his honor the other day, says the Record, he noticed many children with their parents. Accompanied by her father, a little girl was seated somewhat apart from the others and the archbishop, seeing her, said with great gravity: "You are with your father, and, as I am his spiritual father, am I your grandfather?" This created a general laugh. A little later on the archbishop indulged in another pleasantry. At the conclusion of the ceremonies at the temperance reception the archbishop gave his blessing and remarked: "Now, Bishop Prendergast will give you a bigger blessing." As the bishop arose and stretched his massive form to its full height the audience quickly comprehended the archbishop's little joke and the audible smile that went around compelled the bishop to wait a few minutes for the proper degree of dignity had been regained.

The daughter of a Methodist minister created consternation the other day, relates the New York Sun, by walking into a book shop and saying meekly:

"Do you give clergyman's discount on playing cards?"

"On what?" demanded the salesman.

"On playing cards."

"Clergyman's discount, did you say?"

"Yes."

"Well, we've never been asked for it," with peculiar emphasis. "but I suppose—"

"Because I'm a clergyman's daughter," said the young woman, "and I always get a discount."

"Oh, very well," said the salesman, trying to keep a sober face.

The young woman bought the cards, paid the price, minus the clergyman's discount, and went out of the store. The joke was considered the best of the season among the book salesmen. But the Methodist girl tells it rather apologetically, and says she has done better. She has a fondness, it seems, for having fun with herself. The other day she had some without any previous intention. She went into another book shop, this time for some pens. A stupid, half-grown boy trundled himself forward to wait on her.

"I'd like some pens," she said briskly.

"What—kind—uv—pens?" with half-shut eyes and heavy jaw.

"Pigeon!" flashed the girl, and, whirling around, she was out of the store in a second.

She says she didn't mean to do it, but the temptation was too strong, and she has been chuckling ever since at the expression which came over the boy's face.

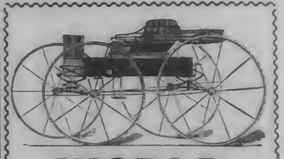

She is always bringing home some choice bit of humor from the various prayer meetings and societies and Epworth league meetings which she attends. One which she gathered in at a missionary meeting is of especial interest to persons of the Episcopalian persuasion. It was a home missionary meeting and a woman from a small town was giving her experience.

"We ain't done much durin' of the past year," she said, "but we're a-hopin' for success to crown our labors in the end. They's lots of Episcopalians in our town, and by the grace o' God we mean to put our hands to the plow an' see 'em all brought to Christ before another year rolls 'round."

BECOMES A CATHOLIC.

Miss Elizabeth Kilsyth Livingston, a member of the old New York family, has joined the Roman Catholic church, to the surprise of the exclusive society circles of which she is a member, says the New York Journal. She was instructed in the faith by Father Healy of St. Lawrence's church, Eighty-fourth street and Park avenue, and received her first communion at the Convent of the Sacred Heart. This young woman, who is a great beauty and has many accomplishments, was born in Baltimore. She lives with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Van Brugh Livingston, her parents and only sister having died some years ago. She was brought up a Baptist, but later joined the Protestant Episcopal church. Her uncle and aunt are Roman Catholics. She is a member of Colonial Dames and is associated with many charities.

She is one of the loveliest girls that Baltimore has ever sent to adorn the creme de la creme of New York society. Photographers say that no picture can do justice to her loveliness, as it is her expression that gives an exquisite charm to her refined, aristocratic features. One of her greatest attractions is that she is apparently unconscious of her beauty, and perfectly unaffected in her manners. She has a rare musical talent, and although she has never taken a lesson, plays delightfully on the piano, guitar and autoharp.

Snow-shoeing is quite popular among a few of the young people just now, and they have had some very enjoyable tramps. Last evening a party went down to Oat-ka beach and had their supper there, just as a reminder of summer picnic days. Those in the party were:

Next Monday the Twentieth Century club, as usual, will open its rooms for the month's social. The committee is working in harmony with the Decorative Art society, which has just entered the club, and expects to make this evening a most delightful occasion. A cordial invitation is extended to the public and all club members are urged to be present.

The rest rooms are now open daily from 11:30 to 1:30. Here any member of the club may come with her lunch and have a pleasant place in which to eat it, together with a cup of tea which will be made when asked for. Women who are down town shopping and want a resting place, a sup of tea and a biscuit will find the rooms a convenience; and those who have occupation in the city will, it is hoped, enjoy its privileges, viz., a quiet place to lunch, a good cup of tea, a quiet room with sofa, easy chairs and reading matter. Any club member may invite a friend to the rooms with her and feel that it is her own room to which she is coming.

An added proof of the already established fact that Duluth is rapidly attaining the position of a musical center is the appearance, in selected programs, of the famous baritone, Ffrangcon Davies on March 28. Mr. Krehbiel, perhaps the most authoritative of present day writers on music and musical criticism, says in a recent review of a performance in New York of "Elijah:"

"Finely sustained, steadily and intelligently developed, the dramatic interest was superior to any I ever heard, thanks to the superb impersonation of Ffrangcon Davies. Them an sang with an intensity of earnestness that make his proclamations positively inspiring.

Mr. Ffrangcon Davies made a superb foundation for the solo quartet."

ABOUT COMPLEXIONS

A Subject Nearest a Woman's Heart.

"What a good fresh color you have!" said my friend Mrs. S. one morning about a year ago. "Do tell me what you have been doing to yourself."

I laughed and said: "If I should tell you, you would hardly believe it, and yet I want you to look at me again and see if you really appreciate what a great difference there is between my present looks and how I was two or three months ago."

"Well," she said, "my dear, I don't want to flatter you, but really I don't know when I have seen as beautiful a complexion as you have, and (pinching my cheek) I believe it is all natural."

"Yes," I said, "it is all natural. It is a complexion made on the inside and not on the out." "Well, do tell me about it," she said. "I am a perfect martyr to dyspepsia and feel almost discouraged, having tried so many different kinds of medicines, and got no relief."

I said, "you will have to stop coffee entirely." "Oh, bless your heart, I can't do that," she said. "Well, that is what I thought, but Dr. —— said, 'you will never know the difference in leaving off coffee if you will use Postum Food coffee, being sure that it is properly boiled to bring out the flavor,' and he added, 'there are certain elements in the food coffee that I know from experience with patients, really go to build up a strong, healthy nervous system, and that is the foundation for true health.'

"So I went at it, and I want to emphasize the necessity of following the directions in making Postum, for when I first began to use it I did not heed them strictly, and the beverage was almost a failure, but I concluded that the fault must be mine, and tried again, with the most gratifying results."

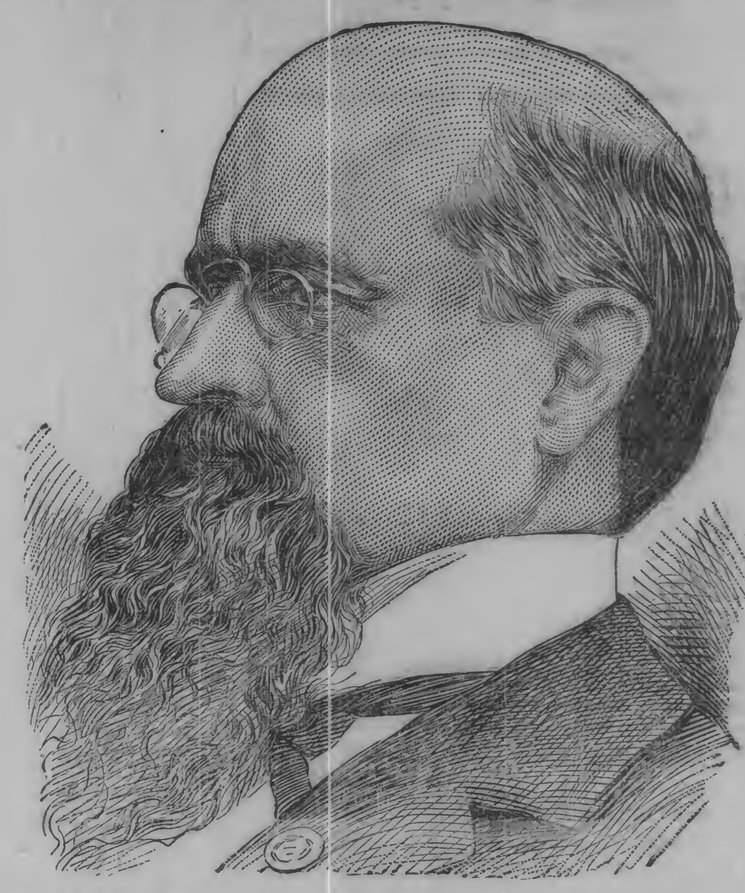

A week or two later I met my friend again, and she scarcely looked like the same woman. "I am feeling so well," she exclaimed, "and I owe you the thanks. Why, when I was talking to you before, I had such a headache and a burning distress in my stomach, while all the time my liver was disturbed, I was constipated and the kidneys more or less affected. All the world looked blue," and she laughed heartily as she told of the old troubles, "but they have gone now, and today everything is rosy colored. How can I thank you enough, and I can tell you now that I was in danger of losing my position (she is a deputy in the office of the land commissioner at the state house). I don't understand how people can get into and keep along with such habits, but they don't really know what the trouble is. That was the case with me, and I suppose it was the case with you, was it not?" "Yes," I said, "and, by the way, I want to tell you another item. My baby boy, two years old, was a puny, fretful, crying child until I began feeding him on lightly toasted bread broken into Postum. Now he is the picture of health and weighs forty pounds. "Surely there are more things in our philosophy than we have dreamed of." Mrs. George E. Bigelow, 2370 Sixth street, Lincoln, Neb.

NOTE.—$5 prizes of greenbacks and gold will be paid for truthful letters regarding experience in coffee drinking. See statement in this paper March 17 headed "More Boxes of Gold."

If you raise the paper, write to the Postum company at Battle Creek, Mich.

THE MEXICAN CONSUL

No time is so favorable as March and April for getting strong and well.

A thoroughly well person eats with relish, sleeps soundly, works with zest, and without worry from morbid anxiety as to the outcome of his efforts.

If you feel you are out of health, strength and spirits; if you show signs of nervousness and exhaustion; if you have that feeling of lassitude that comes in the spring to those who are out of health; if your blood shows the usual signs of impurity—Paine's celery compound will turn you right-about-face toward health.

Enrique Guerra, the Mexican consul, has the confidence not only of his government, but of the American public. Through his intervention many important commercial questions between the United States and Mexico have been happily adjusted.

During his long residence in this country Mr. Guerra has lived in a circle where the best possible medical treatment is always obtainable. He early discovered that in the spring, when nature seems most willing to lend its best assistance to the sick and feeble, his friends were using Paine's celery compound—the only spring medicine that physicians endorse, and intelligent families in every community have come to rely upon with confidence.

Mr. Guerra was not long in finding out the great reliance that is thus placed upon Paine's celery compound by the best informed people, and he was not slow in taking advantage of the great remedy himself. Here is his statement, unqualified, conclusive:

"Kansas City, March 16, 1898.

"At times, when I have been seemingly exhausted from arduous work, Paine's celery compound has been of such benefit to me that it seems now I could hardly have progressed but for it. When sleep was slow in coming and my appetite flagged, a general toning up of my system followed the use of the compound. While I am not versed in things medical, I do know a fact when I encounter it, and that Paine's celery compound helped me and gave me a feeling of new strength is a fact.

"ENRIQUE GUERRA."

As spring comes on most women and many men who have lived hot-house lives during the winter find themselves unduly fretful, unable to sleep soundly, without appetite, easily tired, frequently distressed by headaches, and lacking "snap" and strength—the result of poor blood and weak nerves.

To those in this condition the thousands of testimonials from people like Mr. Guerra who have been benefited by Paine's celery compound should be reason enough for giving this best of all spring medicines at least a trial. What it has done for others it will do for the reader. It will purify the blood, clear the complexion, rejuvenate the exhausted nervous system, insure good digestion, bring on healthy sleep and restore one's strength and vitality.

No other medicine in the world ever accomplished so much, and a single trial will add another to the long list of people in every community who gratefully fully sound the praises of Paine's celery compound.

The Silberstein & Bondy Co.

Have Reason to Feel Proud of Their Spring Merchandise Showing.

As nothing but praise has been given them from all sides for the handsome displays made in each and every department. And judging from their busy establishment, the people of the Northwest must appreciate their efforts in placing before them so large and varied a stock of beautiful goods. Their showing of fine silks, dress goods and wash fabrics is indeed a revelation, and we doubt if any establishment in the land, excepting, possibly, some of the houses in the largest Eastern cities, show handsomer or more select goods than is shown by this house right here in Duluth. Twenty-two years' experience in catering to the tastes of Duluthians has served them to good advantage. Exceptional efforts have been made by this house this spring, and greater strides have been made toward making this year's business larger than the firm has ever known it. Their dress goods department is overflowing with the world's choicest gatherings of silks, satins, velvets, cashmeres, cheviots and wash fabrics. Their department of ready tailored suits, jackets, skirts and waists is brim full of the choicest and jauntiest garments from the very best Eastern makers. Their department of draperies has undergone a decided change. One may hereafter look there for the very newest and prettiest things that go toward making home cheerful, such as rugs, lace curtains and hangings of every description. The muslin underwear department has also brushed up, so to speak. The new shipments expected Monday morning will be interesting to every parent, as it will show the newest and daintiest things for the mother, miss or little tots. New white goods, linens, etc., are being received almost daily, and thrifty housewives will be astonished at the little prices for really high-grade white goods. The hosiery, underwear, ribbons and various things that we may look upon as necessities are looked after by the same careful hand. This assures right prices but the best get into this house. They are the exclusive agents in Duluth for the "American Lady" corset, so very popular in the East. The gloves sold by this house need very little mention, as the reputation of the La Tosca made by Fownes Bros. & Co., and the "Alexandre" speak for themselves. In short, each and every department is a complete store in itself, and those looking for the very best grades of merchandise carefully and reasonably priced can go to the Silberstein & Bondy company with the utmost security.

GETS LARGE VERDICT

The Howard Company Gets $8000 Against Former Bon Voyage Owners.

Some time ago the Howard Transportation company brought suit against the Ogdensburg and Thousand Islands Transportation company to recover damages because the Bon Voyage, purchased from the latter, was not up to contract. The contention made by the Howard company was that the boat consumed more coal in attaining a certain speed than was guaranteed. The case was tried at Grand Rapids, Mich., owing to inability to get proper service on the defendant here. It was tried in the United States court there and a verdict of $8000 has been awarded the Howard company.

The boat, except for the point raised, is all right. About $2000 is being expended in repairs this winter, and she will be in fine shape for next summer's work.

THE BIG MITT GANG.

Are Now Working the Bowery For All They Are Worth.

The "big mitt" men and hold-up artists had a good day yesterday. In the midst of the general libating, or "howling up," according to up-to-date phraseology, which often marks the celebration by some people of St. Patrick's day, they kept sober and attended to business. Several of the victims carried their troubles to police headquarters last night and this morning.

John Anderson, who said he hailed from Aitkin, reported this morning that he had been robbed of $13 in money and a check to his order for $48.60 drawn on the Aitkin bank by C. P. De Laltre. Anderson did not know anything about how it happened. He said he stopped in a saloon between Ice depot and Lake avenue, and that was the nearest he could come to locating himself until he woke up this morning in a lodging house on Lake avenue. Chief Hansen gave him some good advice and a breakfast. A notice was sent to the bank stopping payment on the check.

Ole Iverson, who is just out of the woods, dropped in next and stated that he was robbed of a $10 bill in Carlson's saloon on the Bowery last night. He said that in pulling out some money to pay for a drink he dropped the bill on the floor, and that a man named Charley Carlson picked up the bill and claimed that he had dropped it. Iverson asked for the bill, he says, and Carlson gave him a "biff" in the face. He was promised the services of a detective to look into the matter.

Another man who did not leave his name reported last night that he had been buncoed out of $20 in a saloon on the Bowery. He said that another man met him and told him that he knew him from the old country and asked him to have a drink. They went into a saloon. After drinking at the bar they went into the back room at the suggestion of the victim's friend who knew him from the old country. There was a pack of cards there and they got to playing, and pretty soon two other men dropped in and the "friend" asked them to join in. The victim won a little and then the game began to go against him and he lost his $20, all he had. His "friend" generously bought him a ticket to St. Paul and gave him $1.50, and went to the depot with him. Then the sun rose in the victim's mind, as it were, and he went to police headquarters with his story.

The police think that the "big mitt" work is being done by a new gang from Superior. While cruising on the Bowery this morning they discovered an old friend, however, in the person of "French Joe," a "big mitt" artist who was invited to leave town about a week ago and said he would accept. He ran into the officers before he saw them. He told a glib story about working for a clothing house here, but he went behind the bars.

James Hedley to Lecture.

James Hedley, of Philadelphia, will deliver, in the Star Lecture course, at First M. E. church, on Wednesday evening, March 22, his nationally famous lecture, "Sunny Side of Life." This lecture has been delivered by him 700 times with unvarying success. An exchange says of it:

"The best, brightest and wittiest lecture that has yet been delivered in the Young Men's Christian Association hall was given last evening by Dr. James Hedley, of Cleveland, who gave the final entertainment in the association's course for this season. 'Sunny Side of Life' was the subject of a lecture that contained so much good counsel and wholesome advice. Those who enjoyed the privilege of hearing the lecture were surely made happier and better. No mere outline could give any idea of the lecture or do justice to the lecturer."

Tonight, with the hot biscuit, they expect to hand out wienerwurst, donated for the purpose by N. H. Witt and the Butchers' union. They take this manner of getting their "Royal" steel range before the people—and the people seem to take to the idea, especially the small boy, who is very much in evidence at feeding time.

DIED OF EXPOSURE

William Cobourough, a Dock Laborer, Dies at Police Headquarters.

HIS HANDS FROZEN

Was Picked Up In Frightful Condition—Has Foreign Legacy Coming.

William Cobourough, a dock laborer, died at police headquarters at 8:15 o'clock this morning from the effects of exposure. He was picked up in a drunken stupor at Railroad street and Eleventh avenue west by Officer Brigham at 4:30 o'clock this morning. Both hands were frozen and he was thoroughly chilled. He was taken to police headquarters and Dr. R. Graham was summoned. He administered stimulants, but the man did not rally and died without recovering consciousness. The remains were taken to Durkan's morgue.

Cobourough was from Hamilton, Ont., and had lived in Duluth about sixteen years. He was unmarried and lived in a shack near the electric light plant. He was about 50 years old. He had been drinking hard for several months, and it is stated that during that time he had spent about $500 of his savings. He had been a hard drinker, but had stopped, and last summer laid up about $800. He went to Hamilton last fall to see about a legacy that had been left to him and his brother, it is said, and got to drinking while away and had kept it up ever since. A friend of his had warned him a short time ago, it is said, that he would kill himself unless he stopped drinking, and he is said to have remarked that he did not care whether he did or not. He is well connected in the old country, it is said, and the legacy is said to have been left by relatives there. It is asserted that it was for a large amount.

He worked in Donohue's gang of dockmen, and it is thought that they will probably take charge of the body.

A dock man named Andrew Richardson was picked up on the Bowery in an intoxicated condition with his leg broken at the ankle, by Officer Brigham a short time before the officer found Cobourough. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital and attended by Dr. Graham.

Night Shift Going on.

Messrs. Clark & Jackson will run their New Duluth mill nights, beginning Monday next. At the present time it is running days only. The day shift will be put on night work and the new crew will go on day work until the men are well acquainted with the mill. About 75,000 feet is now being sawed daily, and the proprietors expect to turn out 150,000 daily when the mill is well under way. It has been thoroughly refitted and is in fine condition.

Kindergartners Meet.

The Duluth and Superior branches of the International Kindergarten association met in the Howe school in Superior yesterday, and a large number of the Duluth teachers attended. The subject for discussion was "Art in Animal Life," and the articles considered were Rosa Bonheur and Edwin Landseer. A number of entertaining stories of animals were told and many anecdotes were related about the artists taken up for discussion.

Miss Schaefer, of Superior, who was present at the kindergartner's convention at Cincinnati, gave a report of the business transacted at that meeting, which proved very interesting and instructive. The idea of having a fitting celebration on Froebel's birthday was considered, but nothing definite was decided upon.

GRANTS THE DIVORCE.

Judge Cant's Decision in the Woollen Case.

The Woollen divorce case took up another half day in district court today, but the time spent upon it resulted in a final settlement of it so far as the district court is concerned. Judge Cant, without going into the case in his decision, stated that he would have to grant the plaintiff a divorce, and he ordered judgment entered giving Morton Woollen a divorce from Eugenia Woollen. He did not in so many words answer the second and third of the list of questions submitted to the jury in the case, but in awarding the plaintiff a divorce he substantially answered the questions in favor of the plaintiff. The questions were as to whether the act of adultery the jury found to have been committed by the defendant was by the procurement or connivance of the plaintiff, and whether he condoned the offense thereafter by voluntarily cohabiting with his wife.

There was a little more testimony this morning on the part of the defendant on these questions, the 10-year-old son of the parties being placed on the stand. He said that his father and mother lived at their home together for a few days after the offense was alleged to have been committed.

THE ACKERMAN CASE.

Effort Made To Show That Casey Was Promised Leniency.

The trial of the case against James A. Ackerman, accused of receiving stolen property, was still in progress in district court today, but it looked at noon as though the case might get to the jury before court adjourned tonight. Yesterday afternoon, before any testimony was introduced, the defense moved to set aside the indictment on the ground that it did not state facts sufficient to constitute a public offense. It was claimed on the part of the defense that the fact that the indictment failed to state when the flour was stolen was a fatal defect. Judge Moer overruled the motion, and the trial of the case proceeded. The principal witnesses against Ackerman were John Casey, the bartender, who was involved in several of these cases and who attempted to plead guilty to petit larceny the other day when he had been indicted for grand larceny in the first degree, and the grocer whom Ackerman approached about selling the flour. There was no controversy as to Ackerman's purchase of the flour, the case resting on his intent. Casey stated that the matter was understood between them, he did not tell Ackerman that he stole the flour, but he told him he got it from the barge Noyes, and Ackerman understood the circumstances, because he promised to keep it dark. On the other hand Ackerman testified that Casey had told him that the flour was shipped in by Casey's father, and he claimed that he did not know it was stolen. The grocer to whom Ackerman offered to sell the flour stated that Ackerman told him that his father-in-law had shipped it to him.

While Casey was on the stand an attempt was made by the defense to get him to admit that the county authorities had offered to let him off lightly if he would testify against Ackerman. He denied this, and claimed that he had only been told to tell the truth.

Ackerman could not have made much out of the deal. The testimony showed that Casey charged him $1.40 per 100 pounds, while the market price on the whole lot was not more than $3 above that.

Yesterday afternoon a motion for a new trial of Thomas J. Sutton and Henry White, who were found guilty of grand larceny in the first degree, was argued before Judge Moer and denied. The ground of the motion was that the state failed to prove the true owner of the copper they were found guilty of stealing. Judge Moer held that this was not of sufficient importance to warrant setting aside the indictment.

THE MARCH DIVISION

Apportionment of Funds to Various Subdivisions of the County.

The March apportionment has just been completed in the office of the county auditor, and as soon as it is turned over to the county treasurer he will be ready to distribute money to the subdivisions of the county that are entitled to it. Several of the divisions of the county will get a nice little lot of cash from this apportionment. The whole amount of taxes collected and apportioned is $207,623.70. This is divided as follows: State taxes, $12,908.32; state school taxes, $8782.72; state loans, $1508.79; county of St. Louis, $38,148.93; city of Duluth, $72,375.24; independent school district of Duluth, $49,561.93; city of Ely, $680; city of Tower, $1247.91; city of Virginia, $1728.13.

The county's share is divided among the following funds: County revenue, $23,560.78; poor fund, $2975.48; road fund, $516.94. The balance goes to various bond interest and sinking funds.

Out of the city's share the general fund will get $26,131.74; the bond interest and sinking funds will get $20,191.63; the fire department will get $14,825.98; the parks will get $4155.36, and the library will get $3108.83.

Out of the amount for the independent school district of Duluth the general fund will get $31,820.80; the local mill will get $5298.30, the building fund will get $1973.81, the sinking fund $10,442.94, and state loans $26.08.

MORE KICKING ON TAXES.

A bunch of answers in real estate tax cases for the collection of 1897 taxes were filed this morning in the office of the clerk of district court by Fryberger & Johanson, attorneys for the objectors. A new issue is raised in them. All practically amount to confiscation. It is claimed that the property is assessed at twice its actual money value, and that taxes levied on such a valuation practically amounts to confiscation. It is claimed that this exorbitant valuation is against the state constitution, and that it results in great injustice and prejudice to the objectors' interest.

A peculiar feature of the answers is the allegation that there is now pending a proceeding before the board of county commissioners and the state auditor to reduce back taxes to accord with the principles of the constitution. This refers to the proposition to settle back taxes for 50 per cent of the valuation and rate of 1898. This proceeding the objectors affect to treat as an intention on the part of the county to scale taxes down to where they should be. The objectors state that they have always been willing to pay their just taxes, and that if the court will scale the current taxes down to where will back taxes are being scaled they will pay up.

E. A. Stowell objects to the taxes on the Maynard hall property in Harrison's division on the ground that it is a seminary of learning and exempt from taxation.

The other parties who object to the tax under the first objection are as follows: Luther Mendenhall, W. D. Howell estate, C. S. Hinchman, R. H. Lamborn estate, the Midland company, the Duluth Heights Land company, the Western Land association, T. W. Hoopes, W. D. Sohler and J. O. Lovett, the Duluth Street Railway company and L. T. Hansmen.

DEATH RATE GROWING.

Doctors Attribute it to What We Eat.

The constantly increasing number of deaths from stomach troubles is exciting the keenest interest among the medical fraternity. The prevalence of these stomach disorders or ailments the doctors attribute largely to impure food products with which the country at large seems to be flooded, and in an attempt to counteract which this state has enacted stringent laws.

The fact of the matter is the people of the United States are, as a rule, too careless and indifferent as to what they eat or how it is cooked, and the inevitable penalty of disordered stomachs is the result. One of the adulterations that is most serious in its effects is the use of alum to whiten bread or to furnish cheap baking powder. It destroys the coating of the stomach, produces dyspepsia, and eventually poisons the blood. Try a piece of alum in your mouth and note the result. No stomach into which it enters can long remain healthy.

Our state has done something to protect the public from these dangerous powders by requiring them to be labeled as alum powders. Thus the danger is made apparent to every one who will examine the label. It would be in the interest of the public health, however, if it should prohibit entirely their manufacture and sale.

Why people, in order to save only a few pennies on a pound of baking powder, which will last for weeks in ordinary family use, will buy these goods, when every doctor will inform them that alum is poisonous to the system, is one of the things that people of sense cannot understand.

SHAMROCK CAUSED IT.

Responsible For a Row In a Saloon Friday.

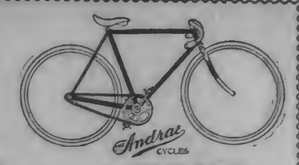

William Keenan, a barber named Ben Winn, W. C. Palmer, and a man named Hogan got mixed up in a row in Wheaton's saloon yesterday afternoon. The trouble began by Keenan and Hogan pitching into Winn because of a dispute over a shamrock. Palmer remonstrated and Keenan "pasted" him. Winn ran out when Palmer caused a diversion and procured a revolver and returned and flourished it about, discharging the weapon by accident or design, the bullet going into the ceiling. He was put out and ran into the arms of Detective Irvine. Winn was just putting the revolver in his pocket when Irvine saw him and gathered him in.

Keenan was arrested for assault on a warrant sworn out by Palmer and was arraigned before Judge Edson this morning. He pleaded not guilty and the trial was set for Monday at 2 p. m., bail being fixed at $15, which amount he deposited.

Winn pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying concealed weapons and was fined $1 and costs, which he paid.

E. C. Regli, the manufacturing jeweler, left last evening for the East to finish a course in optics. Further announcements will be made upon his return.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY (2)

DOWN IN VIRGINIA.

Main Topic of Conservation Is the Recent Blizzard, the Effects Being Still Felt By the South.

SCENES AT THE CAPITOL.

Lynchburg, Va., March 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—For two days after leaving Duluth evidences of the recent blizzard were round about us. The snow had drifted in inconceivable quantities in many places along the railroad, and the lakes and rivers were still frozen over. However, when we reached our national capital the sun was in all his glory, and the air as balmy as a day in June. We were tired of our journey and close quarters in the sleeper and, regardless of our dust-stained garments, we were only too glad to drive about the beautiful city.

Of course we could not resist a visit to the grand library of congress, to gaze again on its gorgeous splendor and to tread its marble halls. I will not attempt to describe it anew, since I did so in full for the columns of The Herald during my visit here to years ago, but would suggest, however, I will say that in my humble opinion one feature in this great temple seems to be a blot on the beauty of the whole. The gaudy coloring employed for the mural decorations and the modern impressionist style in the development of its designs appear very incongruous since the architectural beauty is so classic and refined. Perhaps, too, the dome room might be criticised as being a conglomeration, or a bringing together of all the richest and most varied products of all lands, without a view to their fitness to this hall of education. One can hardly blame the traveled foreigner who remarked: "That is the greatest temple of barbaric splendor on earth."

We crossed the capitol grounds and followed our impulse to see the halls of congress in their quiescent state. On entering the building one could scarcely believe that congress had adjourned, for many clerks were hurrying to and fro, the committee rooms were filled with stray limbs of the law winding up affairs, while tourists were on all sides inspecting the points of interest. We peeped into the house of representatives, and there, indeed, it seemed like a banquet hall deserted. The melodious strains of the ponderous Texas statesman are silent for a while, and the gavel of the autocratic speaker is no more to be heard above the din and strife. A small number of belated members are leaning over their desks as though loath to depart from the peculiar fascinations of this busy, bustling life. On a sofa against the wall our congressman, Page Morris, was holding a close conversation with Gen. Grosvenor of Ohio, while near by them stood "Uncle Loren" Fletcher lost in contemplation. As we passed through the corridors we came face to face with "Fighting Joe," the little general from Alabama. My first impulse was to seek an introduction, but he rushed by in his usually nervous and energetic way with several seedy looking constituents following at his heels, and I naturally inferred that they needed his services, so I passed on without gratifying my desires. We hear that the general is highly incensed at the report of his engagement to the widow of George W. Childs. He denies it most emphatically as a fabrication of the newspaper reporters. However, the public attributes his denial of it to his innate good breeding and spirit of chivalry to protect the lady from unnecessary embarrassment.

* * *

We had prepared for a charming morrow, and flattered ourselves that we had left the cold weather behind us; that we would thoroughly enjoy the spring breezes and the ever delighting sights of the capital. Alas! when we awoke the second morning the snow was beating against the window panes, and the winds were howling like a veritable Minnesota "northeaster." The ides of March were upon us in all their fury. It had been our intention to remain over a few days to visit again the sights of interest, of which we never grow tired, but when Washington takes on an angry spell we feel powerless to face it so, like the Arabs, we gathered our tents and as silently stole away. Towards the Sunny South we turned our faces as we were aweary of the snowclad hills and ice-bound lakes.

* * *

We arrived at Lynchburg in a few hours, and were met by our expectant host and a dozen little darkies, who noisily scrambled about for our bags. Perhaps you would like to learn something about this old Virginia town, the home of my birth, of my childhood, of my young womanhood, and the home of my old-time friends. This quaint old town is built under and over the hills, and, in this respect, reminds me of Duluth. But what a contrast in their histories! Lynchburg is situated on James river, about 120 miles above Richmond, and is surrounded by picturesque and romantic scenery. The Blue Ridge mountains embrace us on the north and west and terminate in two beautiful spurs or cones, that are famed for their beauty throughout this section of the country. They are called the Peaks of Otter, after the river that flows at their feet. It may interest you particularly to know that just beyond these peaks is the county of Augusta, that once formed the western border of Virginia; it extended to the Mississippi river on the west, and as far north as the present city of St. Paul, and just a bit south of Duluth.

In this town the well known "Lynch Law" originated, and since its original purpose has been perverted, it may be well to give an account of its origin. According to Home's "History of Virginia," Col. Charles Lynch, a brother of the founder of Lynchburg, was an officer in the American revolution. At that time this country was thinly settled and infested by a lawless band of Tories and desperadoes. The necessity of the case involved desperate measures, and Col. Lynch, then a leading Whig, apprehended and had them punished without any superfluous legal ceremony. Hence the origin of the term "Lynch Law." This practice of lynching continued years after the war, and was applied to many cases of mere suspicion of guilt which could not be regularly proven. But in 1732, says Wirt's "Life of Henry," "there were many suits on the south side of James river for inflicting the Lynch law." Throughout the South the most conservative and best citizens deplore its present application to criminals.

This town has celebrated its hundredth anniversary, and is far on its second cycle. As we drive through some of its thoroughfares our carriage wheels sink deep in the mud, and in one loality we are forced to drive five blocks out of our way to reach our destination. But the hearts of the people were so warm and the greetings so true that we feel fully compensated on all occasions for any bodily inconvenience. The main topic of conversation on all sides is the recent "Blizzard." The whole South still feels the effects of it and the unprecedented cold during the past winter. Farm news and spring planting of crops is another subject of intense interest. The planters are rejoicing that the cold spell was too early to affect them in this section of the country. The prospect of the apple crop was never brighter and will give employment to many idle negroes, and will be a source of remuneration to the farmers. You may not have heard of the "Albemarle pippin," that is peculiar to this state, and only a certain section of it. It is of a light green color, about six inches in diameter, has the odor of violets and crushed roses, and is of most luscious sweetness. The only objection to it is that all the best ones are shipped to England, where they bring a fabulous price, while the leavings remain for the natives. However, many wise ones rejoice in this fact since it seems a forecast of the coming thrift of the South.

We find that even this conservative old town was struck by the speculating boom-tide that swept over the country. We find a West Lynchburg, a South Lynchburg and a Rivermont have all sprung up since our day here. These suburbs contain handsomely laid off building lots, nicely gravelled roads, a few handsome hotels and a stray dwelling house here and there, but the speculator knoweth them no more. These embryo towns seem to be laying over, as it were, to grow fallow, while all the business interests are centered in the old town. The town is pretty much as when originally laid off. The blocks contain a half acre each, and each man owned a block. Now their descendants are living in the old home, while a married grandchildren have built homes around them. In some families are many and sad changes, and the old localities are in the hands of the newcomer. Handsome modern residences are seen here and there, and the infusion of new blood is beginning to show on the face of time. A fine college for the higher education of women has been built here and successfully carried on by the Methodist denomination. The public schools are in the hands of an excellent superintendent and cultured gentleman. An opera house, that fails however to draw the people like the accomplished preachers of the innumerable churches, all show an upward tendency to progress.

With the formation of the big combinations in the South, that of the iron mines of Alabama and the tobacco interests of Virginia and North Carolina, this town is beginning to feel an impetus towards prosperity and future development. Yet the narrow streets, with their brick red clay, the brick pavements broken and bulging from the growing roots of the great trees, the tumble-down old houses which, perhaps, shelter a faithful negro Mammy who is taking care of "Ole Marster and Mistess," will ever remain in my memory as silent and sacred reminders of the past.

SEINE RIVER GOLD.

Properties Being Snapped Up and all is Activity in the District.

Mine Center, Ont., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prosperity has at last taken hold of our Seine River gold fields. We are waking up only to find ourselves in the midst of the hustle and bustle which has been coming slowly but surely, and is now on a solid basis. Many strange faces have been in the district lately. No one knew their business, but from the appearance of the present prosperity that has struck these gold fields they evidently knew a good thing when they saw it and took advantage of the wonderful wealth in this district. The pioneers here have long known the importance of the wealth of this country, and have stuck to it through thick and thin, determined to see it out, and will reap large benefits for their perseverance. Our district has proven itself beyond doubt a wonderfully rich gold producer, and nothing can now stop it from going ahead until we convince the world that we have the greatest gold mining camp on the continent.

Properties are being taken up on all sides. The best ones are now picked up; development work has started on most of them, while others are getting ready for operations, and this spring and summer will see a rush for this district unequalled in the history of mining booms.

Fred Merritt, of the Golden Star mine, and Mr. Preston, of the Olive mine, have gone to Duluth with their monthly production of bullion. Our genial landlord of the Mine Center hotel has gone to New York to close a deal on some of his valuable mining properties. Ed Randolph, our popular hotel man, has gone to Duluth, where he expects to close a deal on some of his mining properties. John McLeod, formerly captain of the Golden Star mine, has taken charge of the Swede Boy property. Mac is a hustler, and will make things hum on the Swede Boy.

The Decca mine is showing up some very rich ore at the bottom of their shaft. Heavy loads of supplies and machinery are daily arriving in the district. Preparations are being made for heavy travel on the Tower route this coming spring and summer.

It is rumored here that the Schlesinger syndicate of Milwaukee, Wis., have agents here looking over several properties with the view of developing same on a large scale. This syndicate, headed by Schlesinger, it will be remembered, created quite a stir on the Gogebic range in Michigan in the boom days of that country.

TRADE IS GOOD.

Volume of Business In All Branches the Greatest Ever Known.

New York, March 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review says: In business, failures for the year cannot be compared with any other. All realize that the volume of business in all branches is the greatest ever known.

The national prosperity rests on more solid foundations. The exports of bread stuffs, provisions and oil in February showed a decrease of $6,000,000, but other exports, mainly manufactured, were $36,406,943 in value, against $35,390,000 last year, and were sufficiently large to cover 16 per cent of the entire imports. The merchandise exports exceeded imports for the month $33,324,117. The gold supply is increasing, and there appears to be no occasion for monetary disturbance. The treasury recorded its first payment of the $59,000,000 for the Central Pacific railroad, having previously received $59,000,000 for the Union Pacific, and over $6,000,000 for the Kansas Pacific.

Rapidly advancing quotations for iron and its products would mislead if it were not kept in mind that more than nine-tenths of the iron manufacturing capacity is engaged, and will be until July or later, in the execution of orders taken months ago at low prices. If 1,000,000 tons of products go out this month, 900,000 tons at such prices as $18 to $20 for steel rails, at which the entire output of the Illinois Steel company for this year was sold some time ago, it hardly indicates the true character of the iron business—that less than 100,000 tons are going out at such prices as $26 to $28 per ton for steel rails, made here for small lots this week.

Belated buyers now have to pay fancy prices to get orders accepted at all. Withdrawal or postponement of business because of high prices begins to be a significant feature, and much foreign business is evidently lost, though there are still sales for export.

Failures for the week have been 189 in the United States against 208 last year, and 30 in Canada against 27 last year.

Bradstreet's says: An activity which in some directions represents the continuance of pre-existing conditions and in others reflects a special impulse communicated of the near approach of spring forms the leading note of this week's trade advices. In iron and steel industries activity continues unabated, the upward tendency of prices being strikingly maintained and the eagerness of consumers to take the product remaining unchanged. The more spring-like weather has induced a greater keeness in the demand for seasonable goods, and from most sections of the country come reports of a marked activity in jobbing lines having to do with dry goods, millinery and footwear.

Cotton fabrics, generally, are in a strong position. Wool does not display any animation, though prices are maintained. The lumber trade shows every indication of activity, reports from widely separated points indicating a strong demand, more particularly for hard woods which, in some sections are reported to be scarce, high and advancing in price.

The cereals weakened during the week probably in sympathy with wheat, which experienced a marked drop on Thursday in part as the result of heavy liquidation in Chicago, and in part owing to reports on the break in the drought in California and better news from other wheat growing sections.

Business failures for the week number 205, an increase of 28 as compared with last week, but a noticeable falling off as compared with the corresponding weeks of the four preceding years. Failures in the Dominion of Canada for the week numbered only 21 as compared with 37 last week, 23 in the corresponding week of last year, 36 in 1897, 40 in 1896 and 40 in 1895.

NAUGHTY MAN THERE

Crept Into a Social Function Arranged Solely for Young Women.

THEY FOUND HIM OUT

Size of His Feet Fixed His dentity Beyond any Question.

There was a social event in Duluth during the winter that was not recorded in the doings of society, and yet it was one of the most select and—any man would certainly say—one of the most charming affairs of the season. It was not intended that any man should see it, however; but one young man did. When discovered, he was bound to secrecy, and glad enough he was to get off with that. What man would not swear to anything when helpless in the hands of a mob of, say, fifteen young women. He had not only his own scalp to look out for, but he had to shield his confederate, for one of the young women, a true daughter of Eve, had been induced to go into a combination to let the intruder enter the Eden. But this is anticipating.

The event in question was a masquerade that was gotten up by a lively coterie of young women who do not believe in letting the men have all the fun. It was to be a secret to be religiously kept for all time among those who participated. Great preparations were made, and on the appointed evening a brilliant assemblage was gathered at a certain East End residence. There were all sorts of costumes, all of them artistic and novel, and some of them exceedingly rich. Among the characters were Pocahontas, Mary Queen of Scots, the Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe and numerous other dames of history and fable, and, as well, male characters, including George Washington, a coachman or two, a jockey, two or three pirates, at least three Romeos, and a sailor of Dewey's squadron. Besides, there were a number of flower girls, fairies, etc., as a background to the prominent characters, as it were. There was a grand march, followed by dancing, and jollity reigned supreme.

The fun reached its zenith with a cake walk that took place during an intermission. If the cake walk had been in public the reputations of some of the artists around the head of the lakes who are cracked up to be "some punkins" would have been knocked into a cocked hat. The alleged warm talent would have seen turns on the corners and swings and graces in the straightaway that would make their hottest guit look as if it had been learned following a cultivator in a potato patch. If a ghost of some old original cake "walkist of ole Virginny befo' de wa'" had looked in on that scene he would put the seal of his approval on it as the "sho' enough thing." "Hi, yah, Miss Sally, hoe huh down; swing on de cawner on' turn eroun'. Taro' youself acomin' an' shassay back on' then to de front again, walkin' a crack."

Business failures for the week number 205, an increase of 28 as compared with last week, but a noticeable falling off as compared with the corresponding weeks of the four preceding years. Failures in the Dominion of Canada for the week numbered only 21 as compared with 37 last week, 23 in the corresponding week of last year, 36 in 1897, 40 in 1896 and 40 in 1895.

Some of the girls looked under the piano, some peered down the register, and one looked into a vase. One of the flower girls was seen edging toward the door.

"There he goes!" cried she who had discovered him.

"Stop him!" shrieked several. The flower girl who had been edging toward the door made a rush, there was a scramble after the retreating figure and it was rounded up in the hall. Off came the mask and then there was a chorus of "horrid thing." "It's just too mean," and other feminine swear words as the intruder stood revealed.

For a moment they stood regarding each other, the mob of women and the lone, hunted man. It was a picture for a painter. If a photographer could have caught the group it would have been worth big money to him.

As the paralysis of surprise passed off there was a chorus of shrieks, and Pocahontas, whose costume was the correct thing historically, fled from the scene, followed by the horse jockies. The rest organized themselves into a sort of a drum head court-martial and proceeded to adjudge what should be done with the miserable and trembling prisoner. One of the members of the court gave it as her opinion that he ought to have his ears boxed, but she wilted at the suggestion that she be the executioner. Finally the matter was settled by the intruder taking a solemn oath never to divulge his experience on pain of something real awful happening to him. He is of course the one who gave it away. It could not be expected that one man could keep a secret as well as fifteen women.

STRANDED GOLD SEEKERS.

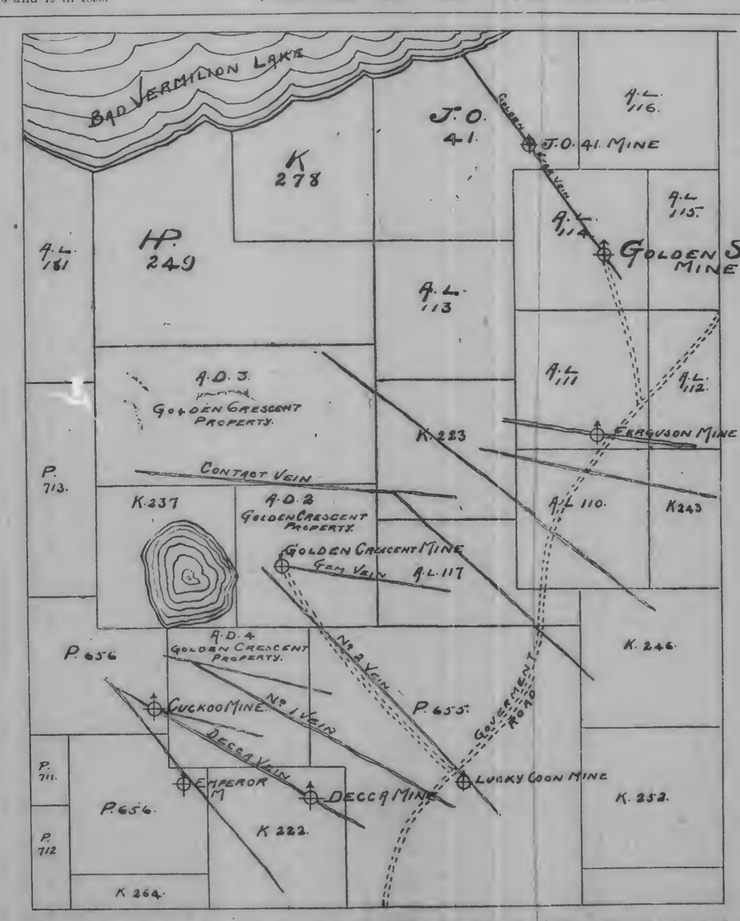

Goverament Will Be Asked to Bring Them Home.

Seattle, Wash., March 18.—Miners who have arrived here from Copper River, Alaska, say that Governor Brady has been requested to ask the government to send a vessel to Copper river for the purpose of bringing home stranded prospectors. There are between 200 and 300 of these men who are without means to secure the transportation. Many of them are suffering from scurvy.

EAGAN IS MUM.

Arrives In San Francisco Accompanied By His Wife.

San Francisco, March 18.—Ex-Commissary General Eagan is in this city, accompanied by his wife. He declined to be interviewed regarding the quality of the beef supplied to the army and refused to discuss anything in connection with the matter. Mrs. Eagan is going to Honolulu to visit her son, who is connected with a sugar company there. After she has sailed for the islands the general will probably return to the East.

The above map shows the number and course of gold quartz veins on the Golden Crescent mine and properties, known and described as mining locations "AD2," "AD3" and "AD4," situated in the Seine River district, Ont. This property enjoys the distinction of having the largest number of gold bearing quartz veins and carrying the best values in free milling gold of any property thus far discovered in Western Ontario, and in due time will, undoubtedly, prove to be a wonderful bullion producer.

This property is owned by the Golden Crescent Mining and Exploration company of Ontario (Ltd.), which is exclusively controlled by Duluth and Chippewa Falls capitalists, who are justly proud of their new venture, and who expect to reap large profits from the mine in the near future in the way of monthly dividends. The development of the mine will be pushed with the utmost vigor, under the able management of A. C. Hubbell, who has made such a successful record in the management of the Golden Star, and it is confidently expected that the mine will be put on a dividend paying basis within seven months, as the mine is at present partially developed.

FLORIDA'S SUNNY SKIES.

Miles and Miles of Giant Palms and Rank Southern Vegetation Delight the Visitor's Eyes.

WHERE SEA BREEZES BLOW.

Daytona, Fla., March 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jacksonville is the gate which opens to sunny skies, to all the beautiful things that delight the senses; to the ever restless ocean decorating the white beach with shells. There are miles and miles of giant palms and rank Southern vegetation. At home we fondly cherish a little measly palm in a pot, cutting off a leaf, which is bound to die, as soon as another puts forth; here the profuse growth fills you with astonishment by its prodigality. There are forests and streams full of everything for the sportsman, flowers and birds upon which to feast the eye, and all kinds of fruits to tickle the palate. But never mind; when a cold wave strikes us, as it sometimes does, we can keep warm, and do not have to retire to bed for the day with a couple of hot "rocks," otherwise bricks, to keep moderately comfortable. Or when we order a carriage for 3 o'clock, are not surprised by having it come around at 1 o'clock, waiting for orders. In other words, in the North we are full of "push" and activity; we have not that "leisurely atmosphere" which characterizes the South, and let me whisper it gently, not to give offense, and with all due deference to the South, give me the North, with all its ways and its customs. For myself I like the four seasons, and have enough of the Russian snow in my blood to like winter when it is winter, and summer when it is summer, even if it is short, as it is in Duluth. Yet—

"'Tis with our judgments, as our watches, none
Go just alike, yet each believes his own."

Just out of Jacksonville I saw a Confederate burying ground of nameless soldiers—just a simple headstone to mark the graves, and many with only a rough piece of "two by four." There were long rows of graves close to the track. They were almost covered with white drifting sand, and looked so forlorn and uncared for. When shall we have passed the military stage and when shall there be no more wars?

Jacksonville is the largest city of Florida, and here the railways and steamships center. On the cars I was amused by an peddler. A fresh boy came through calling, "Halifax oranges, sweet as sugar," and paused in front of a couple appearing to be bride and groom. The bride looked as though she wanted some, and as the gentleman arose to the occasion and said he "would take two," incidentally asking the price, "Fifteen cents apiece," returned the unblushing fruit boy. So with a smiling face, and I decline to think with what naughty things his mind was exercised, the man handed out 30 cents for two oranges. The late freeze has made fruit rather high, but there is no excuse for asking at the rate of $1.80 per dozen. But then they were "sweet as sugar." The Halifax orange is justly famed for its superiority.

The next point of interest is St. Augustine, the oldest town in North America, founded by Menendez in 1565. At the depot were little pickaninnies having bunches of violets for sale. After witnessing the orange episode I was afraid to ask the price. There I saw a couple of 'possums, which reminded me of an incident occurring in Duluth last winter. A young man, wishing to please a Southern friend, ordered a couple of opossums for the friend's delectation. An opossum is the only marsupial extant in North America. It attains its largest in Virginia, where it is about the size of a large cat. It looks like a great rat with its long prehensile tail, and when dressed looks like a nice, little fat pig. The young man surveyed his prizes with some dismay and decided he'd better take them to the butcher's to prepare them for cooking. While in the shop a darky came strolling in; spying a 'possum he grabbed it and hugging it to him, while the tears stood in his eyes, he exclaimed, dropping into his vernacular: "Oh, Lordy, Lordy, 'deed I'd walk mos' four mile to get a piece of dat 'possum." It is needless to say he "got a piece," and if I had been mine, he could cheerfully have taken the whole. I would not eat a slice of one for $50. But there is no accounting for difference in tastes. St. Augustine is well founded for fortification and defense. While it is a beautiful and interesting town, it has no longer the picturesqueness and the quaint characteristic features of the old St. Augustine, but is a newly equipped modern city. There are no Spaniards to be seen. They emigrated when Florida was ceded to the United States, seventy-five years ago. Of all the places of interest, of which St. Augustine is full, I will mention two, the Ponce de Leon and Fort Marion. As a matter of history the Ponce de Leon is well worth a notice. Henry M. Flagler, of New York, recognized the possibilities of the place and resolved to make good his scheme of commemorating the pride and dignity of Spanish rule. I am of the opinion that we do not feel that way now. He selected in style the Spanish Renaissance; the beginning of the Spanish Renaissance was in the time of Ponce de Leon, and the discovery of Florida. Nothing is wanting in architecture, in historic symbolism, in decoration and allegorical art to be a true representative of the Spanish Renaissance style. In the floor of the landing of the corridor leading to the dining rooms is this pithy welcome in letters of mosaic:

"Whoe'er has traveled life's dull round,
Where'er his stages may have been,
May sigh to think he still has found
The warmest welcome at an inn."

You who have plenty of money of which it is difficult to dispose, may go to the Ponce de Leon. For others I would mention the Magnolia, Florida and Granada as being a few of the many moderately-priced hotels.

Fort Marion, a monument of three centuries, the only specimen of mediaeval fortification in this country, is constructed of coquina stone, small sea shells and plaster. It is a magnificent specimen of the art of engineering as developed at the time of its construction. It was finished in the time of Don Ferdinand VI. The fort is surrounded by a moat forty feet wide. Legends connected with dark chambers and prison vaults, with instruments of torture and skeletons walled in are rife, but let us hope they are from the too imaginative pen of the modern writer seeking after sensational items. And now we will board the train again. He who clings to his rod and gun for the pleasures that come to the sportsman, had better get off at Palatka. There is good duck and quail shooting and fine bass are to be caught in the St. John's. The "Ocklawaha river tour" to the Silver Springs is an experience never to be forgotten. The stream is narrow and extremely winding. It is overhung by magnolias, palmettos, cypress giant oaks festooned with Spanish moss. The steamers are lighted up at night with pine knot torches and the scene is of the wildest and weirdest. Now, we come to beautiful Daytona. I cannot find words to express my admiration of the prettiest village in Florida. When we got off at the neat little depot "the day still heavy with heat," was at last upon us. The perspiration trickled down our hot cheeks, and though the day may be a joy forever, it did not make us objects of beauty. It is hard to know exactly what the thermometer indicates "down South." I was sitting at an open window in Atlanta recently, lazily watching an old colored woman, who was washing clothes under a magnolia tree, just across the narrow street. She was evidently talking in a high state of indignation to a companion who stood near. I roused myself and basely listened. "Dat ole nigga" she said in great scorn, as she plunged her ebony arms into the white, foamy soap suds, "He meks me as mad as a hoppy hen! Tinks he cayn't tell whether he is hot or cold widout a 'moppeter. Goes this mawnin' and buys one, cam' in," with a vigorous wring of the poor clothes, "prognosticatin' dat it wus sholey 20 by the 'moppeter, oh law! Cayn't tell"—and with a prodigious sniff she subsided into indignant silence, too much vexed for speech. Nevertheless she illustrated a truth which I have learned since. They do not hug the radiator or appeal to the thermometer every five minutes as we do in cold weather; they know whether they are warm or cold, and you can very seldom get accurate thermometrical information. Daytona and Seabreeze have two separate postoffices. Daytona is on the banks of the Halifax river where is much shipping and many pleasure boats. Seabreeze is a mile away on a long sandy peninsula facing the foam-flecked, restless sea.

There are miles and miles of lovely avenues, notably Ridgewood avenue, with smooth roads as hard as asphalt arched by giant trees, the ever-present live oak, palmettoes, magnolias, fragrant bay draped with Spanish moss. There are Cherokee roses and the scarlet trumpet vine; the mocking bird sings there, and the cardinal bird flashing like a great red japonica through the leafy foliage. This is truly the wheelman's paradise; there are miles of fine, level wheeling on the avenues and side streets, shaded by great forest growth; and on the hard sandy beach is a beautiful broad stretch of thirty miles of the finest bicycle path in the world. Seabreeze has the loveliest bicycle teacher—in character I mean—he is not exactly an Apollo. He has the most sympathetic, magnetic way of making sick people believe they can ride, of inspiring those with no confidence to be of the opinion that they are all right, and that their wheel will not rise up in pure maliciousness to knock them down. He is so cheering and so bracing that the weakest member cannot help learning. In going through the world, I have found that there are, here and there, just such helpful people.

Fancy sitting on the silver sands watching the ever-moving ocean waves, the soft, fleecy summer clouds floating high in the bright blue of the sunny sky. How close you can get to nature's heart! How the worries and perplexities of the day seem of little moment! They are blown away by the salt sea breeze, and are as fresh, and sweet, and peaceful. The happy quadren are building forts and lighthouses in the sand, or burying each other, or shrieking with delight as they dig up the funny sea-snail, which squirts out a lot of water on being thus rudely disturbed. The surf bathers run out to allow the big waves to break over them. Do you think it is too early? Here they begin to come in the surf about the middle of February. Now and then you try to poke back into their native element the minnows, the starrish, the horse shoe crab, or the queer looking sea anemone stranded by the incoming tide. Sometimes they live, and more often they don't; but you feel you have done your duty by the poor things. For you know in us world we owe a duty to everything animate and inanimate. To be kind, to be sympathetic, to be even commonly civil to all, is to fulfil the law's demands. We are under bondage to each other.

There are four serpents in this Eden; the mosquito, the sand fly, the rattlesnake and the shark. But if you think of it, we cannot have everything in this world. So you must pretend there is nothing disagreeable. Keep your senses about you and you are all right. When you walk abroad, listen for the deadly rattle, and when you bathe beware lest you get an arm taken off. I saw two sharks caught from the end of the pier this afternoon while sitting on an upturned box on the beach, watching the tide come in. It is rare sport for the men, this shark fishing. These were caught with a rope upon which is a cat-hook baited with a large piece of pork. The man who succeeds in hauling in his capture, aided by his enthusiastic companions, is a very proud man indeed. The sharks are not very large, from six to ten feet, and with their murderous rows of indented teeth, are not a pleasant sight to look upon.

Do you like hash? The kind your mother used to make, did you say? Well, this is a "literary" hash and with the aid of six or eight sofa pillows and a nice cosy corner, I hope I have helped you pass a pleasant half hour.

TROUBLE AVERTED.

The Striking Italian Miners at Henson Are Induced to Surrender.

Lake City, Col., March 18.—Through the good offices of Dr. Cuneo, Italian vice consul, it is believed that the trouble with the striking Italian miners at Henson is practically settled without resort to military force. Today Dr. Cuneo, accompanied by Sheriff Deck, Col. Macary and his staff, the latter without arms, rode to Henson, where Dr. Cuneo made an address to the Italians, advising them to surrender, which they did, and twenty-seven prisoners were brought to Lake City and placed in jail. The arms taken from the armory have not yet been delivered, but the vice consul hopes to secure them without much trouble.

MISS NETHERSOLE'S TREE.

St. Louis, March 18.—Miss Olga Nethersole, the actress, visited Tower Grove Park, which Henry Shaw bequeathed to St. Louis, and under official auspices planted a young English tree near the statue of William Shakespeare. The spot selected was in close proximity to the mulberry tree planted by the late Adelaide Neilson in 1880, and also to the trees planted to the memory of Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett. A squad of mounted policemen were in attendance and the ceremony was witnessed by prominent citizens.

WILL REDUCE FARES.

San Francisco, March 18.—The Southern Pacific will today inaugurate a reduction in westbound second class passenger rates to conform to the cuts instituted last Monday by the Great Northern and later by Canadian Pacific and other transcontinental systems. The reduction between Chicago and San Francisco amounts to $10, $11.25 between New York and San Francisco, $7.50 between Missouri river points and San Francisco.

COCKRAN'S SOCIAL ASPIRATIONS.

Clubmen are laughing somewhat at the social aspirations of Bourke Cockran, says the New York World. He seems to have the "social craze" in a marked degree. Society must possess a peculiar charm when it will hypnotize a man who has made a national reputation as an orator. He is found at vaudeville entertainments in the company of young beaux of society like Harry Lehr, Charley Munn, Elisha Dyer, Rowlins Cottenet and others, mostly distinguished for drawing room success.

THE SPRING FASHIONS

Foulard Maintains Its Superiority as the Fabric For the Gown For Summer Wear.

Harmony In Line of the New Costumes.

Definite conclusions as to the fashions for spring are becoming more possible every day, says the New York Sun. A cynic once said that dress has always been, is and will always be woman's religion, and that she changes it often. It must be admitted that one fashion supplants another in rapid succession, and the feminine mind is ever seeking something new in materials, trimmings and designs, but this only goes to prove that woman is a superior creature. She who follows fashion in all of her guises is an experimenter, and a philosopher has told us that it is the experimenters who move the world. At the same time, some things, by their vast superiority, have become fixtures, and of these is the summer silk. Nothing takes its place in woman's wardrobe, and from early spring until late fall it adapts itself admirably to the coquetry of the today hot, tomorrow cool American summer.

Foulard is preeminently the fabric for this gown this year, as it was last. A year ago dark and light colored taffetas, in tiny stripes and checks, tried to get an inning, but those who tried them said that gowns of this material in no way compared with those of soft china silk or foulard in point of grace, comfort or durability. With the present soft, clinging styles, taffeta, unless very soft, is out of the question this season, and, perhaps, that is just as well, for the new foulards are exquisite in texture, design and coloring. Formerly color was the first consideration in foulard gowns. Now it is composition of line, as it is in dresses and waists of every kind. This is a technical term, but every woman readily understands that it means that carrying out of a harmonious line which characterizes every new design. The ornamentation of one's frock, be it a severe tailor-made affair or an afternoon toilet, must be in harmony with the most characteristic lines of the form. The long, flowing lines which distinguish many of the new gowns insure a graceful effect even on a naturally clumsy figure.

In Paris dressmakers are combining foulard with cloth, cashmere and canvas, but here, up to this time, no models of this sort have been shown. Foulard is combined with the transparent fabrics such as chiffon, lace and finely embroidered muslin. In point of color all shades of violet have the preference, though the dozen and one blues are considered quite as good style. While the foulard gown is usually made with a double skirt, it and the bodice form one scheme, for what decorates one decorates the other. The curving or straight line is carried up or down from one into the other, and they are not to be considered apart. This is effective when carried out in national blue silk with a cream figure. Bands of 3-inch cream insertion are set in at the shoulder seams, and continue to the waist line at the back, while in front they have the appearance of running down to the hem of the skirt. The long pointed overdress is so shaped as to show these insertions on the skirt, and is edged with white chiffon ruching. A vest of plain chiffon, outlined with tiny ruchings, finishes the waist.

The skirts of the new foulards fit so closely from the waist to some little distance below the knees that it is necessary to make the overdress very long, since nothing in the way of brevity or embellishment can be allowed to interfere with the clinging effect. Even if the overdress is well rounded up one side, as in some of the imported models, it sweeps away well into the hem of the foundation skirt on the other side and behind. The idea of continuity, so marked a feature in the embellishment of spring gowns, leads up to princess dress, which, in the softer silks, stops short at what we call the princess effect, a far more practical, useful and becoming method. Around the hem of soft silk dresses, even those designed for rough-and-ready wear, there may be any amount of fullness and fluffy trimmings; so much, as a matter of fact that the average woman will have to take a good many lessons in the art of walking before she will be able to get about with any degree of safety or grace. For the space of ten or twelve inches you may indulge in as many small-shaped flounces or plaitings edged with chiffon ruchings or lace or muslin appliques as you have a mind to.

Broad gumpure collars, fastened on one side with black velvet loops and crystal buttons, trim some of the foulard gowns; others are made exceedingly rich looking by the introduction of bands of embroidered satin on waist and skirt. The bolero, which is in general favor, also has its place on the summer silk, but is usually of heavy lace.

Man often wonders how woman can give her mind so completely to the breezy fantasies of spring, while winter still forces keen east winds and biting frosts on her attention; neither can he understand how she can think of thin summer silks, much less have them made, when the warmth of heavy gowns and furs is still most acceptable. When it comes to the subject of fashion, woman always thinks, talks and plans ahead of time, and this is well, for, as it is, in a fortnight dressmakers and tailors will be so overwhelmed with work that everybody will be complaining that no one can get anything to wear. In the meantime it is well for women to be very careful not to turn one way or the other, not to listen to this, that and the other rumor, and not to pay the least attention to the whims of advocates of extreme styles, but to steer straight for the very latest fashion which Paris sends, and that is the cloth gown. Every woman who desires to be smart has already, or will have this spring, a cloth gown, and every week finds something new, in minor modifications, in cloth models. Very fine cloths in the most delicate colors, as well as the darker shades, are ready to appear. The plain cloth skirt has justified all predictions, for it remains triumphant, having ousted shaped flounces, overdresses and even tunics from the field. This skirt is perfect in fit and does not tolerate one faulty detail. Indeed, the figure appears to be simply moulded to fit the dress, and yet the skirt has a very full and graceful flow about the feet. Right here it might be well to say a word about the petticoat, for upon its perfect fit largely depends that of the skirt. Of course it is gored and closely fitted around the hips; furthermore, the very newest design is absolutely without fulness at the waist line in the back, fastening at the left side in front. In color it should bear out some detail of the costume.

One cloth gown recently shown exhibits the up-to-date cloth skirt as it should be. It is fashioned of pale gray cloth, trimmed with elaborate stitchings, and the yoke and collar are of white satin embroidered in several shades of gray silk and diamond paillettes. Very elaborate trimmings are promised on dressy cloth gowns a little later, and are the most pronounced feature of dresses made of voile and all materials of crepe du chine like texture. Only flat trimmings in braid, chenille and lace effect will be used on cloth, so those who set the fashions say, and, of course, embroidery. But on the thinner materials garlands, motifs and all-overs composed of combinations of lace, chenille, net, ribbon work, paillettes and what not, are in vogue. Taffetas, elaborately wrought in chenille alone or combined with silver and gold cord or braid, and cut out in lace design, are used for trimmings, yokes, sleeves and even entire bodices. Jetted things we always have with us, and Parisians are wearing incrustations of jet on white cloth and other appliques. Jetted corsages and waists of jet galloon, severe in effect, will also come late, so it is rumored. The beauty of the embroidery already here cannot be overrated. It is gorgeous, glittering, brilliant and still harmonious, and it is such accessories which add so much to the ever-increasing expense of gowns. Another effort is being made to introduce fringe trimmings, and the newest design falls from an open-work foundation such as our grandmothers wore on their silk shawls.

White cloth gowns are already being much used for at homes in the Lenten season. One of the most charming models of the sort noted is cut away on waist and skirt to show black and gold embroidery in an open-work design on white satin. As hot weather advances gowns of white cashmere and cloth will be much used for day wear at fashionable resorts.

Pastelle is a new cloth with a dull surface likely to be much worn. A new feature of the cloth gown, fashioned with a tunic and bodice cut in one, is this plain silk skirt trimmed with several narrow bands of cloth; again, it is worn over a kilt plaited skirt of silk. The most striking of these redingotes, as they are called in Paris, fall in a point at the back. Another item is the trimming of the sides and back of cloth skirts with a series of narrow velvet ribbon ruffles for about a foot above the hem. The front of such skirts is stitched on in panel effect.

The silk blouse and the cotton shirt waist are receiving much attention just now, for one of the chief of their many uses is to tide their devotees over from one season to another. In silk the pure white waist is the swell thing, provided it is stylishly made and trimmed with marked simplicity. Elaborate embellishment of any sort is no longer tolerated, and all waists must be made with the long line in front. Many of the cotton waists are made of fine lawn, tucked all over in bias or straight up and down tucks, and are finished with small revers and a fancy collar. The sleeves of such waists are not made like the ordinary shirt waist sleeve, but are tucked at the top and finished at the hand with a flaring tucked cuff. Other white waists show insertions of embroidery, and still others are made of all over Swiss embroidery and Valenciennes lace and are worn over colored silk linings.

Practical women favor more highly the regulation tailor-made shirt waist, which is fashioned this year of plain or striped madras and figured or satin striped pique. Bayadere stripes are out of favor. The new cotton materials are to be had in all the prevailing shades of blue, pink, coral and red.

About the latest development in the coat line is the motor car coat, and one pretty imported model is made of pale tan cloth, with a rolling collar, flaring cuffs and a straight attached piece at the bottom of miroir velvet of a darker shade. The cloth is so scalloped and finished with stitching as to give the effect of an overdress. Straps of the velvet and steel harness buckles finish the front of this stunning garment, which is admirably adapted for spring.

Double velling is now considered very smart. It is made of the finest plain or dotted black net, and has a lining of white illusion tulle. The effect is to heighten the beauty of the wearer's complexion.

In Paris toques of maiden-hair fern with large, stiff cabbage roses, are popular. The more unnatural the shade of the flowers the sweller are they considered. White and black tulle hats, and indeed white and black hats of all sorts and shapes, are likewise very much worn, as are entire toques and hats of Parma violets trimmed on one side with a white bird.

A new idea is to disguise the existence of any collar band at all and to carry the yoke itself in whatever fashion it may be made up to the chin. Indications point to the reign of the plain or simply rolled collar in the immediate future, and it is said that chiffon and lace ears and tabs and bows are to be abolished from the nape of the neck.

The masses of beads and spangles which have been so popular on evening dresses during the winter are being dispensed with. Black chantilly over white mousseline de sole is the latest fancy for the evening gown, and the seams, which are indispensable in the new tunic, are hidden beneath lace, the idea being to give the effect of a seamless gown.

Some smartly cut boleros on cloth gowns open over a lace bodice arranged in the loose accordion-plaited lines that give fullness to a slender figure; others are lined with lace.

If the signs of the times are to be trusted, perforated cloth is to be much worn. This does not mean that perforated stripes are sewn on, but the skirt or bodice is cut out and the perforated design then carried out. A color is put under the perforations.

Clasps, so that ribbon belts may be easily interchangeable, have almost superseded belt buckles. The newest are of silver, gilded with a dull, reddish finish, and with these pressed velvet ribbon is used.

SNOWBOUND WITH A WIT.

Israel Zangwill and Joseph Choate's Experience Recently.

In the cold, bleak hills of Massachusetts, with the mercury ranging about zero, Joseph H. Choate, ambassador to the court of St. James, and Israel Zangwill, esthete and wit, told each other funny stories and laughed at each other's jokes for nine long hours Wednesday night, says the New York World. These two distinguished men laughed, ate apples, smoked "Butcher Boy's" cigars and drank ice water, both happy and content in spite of the fact that their train was buried in a great snow bank and it seemed probable that days would be consumed before the engine could be dug out and fired up to resume the trip. Mr. Choate boarded the train for New York in the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad station in Boston on Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Hardly had he taken his seat when he spied the distinguished critic, who comes from abroad to make fun of Americans with his gifted pen and to punctuate his stay in this country with an occasional lecture.

"Don't care if we do get snowbound now," said the ambassador, greeting Mr. Zangwill with the enthusiasm of a long-lost friend.

"Believe I would like the experience," declared the critic. "It will be something new, and with good company it would be pleasant to look back to and talk about."

"You might give a lecture on it or write a book to rival some North Pole explorer," suggested Mr. Choate.

Hardly had the train been moving two hours when there was a sudden jolt and the cars stopped abruptly.

"We are buried in a snowdrift," sang out the conductor.

"How long will we be interred?" asked Mr. Zangwill.

"Probably a day and maybe a week," came from the conductor.

It was great fun for the ambassador and his witty friend for the first few hours, but as time wore on and there seemed no hope of getting the engine out of the pile of snow, there came to both of them thoughts of good dinners they were to have partaken of in New York.

"Could an apple tempt you?" Mr. Choate asked Mr. Zangwill.

"I would not be human if it didn't. Call the train boy and we will sample his fruit."

Then the "Butcher Boy's" brand of cigars was sampled. The cigars or the apples or something put Mr. Choate in his merriest mood, and jokes flew thick and fast. He and Mr. Zangwill soon became the life of the train. It was nearly midnight when the last shovel of snow was thrown from in front of the engine and the train continued on its way to New York, arriving yesterday morning at 3 o'clock. Mr. Zangwill had an engagement to lecture in Philadelphia last night, so within a few hours he left the city. Mr. Choate went to his home. There he was seen last night.

"It's amusing and really agreeable to be snowbound sometimes," he said. "We didn't have the starving experience you read about, and I had good company. What more could one ask?"

Stories of the Town

"People change as the years go by," said a lawyer the other day, "but their associates do not notice the change, as it gradually comes about, and it gets pretty far advanced before it attracts any attention. One day someone remarks: 'Have you noticed how old Bill is getting to look?' I noticed quite a streak of gray hair back of his ear the other day.' Then the speaker goes home and looks in the glass and maybe finds some gray hairs and a few wrinkles in his own make-up. What I started to say was that there is nothing more shocking than to see someone over whom a striking change has come, after you had not seen him for years. Not very many years ago there was in a town where I lived then a young man who was a model of preciseness in every respect. The town was somewhat rough, and his character stood out all the more prominently on that account. He was always well dressed, his clothes were well pressed and cleaned and brushed, his linen was immaculate, his hair very carefully brushed and parted, with very precise little waves on either side. A spot of dust on his coat made him shiver. He picked his words carefully as he talked, his grammar being painfully correct, and his every move bore out his precise character.

"I moved away from that town and heard little from there for several years. The other day I was walking along Superior street and a man stopped me.

"'Don't you remember me?' he asked.

"I looked at him closely. He was the sorriest looking hobo I have seen on the streets of Duluth in a good while. His clothes were shabby and discolored and stained, and minus various buttons regarded as essential in the ordinary costume. His shoes were cracked and gaping, and had apparently not felt the luxury of a shine for many moons. He had no gloves or mittens, and a battered derby hat served better for purposes of ventilation than for protection from the cold. His shirt front was spattered with tobacco juice, and his sodden face was covered with a scrubby growth of beard.

"'I am afraid I'll have to give it up,' I responded.

"'My name's Blank, and I used to live at Dashville.'

"I took another look. Then I saw who it was. It was my precise friend of other days. For a minute I could hardly get my breath, so astonishingly complete was the change. He was all that the man I had known was not, and there was not a trace left of the precision that made him a town character. I did not stop to learn what had brought about the change, but I learned that he was after a quarter, and on the strength of old acquaintance I gave it to him and left him."

* * *

"That reminds me," said the real estate man, "of a similar change I witnessed not long ago. When I went to school there was a young man who used to get out with the boys when there was any devilry going on, and who used to take an active part in anything. When the crowd left school and got to going to saloons and getting full by way of amusement under the common but most mistaken impression that it was a clever thing to do, he still staid with us. But he never sank to some of the things the other boys did. He never drank a drop, but when we were loaded up he took cigars or pop, and with a great deal of good nature he would take part in all of our doings. His faculty for keeping sober got us out of a good many scrapes, for often his was the only clear head in the crowd. The way he kept from drink going in the crowd he went with was a mystery, but he studiously avoided it, and we gave him a good deal of credit for it.

"After I moved away I heard from the old town pretty regularly, but by and by my correspondence dropped off. I formed new associations, and having no relatives in the town I lost track of everyone there. The last I heard of the boy I am speaking of he had gone into the drug business on his own hook and was doing splendidly. Years passed, and one time I had occasion to revisit the old town. Of course there were a great many changes. There were very few of the old associates left, but I found a few of them. One that we thought at school was going from the commencement exercises straight to congress or even to the president's chair was night policeman. Another that was always at the foot of the class, not because of lack of work but because of natural dullness, was president of the biggest bank and held mortgages on the property of his brighter classmates. When I inquired for the druggist, who as a young man had been a sober member of our crowd of convivialists,

"We were standing on a corner when I asked the question, and one that was with me started to say something, when another said quietly, 'Here he comes now.' I looked up and down the street, but saw no one that looked like him. A rugged, blear-eyed, red-nosed soul, a typical town drunkard, lurched toward us from the door of a saloon. I was about to say that I did not see my old friend, when a closer look at the drunkard told me the truth. It was he, fallen unmeasurably. I looked at him, and then called up a picture of the fair-haired, clean-cut, laughing prince of good fellows I used to know, and turned away sick at heart. I did not want to meet him.

"They told me that soon after he went into business for himself he lost his equilibrium, probably from too much prosperity, and took to drink. When he got started it was a marvelously quick way to destruction, and he more than made up for his abstinence in the old days. He had lost everything long before, and he now lived only for the drinks he could beg, borrow or earn by odd jobs."

Many stories are being written, songs are sung and deeds of valor are spoken of, all of which have young men for their heroes. What would we do without our young men? Duluth has its share of this species of mankind, and following is a story of one of them. We will call him Charles, although we must understand that it is a fictitious name:

In the first place Charles had a sweetheart, like most young men of his age. He heard of the ball game which was to take place at the Armory Friday evening, and straightway sent a note to his lady friend asking "if he might have the pleasure, etc." He did not expect an answer by the next mail, but at the end of twenty-four hours he was waiting anxiously for the letter carrier. At the end of the second day he received no answer and about this time was becoming rather restless. Friday evening came and he had received no note in reply to his invitation. About this time Charles began to imagine dreadful things had his sweetheart thrown him over? could she give up the old love for the new? These were questions that were puzzling Cholly's mind. At any rate he did not intend to stay home because of his sweetheart's indisposition, so Charles started for the Armory and was soon absorbed in two-baggers and home runs, which, by the way, came very regularly that evening.

In the meantime what is happening in the home of "Cholly's" best girl? Friday evening after dinner his lady friend had attired herself in her prettiest gown, had practiced looking her best, and then sat down and waited for her escort to arrive. The hands of the clock pointed to 8, but Charles had not put in an appearance. Now and then the girl would pound the piano forte to get rid of the superfluous energy that the waiting gave her. Her older brother entered the room at this point and asked if she intended going out. Oh, yes, that was her intention, but Charles (she always calls him Charles in company) was a little late this evening.

"I wrote the answer to his note and gave it you to mail Wednesday, so he must have received it," she remarked by way of explanation.

"Why, certainly, the note you gave me to mail," said the brother, who, to say the least, was getting nervous.

The boy began laughing heartily, using a stage laugh he had cultivated, thinking that there is nothing more shocking than to see someone over whom a striking change has come, after you had not seen him for years. Not very many years ago there was in a town where I lived then a young man who was a model of preciseness in every respect. THE WORLD OF LABOR

Great Success of the Duluth Labor Bazar, Which Is Larger and Better Than Last Year's.

The Freight Handlers' Union Forging Ahead.

West End Retail Clerks' Union Active.

The labor bazar has engrossed attention this week. The Label league and nearly all, if not all, of the unions the time for whose regular meetings fell during the week postponed them. The bazar is bigger and better in all respects than last year. There are more and finer exhibits and the amusement features are more varied and extensive. The introduction of the cake walk has proven to be a happy idea, contributing much to the success of the affair, and the band concerts are a great card. Among the new features this year are a knitting mill and a basket factory, and the electrical display is much finer than before. The Labor Bazar News is issued daily at the bazar as last year.

* * *

The Freight Handlers' union will hold its first meeting for the season April 5, the first Wednesday. Meetings are held on the first and third Wednesdays of the month through the season, which ends with November. The union is one of the most flourishing labor organizations at the head of the lakes. It has 116 regular members, who live in Duluth and during the summer the membership usually runs up to the neighborhood of 200 by the addition of members bearing cards from other unions, who come here for the season. Only bona fide residents of Duluth are admitted to membership, aside from those who affiliate on card.

A few years ago the union was not only "behind the lighthouse," but was pounding on the rocks. At the ebb of its fortunes, the present president, James Dunn, was elected. The union's books exceeded the funds in the treasury in the proportion of seven to one and there were but nine members in good standing Mr. Dunn recommended and worked for the adoption of bylaws providing among other things that a member arrested and convicted of drunkenness forfeited his membership and that members in arrears could not enjoy the benefits of the union, and they were passed. A policy of bidding for work on strict business principles instead of demanding it on the ground that the organization was union was adopted. The union began to revive at once and and its growth has been steady and is continuing. The dissolute fell out and the present members are a sober, industrious body of men. They can better afford to stand a cut if one is made necessary to get business than can the other gangs because the members of the union do not spend their money on drink. And they can do more work and do it quicker on the general average. The union handlers are the only dock men who are not paid off in a saloon. They are not forced to be the patrons of any saloonkeepers in order to get a job. The present officers of the union are, James Dunn, president; Samuel Sovea, vice president; Frank O'Lett, recording secretary; J. H. Baker, financial secretary; Peter Carrigan, marshal.

* * *

The members of the Retail Clerk's union No. 2 of the West End are booming their union and it is forging to the front rank of the labor organizations in Duluth. The project of giving an entertainment in the near future is being discussed. The new officers of the union are: President, J. T. Thompson; vice president, A. O. Anderson; secretary, P. L. Montench; financial secretary, A. C. Hendricks; treasurer, Nick Johnson; guide, Severt Anne; guard, A. Nelson.

* * *

Secretary Phillips of the United Hatters of North America says that as nearly support is given the hatters' union label in Duluth as in any city in the country, and he expresses the thanks of the hatters to their Duluth friends for their loyalty and friendship.

* * *

The Chicago printers have evolved a neat scheme to evade the Illinois anti-boycott law in advertising a boycott on two papers of that city. They have gotten up a card that reads: "The boycott is illegal, but the ——— and the ——— would certainly be boycotted by organized labor were it not for this fact." On the reverse side is the statement to the effect that the publishers of the papers named have refused the fair demands of the printers and that organized labor and its friends are advised to buy other papers, naming them.

* * *

Cigarmakers' union No. 294 will give its annual ball on Easter Monday, April 3, at the Armory. The committee of arrangements are: Julius Dworschak, Nels Anderson, M. Ettinger, E. Schlesky and W. Schwartz.

* * *

The Laundry Workers' union will give its annual ball Thursday, March 23, at the Odd Fellows' hall.

LABOR NOTES.

There are 1500 ocean cables.
Japan has seventy copper mines.
There are aluminum violins.
Vienna has a municipal saloon.
Canada exports hay to the states.
Finland has women paperhangers.
Rockefeller's income is $10,000 a day.
Des Moines boasts a woman butcher.
England has 13,000 female school teachers.
In Glasgow more than one-third of the car fares are one-half penny.
The English tobacco trade employs today 121 women to every 100 men.
Zurich provides comfortable sanitary dwellings for 300 city employes.
The city of Jena, in Germany, owns a brewery that pays to the city a profit of more than $30,000 a year.
One hundred and ninety-three meal shops in Paris offer horsemeat for sale. The prime cuts sell at about 20 cents per pound and the inferior at 10 cents.
Seven thousand young women in New York and Brooklyn go insane every year for want of sufficient food and clothing.—Report of States Board of Lunacy.
The employers of Glasgow have conceded the advance asked for by the iron moulders of a farthing per hour, and 2½ per cent on piece rates, and the principle of a month's notice has been agreed to by both sides.
In Grenoble, France, the municipal authorities have conducted a city restaurant for ten years. Fifteen thousand meals a day are served at actual cost. The best products of the markets are used. The cost of a good dinner is 12 cents.
The threatened strike of iron founders at Leeds has been averted by the acceptance of an advance of 1 shilling per week offered by the employers. In making the concession they appealed to the men not to break time, as the orders on their books are so great that they have difficulty in coping with them.
The Scottish ironworkers have been conceded another advance in wages of 2½ per cent, this being the second advance within four months. The advance is made under an award of the conciliation board established in Scotland, similar to that in the North of England iron trade, and in the Midlands by the Midland wages board.
The textile workers of Lancashire have been arranging for a federation of the several unions, embracing all sections, the total membership of which will be about 100,000 operatives of all kinds. One curious and novel point in the proposed federation is that the wives and daughters are to be compelled to join the union.
More than 1000 men who polish metals are asking the governor of New York for a chance to live and to breathe. The legislature at Albany has before it a bill for the appointment of more inspectors, who shall see to it that the petitioners get the opportunity. Metal polishers more than forty years old are looked upon as patriarchs. They get their lungs and stomachs full of flying and impalpable dust, composed of finely-ground metal, minerals and cotton fiber.
The largest frozen-meat factory in the world is at Baracas, a suburb of Buenos Ayres, and belongs to the Sansinena family. The establishment is capable of an ouput of 3500 sheep per diem, or 100,000 mutton carcases per month. The freezing rooms have a capacity of nearly 100,000 cubic feet, and have hanging room for 6000 sheep. The store rooms in which the sheep are stowed after freezing to await shipment have a capacity of 150,000 cubic feet, and can contain upwards of 50,000 sheep.
The American consul at Calcutta says that about 1,000,000 tons of jute are raised in India every year, chiefly in the provinces of Bengal and Assain. Bencal has thirty-three jute mills, employing 88,222 persons. The factories are mostly owned and operated by foreigners. The average wages are from 40 cents to $1.44 a week. The export of gunny bags to the United States is fully 60 per cent of the whole quantity sent out of India, and the amount sent to this country in 1898 was two and a half times as great as in 1896. The growth of the gunny bag industry is largely due to the increased use of machinery and the cheapness of raw jute.
It has been customary to regard the exports and imports of Hong Kong as purely British. But an investigation conducted by a French commission and reported by the United States consul general at Berlin, shows that of a total trade between Hong Kong and China, amounting to $120,000,000 annually, $45,700,000 belongs to the United States, France and Germany. Chinese custom houses reports put the imports from the United States at only $24,000,000, but the French commission estimates them at $39,000,000. It is also believed by the commission that Great Britain has only about 40 or 50 per cent of the trade going in and out of Hong Kong. The inference is drawn that other countries have a better market in china than has been supposed. It is a significant fact that after the commission came home five of its twelve members went back to China to engage in commercial enterprises.
The experiment made in Bridgeport, Conn., with fuel gas has been attended with very satisfactory results. The gas is made by a special process, bearing the name of the inventor—Loomis—and is sold in large quantities at 25 cents per 1000 feet. Among the manufacturers in Bridgeport who are using gas for their engines or furnaces are Wheeler & Wilson, the American Ordnance company, Wilmot & Hobbs, bicycle makers, and the American Graphophone company. There are many households, too, in which the Loomis gas is burned for heating and coking. Lights are also obtained by using the Welsbach burner, which does not depend upon the illuminating power of the gas. The business of the gas company is growing steadily, and after two or three years of service, it has an output closely approaching 1,000,000 feet a day.
Walter Kennedy, who went out to China as the representative of the late Calvin S. Brice and other capitalists, taked in Pittsburg (his home) the other evening about the task of establishing iron mills in China. He spoke of the local officials, who invade the factories and who have much more to do with the employment and discharge of the coolies than the superintendent of the mill. Mr. Kennedy had no less than sixteen titles appended to his name, yet could not dismiss a worthless employe. Whenever a man was thus disposed of he almost invariably turned up in another department of the mill. These officials exact toll from the coolies, in return for securing the appointment of the latter and do not hesitate to put a man out and introduce another in his place if a commission can be extorted from the second man. There were several other difficulties to contend with which Mr. Kennedy described.

Professional Evidence.

In these days when there are hundreds of unscrupulous adventurers who are advertising new remedies as "the only sure cure" for the grip and its terrible after effects, it is a relief to read the experience of a man who has spent his life in supplying medicines to the public. John Metz, Ph.D., who owns a drug store in Lena, Ill., sends the following letter:

"Dr. Miles Medical Company.

"Gentlemen: I can always recommend Dr. Miles' Nervine to my customers, as it cured my daughter of a severe attack of la grippe when that dread disease was raging through the country some years ago. Since that time I have sold hundreds of bottles under your guarantee and have had none returned."

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by all druggists on a guarantee that first bottle benefits or money refunded.

A trial package of Dr. Miles' favorite treatment for the grip, consisting of Dr. Miles' Nervine, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver pills, will be sent absolutely free of cost to any person sending name and address on a postal card, requesting the sample, and mentioning the name of this paper. TAWNEY AS SPEAKER

Rumor That He Will Be Candidate of the Anti-Reed Men.

Washington, March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Men in Washington opposed to the re-election of Thomas B. Reed as speaker have about concluded that they have found the man who can come nearest to whipping the Maine-ite in the person of James A. Tawney. During the last two congresses Tawney has given Reed more trouble than any other member of the house, Republican or Democrat. It was due to Tawney's effort that the Hawaiian resolution passed the house; also that the Cuban resolution took the same course. Tawney was at the head of both of these movements, and because he is a Western man, well equipped as any other to make an excellent wielder of the gavel he will undoubtedly be the man who will receive the support of the anti-Reed men when the next fight for the speakership is on.

A story is in circulation here that ex-Governor Merriam is to be President McKinley's running mate in 1900. Senator Hanna has forced him into a position of prominence as director of the next census which will largely add to his political influence second to no other man in the West who would accept the vice presidency. The whole question will be discussed pro and con at Thomasville, where the president is taking a rest, and the present vice president, Mr. Hobart, will be the first man to step aside in favor of any candidate that McKinley or Hanna think will suit them best. He has had enough.

Judge Morris is in a quandary. He desired to accept an invitation of the Panama canal directors to go to Nicaragua and Costa Rica to inspect the several canal routes. He also wishes to make a trip to Cuba on his own account to see for himself the exact condition of affairs there. In addition to this he feels in duty bound to report at Atlantic City on April 25 to be in attendance at the opening session of the monetary committee, of which he is a member. If he accepts the invitation of the Panama canal people he cannot return in time for the monetary conference. He said today that he was very undecided what he should do. "I would like to take in the canal junket, but if I do this I cannot keep my engagement to attend the monetary committee meetings. I think I shall probably decide to make the trip to Cuba, returning home before going to Atlantic City to attend the committee meeting which is set for the last week in April."

Assistant Adjutant General Schwan is now engaged in preparing a detail to serve as a board to examine those who were several days ago appointed to be second lieutenants in the regular army. The examination will relate to the physical and mental qualifications of candidates. One examining board has already been chosen, and is in session at Fortress Monroe. They will examine candidates living in the states east of the Mississippi. The board on which Gen. Schwan is now working will sit at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., and to them will be assigned for examination all candidates residing west of the Mississippi. The Minnesota candidates, Reuben Smith, of Duluth, and Lieut. Elliott of Minneapolis will be obliged to go to Leavenworth for examination. The detail will doubtless be completed early next week, and examinations begun as soon as the board can assemble.

Another Cabinet Officer.

Congress will soon be called upon to pass a law creating a new cabinet portfolio. This official will probably be known as secretary of the colonies. It will be his duty to look after the welfare of the islands which were seized by the United States in our war with Spain. While he is attending to his duties. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will continue to attend to its duties of curing the sick of stomach, liver and kidney disorders, just as it has been doing for fifty years. Its greatest virtues are in building up run-down systems, in quieting and toning unstrung nerves. In overcoming dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation. Try a bottle if you feel "out of sorts."

John Callahan, late of the Life Boat mission at Chicago, will speak at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow.

SECULAR SHOTS AT THE PULPIT.

Chicago News: A Boston preacher has resigned because he was locked out of his church. It will be seen that the Boston preacher is not among those who can't take a hint before the house falls on them.

Kansas City Star: In English churches congregations are fighting with their lists over the ritualist question. It is presumed that the contests are conducted, not according to the marquis of Queensberry's rules, but under the thirty-nine articles.

Boston Globe: A minister at Pulaski, Pa., has been dismissed by his congregation because he insisted in a sermon that the rainbow existed before the flood. Now he realizes there's more gold in sticking to plain everyday facts than in chasing the pot at the end of a rainbow.

Boston Transcript: The New York clergyman who recently nominated Admiral Dewey for president did the admiral no better service than he did the cause of religion. There is a time for everything, and the proper occasion for the nomination of a president is not in church time and by a minister of the gospel.

Kansas City Journal: At Fort Scott the other day the Presbyterians and Methodists had an old-fashioned spelling match, with thirty-two on each side. One by one the contestants were spelled down until only two Presbyterians and one Methodist remained. Then the master gave out the word "ptisan," and all three missed it, leaving a victory for neither side. Ptisan is defined in the dictionary as a mucilaginous decoction used as a drink, and it is not to be expected that Presbyterians and Methodists would know much about drinks.

BLASTS FROM RAM'S HORN.

Heart wisdom is ahead of book learning.
A birth is more solemn than a death, and yet more joyous.
Don't waste today's strength fighting tomorrow's battles.
Keeping the mouth shut is one way to keep the heart pure.
Snow flurries of trouble do not extinguish God's sun of love.
The knots of trouble in the cord of life mark your vessel's progress.
The selfishness that shuts in the candlelight shuts out the sunshine.
Life is a scheme of paying off our debts to the past by gifts to the future.
The silence of a good man is more eloquent than the rhetoric of a fraud.
The gibes of the infidel are as pitiful as the wooden legged man's scorn of shoes.
The church that does not gather in the poor shuts its king outside the door.
Some people so blind their eyes with tears for yesterday's faults that they stumble all through today.
It is usually the man who cannot rule his own house who wants to administer the affairs of the earth.
Some men are so interested in the monkey stage of their evolution that they forget they are now men.

WHY IS ELECTRIC LIGHT BEST?
Because it is Healthy, Clean, Pure and Brilliant.

HEALTHY! It has no odor. Prof. Thomson states one cubic foot of gas consumes as much oxygen as four adults.
CLEAN It causes no discolorations of furnishings and decorations in homes.
SAFE As electric bell work, no danger of suffocation.
CHEAP! By using a little care in turning off lights when not in use it is cheaper than any other illuminant.

WINE OF CARDUI

TONIC FOR WOMEN.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, Jan. 27.

I have used but a little Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught, but it has benefitted me greatly, and I feel sure the second bottle will cure me. I stood on my feet three hours at the Pure Food Fair yesterday, and it didn't tire me. That was really miraculous.

MRS. ANNIE KELL.

McELREE'S

is a tonic that is adapted to the delicate constitutions of women. It increases their strength and gives full, vigorous action to the system. The blood is quickened and purified. The nerves are quieted and soothed. The appetite is improved. A gradual building up process begins at once. Women who cannot stand long on their feet—who are exhausted at the least effort—who have to sit down often to rest while doing their housework—who feel as though their backs would break or their heads burst open—these sufferers will find Wine of Cardui a Godsend. After strength is restored, it will remain. The Wine does permanent good. It cures when nothing else will. It is a vegetable remedy—not a particle of injurious drugs in it. It is a natural remedy. Nature is its author. It is a positive specific for all female diseases and weaknesses. Thousands of women have testified to even more than is said here.

Duluth Boat Club in Good Financial Shape and Expects to Have an Active Season on the Water.

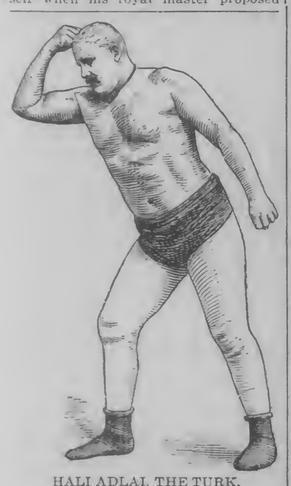

Hali Adali, the Famous Turkish Wrestler, Will Be at the Armory Monday Night.

The annual meeting of the Duluth Boat club at the Spalding hotel Wednesday night was one of the pleasantest annual meetings that organization has ever held, owing to the very pleasing report made by the treasurer. He was able to report, for the first time in the club's history, that the club is free from debt, and that it has a balance of $150 to the good. This puts the club on the best footing of any club in the West, and with such an excellent financial standing the club will rapidly forge to the front rank in a boating way. The club made an offer of a reduced rate of $10 to new members, between now and May 1, and this will bring into the club a good deal of fresh material. This fresh material, together with the excellent timber already on hand, will be made up into a number of crews, and it is likely that the club this year will be represented at the Minnetonka regatta with crews in every event, and that a good share of the prizes will come to her. Then a strong crew will be sent to the national regatta, and the chances are that before the season is over the Duluth club will have a reputation second to none in boating.

Hali Adali, the gigantic Turkish wrestler, known as the "Sultan's Lion," who is to meet Duncan A. McMillan and Hjalmar Lundin at the Armory next Monday night and attempt to press their shoulders to the mat twice each in ninety minutes, is not touring this country for his health. The big disciple of Mohammed is spurred on to do his prettiest by the rosy prospect held out to him by Abdul Hamid, sultan of Turkey, of one day being at the head of a modest harem, say of a dozen wives or more. In Turkey it is no crime for a man to have as many wives as he is capable of supporting. As the sultan's favorite wrestler—and wrestling is the sport par excellence in Turkey—Hali Adali is dependent for his standing in society, as it were, upon the turbaned ruler.

The big Turk was not of gentle birth. He was brought up as an humble carrier of pottery and took to wrestling like an Englishman does to brandy and soda. And so it came to pass that he was brought before his ruler. Then the wrestler, who weighs 256 pounds, has hands like sugar-cured hams, and measures forty-six inches around the chest, was anxious to settle down and marry. Prompted by strings from the winged darts of Cupid, Hali fell all over himself when his royal master proposed that he journey across the seas and meet and vanquish all of the strong men he could find in Yankee land. He was told that if he returned with a clean record he could have a dozen fair Turkish maids, to be selected by the sultan himself, and live in a little house in the outer court of the palace. What was more to the point, he would be placed upon the sultan's pension list and spend the balance of his days in the seclusion of his harem. For every defeat sustained the number of his concubines was to be cut down. So far the mighty Turk has a cinch on at least eight wives, and it is no wonder that the poor fellow is becoming homesick as well as lovesick. He is anxious that his tour may end soon. He is a devoted Mohammedan, and spends a portion of each day in prayer. Before he goes upon the mat, he reverently calls upon Mohammed to crown his efforts with success. Hali Adali dresses in the picturesque costume of his native land. He is an imposing mountain of flesh, standing 6 feet 2½ inches in his stocking feet.

"Now that we are in possession of a fair amount of information regarding Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger," says the London Yachting World, "it becomes more than ever apparent that sound business principles have been followed all through the preliminary arrangements, and that the forthcoming contest will be on both sides one of the keenest which has been sailed since the trophy crossed the water. It has been a common saying on this side that our best chance of regaining the cup was lost when the Thistle was defeated; so, although it would be useless at this stage to attempt to make anything like a forecast of the result of the races, we may fairly contrast our present prospects with those which offered before some of the previous races. Fundamental differences in the types of the boats competing, differences in material and the 2000-mile journey which the British boat has had to face before starting the race are the factors which are regarded as having had most influence on the result of the previous matches, and, in addition to these, there was talk on the last occasion of unfair treatment of the challenging boat during the contest. The assurances given by members of the New York Yacht club have been such as to satisfy the challenger and those concerned with him that the Shamrock will have an absolutely fair race, so that this last item may be knocked off the list without going back on the discussion of what may have happened on previous occasions. On all counts, therefore, it seems probable that the Shamrock and the new Defender will sail on more even terms than any two boats which have done battle for the trophy, and no one on this side would ask more than that the contest should resolve itself into a trial of pure skill and handling."

The work of building the new cup defender is progressing with the utmost regularity at the Herreshoff shops at Bristol, and an increased activity is perceptible with each succeeding day. During the last week the men connected with the construction of the new yacht worked for ten hours a day, and a number of new mechanics have been added to the present force, which, though formidable, is not as great as it was on the Defender in 1895. Capt. Charley Barr visited the Herreshoff shops and spent a long time studying the keel of the new boat. Afterward he went over to where the old Defender lay at anchor and inspected her from stem to stern, and without hesitation pronounced her to be in prime condition. When asked about the new boat he was reticent, but was visibly surprised when asked for his opinion about the printed story of the steel mast. He said he did not know if the boat would have a steel mast, and was not in the habit of using steel rigging of any kind, but admitted having seen the arrangement on merchant vessels, and thought it rather cumbersome. He expressed himself satisfied with his mate, Mr. Allen, and said the new boat's crew was engaged at Deer Island, Me.

John E. Madden, than whom few turfmen have shown better judgment in the business, said in an interview the other day that Jean Baraud and Filon de Or are the best horses in the East this season. He believes Filon de Or would have won the futurity had he remained sound. In the West he considers Manuel a better horse than the Kentuckian, and picks the former for the winner of the Kentucky derby. Madden has three entries in the Kentucky derby in Hapsburg, Desperado and Mazo. He sent a dozen youngsters to Churchill Downs, at Louisville.

Fitz will pose as one of the stellar attractions at the Paris exposition, according to Manager Martin Julian. The latter was recently interviewed as follows regarding a European tour for his pet: "As soon as we step foot on the other side we are going to issue a challenge in behalf of Fitzsimmons to to fight all comers in the middle and heavyweight divisions. Americans pay little heed to the foreign fighters and it wouldn't surprise me at all if there were a big bunch of unknowns all over the continent, as well as in Great Britain, who would be only too eager to get a chance to face the pride of the United States. Of course this challenge will be framed in the regulation sort of way and I imagine that clubs will pop up here and there offering big purses. Naturally it will be our aim to arrange matters so that the fight can be pulled off near Paris. Imagine the immense crowd we would surely have. Thousands of visitors would be at the exposition, with lots of money, and they would pay well to see a great fight. If some big affair like this cannot be arranged we intende to make a trip across some of the countries and match Fitz against the best men wherever we may go."

* * *

Just how old Fitzsimmons is no one knows. He has been 37 since he fought Dempsey in 1891, and like a woman he gets no older. Joe Goddard and the other Australians say Fitz is 42, according to their count. They have known him for nineteen years when he first came out at one of Jem Mace's contests in 1880, and he was not a spring chicken then. The books give Fitz's birth year as 1862, but that is furnished by himself and is liable to suspicion, for it is the fistic opinion that Fitz is cheating.

* * *

It begins to look as if the Fitz-Jeffries fight would be pulled off somewhere in the West, if it is pulled off at all, which is doubtful. Montana has just passed a bill permitting prize fights and there seems to be nothing in the way of a contest out there, but this week will probably settle the question. Dan Stuart is certainly after the fight, and if he gets it no one need doubt what it will be pulled off. He has plenty of money and has shown no disposition to endow eleemosynary institutions with it, but instead a decided tendency to blow it on little turnups like the Fitz-Maher and Fitz-Corbett saturnalias.

* * *

It is altogether likely that Jeffries is the first ambidextrous fighter who has ever come into prominence. There is with him no difference between right and left in punching the bag, fighting, throwing, working, writing or eating. Both hands look alike to Jeffries. This is, perhaps, responsible for his wonderful improvement from his first fight to the present time. Always good on foot, he has, perhaps, grown to be the shiftiest man of his weight that ever fought. In spite of his showing with Armstrong, whom he fought with a broken hand, and had him on the run for ten rounds, Jeffries can fight much better. Every minute he puts in at the bag and every round he boxes improves him. Today he has two equally good hands, either one of which can drop any man alive once it lands fair. He likes to exchange compliments at close quarters, and the fellow who tries fighting at long range will find that Jeff knows things about getting past the jab and in, which are exceedingly bothersome.

Another thing in his favor is that he can stand punching. Punishment simply makes him fight harder and the hardest raps on the jaw fail to daze him. Joe Choynski hit him fair with his right hand on the spot, but Jeff's eyes never saw a star nor blinked. Ruhlin got to him fair with two right swings, yet it never fazed him.

* * *

Kid McCoy acknowledges that he entertains the healthiest kind of regard for Joe Choynski's fistic prowess, and that he intends to leave no stone unturned to get into the finest fettle, all of which I think is very wise on the part of the handsome Kid. I remember the time when Choynski held the highest kind of rank among the top-notch heavyweights, and had he been supplied with a little more heft in the early '90s there is little doubt but what he would have gloried in the title of champion, for a while at least. I do not think Joe is the has-been a good many people seem to think he is now, and that he stands a good chance of winning against almost any man in the business, in a fair, square, stand-up Queensbury fight he can wallop Sharkey today, but not if the sailor is permitted to practice the roughing and butting tactics that have so far marked every one of his fights.

Gardner, the Omaha kid, has given it out that he proposes to invade the tight little isle this spring and beard the pugilistic lion of England in his own den. He desires to meet the winner of the Palmer-Rochford bout, which takes place before the National Athletic club. "I am stuck on seeing the old country, because I have heard my father say so much about it," says Gardner. "I am of an old Lancashire family, and my father came over to this country in the steerage when he was a kid. His son will go back on a first-class cabin ticket, though Gardner, Jr., will not have a valet like Sloan. Though the National club cannot afford to offer such a fancy purse as O'Rourke's club, I will be satisfied to sign articles for any kind of a purse they will offer. I want to have the satisfaction of saying about forty years from now, when my pants are baggy about the knees, and my face sports a network of wind destroyers, that I fought at the swellest club in London. I heard from Pedlar Palmer a few weeks ago through Dr. Ordway, the American representative of the club, and he tells me that Palmer dreads the sea voyage and prefers to meet all American comers in London. My friends ask me if I can draw down to 116 and be strong at that weight. I guess I am constructed on the Fitzsimmons plan. I can weigh in at 116 and be strong, or I can stay at 122 and go the distance, though I never detected any difference in the weight. Palmer and Bennie Jordan, who beat Dixon, are the cleverest little men in England, and if I should prove so lucky as to run first in a heat with Palmer, I would agree to a treaty of glove war with Jordan."

HORSE NOTES.

The Belmont spring races are set for June 6, 7 and 8 for purses of $400 to $600.

Frank Work, the genial horseman who paid $5700 for Pilot Boy, 2:09¼, is in his 82nd year.

It is thought that the fast Pennsylvania mare Ruby, 2:13¼, will be much better than ever the coming season.

Steacy Smith, a well-known road rider of Newark, N. J., has purchased the fast gelding Monopole, pacing record 2:08½, by Leicester, to use on the road.

The pacer Simmons, 2:10¼, campaigned for several seasons by John E. Turner, of Ambler, Pa., lowered the race record on ice to 2:16¼ last month, at Hague, N. Y.

E. H. Harriman, of New York, has leased the racing qualities of the stallion Sidney Pointer, 2:14¼, by Star Pointer. William J. Andrews will take this fellow to the races.

The Bethlehem Fair association will open on April 12 four $1000 stakes for the September fair, viz., 2:50 and 2:16 trotting, 2:35 and 2:15 pacing. All entries must be named by June 12.

Dr. Waldron, of Greensburg, Pa., owns a great young horse in Wilkes Brino, 2:22¾, a full brother to Delmarch, 2:11½. He is already the sire of Handy, 2:17¼; Rene, 2:17, and Miss Brino, 2:17¼.

W. H. Williams, of Pittsburg, Pa., has three good ones that will be campaigned this season, as follows: Isabelle, 8, by Onward; Barnsdale, 4, by Pilot Medium, dam the dam of Rose Turner, 2:13¾; Simmolode, 5, by Simmons, all trotters, and all are showing up well.

Dr. J. J. Crawford, of Imperial, Pa., owns Tennessee Pointer, the 5-year-old brother to Star Pointer. He is a fine type of the mighty Hals, and possesses a great turn of natural speed. He will be trained this summer and raced during the fall, so this year we may expect to hear favorably from two brothers (also Cloud Pointer) of the champion.

The handsome $9500 team recently sold in Chicago is not owned by Andrew Carnegie, as was at first reported, but by H. C. Knox, a wealthy lawyer of Pittsburg. Mr. Knox does not race his horses, using them for driving purposes only. Vera, 2:15½, and B. C., 2:15½, will prove a valuable addition to the Pittsburg road brigade. John E. Turner bid $9000 on this team for J. W. Coke, of this city.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will not make new lungs, but it will cure incipient consumption and lung affections. Price, 25 cents.

THE OIL COMBINE

History of the Standard Monopoly Written By an Oil Man.

A Deal With the Railroads Which Paralyzed All Competition.

The age of oil began in this country with the sinking of Col. Drake's well in 1860. Within ten years the business had grown from nothing to a product of 6,000,000 barrels a year, supporting 60,000 people and employing a capital of $200,000,000, says Hugh Hipple in the Omaha World-Herald.

The business of refining oil was very attractive. The process was simple and well understood. There was a ready market for the product and fortunes were made rapidly. There was free competition between buyers and sellers, labor was well employed at good wages, and everything indicated a new prosperity for the whole community.

But in 1870 strange influences began to be felt. The price of oil became decidedly erratic. It went up when, according to all the known facts of the situation it should have gone down. It went down when it should have gone up. There were panics in oil speculations. Hundreds of men were driven into bankruptcy, and many committed suicide. Refineries were abandoned by the dozen, but it was noticed that the operations and speculations of a silent few were uniformly successful, and that in some way they seemed to control the situation.

By 1872 so much comment had been excited, and so much pressure had been brought to bear upon various legislative bodies that congress decided to make an investigation.

It then developed that an agreement had been made between the railroads, without whose assistance the oil could not be marketed, and a company of thirteen men, with John D. Rockefeller at its head, known as the South Improvement company. The provisions of this agreement, which is printed in full in the congressional trust report of 1888, are most remarkable. In the first place the railroads agreed to charge competitors of the South Improvement company double rates, but the rates paid by this company were not to be increased. Then they agreed to give the South Improvement company all the excess collected from the other shippers of oil. In addition to this they agreed to raise the rates to outsiders if necessary to control competition, even higher than double that paid by the South Improvement company, and to furnish it with details of shipments by other persons.

This regulation went into effect Feb. 26, 1872, and within forty-eight hours the entire business of the oil regions was paralyzed. Oil went down to a point below the cost of production, and thousands of men were thrown out of employment. The indignation of the oil producers knew no bounds. Meetings were held everywhere. Delegations were sent to Harrisburg and Washington. An embargo was placed on oil, and no one was allowed to sell a barrel to the South Improvement company.

The leader in this movement was a rising lawyer of Franklin, Pa. He denounced the company with so much force and showed so much ability in arranging the facts that the company decided to employ him as its attorney at a salary equal to that of the president of the United States, and he it was who, ten years later, drew up the articles of agreement of the Standard oil trust.

But although, under the pressure of public opinion and threatened legislation the railroads abrogated the agreement and promised not to discriminate in favor of the South Improvement company, it was evident that a secret understanding of some sort still existed. Independent refiners found it more and more difficult to compete with the association and by 1875, in the city of Cleveland, where much of the refining was done, only one important competitor remained. Frightened by the fate of others, the owners of this refinery finally accepted an offer made to them by the combine.

The agreement entered into is hardly less interesting than that made with the railroads. These independent refineries were to put in their plant, valued at $61,000, and $10,000 in cash, and were to devote all their time and attention to the business. The combine put in $10,000 only, and was to have half the profits of the business. The combine was to have the right to say how much oil should be refined, what should be paid for crude oil, what the product should be sold for and by what routes it should be shipped. The contract was to be kept secret, and the business was to be carried on under the old firm name. In four years the combine realized as its share of the profits from this concern $115,000 upon an original investment of $10,000. In the language of an eminent lawyer who afterwards reviewed the case this was better than a gold mine. It was a mint. And yet when Mr. Rockefeller appeared before a committee of the New York legislature in 1888 and was asked to explain how the trust made its money, he said that the principle of the concern was to make a "very small profit upon an extremely large volume of business."

It would take too long to tell of the various methods adopted by the trust and its allies, the railroads, to crush out the independent refineries and dealers in oil. A few characteristic incidents must suffice.

In 1874 the railroads agreed to carry crude oil to the combine at Cleveland actually without cost in order, as was stated in the circular issued by the general freight agent of the New York Central to enable these refineries to compete with the refineries located at the wells, which, of course, had no freight to pay on crude oil.

A little later an arrangement was made with the railroads by which the latter agreed to pay the combine in cash 20 cents on every barrel of oil transported, no matter by whom shipped. The New York Central and Erie did this for months before the Pennsylvania railroad discovered what was going on, but as soon as the discovery was made the comptroller was ordered to give the combine three months back pay upon the same basis, which was done. Afterwards the tribute was raised to 22½ cents, and from this one source alone the combine realized in the year 1878 no less than $3,000,000.

Finding that they could not obtain fair treatment from the railroads the independent refineries decided to construct a pipe line to the seaboard. The Tidewater Pipe Line company was organized in 1878 with a capital of $1,000,000, which was later on increased to $5,000,000. The combine fought it in every way, but the pipe was finished in 1879. No sooner was it ready to move oil, however, than the railroads agreed with the oil trust to crush it. The rate for carrying oil, which had been $1.15, was reduced to 80 cents, then to 30 cents, then to 10 cents, and finally to a rate which the general freight agent of the Pennsylvania railroad stated to the interstate commerce commission would not pay for the wheel grease. The railroads lost $10,000,000 by the reduction, according to testimony afterwards given to congress, but the oil trust, knowing what was to happen, made $1,500,000 on the deal by speculating, according to the New York legislature report of 1879.

Meanwhile the pipe line was being harassed in every imaginable way. Its credit was assailed, its officers were bribed, lawsuits were instituted against it, but the line was successful, and its owners met every attack made upon it.

Finally it was found that for some reason the line was working badly. Its capacity was only one-third of what it ought to have been. The cause could not be discovered for a long time, but finally it was found that a square block of wood had been driven through the pipe in order to cut down its capacity. The result of all these attacks was that in 1883 a pool was formed and the Tidewater Pipe line became a part of the property of the oil trust, and is today its most valuable single asset.

Among the independent refiners, however, were men who possessed both pluck and capital, and their competition annoyed the trust. In spite of all its efforts, these outsiders continued to refine oil and supply it to customers. But the trust had learned that the railroads could be depended on to do its bidding, and on Sept. 3, 1888, at its suggestion, all the Eastern trunk lines adopted a rule to charge freight on barrels as well as on the oil which they contained, and at the same rate. Prior to this no charge had been made for barrels, and this change made an increase of about 27 per cent in freight rates. At this time the trust was shipping nearly all its oil in its own tank cars, for the use of which it was being paid by the railroads. The railroads declined to furnish tank cars to the independents, and declined to make reasonable rates in case the shippers furnished their own cars. They brought back empty tank cars free for the trust, but charged freight upon the empty barrels. This was ruinous to the outsiders and most of them closed their works and appealed to the interstate commerce commission.

An investigation was held and discrimination of the rankest character was disclosed. In addition to what has been mentioned, it was found that by a system of "bobtailing" tank cars with a capacity of from 25,000 to 40,000 pounds were all charged for as containing 20,000 pounds. There was no question as to this having been done, but when the commission attempted to establish the fact in connection with certain specific cases it found that the trust had changed the numbers on all of its 3000 tank cars, and as they were known only by numbers the identity of each was lost.

Nor was this discrimination confined to the Eastern railroads. When asked as to its rates for tank cars the Missouri Pacific made a statement which the commission mildly characterized as "not warranted by the facts." That road claimed to be charging for "actual weight," whereas in reality it was charging by the car, "regardless of quantity." The Union Pacific, too, discriminated in favor of the trust, as is shown by the following extract from the evidence of Thomas L. Kimball before the Pacific railway commission:

Question—Did the Standard Oil company have a preference over all other shippers of oil?

Answer—There have been times when the Standard Oil company had a preference.

Q.—Was that preference very large as compared with the rates to the other oil shippers?

A.—Yes, it was pretty large.

Q.—What was the effect of that on the smaller dealer or smaller shipper in oil?

A.—I should think it would be embarrassing to the small shipper.

In summing up the interstate commerce commission said: "The railroad company not having supplied itself with the necessary rolling stock to enable one branch of its traffic to be carried on in the way most advantageous to those who engage in it, suffers parties who have the capital which will enable them to supply the defect to put cars of their own upon the road, for the use of which it pays, and at the same time gives to such parties the exclusive use of what they supply, and also such preferential rates on the merchandise carried as will put successful competition quite out of the question."

When successful competition is "quite out of the question," it is not difficult to account for the existence of a monopoly, and in view of the methods that have been employed it is not surprising that practically all the petroleum used in this country is refined and sold by the Standard Oil company.

What the railroads have done to assist the trust is well known, but why they have done it has never been explained. In the cases of the Union Pacific and the Missouri Pacific the discriminations might be accounted for upon the theory that large shippers are entitled to special rates—a theory, however, which is not in accordance with justice. But even the widest application of this theory is insufficient to explain the rank discriminations of the Eastern railroads. It is not a pleasant thing to say, but it is a fact that the Standard Oil company has on more than one occasion absolutely refused to give the names of all its stockholders, and that many railroad officials are suspected of having an interest in the business.

In this connection a statement made before a Pennsylvania constitutional convention by the gentleman who afterward became the legal light of the oil trust is significant. In discussing the charge that even after oil had been brought to the railroads by pipe lines from the wells, the roads supplied cars to some shippers and refused them to others, he said: "It is said that whenever a new pipe line is built it is necessary that somebody connected with the particular railroad shall be presented with stock in the pipe line; otherwise it will not furnish cars without tedious and unnecessary delay."

The methods adopted by the Standard Oil company in handling other branches of its business are as interesting as its dealings with the railroads. The limits of a newspaper article will not allow of these being discussed in detail, but as an illustration of its methods the following extract from a speech delivered in the United States senate June 14, 1897, by Senator Pettigrew, is instructive:

"In Colorado there are oil wells. Petroleum exists there in inexhaustible quantities and of excellent quality. An oil refinery was constructed at a cost of $2,000,000. That company was engaged in supplying this country with oil, when one day the Standard Oil company began business in Pueblo and in other towns in Colorado, and sold oil at 5 cents a gallon, until they wrecked and ruined the Colorado refinery and closed its doors. The day after that was done the Standard Oil company raised the price of their oil to 25 cents a gallon, and continued to sell it at that price until they had made an immense profit and recouped the loss they had previously sustained, and today they charge 20 cents a gallon for their oil. In my own town (Sioux Falls, S. D.) an independent oil company began selling oil, and it was selling at 8 cents a gallon, for the trust had put it down to that price, and yet the independent company was able to live and did live and continued for two years. Finally one day they sold out to the trust, and from that day to this we have been paying 16 cents a gallon for oil."

REGULATE THE LIVER

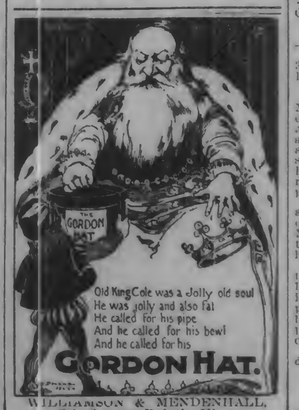

BOOTH-TUCKER'S ILLNESS.

Commander Frederick Booth-Tucker of the Salvation Army is seriously ill, and great anxiety is felt at headquarters over his attack, says a New York letter. It was while arranging for the immediate relief work now being carried on by the army the commander caught a cold that has brought him to his present condition. He is at the garrison in Thirteenth street, to which he has been confined for ten days. Dr. Westgate would not permit Mr. Booth-Tucker to attend services on Sunday, although several officers were to be commissioned. Sunday night the plan for army relief work took shape, and Monday morning against his physician's orders, the commander insisted on doing some telephoning in connection with it. A relapse followed and he has grown worse each day. Mrs. Booth-Tucker, though almost prostrated, refuses to leave her husband's bedside. All engagements for her to speak have been cancelled, and she will take part in no meetings while the commander remains so ill.

TUNNELING PIKE'S PEAK.

They are continually doing wonders out West, says the Des Moines Register. In San Diego some time ago they wanted to block a canyon in order to aid in the building of a dam for a water supply system. The engineers used 100,000 pounds of black powder, with which they lifted 150,000 tons of rock, mostly granite, from the mountain side and hurled it into the canyon in exactly the desired position. It will form a bulwark for the dam which ages can hardly remove. But a still greater engineering work has been commenced near Pike's Peak. Pike's Peak is not to be tunneled. The tunnel will pass directly under the peak and will be 7000 feet below the surface. The length of the tunnel will be twenty miles. In addition to the main channel there will be side issues aggregating thirty miles, so that in all fifty miles of tunneling will be placed under the great mountain and the adjacent mountains. Work has been commenced at either end of the 20-mile tunnel, and in seven years from now, maybe ten years, the workmen, approaching each other at the rate of about thirty feet a day, will meet face to face. So close are these calculations that there will hardly be an inch difference in the height or direction of the tunnel. The estimated cost of the undertaking is $20,320,000. Dynamite will have to be used, as most of the rock is primary granite. The size of the main tunnel will be 14 by 18, permitting the largest freight cars to pass through.

The objects of tunneling the mountain are three: First, to make a short way to the Cripple Creek region. From Colorado Springs to Cripple Creek is now fifty-four miles by rail. With the tunnel cut it will be reduced to twenty miles. The second object is to drain the Cripple Creek country, which has countless springs. The water will be carried in a 4 by 4-foot channel at the bottom of the tunnel toward Colorado Springs, where it will be used for irrigating and other purposes. These millions of gallons of water are precious and will be worth much money. The third object is to find gold and silver. It is believed that the precious metals which will be taken out of the tunnel will pay for its construction, and may lead to other and more important finds. To these three objects may be added a fourth—to make the Pike's Peak country more wonderful than ever and more alluring to the tourists. A 20-mile tunnel will be something of an attraction in itself.

AT GRAND RAPIDS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—During Tuesday and Wednesday a very severe snow and wind storm prevailed throughout Itasca county. However, trains were delayed only a few minutes on account of drifts. The loggers are more than pleased at the snow as it not only aids them now but will also help to swell the streams and get the logs down quickly in the spring. Last year on account of the low water in the streams considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the logs into the rivers but this year the difficulty will doubtless be obviated.

Henry Hughes is at present looking for a good location in Grand Rapids to start a general store. He has been in a large mercantile establishment in Chicago for some time and will doubtless manage an affair here well.

About April 1 Phil Caselberg and family, who are among the oldest inhabitants of Itasca county, will leave for Montana. Mr. Caselberg has held several offices of trust here, having been village president at one time and served as postmaster during Cleveland's last term. According to the report of State Superintendent of Schools Lewis, our county now has 488 pupils and received an average of 90 cents a pupil.

During the recent destruction of Mr. Glover's home by fire, he claims the books, receipts, etc., were burned. Unless some returns are made soon it is probable that suit will be brought against the bondsmen of T. C. Glover to recover the sum.

The people of Grand Rapids are delighted in the change of time between Hibbing and Swan River. As it now is both the people from Grand Rapids and Hibbing are obliged to remain over night at Swan River, but according to the new schedule the trip can now be made by the people of both towns by remaining only an hour or two at Swan River.

BLEEDING PILES

And all other forms of this common and often dangerous disease readily cured without pain or inconvenience.

Thousands of men and women are afflicted with some sort of piles, without either knowing the exact nature of the trouble, or knowing it, are careless enough to allow it to run without taking the simple means offered for a radical cure.

The failure of salves and ointments to permanently cure piles has led many to believe the only cure to be a surgical operation.

Surgical operations are dangerous to life and moreover not often entirely successful and at this time are no longer used by the best physicians or recommended by them.

The safest and surest way to cure any case of piles, whether blind, bleeding or protruding, is to use the Pyramid Pile cure, composed of healing vegetable oils, and absolutely free from mineral poisons and opiates. The following letter from a Pittsburg gentleman, a severe sufferer from bleeding piles, gives some idea of the prompt effectual character of this pile cure. He writes:

I take pleasure writing these few lines to let you know that I did not sleep for three months, except for a short time each night, because of a bad case of bleeding piles. I was down in bed and the doctors did me no good. A good brother told me of the Pyramid Pile Cure and I bought from my druggist three 50-cent bottles. They cured me and I will soon be able to go to my work again.

WILLIAM HANDSCHU,

The Pyramid Pile Cure is not only the safest and surest remedy for piles, but is the best known and most popular. Every physician and druggist in the country knows it and what it will do.

Send to Pyramid company, Marshall, Mich., for little book on "Cause and Cure of Piles," describing all forms of piles and the proper treatment.

THE MOTOR MILITARY CAR.

The introduction of the motor car in the army may be the next important development to be looked for. The Austrian military authorities have been experimenting in this direction, with the object of using the motor cars for the transport of cannon and ammunition. In a recent trial an auto-car, laden with a weight of five tons, was driven along mountain roads, and the expert officers in charge assert that the experiment was most successful. The experiments are to be continued by the mountain artillery.

The new torpedo defense net, or crinoline, for the British navy is supposed to be impenetrable to any torpedo, even when armed with a cutter. It is considerably heavier than the old net, but can be handled just as easily. Each net is 25 feet wide, 28 feet deep, weighs 1700 pounds and consists of 16,000 wire meshes. Each mesh is secured by six small rings; these, combined with the small size of the mesh, render it practically impossible for the cutter of a torpedo to make any impression on it.

THE TEST THAT TELLS.

You Can Get All the Convincing Proof You Want by Reading Duluth Papers.

When the reader wants an article of value he naturally prefers to deal with someone he can depend upon.

If mixed up in any law suit, a good, responsible lawyer is generally the first necessity sought.

If lost upon a prairie, directions from a settler could be relied upon; those from a stranger would be doubted.

It follows in the realm of proprietary articles that Duluth people would naturally select that one article which has cured some neighbor, people they know, people that can be seen, spoken to and questioned about the results. The only proprietary article which gives this positive proof is the one endorsed by J. B. Robinson, residing at Highland Park, office 502 Palladio building, who says: "I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone troubled with backache or kidney complaint. For ten or twelve years I was a great sufferer from kidney complaint, and during that time I tried a great many different remedies designed for the kidneys, but did not receive any material benefit. The kidney secretions were very irregular and unnatural. I could not rest well at night and in the morning felt used up. I was advised to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial, got them at the Duluth Drug company's, and used them with the most satisfactory results. They well merit the high esteem in which they are held generally."

GOSSIP OF THE STAGE.

"What Happened to Jones" Is the Attraction Booked for the Lyceum This Evening.

"Who Is Who" for Next Monday Evening.

"The Midnight Bell" Tuesday and Wednesday.

"What Happened to Jones," which will be at the Lyceum this evening is a most humorously suggestive name for a farce, yet it is wholly inadequate to insinuate the numerous and various things that occur to the fellow whose homely appellation figures in the title. George H. Broadhurst, the author, is a farceur of imaginative and inventive resources and has departed most creditably and successfully from the beaten path of his predecessors.

It would be a hopeless task to try to tell all that happened to Jones, but the title may be supplemented by a few remarks for the benefit of those who want their imaginations quickened. Jones is a "drummer" for hymn books and playing cards. Among the personages associated with him in the play are a circumspect professor, with an exacting wife two confiding daughters and a young ward, who is not so confiding; the professor's brother, a bishop; a spinster, in love with the bishop; a young man in love with one of the confiding daughters; a demented fellow who thinks he is an Indian, a policeman in pursuit of Jones, and a Swedish servant girl, who may be intrusted with family secrets if she is well paid. The scenes are laid in the professor's house, where Jones follows the professor from a prize fight that ended in a row, in which both Jones and the professor were participants, and Jones is necessary to account for the professor's black eye. The pursuit of the police makes it expedient for Jones to disguise himself, and he dons the dress of the bishop, who is due to arrive from Australia. Jones takes the place of the bishop-brother, the bishop uncle, the bishop-sweetheart, and even maintains his incognito after the real bishop arrives, who, in turn is mistaken for the man who thinks he is an Indian.

The situations are extremely amusing and the lines are exceptionally clever, the whole being one of the most delightful farces brought out in years. Its continuous merriment and evident popularity are a striking demonstration to the fact that a light comedy may be a big money maker, and yet be wholly decent. The company includes John Allison, E. Soldene Powell, Barney McDonough, Frank X. Hope, Louis Reinhart, Charles Greene, Cora, Williams, Juliet Sager, Helen Harcourt, Elanore Brodhay, Katharine Weston, and Maude Allison.

"WHO IS WHO."

Manager Williams will present at the Lyceum on Monday evening the Kelly & Mason company in their successful comedy entitled "Who is Who." The author, it is said, has succeeded in giving us a happy compromise between genteel comedy and the uproarious horse play that has for some seasons usurped the place of comedy. His incidents are broadly, but not absurdly conceived, and if he has dealt freely with the improbable he has not pestered us with unreasonably fantastic characters and episodes. Rather he has shown a most commendable ingenuity in evolving a series of laughable or semi-serious happenings and complications from a very simple, though unique proposition.

A young man named Jack Hartland, admitted to the bar, wishes to enter upon the practice of law. Aware that few chances favor a beginner in a great city, he tries in vain to associate himself with some already established lawyer. As a final expedient to gain the confidence of would-be litigants, he invents a partner, and becomes the junior member of the supposition firm of "Nemo & Hartland." Though this device does not produce a sudden growth of clients, the misunderstandings arising from the continuous absence of Nemo and the somewhat incoherent explanations of Hartland, lead to results that would be serious to the enterprising and over-clever Hartland, but for the lucky intervention of a photograph, which becomes a timely witness to the integrity of Hartland's moral character. One of the amusing phases of the play is the well connected chain of circumstantial evidence welded about Hartland as the suspected murderer of Nemo, a mere creature of imagination. There is a pleasing love story woven in with the business perplexities of the brieless young lawyer, his trouble with his sweetheart being as persistently provoking as those with creditors and detectives.

The agreeable nonsense is said to be unflagging in its excitement of interest, and the love passages that are interspersed as the relief are uniquely flavored with humor. An abundance of new and up-to-date musical numbers and specialties will be introduced during the action of the play by Charles E. Pusey, Bert St. John, Charles A. Mason, Harry N. Welch, Grace Cummings, Georgie Tompkins, Katherine s and Netta Miller, Whitings sisters and Alice Figman. The company numbers twenty-two people.

"THE MIDNIGHT BELL."

The Lyceum offers a great attraction on Tuesday and Wednesday in the best efforts of Charles Hoyt's "A Midnight Bell," which has been in constant preparation for weeks will be presented. Nothing has been left undone by the management to make this production a pronounced success, every setting will be new from the mechanical department and the scenes will be quite vivid of New England life. The second act reveals the old red school house, the long hill (covered with snow) at the rear, and fifty merry school children coasting; the other strong scenes depicting rural life will be the sewing society, the church choir rehearsal and the country home.

"A Midnight Bell" in June, 1887, was born into the dramatic world at the Alcazar, San Francisco, L. R. Stockwell appearing in the cast, and will again figure in the present production. Mr. Stockwell will play his original creation of the Deacon. The piece was written especially for Mr. Stockwell, who is conceded the drollest of all our comedians.

Probably there is no play, the "Old Homestead" excepted, that is enveloped so completely in the atmosphere of rural characterization as "A Midnight Bell." It has proven a play which has pleased the masses for it contains pathos and comedy: it goes into the every day life of those far eastern people, showing the bohemian spirit of village friendship. It tells how the country school teacher hards around at the different homes of the pupils: illustrates the crude method of school examinations in out of the way districts and weaves the lives of the village parson, the cobbler, the baker, tradesman and squire into a beautiful plot that suits all tastes and makes of "A Midnight Bell" a play of the times. The program will contain a large cast of picked representatives of players.

"THE BACHELOR'S HONEYMOON."

There will be fun, fast and furious, at the Lyceum next Friday and Saturday, when Warde & Sackett's comedians and the clever farceur, Walter Walker, will present the last Hoyt's theater success, "A Bachelor's Honeymoon." No play that has been presented of late years has received more praise than this last contribution from the metropolis. It is a farce in the full meaning of the name, and was written by John Stapleton. It possesses no specialties or vaudeville features, and is dependent for its fun solely on the plot, the intricate complications and the wit and humor of the dialogue. According to one description, "the laughter commences five minutes after the curtain rises and continues unbroken until five minutes after the curtain falls on the last act." Produced originally at Hoyt's theater, New York, it scored a big hit with press and public, which was duplicated in Philadelphia, Chicago and the Northwest.

Warde & Sackett's comedians are said to be a company of excellent actors, and to fully merit the praises that have been bestowed upon them. Walter Walker, the star of the company, is a finished artist of long experience and thoroughly adapted to high-class farce delineation. For years he was identified with the support of Minnie Palmer and other stage favorites, and has a host of personal friends through the South. Mr. Walker's support includes Messrs. Emil Hoch, George Morehead, Franklyn Hill, Joseph Surekard. Miss Delia Stacey, Miss Maud Reams Stover, Miss Mildred St. Pierre, Miss May Warde and Miss Anne Hathaway. Miss May Warde is the youngest daughter of the eminent tragedian and Southern favorite, Frederick Warde. She makes her debut with "A Bachelor's Honeymoon."

There is a mistaken idea in the public mind, and a few managers are misled by it, that there is a large demand for ribaldry, says the New York Sun. No more untrue libel could be uttered against the average of taste among those who support the theaters. The actresses who prosper best with genuine talent are those who are respected as women, and whose personal attitudes before the the public are never shameful. The plays that are most prosperous, and last longest, are those possessing a plenty of wholesome human interest and nothing at all immodest. But it is worth while to give proof that purity—not insipidity or preachiness, but absolutely clean entertainment—makes more money for the manager than comes of pandering to vice. Maude Adams is an illustrative actress and "The Little Minister" is an illustrative play. The extent of their success has made many a manager look beyond the artistic merits of the actress and the play for the reason of its exceptional prosperity. A news dispatch from Chicago said that messenger boys had stood all night in line, and that about all the seats for a week had been sold beforehand. A Sun reporter went to Charles Frohman to verify the reports of heavy receipts. By reference to the local treasurer's reports it was proven that in one week in Washington just over $13,000 was taken, and in Pittsburg just under $13,000, while single performances in Philadelphia and Baltimore yielded $1800 and $2000. These figures mean that the theaters are crowded to their capacities. It means that people who seldom go to the playhouse, and are circumspect when they do, know they are safe in going to see Miss Adams in "The Little Minister." These points are made to convince pondering managers that they may make more money respectably.

A year ago Rose Snyder, of Milwaukee, was an unconsidered member of the chorus of one Lederer's musical comedy companies. Lederer saw her while rehearsing the company in Detroit. She was sent to London with "The Belle of New York." She has played Mamie Clancy and also has been seen in Edna May's role. Next season she will play the principal part in a new piece that will be produced by the Casino manager.

"Grierson's Way," a play by H. V. Esmond, which has lately been produced at the Central theater in London, has been asked for both by Charles Frohman and by E. H. Sothern. In brief, the theme is this: To cover the shame of a girl whom he loves, an old man marries her. Both do their best to be generous and kind in the hard situation, with success and failure, until the lover and the real father of the child turns up, free through the death of his wife. The young mother's love conquers then, and she treats her husband harshly. He, urged on by a cynical acquaintance dies by poison. His wife sees that this act makes it impossible for her ever to see her lover again.

Ellie Elisler is in New York trying to make arrangements to return to the stage next season, either as a star or leading feature of an organization. She and her husband, Frank Weston, retired from the profession several years ago. Mr. Weston to devote himself to some mining interests in the West.

Julia Arthur has not yet succeeded in securing a New York theater for the presentation of her adaptation of "More Than Queen" next season. The play will be produced in Paris shortly, with Jane Hading in the part which is to be played here by Miss Arthur. Scenically and in the matter of costuming "More Than Queen," it is said, will be far and away the most elaborate production in the dramatic line that has been made in France. Following as it will such an enormous success as "Cyrano de Bergerac," it has been thought necessary to make a lavish presentment.

Duse in now in Paris consulting with the manager, Schurmann, about a great tour of the United States, beginning in October. Irving, Bernhardt, Duse, the Kendals and Alexander will thus strike us almost at once. Zaccone may come with Duse. The Italian actress, who has been so anxious to play the Greek drama, has had enormous success in the "Antigone," of Sophocles, at Athens, so she is likely to play it on her next American trip. It is also said she will try a new d'Annuzio piece. Her intention of playing the Greek tragedy among the ruins of the same theater in which it was first produced in the fifth century, B. C. was thwarted by the weather.

In Montreal on Monday of last week James O'Neill was seen as D'Artagnan in "The Musketeers." Some people have the notion that O'Neill has been the impersonator of The-World-Is-Mine "Monte Cristo," and of little else. He made his debut at the age of 17, and Joseph Surekard. Miss Delia Stacey, Miss Maud Reams Stover, Miss Mildred St. Pierre, Miss May Warde and Miss Anne Hathaway. Miss May Warde is the youngest daughter of the eminent tragedian and Southern favorite, Frederick Warde. She makes her debut with "A Bachelor's Honeymoon."

chant of Venice," "Hamlet," "Othello," etc. The year following I went to California, and many of my companions at Hooley's went with me. I then skipped to the other extreme, New York, and joined the Union Square stock company. After that I returned to Hooley's with Lawrence Barrett, alternating leading roles, as I had a few seasons previous with Edwin Booth."

Beerbohm Tree has engaged Mrs. James Brown Potter for another year in London. The American actress will have the leading role in Henry Arthur Jones' new play, written specially for Mr. Tree's theater. The scene of this work is laid in India, and the story is more serious than any which Mr. Jones has recently made known. Mrs. Potter has made a stunning success as Amadi in "The Three Musketeers," and has become a very great favorite in the British metropolis. Nobody hears very much of Mr. Bellew nowadays, and it is thought to be among the remote possibilities, says Leander Richardson, that Cora and Kyrle no longer exchange large, feeling baches of conversation as they pass by.

The cast of "The Man in the Moon" will include Dan Daly, Sam Bernard, John E. Henshaw, Walter Jones, Marie Dressler and Louie Freear. Dan Daly will appear as Sherlock Holmes, and Sam Bernard will play Conan Doyle with a Dutch dialect. Daly as the detective is to have a part that will supply great opportunities for his drollery.

Timothy D. Frawley is soon to to present to the good people—and incidentally any others who have amassed the price of a ticket—of Washington a stock company of the same caliber as the several organizations bearing his name which earned him so much popularity on the Pacific coast and evidently contemplates several resurrections from the theatrical grave. One of these theatrical corpses who assumed that condition more or less willingly was Miss Georgia Cayvan, and it is said that Mr. Frawley desires her services for his Washington company. His plan is to present Miss Cayvan in some of the leading roles she created at the Lyceum theater, the plays being "The Wife," "The Charity Ball," "Men and Women," etc.

W. S. Penley, who played the bogus aunt in "Charley's Aunt" so long in London, has secured another farce which seems destined to achieve popularity almost as widely diffused. The new piece is called "A Little Ray of Sunshine," and two English actors have secured the right to present it in America.

As B. Howard is probably writing a new play newspaper stories concerning him are not out of order. He is said to be the cause of the only known instance of an English actor's ever assuming with a noticeable measure of success the accent and manner of the American. The occasion was the English production of Howard's "The Banker's Daughter" several years ago, and an English actor, G. W. Anson by name, was cast for the low comedy part. Howard had not expected anything at all from Anson's performance as the actor merely walked through the rehearsals after the manner of his kind. When the first performance took place, however, there was a transformation. Instead of the English idea of the Yankee with an impossible make-up and a nasal drawl there was the real American in make-up, manner and accent. The actor had been studying the author at rehearsals, and was a most careful reproduction of him in every particular.

Augustus Thomas is still writing plays of locality, and is still apparently trying to duplicate "Alabama," and it deals with military life in that strongheld of mines, Mexicans and Indians, "Arizona" is said to be somewhat stronger in plot and situations than its predecessors, and it will see the light in June.

One novelty in "Lord and Lady Algy" not heretofore noted is a staircase. Staircases are not uncommon adjuncts of the drama, but they have hitherto connected the level of the stage with some sort of a superstructure. This one, however, leads downward, and there is much whispered comment when it is discovered. One New York newspaper expresses the fear that Lady Algy's devotion to cigarettes will cause the spread of the habit among the fashionable ladies of the metropolis.

The aristocracy of New York is no longer to be forced to enjoy vaudeville cheek by jowl with the common person. A new music hall is to be built, which will be operated for their exclusive benefit, with prices so high that the poor will be unable to take advantage of it.

The Tyranny of Fashion

To the Editor of The Herald:

The name of liberty and freedom in opposition to subjugation and slavery has long been the inspiration of America's most loyal citizens. And yet there is a wonderful tendency on the part of the masses to succumb to the domineering influences of a few self-styled leaders. Strange to say people will be led into the most ridiculous, outlandish, uncomfortable and inexcusable fashions, just for the sake of being in what they call style. What merit, either in comfort, convenience, beauty or anything else, is there in a toothpick shoe? Who can give any sensible reason for men wearing linen choosers or collars so high and stiff that they need a telephone connection between their heads and their feet, in order to know what is going on below? Is there any comfort in sawing their chins and putting their ears in danger and carrying their heads checked up like a fractious colt? I know young men in this city, who, in most other respects are exemplary, who are simply remarkable for the amount of shirt collar they exhibit. The first thought on seeing them in their Sunday suits, is, where on earth is that collar going with that young man? Were it becoming to the crane-necked gentry, their short-necked brethren would have to have a step ladder to see over their sideboards.

Toothpick shoes are becoming wonderfully blunted, and high collars will settle down some in hot weather. As to the ladies, God bless them, they are so lovely we would not kick if they wore hats as large as washtubs and plumes as high as smokestacks. They are "too lovely for anything." We will not complain even if we never see the speaker or minister until the meeting is out, in summer from the gallery of the First M. E. church one gets a magnificent view of a beautiful flower garden. Each cluster supported by a living vase, and accompanied by a lovely face, all moving with such wonderful grace. Ah! yes, by grace ye are saved, I see!

If any man undertakes to get a law making it a penalty for me to use a knife and fork both, when I eat pie, I will oppose it with both feet. Neither will I be compelled to eat oat meal mush and milk out of a jug with a string even if it becomes the very height of fashion. Fashions, like inventions, and improvements in machinery, should change when improvements as to beauty or utility having real merit are proposed. But to follow the sham follies of cracked brain lunatics is the lowest kind of slavery.

The tyranny of fashion extends to national extravagance and municipal profligacy. Custom or fashion has made burial services so expensive that the common people cannot afford to die. One man in this city stood two years tottering on the verge of the grave, declaring that the only thing that kept him out was that he had got so infernally hard up that he could not afford funeral expenses. He finally did die, but not until he had become unconscious, and did not know what he was doing. FREEDOM.

Sweet Marie.

(Dedicated to Little Marie Lavigne.)

Little golden ringlets,
Little eyes so blue,
Little smiles so loving,
Little heart so true.

Little feet go dancing
Up and down the hall,
Little teardrops twinkle
Should our darling fall.

Little flower so tender,
How we gaze with pride
As we watch her daily
Growing by our side.

And we stop in silence
Breathe a solemn prayer,
That God's love may keep her
Innocent and fair.

As she sings and prattles,
Ever full of glee,
God, we ask Thy blessing
On our "Sweet Marie."

MYSTERY OF A HAREM.

A Beautiful Girl Kidnapped and then Murdered.

The Yildiz Palace has another mystery for which the people of Constantinople hold their sultan responsible. A beautiful Circassian girl returned from Abdul Hamid's harem to the abode of her rightful owner some ten days ago, and soon afterward died of poison—a certain vegetable compound "warranted" to work at the end of six or seven hours: no sooner, no later.

The girl breathed her last just fifty minutes after her arrival in the carriage of an officer of the imperial court. It is known that she rode to her old master's home directly from the palace and without stopping on the way. She herself said on her death bed that she had not eaten or drunk anything since early breakfast in the harem, which was from five to six hours before her arrival in the city.

The theory of suicide not being applicable in the case of an Oriental woman, the assumption is that Zuleika drank in death with her chocolate, or swallowed it in a French ragout or sweetmeat. Whether she was poisoned at the sultan's instigation or whether the chief eunuch murdered her on his own hook that, of course, no outsider can decide. There is little likelihood that that part of the tragedy will ever be cleared up.

Six months ago Youssouff Tevfik—a son of the army contractor who was favored with the silken cord after he had acquired riches enough to make his disgrace and the consequent confiscation of his fortune profitable—Youssouff was voted the luckiest dog in Pera, for he had succeeded in buying Zuleika, the pearl of the Circassian slave market.

Zuleika, accompanied by her businesslike father and brothers, had previously been hawked about the harems of the great for several days, but owing to the presence of Emperor William in Constantinople, who kept the sultan and his officials extremely busy, no purchaser had been found. Then, being unable to prolong their stay, Zuleika's relatives, or "natural owners," as they call themselves in Turkey, put the girl up for auction, and, though all Pera's golden youth bid for her, Youssouff secured her by a trick at the beggarly sum of 15,000 francs. He told his friends that, owing to financial difficulties, he had consented to become an auction tout for this occasion, and so, when he bid, others who wanted the girl held back in order not to force the price. When at last the "chappies" saw that Youssouff had fooled them, it was too late to dispute him his prize. But Youssouff was not content with "selling" his comrades; his bride's papa was sold by him in the bargain. Instead of paying him cash, he gave him fifteen promissory notes of 1000 francs each, payable successively month after month.

The best of teachers in singing, dancing, playing and story-telling were engaged to instruct Zuleika in those arts which the Turks admire mostly in women. She proved an adaptable creature, and the fame of her accomplishments soon spread over all Pera. It even mounted to the walls of Yildiz palace and in the course of time fell upon the blase ears of the Padishah.

"I should like to have this Zuleika, of whom there is so much talk," the sultan is said to have remarked a little while ago. The same day Yaver Aza, his majesty's chief eunuch, called upon Youssouff and commanded him to give up the girl. Youssouff refused, for he had meanwhile fallen madly in love with her. Next came an offer from the sultan's "Kadyns," the seven women who pass as his regular wives. They desired to buy Zuleika for their master, offering a very large sum as purchase price. But Youssouff could neither be bought nor bullied, and he was quite proud of the fact. He evidently forgot that he was living in Turkey, but if he did he wasn't allowed to lose sight of the fact long.

Two weeks ago, coming home from his office, he was informed by his servants that Zuleika had run away, leaving all her jewels, fine dresses and money behind. Of course that indicated where she had gone. No woman, least of all a Circassian, abandons her diamonds and fine frocks unless better ones and more of them are awaiting her elsewhere. Youssouff was willing to swear by the prophet that Zuleika had been kidnaped for the sultan's harem.

He sat down and wrote a letter to the Padishah, complaining that "some high palace official" had stolen his (Youssouff's) slave girl on the very eve of their projected marriage. He added the circumstances of Zuleika's purchase, pointing out that she had been bought on the installment plan, and that 5000 francs were still owing on her. "If your majesty will not restore my intended wife, send me at least the money for which I became liable through her purchase," wrote Youssouff, in conclusion of his petition. He did not have to wait long for an answer. Next morning at 10 o'clock a court carriage drove up to his door, and out jumped Zuleika, more beautiful and more richly dressed than ever. The colored gentleman who accompanied her, and who was, as it afterward turned out, one of the minor eunuchs of Yildiz palace, smilingly stepped up to Youssouff and counted out 15,000 francs upon the table.

"His majesty has been graciously pleased to order the official of whom you complained to pay over the full purchase price of the slave, herewith returned," he said. After getting his receipt he rapidly drove away. The negotiations had not lasted more than five minutes.

Zuleika wouldn't answer any questions as to where she had been, and with whom. She said she had sworn not to reveal anything until after three days had passed.

Well, she took the secret with her into the grave, for, as stated, she lived only three-quarters of an hour after her return home. While in her death agonies she had only strength enough to say that she partaken of no food or drink since that morning's breakfast in the harem.

Those who saw the slave girl say that she was the most beautiful Circassian that had been brought to Constantinople for years. She was about 15 years of age, a little over five feet in height and perfectly proportioned. She had beautiful small hands and feet, an oval face, blonde hair and a complexion of lilies and roses. Her eyes were dark and big and full of intelligence.

AGUINALDO.

"I saw Aguinaldo in Hong Kong in the early part of 1887," said E. B. Cunningham, of Liverpool, who is one of this year's carnival visitors, to the New Orleans Times Democrat. "I was representing an English firm at the time, and was arranging a deal for some Manilla hemp with Emile Chargan, a resident factor. One day I called at Chargan's office and found him in conversation with a swarthy young Filipino, who was introduced to me as Aguinaldo. I had heard a good deal of the insurgent chief, so I looked at him with decided curiosity. What impressed me most strongly about him was his extremely youthful appearance. He did not look over 22 at the outside, and his air of juvenility was borne out by his stooping shoulders and narrow chest. His features were distinctly Mongolian, his cheekbones high, his eyes oblique, his nose short and blunt, and his lips rather thick. He had no sign of beard on his face, but his hair was coarse, black and very thick. His skin, I remember, was badly pitted, possibly from smallpox. I took particular note of his hands and feet, which were remarkably small, even for a Filipino. He wore women's cloth gaiters, which is not unusual in Hong Kong, and had a large solitaire on his left hand. Aguinaldo remained only a few minutes after I arrived, but long enough for me to note that his manners were curiously nervous. It seemed impossible for him to remain quiet for a moment. The faces of a great many Filipinos give one an impression of distortion, as if they were slightly twisted to one side, and I marked the peculiarity strongly in Aguinaldo. After he left I told Chargan that he reminded me more of a native shipping clerk in some Dutch importing house than of a revolutionist. 'He's the smartest Filipino in the South Seas,' said Chargan, 'and his only weak spot is his vanity, which is something monstrous.' That was the only time I ever saw him, so the picture remains quite vivid."

ALABASTINE

Alabastine, the only durable wall coating, takes the place of scaling kalsomines, wall paper and paint for walls. It can be used on plaster, brick, wood or canvas. Made ready by adding cold water.

Kalsomines are cheap and temporary preparations, made from whiting, chalks, clays, etc., and stuck on walls with decaying animal glue. Alabastine, a rock base cement, sets, and hardens with age.

Alabastine can be used over paint or paper; paint or paper can be used over Alabastine. Requires no scraping before re-coating. Buy only in five-pound packages, properly labeled; take no substitute.

Every church and school house should be coated only with Alabastine. Hundreds of tons used yearly for this work. Genuine Alabastine does not rub and scale off. It is beautiful and healthful.

Established in favor by test of time. Alabastine has many imitations. None can prove durability. Beware of large four-pound package of light kalsomine, offered as a five-pound package.

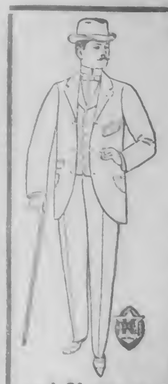

Sensible dealers will not buy a law suit or an injunction with cheap kalsomines, imitations of Alabastine. Dealers risk suit for damages by selling and consumers by using an infringement.

Alabastine packages have full directions. Anyone can brush it on. Ask paint dealer or druggist for tint card. Write for paper, "Alabastine Era" free, to Alabastine Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.

EARNINGS DIVISION

The Gross Earnings Distribution Bill Introduced By Mr. Laybourn.

MANY BILLS PASSED

One Gives a Pension to a Man Injured In Celebrating.

From a Staff Representative.

St. Paul, March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Among the new house bills today was one by Laybourn, providing for the distribution of moneys received from railroad gross earnings tax. The bill has been but slightly changed from the way it appeared in the Duluth papers several weeks ago. It adds organized townships to those to share in the distribution of the fund. Instead of the county auditor, as provided in the original published bill, the county commissioners shall decide the basis for distribution in the county on the valuations.

The bill to increase the salary of the deputy state treasurer $200 per year, which was reported for indefinite postponement last week, but later recommitted, was today given a favorable report.

The calendar was then taken up and the following bills passed:

H. F. 420, Staples—Fixing terms of state officers.

H. F. 288, Ferris—Relating to the preservation of forests, forest boards and forest reserves.

H. F. 171, Allen—Relating to reincorporation of villages.

H. F. 249, Ollson, P.—Relating to school funds.

H. F. 349, Ojen—Relating to temperance saloons, etc.

H. F. 403, Allen—Relating to trial of actions in court.

H. F. 159, Jackson—Relating to sale of real estate by executors.

H. F. 281, Dwinnell—Relating to mechanics' liens.

H. F. 434, Galt—Relating to insurance laws.

H. F. 416, Mallory—Relating to insurance companies (the anti-compact bill).

H. F. 479, judiciary committee—Relating to conveyances of real property.

H. F. 480, judiciary committee—Relating to acknowledgments, and records.

H. F. 155, Allen—To provide for compensation of prison investigation committee.

H. F. 95, Schurman—For relief of William McNamara, injured in firing a salute last May.

S. F. 263, Sweningsen—Relating to renovated butter requiring a label.

Recess.

ANOTHER DULUTH BILL.

Senator Baldwin Introduces One to Cure Certain Defects.

St. Paul, March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Among the new senate bills today were:

McGoolan—To amend military code.

State training school committee—To appropriate $1000 for an armory and gymnasium at the state training school.

Brower—To cede to the United States certain lands in St. Cloud and Fergus Falls for public buildings. Passed under suspension of the rules.

Snyder—Relating to registration of land titles.

Balz—For inspection of creamery butter by the state.

Smith, J. H.—To authorize the deepening of the outlet of a lake in Becker county.

Horton—Authorizing the creation of a state commission to revise and annotate the state laws.

Halvorson—Relating to the taxation of express companies.

Baldwin—To cure defects in sales made to enforce payments of delinquent assessments for local improvements in certain cases, a curative act, recommended by a Duluth attorney.

McGill—To restrain railroad companies from employing clerks at night without extra compensation.

Jones, E. J.—To appropriate $4000 for drainage in Stevens county.

Drainage committee—Substitute for general drainage land bill.

Senator Stockwell's bill for the initiative and referendum came back from committee on judiciary with a recommendation for indefinite postponement. The senator made a hard fight to preserve its life. Not satisfied with making a long speech in its behalf, he insisted that the secretary read the bill in full, and that this be followed by a roll call. This emptied a majority of the seats, and the remainder of the senators prepared to bolt, when Senator McGowan threatened them with a speech on the subject, but he was called to order because the roll call had been ordered on the question of sustaining the committee. The few remaining senators refused to suspend the rules for a speech, and on the vote the committee was sustained.

BACK TO CHICAGO.

Beef Inquiry Board Will Hear Some More Witnesses.

Chicago, March 20.—The government court of inquiry returned from Fort Leavenworth today and resumed the examination of witnesses in the matter of canned and refrigerated beef. It is probable that the court will remain in session in Chicago two or three days. The greater portion of the witnesses summoned are those suggested by Maj. Lee, the representative of Maj. Gen. Miles before the court. His list includes seven names, among them that of Nicholas Senn, the eminent surgeon.

The first witness examined was Col. Jack Foster of the Sixth Illinois infantry. He testified that at Ponce he drew refrigerator beef only once. When the meat reached camp it was pronounced bad and a board of inquiry condemned it and it was buried. He did not try it again. The regiment was about six miles from the port.

Capt. Edward J. Dennick of the First Illinois testified that some of the canned roast beef he saw was spoiled and was thrown overboard on the voyage to Cuba. After the surrender of Santiago refrigerator beef was issued. The regiment was about three miles from port. One lot was buried as soon as unloaded. Some of the men thought they discovered a peculiar odor, but there were no suspicions that the meat had been chemically treated. On the voyage home canned roast beef was issued, but the men would not touch it.

"One day at Santiago," witness said, "I went into a restaurant and met a gentleman in citizen's clothes and who made himself known to me as Swift's representative. He said he was in trouble as he had just got a cargo of beef in and the refrigerator plant had stopped. He said he was going to Gen. Shafter to get the beef to come to our camp immediately, but said it was not possible. I thought poor beef came to our camp invariably, but he said it was not poor beef, simply discolored at the outside, and by cutting away the discolored part the inside would be found perfectly good. I was in Gen. Woods' headquarters an hour later and saw him there waiting for an interview with Gen. Shafter. I did not learn whether he succeded in getting the beef accepted or not, but I understood from outside parties that they threw overboard several tons of it and accepted the balance."

Maj. Lee: What effect, if any, did the canned roast beef have upon the health of the men?

"The beef nauseated a great many of the men. I am satisefld that it caused diarrhoea also."

"Was there any suggestion that it was best to discontinue the use of that meat?"

"No, sir; we made the best of it."

ILOILO IS ATTACKED.

Gen. Miller's Forces Kill Two Thousand of the Mountain Banditti.

Manilla, March 20, 4:40 p. m.—The mountain banditti of Pana island recently threatened a serious attack upon Iloilo, but they were repulsed, with a loss of 2000 men, by Gen. Miller.

McNeil's battalion of the California regiment, under Lieut. Col. DuBoce, has been ordered to embark on the Indiana tomorrow in order to reinforce garrisons of the towns of Bais and Baguyan, on the east coast of the island of Negros, where Col. Smith is in command. This is only a measure of precaution, as Maj. Gen. Otis says he does not anticipate trouble there.

THREE POLICEMEN KILLED.

Result of a Second Riot In Streets of Havana

Havana, March 20.—During the trouble between the Havana police and the populace last night three policemen were killed and about twenty-five persons were wounded on both sides. Public opinion supports the police without reserve.

FIVE CHILDREN PERISH.

Fatal Result of the Burning of a Kansas Home

Hutchinson, Kan., March 20.—The home of John Moore was burned today, the result of alamp explosion. Moore's five children, ranging from 3 to 12 years, lost their lives. Firemen found the children lying side by side in bed on the floor, all dead, but not badly burned. They had apparently been suffocated by smoke. The father, who slept in an adjoining room, was so badly frightened that he was unable to attempt a rescue. Mrs. Moore was away from home.

WANTS TO RETURN.

Ex-Secretary Sherman Realizes That His Strength Is Fast Waning

Kingston, Jamaica, March 20.—The condition of John Sherman, who is a passenger here on board the American line steamer Paris, is not favorable this morning. He is very much weaker, and the doctors are discouraged.

The United States cruiser Chicago, which has been detailed to take Mr. Sherman on board and convey him back to the United States, has not yet arrived here, but is expected to reach this port during the afternoon. Dr. Magee will have charge of the case until they reach Old Point Comfort.

It may not be possible to transfer Mr. Sherman to the Chicago until the Paris reaches Santiago, Cuba. He appreciates that his strength is declining and is desirous of getting home.

REVOLUTION GAINING.

President Alonzo of Bolivia Dare Not Make a Move.

New York, March 20.—A special from Lima, Peru, says: The revolution in Bolivia is gaining ground, and President Alonzo dare not stir.

VERY PEACEFUL.

Our Consuls In Spain Are to Be Instructed.

New York, March 2.—A special from Washington says: In view of the early exchange of the treaty of peace with Spain, the state department will make immediate arrangements for reopening its consulates in that country. It is the understanding here that the president will reappoint practically all of the officials who were withdrawn upon the outbreak of war.

Instructions will be given to the consuls to do everything in their power to promote cordial relations between Spain and the United States, and especially to devote their attention to re-establishing satisfactory trade relations.

BAR IRON TRUST.

Cincinnati, March 20.—A Muncie, Ind., special to the Times Star says: A $15,000,000 trust of the bar iron manufacturers of the country will soon be completed by George M. Bard, which will bring almost all bar iron plants under the same management. Mr. Bard has already secured options on a great per cent of the manufactories. Mr. Bard is general manager of the Indiana Iron works of this city.

TO BE MUSTERED OUT.

Washington, March 20.—The Second Illinois volunteer infantry and the One Hundred and Sixty-first Indiana volunteers have been ordered from Pennsylvania to be mustered out.

WAS HE BRIBED?

Attorney General Monnett of Ohio Urged to Expose the Villain.

ROAST BY LAWYERS

The Standard Oil Attorneys Insinuate That He Is a Fakir.

New York, March 20.—Upon the arrival of the interested parties in the Standard Oil company hearing at the Hoffman house it was decided to take no testimony today. It was agreed to have a hearing in the case of the State of Ohio against the Buckeye Pipe company, a branch of the Standard Oil company, in the office of Mr. Mills, acting as commissioner of the state.

Messrs. Elliott and Kline, counsel for the Standard Oil company, sent a letter to Attorney General Monnett of Ohio today demanding that he make public the name of the men who offered him a bribe to discontinue his fight. This is the letter:

"Hon. F. S. Monnett, Attorney General of Ohio: On March 4, George Rice announced to the public press that a bribe of $500,000, less $100,000 commission, had been offered you to induce you to stop or delay proceedings against the Standard Oil company now pending in the supreme court of Ohio.

"You are reported to have denied entirely, at Toledo, the Rice story, but by the time you arrived at Columbus, the same day, you concluded that the story was true and, accordingly, in various newspapers on the morning of March 5, you made a statement that the Standard Oil company, through some 'friend of yours,' had offered you $400,000 to influence your action with respect to cases pending against it and other companies in the supreme court of Ohio. Reputable newspapers of the state, notably the Cleveland Leader, the Toledo Blade and the Ohio State Journal, have called upon you to disclose the name of the 'friend' who thus corruptly approached you.

"You are reported in the Cleveland Plain Dealer of March 7 as saying that 'if you were to give out the name of your friend, half a dozen departments would be after him at once, and it might be they could force or persuade him to keep his mouth shut.' You do not seem to realize that the reason given by you for refusing to disclose the name of your friend is an admission that the company does not know the name of the party whom you say was commissioned to offer you $400 000 and therefore, you must know that the alleged friend made the offer to you without the authority or knowledge of the Standard Oil company.

"In the New York World of March 9 you are reported as saying that you had written the friend who tried to bribe you that 'you would not expose him until the public interest demanded it.'

"In another interview in the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune of March 6 you are reported as saying that 'your friend had agreed to protect you.' The arrangement for protection, therefore, seems to be mutual.

"So far as your statements connect the Standard Oil company with any attempt to bribe you they are totally false. You have the names, or claim to have, not only of the friend who approached you, but also of others acting with him, because on March 14 you said in the public press that these men were telegraphing you from New York.

"While nothing in your story had directly connected the Standard Oil company with the attempted bribery, you have desired the public to assume said connection. We now demand that you give the name or names of the persons who made such an offer to you, claiming to represent the Standard Oil company, that we may take steps to quiet this last and most vicious of the many false and sensational stories to which you have given currency.

M. F. ELLIOTT,
VIRGIL P. KLINE,
Attorneys for the Standard Oil Company.

FALL IN TEMPERATURE.

The Wheat of Kansas Helped By a Rainfall.

Kansas City, March 20.—A considerable fall in the temperature, accompanied by snow in some places, in others by rain, has been experienced in Southern Kansas and Missouri within the past twenty-four hours. In the vicinity of Cherryvale, Kan., about two inches of rain fell and the wheat will be helped materially. No specific reports of damage to spring wheat by the cold have been received. The local weather bureau today reports "a very low pressure developing in the extreme southwest." The temperature in Kansas City this morning was 22 degrees above freezing.

FIRE IN A HOTEL.

The Brooklawn Hotel at Cleveland Is Partly Consumed.

Cleveland, March 20.—The Brooklawn hotel, corner of Fairmont street and Euclid avenue, was partially destroyed by fire shortly after 5 o'clock this morning. Over fifty people were asleep in the building when the fire broke out. A high wind was blowing, and the flames had gained great headway when they were discovered by a policeman. The latter promptly ran through the building awakening the guests. In many cases it was necessary to break in doors in order to arouse the sleepers. A panic ensued, but all the occupants finally escaped without injury. Several women were carried down the fire escapes by firemen. The origin of the fire is unknown. Loss about $100,000.

ENGINEER KILLED.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 20.—The Southwestern limited on the Lake Shore road was wrecked at West Seneca today by an ice-clogged switch. Engineer Henry S. Shattuck was killed and Brakeman George W. Roberts was severely injured. While the passengers were roughly shaken up, none were injured.

TERRIBLE TORNADO

Fourteen Persons Killed and Many More Injured In the South.

FAMILY WIPED OUT

Details of the Storm Show There Were Many Marvelous Escapes.

Birmingham, Ala., March 20.—Additional details of Saturday night's cyclone near Edwardsville were received here late last night. The following is a list of the dead and wounded so far as known: Dead:

Mrs. Coffee, aged 46.
Leila, aged 22.
James, aged 20.
Lulua, aged 18.
Jacob, aged 13.
Deveroe, aged 8.
Dollie, aged 10.
Grover, aged 6.
John, aged 4.
Unknown woman near Heflin.

The wounded: Bessie Coffee, aged 12, daughter of Lewis Coffee, will die; Mrs. Runnells, aged, 75, will die; Myrline Stansell, aged 5, will probably die; Mrs. J. H. Cason, Tom Runnells, Wood Stansell, Andrew Steipan, all seriously hurt; Mary Steipan, Lizzie Runnells, J. H. Cason, Georgia Stansell, Gainesville Stansell, Tosh Stansell, Coleman Stansell, all badly bruised.

Several other people were more or less seriously injured, but their names are not known.

The path of the storm was about 200 yards wide, and it traversed the country for twelve miles, beginning in the northern part of Cleburne county, near Iron City, and moving southwest. Those that saw it say that there was an immense conical cloud, and that it bounded along like a rubber ball, rising at intervals and leaping for several hundred yards without doing any damage. Then when it descended it would pick up houses and crush them to pieces, uproot trees or twist them off level with the ground, and sweep all before it.

Lewis Coffee's residence, a strong double house situated on a little hill, was in the path of the storm. It was swept away and the timbers scattered for a mile. Ten of its eleven occupants were instantly killed. Except the body of the baby, which was found under the ruins of the chimney, the corpses of the victims were carried half a mile, and nine of them were found heaped together. Every body had been stripped of its clothing. One was twisted around a stump and two others were headless.

Beside the body of the father lay Bessie Coffee, the only member of the family not instantly killed. She was unconscious and her arms were around her dead father's neck. She is unable to talk and will die.

In the same neighborhood the residences of J. W. Wilder, J. H. Cason, Andrew Steipan and Ben Stanseli were wrecked and their occupants injured. Near Heflin a white woman, whose name cannot be learned, was instantly killed, and five persons in the same family were hurt. It is estimated that about fifty buildings were destroyed, between twenty and twenty-five persons were injured, and a score of farms devastated.

The storm lost its force just south of Heflin, near which place a dozen buildings were wrecked. The path of the cyclone is a terrible scene of havoc. Timbers of wrecked houses are scattered in every direction. Some were carried high into the air and others were driven deep into the ground. Many head of cattle were killed. One dead cow was found with a shingle driven through her back. But for the fact that the country over which the storm passed is sparsely settled, the loss of life would have been much greater.

There were many marvelous escapes. J. H. Cason and his wife were blown through a window as their house was falling, and after the storm found themselves in a field 100 yards away, both badly hurt. The funeral of the Coffee family occurred yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. The ten bodies, some of them mangled beyond recognition, were buried in one grave.

Several negroes are missing from the visited section.

Another cyclone struck in extreme Northern Alabama, blowing down a number of small dwellings at Hazel Green, and still another visited the southeastern portion of the state, demolishing the little town of Sellers.

AT OTHER POINTS.

Waynesboro, Ga., March 20.—A cyclone passed over Burke county at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. In the vicinity of Waynesboro four people were killed. Several houses were demolished and much damage was done.

There were eleven houses blown down on Walker McCathern's farm, six miles from Waynesboro. One house near town was completely demolished while it was occupied by eight negroes, but they all escaped uninjured.

Iuka, Miss.—A severe tornado passed over this county seven miles south of here at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, blowing down three buildings on the Hodge farm and injuring two persons. The storehouse of John Hastings at Riverton Junction was destroyed and a box car was blown from the track.

NOT SUCCESSFUL.

An Attempt to Reach Imprisoned Miners In Colorado.

Leadville, Col., March 20.—The two men who have been imprisoned in the Bon Air mine for the past ten days have again been disappointed. It had been confidently expected that the rescuing party would reach them last evening, but when the attempt was made to connect the rescue shaft with the level in which the men are it was found unsafe to do so. It will now be necessary to sink about forty feet further, which will take three or four days more. The men are well and in good spirits.

COPPER IN ALASKA.

The Rockefeller Syndicate Alleged to Be Working There.

San Francisco, March 20.—A special from Tacoma says: Immense copper ledges have been discovered on Prince sound, Alaska, between Orca and Valdez, not far from the mouth of Copper river. In one instance glacial action has laid bare a copper ledge 3000 feet long, 4 feet wide, extending from tidewater to back in a high bluff. Near by other copper ledges, though not so favorably exposed, are being opened by men who claim they are working for the Standard Oil syndicate.

An English syndicate is represented there by L. Lewellyn Williams, a mining expert of London, who was ordered thither from Australia.

THE BEEF EMBALMED

Board of Inquiry Finds a Witness Who Rejected the Stuff.

Leavenworth, Kas., March 20.—The army beef court of inquiry concluded the taking of testimony at Fort Leavenworth at noon yesterday, and at 4:35 departed for Chicago where the sessions will be resumed today. The sole witness examined yesterday was Sergt. Edward Mason, Troop A, First United States cavalry, located at Fort Robinson, Neb., who served as regimental commissary sergeant at Lakeland, Fla., and during the Cuban campaign. Sergt. Mason's testimony was probably the most direct that has been adduced since the court left Chicago. The witness declared that meat received at Lakeland for use in his regiment was "undoubtedly chemically treated."

"An agent of Armour & Co.," he further testified, "told me at the time that this meat had been treated with what was called preservaline." Witness had refused to accept the meat.

Sergt. Mason was interrogated individually by each member of the court, and could not be shaken in his testimony.

St. Louis, March 20.—The army beef scandal has reached St. Louis in the shape of a quiet investigation for the purpose of obtaining what available evidence exists for use before the war board of inquiry.

Last week Col. E. A. Garlington, one of the inspector generals, was in the city to see a number of prospective witnesses with the view of ascertaining if their testimony would be material.

It is unofficially announced that the result was more than startling.

Inspector Gen. Garlington paid the city a hasty visit and proceeded to Omaha, where he is said to be engaged in obtaining evidence germane to the points at issue. Friends of Gen. Nelson A. Miles have taken up the work in St. Louis started by Col. Garlington.

Some fifteen or twenty witnesses have been sounded and if rumors are true their testimony will prove highly interesting. Most of these men are ex-soldiers, who can testify from personal experience as to the quality of the beef served to their regiments.

USED BRASS FILINGS.

A Dawson Cheat Turns Out to Be a Notorious Swindler.

Tacoma, Wash., March 20.—The police here say that J. Schwartz, who, according to Dawson advices, has been sentenced to eight years' imprisonment, is the "king of diamond swindlers," who is notorious in Europe and America. The offense for which he is being punished was committed last July in Dawson. He was in the habit of paying his bills with gold dust in which a large percentage of brass filings were mixed and was successful for a long time before his artifice was discovered.

SPAIN WILL PROTEST.

Madrid, March 20.—Senor Silvela, premier and minister of foreign affairs, had a conference yesterday with the French ambassador regarding the liberation of the Spanish prisoners in the hands of the Filipinos. Spain, it is reported, has determined to protest to the civilized world against the attitude of the Americans in hindering the efforts of Gen. Rios, Spanish commander in the Philippines, to liberate the prisoners.

The government will demand a credit for the payment of the interest on the Cuban debt.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Even a brave man shudders at the thought of being torn and rended in the jaws of a ferocious tiger. In every walk of life, from that of the laborer to that of the professional man, there are thousands at the mercy of a tiger more relentless than any found in all India.

That tiger is the dread disease known as consumption. It slays more men and women yearly than there are rain drops in a summer shower. It steals upon its victim with noiseless tread.

There is a sure and certain protection against this deadly disease, and a sure and speedy cure for it, if it is resorted to in time. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This wonderful medicine acts directly on the lungs through the blood, tearing down old, half-dead tissues, building up new and healthy ones, driving out all impurities and disease germs and expanding the lungs and introducing life-giving oxygen into the circulation. It has wonderful curative powers and allays all inflammation of the mucous membranes of the lungs and bronchial tubes. It makes the appetite keen and hearty, the digestion and assimilation perfect, the liver active, the blood pure and rich with the life-giving elements of the food, and the nerves strong and steady. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It has the most marvelous sustaining powers of any known medicine. Thousands who were upon the verge of a premature grave have testified to their recovery through its wonderful virtues. Medicines dealers sell it, and have nothing else "just as good."

When a dealer urges some substitute he's thinking of the larger profit he'll make—not of your welfare.

Dr. Pierce's book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," is a treasure in any family. It contains 1008 pages and 300 illustrations. A copy FREE to every person who will send to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only. For cloth binding, send 31 stamps.

SEEKING REMAINS

Workmen Expected to Reach Bodies In the Windsor Hotel Soon.

WORK OF THIEVES

There Is a Persistent Rumor That Burglars Started the Fire.

New York, March 20.—It is believed that before the day is over the workmen will reach that part of the Windsor hotel ruins where most of the bodies are supposed to be. The work of removing the debris now goes on night and day and much progress is being made. No picks or shovels are allowed the laborers; they remove the debris with their hands. Were the debris taken up by the shovelful, jewelry and other property might thus be thrown unseen into the carts to be cast away among the waste heaps. Whatever is found in this progress is turned over to the police and taken to a little shanty in Fifth avenue, where Roundsman Nugent has established headquarters and a property bureau. Lest the workmen secret about their persons jewelry and other valuables they come across in their labor, they are carefully searched after they stop work and are allowed to leave the fire.

The hotel safe has been found uninjured. It has not been opened.

Miss Helen Gould turned her house into a relief bureau last evening. Four long tables were spread in her kitchen, boilers of coffee were put on the range and all sandwiches were cut in the laundry hall. The men employed at work were invited to stop for refreshments. This act of kindness was thoroughly appreciated by the tired and hungry workmen. Frank Gould was around personally to see that nobody that applied went away unserved.

The damage to the Gould house is about $10,000.

All sorts of theories are current as to the origin of the fire. One very persistent story is that thieves set fire to the hotel to aid them in purposes of robbery.

A SKELETON FOUND.

Some Human Remains Are Taken From the Ruins.

New York, March 20.—The skeleton of a victim of the Windsor hotel fire was found today on the Forty-sixth street side. The remains were in such condition that it was impossible to tell whether they were those of a male or female.

A human foot, with nearly all the flesh still on it, was also discovered at the same spot. A little later the burned bone of a human leg so badly charred that it could not be told whether it was that of a male or female, was taken from the ruins.

Jennie McKenna, reported missing, is at her sister's home on Long Island. She was slightly burned.

A second body has just been found in the debris where the office had been. It, like the first, was burned beyond recognition.

GET A YEAR EACH.

Leader Williams of the Fifteenth Minnesota Rioters Gets Six Years.

Augusta, Ga., March 20.—Six men of the Fifteenth Minnesota regiment have gone from here to St. Francis barracks, Fla. It is understood their sentences were one year each, except in the case of Williams, the ringleader, who got six years. This is not official, however, as Gen. Young, the reviewing authority, has published no orders.

FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

An Anglo-Egyptian expedition will be undertaken next autumn, according to a dispatch from Cairo to the Daily Mail, to finally dispose of the Khalifa Abdullah and the other Dervish leaders in the Soudan.

The pope attended mass yesterday in his private chapel and later received several persons in audience.

The Rev. Dr. Knapp, former principal of Queen's college, N. E., who mysteriously disappeared from his residence in Brighthouse, West Yorkshire, on Jan. 18 last, writes to his friends that he has reached New York in a sailing vessel.

The Temps publishes an interview with Baron von Mohrenheim, former Russian ambassador to France, who now resides at Pau, in which he denounces as a "clumsy invention" the story that he is the real culprit that sold both Russian and military secrets to the German government and that it has been only to avoid a public scandal greater than the Dreyfus affair that he has been unpunished.

An official decree just issued authorizes the school of mines in Paris to accept the gift of $500 offered in February of last year by Dr. Thomas Egleston, emeritus professor of mineralogy and metallurgy of the school of mines, New York.

MUSTERED OUT.

Anniston, Ala., March 20.—The Third Alabama regiment of negroes was mustered out today. Seven companies were paid and sent home yesterday and the remaining companies today. The field hospital has been closed, the patients being transferred to the regimental hospitals. The field hospital equipments and supplies were delivered to the camp quarters and nothing remains at Camp Shipp but the magnificent buildings in charge of a hospital steward and two privates. There were twelve patients in the Third Alabama hospital and they were carried to Fort McPherson. The mustering out of the Third Alabama will leave only eight companies of the Second infantry and they will go to Savannah during the week.

HISTORIC GAVEL.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 20.—Secretary of the Navy Long has sent Congressman T. E. Burton a gavel to be sent General Passenger Agent A. J. Smith of the Lake Shore road to be given to the president of the Passenger Agents' association. The gavel is made of part of the Spanish lumbard Sandoval, and the handle is a piece of the old Kearsarge.

SENTRY FIRED UPON

Paris, March 20.—The Journal today says that a sentinel stationed at the Beaumont tower, near Toulon, was fired on last evening, the bullet penetrating his cap. The sentry replied to the shot but his assailant fled. An inquiry into the affair has been instituted.

A Letter to Mrs. Pinkham Brought Health to Mrs. Archambo.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 42,395]

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—For two years I felt tired and so weak and dizzy that some days I could hardly go around the house. Backache and headache all the time and my food would not digest and had such pains in the womb and troubled with leucorrhœa and kidneys were affected.

"After birth of each child I grew weaker, and hearing so much of the good you had done, I wrote to you and have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one box of Lozenges, one box of Liver Pills, one package of Sanative Wash, and today I am feeling as well as I ever did. When I get up in the morning I feel as fresh as I did when a girl and eat and sleep well and do all of my work. If ever I feel weak again shall know where to get my strength. I know your medicine cured me."—MRS. SALINA ARCHAMBO, CHARLEMONT, MASS.

The present Mrs. Pinkham's experience in treating female ills is unparalleled; for years she worked side by side with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and for sometime past has had sole charge of the correspondence department of her great business, treating by letter as many as a hundred thousand ailing women a year. All women who suffer are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice, which will be promptly given without charge.

A RIOT IN HAVANA.

The Police Force and Cuban Citizens Fight In the Streets.

Havana, March 20.—A serious conflict between the police and people of Havana Saturday night resulted in much shooting and clubbing. From thirty to fifty people were wounded, some seriously. Among the injured is Police Capt. Estampes, formerly a colonel in the Cuban army.

Ever since the police interference about a week ago with the demonstration in honor of Gen. Maximo Gomez, the police have been unpopular with the populace, who jeer at them and declare them inefficient. Certain newspapers let no opportunity escape to criticise the force, denouncing the arrests as unfair and charging the police with trampling on the rights of a free people. The police are virtually in the position of men that have to make the people fear them in order to gain obedience, as they have no record to fall back on for examples.

Last night's trouble occurred at a public mulatto ball in San Jose street, an unsavory quarter of Havana. Many Cuban officers, colonels and captains among them, attended the affair. A policeman on duty in that street, following orders to prevent a crowd collecting in front of the building where the ball was in progress asked a group of men to go in or disperse. His request was unheeded and after repeating it, he was attacked by the group, whereupon many men, issuing from the building, set on him, took away his club and revolver and handled him roughly.

The policeman immediately notified headquarters, who ordered twenty reserves to the scene of trouble. The crowd had prepared for their arrival. It is said they opened with a revolver fire on the police, which the latter returned. The shooting was kept up until the ammunition was exhausted. The opponents of the police acted with determination in the affray. Many that were in the building mounted to the roof, which is comparatively low, and fired on the policemen from that point. They were apparently well armed and this fact, together with the resolution with which they fought, seems to confirm the belief that the attacking party was mostly made up of Cuban officers, as ordinary civilians would have fled from the revolvers of the police.

Many women were wounded. A report is in circulation this evening that two of the injured civilians have succumbed to their wounds, but this is not confirmed. Among those seriously hurt are Policemen Jovita Arroz, Enrique Munoz and Benigue Vasquez and Civilians Jose Domingues, Etouo Goliana, Alberto Alcja and Irene Roque.

Public opinion respecting the police is conflicting. Some support them and others charge them with interfering with the rights of the people.

American troops were called to the scene when the trouble was over and numerous arrests followed. Police Capt. Estampes, who is well known in Cuban military circles, is so badly injured that fears are entertained that he will not recover.

SATURDAY'S BATTLE.

The Government Receives Gen. Otis' Official Report Thereon.

Washington, March 20.—The war department yesterday received the following dispatch from Maj. Gen. Otis regarding operations against the insurgents:

Manilla, March 19.—Our improvised gunboats, under Capt. Grant, Utah artillery, have full possession of Laguna de Bay. Troops and inhabitants on shore at our mercy. Wheaton brigade on Pasig river line drove enemy northeast into province of Morong. Last evening enemy attacked portion of his force south of Pasig, killing two men and wounding twenty of the Twenty-second infantry. This morning Wheaton moved against this insurgent force, driving it to the south fifteen miles, experiencing very slight loss. Enemy left 200 dead on field. OTIS.

GEN REYES A COWARD.

Opinion of an American Participant In the Revolution.

Savannah, Ga., March 20.—J. H. Cutting, formerly of Boston, has arrived here from Nicaragua. He was a lieutenant of the Rama Rifles in the Central Nicaraguan revolution under Reyes. Cutting says the revolution would certainly have succeeded but for the arrant cowardice of Reyes and other leaders.

He says the taxation in Nicaragua is unbearable and that the American mine owners and operatives think another revolution is but a matter of time.

KRUGER SPEAKS.

Pretoria, March 20.—President Kruger, in an important speech at Heidelberg on Friday, emphasized the necessity of the state retaining the dynamite monopoly, because, he argued, as the South African republic is an inland state, in the event of trouble with any of the powers, supplies of explosives might otherwise suddenly be cut off. Where would we be then? he exclaimed. He announced his intention to modify the mining laws and to reduce the period entitling an applicant to full burghership for one to nine years residence.

ALASKAN LINE ROW.

No Troops Will Be Sent For Fear of Offending England.

New York, March 20.—Despite the representations of this government respecting the encroachments of subjects of Great Britain upon Alaskan territory and of the danger of a clash between them and American miners, the Salisbury government has made no satisfactory reply. It is the expectation of well informed officials that the Alaskan boundary question will be seriously discussed between the United States and Great Britain during the coming months. It is believed by the administration that if the boundary were well defined there would be no danger of trouble, but the lack of definite knowledge concerning the location of the line gives the Canadians opportunity to encroach on American territory, and to Americans to retaliate by encroaching on Canadian territory. Where the land is valuable on account of the presence of gold trouble is likely to arise.

Some consideration has been given to the advisability of sending troops to the district in dispute, but this might be objectionable to Great Britain, and also be provocative of trouble, and none will be sent.

It is thought the British government will try to hold the matter open until the joint high commission assembles after the elections have been held in Canada, with a view to obtaining the concession of a port in Alaska in exchange for concessions to the United States.

INDIANS MUST SIGN.

No Warrants Will Be Paid Unless Indorsed By Original Owners.

Washington, March 20.—No Indian warrants will be paid unless indorsed by the original owners. This decision was rendered today by the comptroller of the treasury. It has been the practice of the Indians to transfer their warrants without indorsement, and up to the present time such warrants have been honored by the disbursing officers.

The decision rendered today refers particularly to the Indians of the Cherokee nation, but it also applies to all Indians with whom the government officials have transactions. The decision was rendered in answer to a question from the secretary of the interior as to whether the disbursing officers had authority to pay warrants of the Cherokee nation when presented by lawful owners other than the payee, although not indorsed by the payee.

The comptroller says the practice of transferring warrants without indorsement from one to another has become a custom with the Indians. He says it is a direct violation of the law and not according to good business principles. The warrants upon the face are made payable to the order of the payee, says the comptroller, and the indorsement of the payee is essential to transfer. Indorsements must be secured from the original owners, or such warrants will not be paid.

This decision will affect the speculators who prey upon the Indians. This class of men among all the Indian tribes make a regular business of buying up government warrants. They get the paper at a discount and realize large profits. They contend that the practice has become an established custom among the Indians, and should be permitted to stand. The comptroller of the treasury says the law will be enforced.

THE MESABA RANGE.

Sparta, March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Genoa mine is now hoisting on well armed and this fact, together with the resolution with which they fought, seems to confirm the belief that the attacking party was mostly made up of Cuban officers, as ordinary civilians would have fled from the revolvers of the police.

Many women were wounded. A report is in circulation this evening that two of the injured civilians have succumbed to their wounds, but this is not confirmed. Among those seriously hurt are Policemen Jovita Arroz, Enrique Munoz and Benigue Vasquez and Civilians Jose Domingues, Etouo Goliana, Alberto Alcja and Irene Roque.

Public opinion respecting the police is conflicting. Some support them and others charge them with interfering with the rights of the people.

American troops were called to the scene when the trouble was over and numerous arrests followed. Police Capt. Estampes, who is well known in Cuban military circles, is so badly injured that fears are entertained that he will not recover.

SATURDAY'S BATTLE.

The Government Receives Gen. Otis' Official Report Thereon.

Washington, March 20.—The war department yesterday received the following dispatch from Maj. Gen. Otis regarding operations against the insurgents:

Manilla, March 19.—Our improvised gunboats, under Capt. Grant, Utah artillery, have full possession of Laguna de Bay. Troops and inhabitants on shore at our mercy. Wheaton brigade on Pasig river line drove enemy northeast into province of Morong. Last evening enemy attacked portion of his force south of Pasig, killing two men and wounding twenty of the Twenty-second infantry. This morning Wheaton moved against this insurgent force, driving it to the south fifteen miles, experiencing very slight loss. Enemy left 200 dead on field. OTIS.

GEN REYES A COWARD.

Opinion of an American Participant In the Revolution.

Savannah, Ga., March 20.—J. H. Cutting, formerly of Boston, has arrived here from Nicaragua. He was a lieutenant of the Rama Rifles in the Central Nicaraguan revolution under Reyes. Cutting says the revolution would certainly have succeeded but for the arrant cowardice of Reyes and other leaders.

He says the taxation in Nicaragua is unbearable and that the American mine owners and operatives think another revolution is but a matter of time.

ADVANCE IN WHEAT

Market Was Firm and Active and the News Quite Bullish.

THE CABLES HIGHER

Prospect of Another Cold Wave In the Winter Wheat Districts.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 20.—The wheat market started out firm at better prices. The sentiment was more bullish than of late. The cables were very encouraging, Liverpool reporting a steady market and advances of ½@⅝d. There was also a prospect of another cold wave in the winter wheat areas, and the bulls had visions of more damage to the crop. They were also given comfort by the crop summary issued by Snow, who indicated a lower wheat condition than has been stated by the other reports. The world's shipments were about the same as last year, but the Northwest receipts were large and disappointed those who have been expecting farmers to hold their wheat for a rise in prices. There were indications of a small decrease in the visible supply, which had a strengthening effect. The close showed a net advance of ¾c for the day on the May option here and ⅝@¾c advance at Chicago. May closed both at Duluth and Chicago at the same figures.

Trading in futures was quite active on the Duluth board. May wheat opened ⅛c up at 67⅞c, sold at 68c at 9:31 and then fluctuated between 68c and 68¼c during the morning except once, at 10:40, when it touched 68⅜c. It sold at 68c at 12 o'clock and closed at 67⅞c, or ¾c higher than Saturday. There was a fair amount of cash business, [illegible] bus being sold, at 1½c under May for wheat to arrive and 1¾c [illegible] for spot stuff. Oats and flax each advanced ½c, corn gained ⅝c, rye sold [illegible], while barley was unchanged. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 69⅞c; March, [illegible]; May, 69⅞c; July, 70⅜c. No. 1 northern, cash, 66⅞c; March, 66⅞c; May, [illegible]; July, 68⅜c. No. 2 northern, 62⅞c. No. 3 spring, [illegible]c. ON THE CHICAGO BOARD.

Snow's Crop Summary Shows a Low Condition of Wheat.

Chicago, March 20.—Wheat opened firm today, helped by the better tone of cables and prospects of another cold wave in the winter wheat sections. Another strengthening influence was Snow's crop summary, which indicated a lower wheat condition than any of the other reports which have been issued. May opened ⅜c higher at 67⅝@68c and as shorts were inclined to work on the long side the price advanced to 68¼@⅜c. The world's shipments amounted to 7,018,000 bus, compared with 6,658,000 bus for the same week last year. Northwest receipts were large, 639 carloads against 473 for the corresponding day a year ago. Chicago received but 41 cars, of which only 2 graded contract. Liverpool stocks showed a decrease for the week and returns of that stock pointed toward a small decrease in the visible supply. At 68⅛c for May some scattered selling set in and the price slipped off [illegible] to 68c.

Light receipts and higher cables strengthened corn. The most of the business transacted was in the way of changing from May to July. Receipts were 299 cars. May opened a shade higher at 34⅛c and rose to 34⅜@½c.

Light offerings and scattered buying by commission houses helped oats. Receipts [illegible] cars. May began ⅛c higher at 26, rose [illegible] and reacted to 25¾@⅞c.

Liberal receipts of hogs at the yards weakened provisions. Packers sold moderately with lard and ribs. May pork opened at $9.02½@9.05 and sold off to $8.85. May lard began a shade higher at $5.22½ and declined $5.25@5.27½. May ribs started a shade better at $4.67½@4.70 and weakened to $4.65.

Close: Wheat, May, 67⅝c; July, 67¼c.

Prices Started In Higher But Broke Down Later.

New York, March 20.—The cotton market opened steady with prices unchanged to six points higher and during the first few minutes showed signs of further improving on fair buying orders. This was followed by a sharp reaction of weakness under generous unloading of old long stuff and pounding by the bear crowd started by late cables and rumors of softness in Southern spot markets. The liquidating movement was led by Wall street commission houses, the bulk of the cotton sold being for May and August delivery. On the first break May sold from $6.02 down to $5.97, August from $6.07 to $6.03, October from $6.01 to $5.98 and January from $6.07 to $6.02. Liverpool and the local shorts were the principal buyers. Throughout the forenoon trading was spasmodically active and general.

Spot cotton quiet, closed ⅛c lower; sales, 525 bales. Cotton futures closed steady. March, $5.85; April, $5.84; May, $5.86; June, $5.91; July and August, $5.95; September, $5.91; October, $5.90; November, $5.88; December, $5.93; January, $5.96.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, March 20.—We have had just such a wheat market today as might be expected after the break of last week and the evening up of the trade that it resulted from. Wheat opened at 68¼c with good size buying orders filled at this price and at 68⅛c, which gave the market a pretty good start, May selling up to 68½c. When the price here was 68¼c San Francisco wired that their market was 65½c for May wheat, while this naturally would not have any effect here it led to considerable professional selling which started the decline and carried May to 67⅝c, closing at 67⅞c. People in a position to know as much about the winter wheat crop as anyone else don't take much stock in damage reports and have been selling wheat on the strong places today. Liverpool was stronger, closing ⅛@⅜d higher than Saturday. The visible supply showed an increase of 193,000 bus against a decrease of 908,000 bus last year. Clearances small; world's shipments, 7,750,000 bus. It looks as though it would take some little time for the market to establish a definite course either way. We are inclined to think it will be a scalping market for a while. Warmer weather and rain predicted for the winter wheat belt tomorrow. Minneapolis market was firm, cash wheat reported in good demand with a premium over May.

Corn was firm and closes ⅛c higher than Saturday. Sort of demand and supply market now with both small. Liverpool higher, closed ⅛c higher than Saturday. The visible supply decreased 567,000 bus against an increase of 741,000 last year. This was some help to the market. May sold at 34⅜c and closed at 34⅜c.

Oats firm. May closed at 25⅞c. It is not a large market and on the advance there was considerable selling for local account.

Provisions continue to drag and close lower tonight than they have since the recent advance. A sagging market with more or less liquidation all the time. Nobody to buy product except packers who already had it sold. Receipts of hogs in the West were larger than last year, 61,-800 against 43,300.

Puts, May wheat, 67⅜@67⅛c.
Calls, May wheat, 68⅜-½@68½ asked.
Curb, May wheat, 67⅞c.
Puts, May corn, 34¼c.
Calls, May corn, 34½c.

THE COPPER STOCKS.

Boston, March 20.—Closing prices on copper shares: Adventure, 13½@14; Arcadian, 81 bid; Atlantic, 31½@32½; Ashbed, 16@2; Baltic, 27½@28; Montana, 360@365; Butte, 88@89; Calumet & Hecla, 735@745; Centennial, 44¾@½; Franklin, 24½@25 1-3; Humboldt, 2@1½; Osceola, 90@91; Quincy, 165@162; Mohawk, 30¾@1½; Rhode Island, 12¾@13⅛; Tamarack, 225@230; Old Colony, 16¾; Wolverine, 46½@47; Washington, 2¼@¾; Winona, 17@½; Isle Royale, 65@70; Gold Coin, 1; Parrott, 44½@45.

In relation to the recent slump in the prices of copper stocks the Boston Transcript says:

"It may not be due entirely to the decline in copper in London, but certainly the street feels that the high prices of the metal for 1899 have been reached, and there is no more figuring on prospects at an 18 cents per pound market. This kind of figuring always has been misleading. In the early months of the year when consumers are in the market the price of the metal is apt to advance according as supply and demand turn the market in consumers' or in producers' favor. This year the great expansion of industry came at a time when stocks of the metal were low, particularly abroad, and the advance to 18 cents per pound here was natural. Now that the consumers have filled their needs, at least for a good part of 1899, the urgent demand for copper at home eases, and coincident therewith, and in the face of the highly favorable statistical position abroad—favorable from the producers' standpoint—the price of copper comes down some £10 per ton, equivalent to about 2 cents per pound, but copper here has receded no more than ½ cent from its highest, and hardly can be quoted under 17½ cents now. That is 4 cents higher than at the end of 1898, however. The presumption is that the element of speculation enters far more into London quotations than here, when declines equivalent, roughly, to ½ a cent per pound are recorded daily. That other considerations than actual supply and demand are operative in the foreign copper market would seem evident.

"However, this steady recession in London, from £76 at the end of February to £66 in a little over two weeks has its influence on holders of copper shares, particularly in those which have led this year's remarkable "boom," and the haste to liquidate is quite noticeable. This may be brushed away by the street, or that part of it interested in prolonging the booming of prospects on something more or less indefinite that is going to happen sometime, but it does not alter the fact to attribute current weakness to "light-waisted" holders. The fact is that many speculators in copper stocks took on a heavier load than they could carry; they rushed indiscriminately into anything and everything offered for subscription, with the idea that once started the "boom" would go on indefinitely. Repeated demonstrations of staying power and of strong support, at least in certain stocks, strengthened this idea that all rules in stock market speculation were rescinded and that the millennium had come when a perpetual bull market was to prevail. This sort of thing was encouraged by the "combine" talk; everybody felt that his particular prospect might be taken in, and even if it were not that the trust would maintain a price for copper which would insure golden, rather than cupriferous profits world without end. The situation came dangerous; the market, in short, was overbought, just as it has been in Wall street.

"Now comes in the sensible determination of commission houses to check this dangerous business, and the result of the enforcing of more rigorous rules against margin transactions of course reduces the buying power. The market hesitates, paper profits suddenly look big and worth garnering; old ideas about the bird in the hand and his comparative value again do duty, and the very natural result is seen in free selling and a reaction. The sharp recession in Calumet & Hecla after its last dividend declaration showed that even the investment side of the copper business could be overdone; there is some difference between $710 and $895, even deducting the $10 dividend. Now if the business were overdone in the best of them all, how about some of the "prospects" which never made copper and yet sold up in the vicinity of $100? Reason asserted itself and the market for copper shares is adjusting itself more to facts and less to ideal conditions. The shaking-out process has done the market good; it was sensible and is not to be deplored. An element of danger has been removed and the market will be all the better for it."

NEW YORK STOCKS.

New York, March 20.—The bullish section was in control of the stock market at the opening of business, purchases of the long account being stimulated by the rise in Americans in the London market. As has been recently the case, the specialties were the chief gainers, Sugar opening up eight points higher at 180 and then dropping to 175. Other specialties gained 1 to 2½, except Continental Tobacco, which lost three. The advance in the railway list approximated a point in St. Paul, Union Pacific, common and preferred, and Burlington. Trading in the specialties was on an enormous scale, with fluctuations very sensational. The reported formation of an opposition concern was utilized to hammer Continental Tobacco, which broke 14¾ to 43, and rebounded to 55⅜. American Tobacco yielded 6½ and recovered 9 to 112⅛. The high opening in the general market was taken advantage of by the room traders to unload their stocks on the country buyers. Brooklyn Transit fell 5½ and other stocks suffered 1 to 3. Sugar held steady around 177, but there was no abatement of the pressure against the general market at the end of the first hour.

Notwithstanding the sagging tendency of the general market, the bull manipulation in Sugar was pursued with vigor in the second hour, the price reaching 182 with a subsequent material set back. Some of the other specialties rose in sympathy particularly Manhattan and Brooklyn Transit. Their show of strength, however, was only temporary as the traders made a concerted drive and soon had the whole list tumbling. Offerings of the grangers and standard stocks while not large were persistent and even pressed down. Sales of stocks to noon, 440,[illegible] shares.

Finds Business Good.

B. Silberstein says he never returned from the East feeling so hopeful of the future as at present. "I was in the markets for four weeks and met hundreds of buyers and merchants from all parts of the country who were unanimous in saying that business is better than it has been for years. On every hand you see signs of improvement, one of the most encouraging of which is the general raising of wages throughout the country. One of the largest wholesalers I met said that if all the cheap politicians in this country would only go to Manila we would soon be enjoying life as never before. I showed my faith in our city by purchasing the largest stocks we ever carried as I anticipate a very busy season. Business is now ahead of all past years at this season and you can put it down that Duluth's future is very bright."

TWO BODIES RECOVERED.

New York, March 20.—The bodies found in the Windsor ruins were examined at Bellevue morgue after being taken there in the dead wagon. Body No. 1 is that of a man. The legs, arms and head are missing. Body No. 2 is that of a young woman, badly mangled but partly clothed.

A TRUCE PATCHED UP.

Cleveland, March 20.—The strike of all the molders in this city threatened for today did not take place, the foundrymen granting the 10 per cent increase in wages demanded by the men, to take effect June 1. The molders insist that the advance shall take effect at once. They went to work today under protest. The matter will be laid before the executive board of the molder's national organization.

IMMORTALITY.

Foiled by our fellow-men, depressed, outworn,
We leave the brutal world to take its way,
And, Patience! in another life, we say
The world shall be thrust down, and we up-borne.

And will not, then, the immortal armies scorn,
The world's poor, routed leavings? or will they,
Who failed under the heat of this life's day,
Support the fervors of the heavenly morn?

No, no! the energy of life may be Kept on after the grave, but not begun,
And he who flagged not in the earthly strife,
From strength to strength advancing—only he,
His soul well knit, and all his battles won,
Mounts, and that hardly, to eternal life.
—Mathew Arnold.

THE TRUST CRAZE.

Referring to the dominating effect upon the money market of the pending operations to float the newly organized "industrials," President George G. Williams of the Chemical National bank, of New York, says: "Bank notes have been most affected lately by the floating of new industrial enterprises at inflated valuations. In making these loans practically no cash has been used. The subscribers borrow money to pay for their subscriptions, which causes an increase in the loans of the city banks. This is in turn reflected in the deposit, but there is no relative increase of cash. There will undoubtedly be more discrimination by the banks in loaning money upon industrial shares as collateral. Some of these are dangerous, and, while many of them have shown satisfactory and favorable development, more caution will, I think, be exercised in handling them."

According to the Wall Street News, "industrial" combinations organized during the past two months comprise, in shares and bonds, a capital of no less than $1,106,300,000. To understand what this means, it may be added that in the whole of 1898 such "capital applications"—to use the London phrase—were $916,176,000, or $190,000,000 less than in the two first months of 1899. Yet even the aggregate of 1898 was regarded as abnormal and alarming. This movement represents nothing else than a wild craze among promoters, extending in greater or less degree to manufacturers and investors. It is, of course, wholly inconceivable that such undertakings should be floated on the money market without utterly deranging both ordinary discounts and ordinary investment prices, and it is probable that last week's loan market movement was chiefly or wholly caused by them. If the movement continues at so utterly reckless a pace, and if, as has sometimes seemed probable, the promoters and "underwriters" have resolved to stir up a huge speculation for the rise in the shares of such new concerns, then the remote outlook may be very dangerous.

"It is conceivable," says the News, "that some future Standard oil may be concealed in this bundle of good, bad and indifferent 'industrial organizations;' but the man of sense is well aware that the circumstances of the time and the methods of the reorganizers point with absolute certainty to the existence of more than one potential National Cordage. The New York banks have taken the warning in good time; some of the out-of-town banks have not, and they will eventually suffer for their rashness. If there should come tight money, and there should be an effort made to borrow upon the certificates of some of the trusts which have lately been organized, such as chewing gum, upper leather and collins, you could not borrow a $10 bill upon a bushel basketful of them. They would be like the late Confederate money, only good to look at, but possessing no value."

The fact is that the organization of trusts has been overdone. It is a craze possessing elements of real danger, and some day there is certain to be a big crash.

THE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

A few days ago a bill to change the representation on the state board of equalization was defeated in the house by a large majority. At present the board consists of one member from each judicial district, and Mr. Dwinnell of Hennepin county had a bill to change the representation to three from each congressional district. It is said that the Dwinnell bill was defeated by the country members because they suspected that it was a scheme to secure a large proportion of city members on the board. A Minneapolis paper has heightened this impression by assailing the majority and asserting that, through the action of the state board, the large cities are assessed a greater share of the state taxes than they should bear, owing to the preponderance and jealousy of members from the country. This claim, however, is refuted by the St. Paul Globe, after a careful investigation.

The method of assessing is well known; the primary valuation by the local assessors; the review of their work by the county boards, consisting of the county commissioners and auditors, and the final comparison, rectification and balancing by the state boards. If, says the Globe, there had been the partiality charged upon the state board, it would appear in comparisons of the valuations made by the three bodies. It would show most strongly in a wide difference between the valuations of the local assessors and those made by the state board, for one might expect the local assessors to be careful not to give property in their jurisdiction higher values than were given in other counties.

The large cities are in the counties of Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis. The valuations of property are to be found in the state auditor's biennial reports. Taking real estate as the standard, it being about 80 per cent of the total value, the following comparisons of the valuations of the three separate bodies, in the years 1894, 1896 and 1898, do not seem to bear out the charge of favoritism:

County.	Assessors	County Board.	State Board.
1894—
Hennepin ..	$126,996,345	$131,181,239	$130,194,091
Ramsey ...	114,441,676	114,476,282	114,476,282
St. Louis ..	49,026,917	48,455,388	44,825,666
1896—
Hennepin ..	125,735,558	101,712,851	101,712,851
Ramsey ...	81,901,251	82,469,841	82,469,841
St. Louis ..	38,658,100	41,037,939	38,142,102
1898—
Hennepin ..	98,437,190	98,039,420	98,039,420
Ramsey ...	81,896,288	82,000,509	82,000,509
St. Louis ..	37,228,301	37,824,589	37,338,897

"It will be seen from these figures," concludes the Globe, "that the state board has taken sometimes the assessors' valuations, sometimes the county board's, and sometimes, as in St. Louis county for 1896, made a lower valuation than either the assessors or the county board. The charge is unsustained."

THE GROWTH OF THE WEST.

J. A. Brigham, assistant secretary of agriculture, said at a recent session of the industrial commission that the settlement of the West has been too rapid, that the agricultural products of that section are greater than the demand, and that immigration to it should be rather discouraged than encouraged. Commenting on this statement, the Omaha Bee says it is indisputably true that the settlement of the West has been the most remarkable achievement in the history of the country. An empire larger than the most ambitious dreams of world conquerors of old has been reclaimed from the wilderness, desert places have been made to blossom as the rose, the blessings of civilization, with its attendant consequences of education, religion and material conditions for the betterment of man have all been encompassed in little more than a generation. Would the world, would the West, be better if the process had been slower? There is no reason to think so, says the Bee. If its phenomenal development were founded upon so-called boom conditions there might be some reason to doubt the efficacy and wisdom of such progress. But such is not the case. The boom, to a certain extent, has been a factor and not altogether a deleterious one, in the development of the West, but in the main it has been most solid and substantial. Two causes have accounted for it. Advantages in the West not found elsewhere, and the display of energy and enterprise without a parallel in the world's history. But as much as has been accomplished we have only begun, and instead of requiring a period of cessation the reverse is actually the case.

The products of the West, enormous as they are, are not in excess of the demand, and will not be in years, if ever. The countries of Europe are buying more meats and breadstuffs from us now than ever before, and the indications are that these markets will each year increase. But new markets are being established throughout the world, which for generations to come will require every dollar's worth of the surplus product that the West can produce. South America alone could be made a customer for half the grain produced in the United States, and the possibilities are not so great in that country as in the Orient. The population of the West is sparse, millions of acres of land are ready to yield abundant harvests to skillful husbandry, and there is a market and a profitable one for everything that the farmer can produce.

In view of these facts the Bee contends that there is no necessity for diminution of immigration. We need more people, and will continue to do so until every arable acre of land is under cultivation, and until that time our energies should be directed to encouraging instead of discouraging farmers to settle in the West.

Today we get some Washington reports "on reliable authority" concerning Aguinaldo's government. Since the authority is not given readers will take the statements therein made with a grain of salt. It was said three or four days ago that the war was over all but the shouting, and since that time the insurgents have been fighting more desperately than ever before. Consul Wildman at Hong Kong says he does not expect to live to see the end of the war, and he is probably in a better position to judge than some of the Washington correspondents.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press is now vigorously denouncing the trusts and urging that the protective tariff be removed from all articles controlled by trusts. There is no election near at hand, and this explains the attitude of the leading Republican organ of the state. When the spring of 1900 arrives it will have naught to say against trusts and will be shouting for a higher tariff. This is its usual procedure.

The following note by a social student appears in the Detroit Journal: "We have known a man and woman to marry from mercenary motives and be quite as discourteous to each other as a man and woman married from motives of sentiment."

The Hartford Times says: "The national Republican convention next year will probably be held in the month of June. We think that 'destiny' will land our army in China just about June 1, 1900. But it may happen sooner."

The Detroit Journal grows red in the face when any one says that Secretary Alger intends to resign and asserts that it is a falsehood. But he ought to resign.

Charles A. Pillsbury is spoken of as a Republican candidate for vice president. He certainly has the material to provide the necessary "dough."

Why not have an "open door" between the United States and Canada. There is nothing that would add more to Duluth's trade and commerce.

It is evident that the St. Paul correspondent who compares Representative Roberts of Minneapolis with the late Charles A. Dana in appearance never saw Mr. Dana.

Hibbing has a new weekly paper, the Citizen. The first number was issued last week and makes a very creditable appearance.

FLASHES OF FUN.

Puck: He—I should think theosophy would repel the average woman.

She—And why, pray?

He—Well, a person may know what theosophy is without being able to tell anybody else.

Indianapolis Journal: She—Do you remember how you said, when you were courting me, that if I would marry you I would have nothing to do all my days but sit around and look pretty? And how different it is now!

He—Well, it ain't my fault if you can't look pretty any more.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Here's a benevolent assimilation for you," as the milkman remarked when he shoved the can under the spout of the pump.

Chicago Tribune: "I notice a coolness between you and Mrs. Nexdore. What is the trouble?

"She sent her little boy over yesterday for a stepladder we borrowed of her two years ago. The artful woman let it stay here all that time so she could send for it some day and make me feel cheap."

Washington Star: "That, sir," exclaimed the indignant merchant, "is what I call a gratuitous falsehood."

"It's nothing of the kind," replied the unscrupulous salesman. "I get a salary and a commission for telling that falsehood."

Philadelphia North American: "Now," said the beef examiner, "how did the beef strike you?"

"Flat in the stummick," replied the high private, sententiously.

Somerville Journal: When some people move, they save up two weeks' washing before they make the change, so as to make an impression in the new place on the neighbors.

Detroit Journal: The woman did not believe in the occult.

"Now, I propose to test this clairvoyant," she was saying. "I shall send her a lock of my hair, as she directs, with some question which nobod. but myself can possibly answer. Let me see, what can I ask her?"

The man laughed hoarsely.

"Ask her what is the real color of the hair!" he urged.

SIGNIFICANCE OF IT.

"The peaches are all frozen!"
The peach men loudly shout—
So the bottoms of the baskets will
Be rather thick, no doubt.

And as for the gauze stretcher over these
We cannot help but think
That they will more than ever be
A dense and umbrous pink.
—Detroit Journal.

The Hoggish Twins.

Litchfield News: Now that St. Paul has landed the census directorship for William R. Merriam, Minneapolis is up in arms for William Grimshaw for United States marshal. Did you ever notice that when there are a couple of big hogs in the pen the smaller ones have to stand back and content themselves with licking the trough after the big fellows have filled themselves up. Regardless of which party is on top, the political map of Minnesota seems to take in only Ramsey and Hennepin counties when it comes to fat government appointments. It seems to us as though occasionally a nubbin ought to be thrown within reach of the country shotes in order that at least they might keep up a healthy growth.

A Good Appointment.

Anoka Herald: President McKinley has appointed Reuben Smith, of Duluth, late of the Fourteenth Minnesota regiment, second lieutenant in the regular army. Mr. Smith was the hardest working and most conscientious officer in the regiment, and his promotion is certainly a reward of merit. If all the president's appointments had been as good as this, he would have been spared all the annoying criticism which has assailed him since the beginning of the war.

An Electrostatic Fair.

He was the gallant engineer
Of a giant dynamo;
She sang to the wires the whole day long
With a chorus of "Hello!"

He loved this telephonic maid,
Till his heart's vibrating plate
Was magnetized and polarized
At a milliamperic rate.

His love he well expressed in ohms,
And amperes, or even in volts;
In voltaic phrases and dynamo figures,
Or currents, arc lights and bolts.

Said he: "By the great broken circuit,
Or more, by the Ruhmkorff coil,
Your negative answers will drive me
To some subway under the soil.

"Not a spark of inductive affection,
Not a positive 'Yes' have I had;
I'm afraid the wires have grounded
In favor of some other lad."

Then regret, like a galvanometer,
Or an astatic needle, it smote her,
And she said: "Of love I have tons
As strong as an Edison motor."

So he opened the circuit and clasped her
In arm-ature, and held her there;
And she was the belle electric
Of this thermo-electric pair.
—Hardware.

The Best Governor Yet.

St. Paul Broadaxe: It is admitted on all sides, that John Lind is making the best governor Minnesota ever had. Careful, conscientious and deliberate in the minutest details, he cannot help but administer the affairs of state in a manner that will win the admiration of not only his friends but those who are politically opposed to him.

A Change Needed.

Cloquet Pine Knot: In an article in last week's Duluth Herald, revelations of beef packers' methods are made that are enough to make a man solemnly swear to never eat anything but home-grown beef again. And although we possess every requisite for stockraising, there is more packing house beef used in Carlton county than any other kind.

Bede's Congressional Rec.

Chisago County News: "Bede would be a mere pigmy in comparison with Morris. Bede is a very interesting stump speaker from a humorous standpoint only. If he should ever rise above that he would be out of his sphere. He is a good fellow personally and makes his budget quite interesting. He should stick to that, for as a statesman he would be a distinct failure.

UPPER MICHIGAN.

Latest Gossip Concerning the Copper Mines, New and Old.

The preliminary organization of the Arctic Copper Mining company has been formed and articles of association filed at Lansing. The capital will be $2,500,000, divided into 100,000 shares of a par value of $25 each. The officers of the preliminary organization are: President, Ralph M. Dyar; secretary, A. B. Thomas; treasurer, F. J. Thomas. The above gentlemen, with George M. West and F. W. Delano, comprise the board of directors. Mr. Delano, who is a Detroit broker, was the purchaser of the property, and rumor has it that Stackpole & Gay will be the new company's financiers. The correspondent of the Marquette Journal says that the history of the Beit is one of mismanagement on a scale scarcely ever equalled. It includes within its limits a number of small properties that were grouped and sold to English capitalists. Money was expended on surface with a lavish hand until the equipment was a model one, but the development of the mine was a secondary consideration, and now this is made easy for the new company. Developments at the Arctic will be looked forward to with interest.

The capital stock of the Tecumseh has been increased to 100,000 shares of a par value of $25 each. Twenty thousand shares will remain in the treasury, and the thorough development of the Osceola lode is now insured. The company intends sinking another shaft with the advent of spring. Stockholders of record at the close of business March 4 are entitled to take and pay for at $8 per share one share of new stock for every one of the old issue held on that date. The company will neither buy or sell rights.

The Quincy Mining company has contracted for a steel shaft house for the new No. 7 shaft.

The work of installing the Franklin mill machinery is progressing rapidly and the next four months will see the Franklin, Jr., take its place among the regular producers.

The Arnold mine is at present shipping 200 tons of mineral overland to the Hancock smelters.

Lumber and supplies are being teamed to the Trimountain, where work will commence as soon as accommodations for the workmen are provided.

The Boston brokerage firm of Stackpole & Gay is mentioned as being likely to finance the Arctic Mining company, the new corporation being organized to operate the Beit group of mines.

The statement comes from official sources that the Baltic product will not be treated at the Atlantic mill until there is sufficient ground opened that the rock might be properly selected. This is as it should be.

It is now about definitely settled that the Copper Range railroad will enter Houghton via the West End of the village, coming down near Cole's creek. The company has secured excellent locations for dock and yard facilities.

Calumet—The much-talked-of new opera house for Calumet is now an assured thing. The contracts have been let for the stone and work. Paul P. Roehm, of this city, has been awarded the contract for the stonework, and Bajarl & Ulseth, also of this city, the woodwork. The bids for both were $19,000 and $17,000 respectively. There were a number of contractors who bid on the work, and the council decided to give the work to home firms. Work will be commenced as soon as the snow is off the ground.

Henry Peterson attempted to alight from a passenger train at the crossing near the Osceola depot Saturday evening and fell between the cars and was instantly killed. His body was torn into shreds.

Ishpeming—When it was reported a few days ago that the Mine Workers' union had taken action, the object of which was to compel all the miners hereabouts to join the union, the rumor was not believed in some quarters. It has, however, been officially confirmed in a document emanating from the officials of the union. A communication from them addressed to the miners in general has been posted up and circulated through the city.

Its text, which is self-explanatory, is as follows: "At a mass meeting of union mine workers held March 11, 1899, it was decided by a unanimous vote that an invitation be extended to all mine workers, including surface and underground men, to join their respective unions before April 1, 1899, at which time, if any mine worker is outside of his organization, the unions will take other steps to accomplish this end. The reinstatement fee until April 1 is $1, which, on and after that date, will be $3. The initiation fee will remain $1.

Nervous Wreck.

Dr. Miles' Nervine.

If you have had La Grippe, you can realize something of the suffering endured by its thousands of victims every year. You know perhaps, how it tears and strains at your spinal column; how it twists your neck and fairly seems to split your head wide open. You know how it seizes you with a vice-like grasp, whirls you up into the black cloud of a nervous cyclone—then suddenly lets you go and you fall back bruised and wounded when the storm is over. Perhaps you also know that Dr. Miles' Nervine will kill La Grippe—that it is a wonderful healer and will close up the lacerated wounds and revive the vanquished spirits. Thousands of unfortunate victims have found in that great nerve food and tonic just the medicine needed to repair the injuries inflicted by the modern scourge, La Grippe. If you don't need it tell your friends about it. It will help them.

J. M. Allison, 54 Tacoma avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. He writes: "In January, 1892, I was taken with a very severe case of La Grippe which hung on for five long weeks, and as a result I was left in a very weak condition. My nervous system was affected to such an extent that I could not sleep at night, and I was restless at all times. As my physicians were unable to relieve my suffering, I decided to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. After using one bottle I began to sleep at night, and my sleep was quiet and restful. As I continued the use of the medicine my nerves steadied up, the "crazy feelings" left my head, and I have not been troubled with them since. Dr. Miles' Nervine did more for me than all the doctor's medicine I ever took."

Another victim of La Grippe writes as follows: "I had an attack of La Grippe which left me in a fearful condition. I lost all appetite for food, was troubled with a fluttering sensation of my heart and my nerves were so shattered that it was almost impossible to obtain sleep or even to lie down. The doctors did all they could for me and finally told me that I could not live more than three weeks. I then commenced taking Dr. Miles Restorative Nervine together with Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and in less than two days I was able to go to bed and sleep soundly all night. I continued to improve steadily until my old strength and vigor had returned to me, and now I feel as if I had been made a new man. My gratitude for the benefit I have received from these wonderful medicines is unbounded, and I never cease to sound their praises, whenever and wherever opportunity occurs.

"WHAT HAPPENED TO JONES."

Saturday evening George Broadhurst's farce, "What Happened to Jones," was presented at the Lyceum. The theater was packed to the doors and even standing room was sold in liberal quantities.

The farce is a very clever one. It is very much like "My Friend from India," but much better. There is less of the ridiculously improbable in its story than in the story of the latter. The aim of a farce is, of course, to make fun, and this is uproariously funny.

Of the production given the farce it can only be said to have been fair. It was neither very bad nor was it very good. It was not such a performance as Duluth ought to have had and such as the size of the audience deserved. The time was when this city occasionally had productions by casts which played the largest cities, and they were always liberally patronized. But for some reason they are very few and far between lately. When a play scores a big success, several companies are sent out to do the country. Duluth almost invariably gets the second and third class. It may be claimed that Duluth does not give sufficient patronage to get the best, but on the other hand, may it not be true that the decline in patronage has come from the offering of inferior productions?

"WHO IS WHO" TONIGHT.

Tonight Kelly & Mason will be seen at the Lyceum in Herbert Hall Winslow's "Who Is Who." When the management of the Kelly & Mason company organized this company for a tour in Winslow's work they soon found that farcical comedy needed vaudeville relief, and they at once interpolated numerous specialty features until they have for the present season one of the merriest, brightest and most tuneful farce comedy attractions before the public. The company numbers over twenty people, and includes such well-known ones as Charles E. Pusey, Charles A. Mason, Harry N. Welch, Bert St. John, Johnnie Le Fevre, Herbert Dillen, Arthur Roche, William Maples, Grace Cummings, Allie Williard, Georgie Tompkins, Louise Gould, Sisters Whiting, Katherine and Metta Miller and Alice Figman.

"THE MIDNIGHT BELL."

Tomorrow and Wednesday evenings Charles Hoyt's "A Midnight Bell" will be seen at the Lyceum. It will be produced by the quaint and favorite comedian L. R. Stockwell and his own company. The piece was written especially for Mr. Stockwell, and he will be seen in the very funny character of "Deacon Tidd," which was created by him ten years ago in San Francisco, where "A Midnight Bell" was first presented. A car of scenery is carried for the production, and the scenes presented are said to be most realistic reproductions, which include the coasting snow slide, the sewing circle, village choir and the old red country school house.

JAMES HEDLEY'S LECTURE.

Wednesday evening Dr. James Hedley will deliver his famous lecture, "The Sunny Side of Life," at the First Methodist church. The Augusta, Ga., Chronicle said of him:

"To hear Dr. Hedley's lecture is to hear music on the wings of words: to see pictures dainty and grand; to smell the odor of flowers; to tread the realms, now of laughter, now of tears, and again of song; to witness tragedy and comedy and above all, to think of right things, and to be lifted to the mountaintops of the loftiest ideals of life and character."

THE DAKOTAS.

A Chance to Make Money In the Stock Raising Business.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Walhalla—The Mountaineer says: "There would be big money for the small capitalist who would go back into the Pembina mountains, where there is little but grazing land that he could get for a small sum of money and go into the stock business. We do not care what branch of it he took up, it would pay. Cattle and sheep are the most profitable perhaps just now, as there is a growing demand for beef cattle that are fattened on North Dakota farms, both here and in the Eastern market, and they are becoming scarce. Butchers are paying about double now what they did three years ago. Investigate for yourself."

Fargo—The state board of pharmacy, composed of Messrs. Haussmann, of Grafton; White, of Jamestown, and Parker, of Lisbon, was in session here three days, and examined fifteen applicants for certificates. Only eight were successful. They are L. J. McPhee, of Minto; H. A. Gallegly, of Dazey; A. P. Lenhart, of Casselton; P. C. Remington, of Bismarck; W. Overom, of Clifford; J. A. Elliott, Fargo; George Draper, of Langdon, and F. J. Johnson, of Drayton.

The members of the agricultural college faculty have been holding a number of farmers' institutes at different points in the state this winter, and have arranged for many more. They will go to any town where a hall is furnished and due notice of the meeting given.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Cartilage—The Chicago & Northwestern train going south Saturday collided with a runaway team near Esmond, instantly killing M. Cary, an old gentleman, and severely injuring Mike O'Harn. Both live in the vicinity of De Smet. A boy in the buggy was thrown seventy-five feet and not injured. O'Hara may recover.

Sioux Falls—Since the defeat of the dispensary bill by the legislature there has been much discussion as to the status of the license law. The question is now settled. Attorney General Pyle being called to give an opinion holds that the dispensary section of the state constitution not having been carried into execution by the statutes, the old law is in full force and the effect would seem clear.

A telegram from Viborg states that excitement runs high there owing to the dismissal of the case against Iver Paulson for the alleged murder of Christopher Nelson, his hired man, and that interesting developments are materializing. The case was dismissed because of insufficient evidence. It is supposed that if Paulson did really commit the crime, he did it for the purpose of securing possession of about $600, which is thought to have been in the murdered man's possession.

Deadwood—It is stated that there were a number of Chicago capitalists ready to put up two or three sugar beet factories in this state had the sugar bounty become a law. The vetoing of the bill has undoubtedly killed the matter off for the present. The experiments made at the Brookings agricultural college on the raising of beets in the different parts of the state have been attracting attention all over the country, and it is stated that plans had gone so far with some of the Eastern capitalists that arrangements were being made to erect a sugar beet factory at Sioux Falls immediately, in case the bounty bill became a law. Other cities which were figuring on a factory were Yermillion, Yankton, Brookings and Aberdeen.

Elk Point—L. W. Garfield, one of the men who fired the jail here, died Saturday night as a result of his injuries and burns. His body will be sent to Mason City, Iowa, for burial.

NEWS BOILED DOWN.

After a careful investigation Maj. Gen. Wood military governor, is convinced that the skeleton found a few days ago tied in an arm chair amid the rocks on the shore about four miles west of El Morro, is the remains of the Spanish admiral, Villamil, who commanded the torpedo boat destroyers Furore and Pluton in the battle which resulted in the destruction of Cervera's squadron.

Thomas Carroll Boone, the telegraph operator in the war balloon in the operations before Santiago, died yesterday at the Massachusetts general hospital, as the result of an operation on a wound received in the fall of the balloon after it had been shot to pieces.

Maj. Gen. Ludlow, military governor of the department of Havana, desires to be relieved of his duty and to go to the Philippines. It is understood that he has applied to the war department for a transfer and has strenuously urged that it be made. He is weary of the details of city administration.

At 1:15 a. m. yesterday the legislature of California adjourned sine die without electing a United States senator to succeed Stephen M. White.

Secretary Alger returned to Washington yesterday from his brief visit to Boston and Montreal. The secretary said he expected to leave Savannah Thursday for a trip to Cuba on the regular trip of the transport Ingalls.

A fatal wreck occurred on the Norfolk & Western railroad at Ada, Va., yesterday morning, killing Fireman Van Landingham, of Roanoke, and a brakeman named E. A. Graham. A tramp was killed.

Mary A. Clarke, aged 51, was beaten to death and her sister, Annie Clark, aged 45, was fatally hurt Saturday night at Bowie, Md., by John Berry, a 15-year-old negro boy, who is in jail for the crime. The dead was a ferocious one. The defenseless women were surprised by the boy and literally beaten to a jelly with a club. Miss Annie Clark saved herself from instant death by promising to give the boy $100 and pledging herself not to betray him.

Dr. Oliver Marcy, dean of Northwestern university, and professor of natural history in that institution, died yesterday at his home in Evanston after a long illness, aged 79. He had been connected with Northwestern university since 1862. Dr. Marcy was a member of a number of scientific societies and was considered an authority on all the natural sciences.

The Relief passed out at Sandy Hook on March 3. She carried a hospital corps of 150 men and seven women, doctors and medical supplies for 25,000 men for a year.

"THE SULTAN'S LION."

The Great Wrestler Prays to Allah for Success.

Al Hah, al Allah! al Hah, Il Allah! There is no God but God."

The chambermaid on the third floor of the St. Louis hotel turned pale, at noon today, and one of the diningroom soubrettes was frightened out of two years' growth by the horrible sounds that came rolling down the corridors like a simoon approaching sandstorm.

Alex Michaud dashed up the stairs and flew to the room of Hali Adali, the "Sultan's Lion." He was fearful that the big Turk had become wedged in the bath tub, or caught in the folding bed, but he soon learned that it was nothing more serious than Hali praying to Allah to crown him with success in his contest with McMillan and Lundin at the Armory tonight.

As there were no muezzins in Duluth to call Hali to noon prayer, and as his watch indicated Eastern time while the hotel clock was Central time, Hali thought he was up against it. But he consulted with the interpreter and they decided to split the difference between Eastern and Central time. So at 11:30 Central time and 12:30 Eastern time, the big Turk retired to his room, and casting himself upon his hands and knees prayed long and loud.

He believed that he was looking toward the Mecca, Mohammed's tomb, but the earth got twisted on him and he was gazing straight toward Cloquet.

"Al Hah, Il allah!" he cried with all the strength of his great lungs.

Al Hah, Il allah! Allah is God; there is no God but God, and Mohammed is his prophet."

If Allah is not very deaf, he must have heard the prayer, and if he did, it is all off with McMillan and Lundin.

Rise In Iron Stocks.

Sales of Lake Superior mining stocks of late have shown steady advances, says the Iron Trade Review. Cleveland Cliffs, Chandler and Lake Superior have been conspicuous in this regard, though in the case of the last named, transactions were stopped by the circulars from the company's officers. The second of these names $40 as the figures at which the officers would receive stock from holders, to be delivered under the option already given on a majority of the stock, but the name of the intending purchaser is not revealed. It is expected that the deal will be definitely closed by April 1. In Cleveland-Cliffs stock $80 has been reached as against $40 in the latter part of 1898. Chandler, since its recent dividend, has gone to $60. Some resales of ore by furnacemen are noted. While the quantities are not large the advances in price are considerable, reaching 50 to 85 cents a ton in certain instances.

ICE ALONG THE LAKES

Condition as Shown By the Weather Bureau's Snow and Ice Chart.

INCREASE AT SAULT

Some Points Show Decrease and Others Increase In Ice Thickness.

The weather bureau has issued another bulletin giving reports of ice at various places on the great lakes. Except at Duluth, the reports seem more sanguine about an early opening of navigation, and while Duluth's forecast is for navigation May 1, the balance of the lake ports expect to have boats running about April 15 to 20. Buffalo, under date of March 11, reports warm weather dissipating the ice rapidly. There is only eight inches of ice in the lake, and some points are clear. Navigation is looked for about April 15. At Cleveland it is reported that the ice has softened only in a slight degree, and navigation is expected to be about a week later than usual. The ice varies from six to twelve inches in thickness. Along the shore from Cleveland to Vermillion there is a strip of ice eight miles in width, while at Fairport the ice extends beyond the limit of vision. Detroit reports the river free from ice. In the west end of Lake Erie ice is reported breaking up and moving about under the influence of wind. The ice is firm about Point Pelee, and there is little slush ice in Lake St. Clair. Port Huron reports lower Lake Huron covered generally by a field of broken ice. The harbors, as a rule, remain tightly closed. Saginaw bay is covered by a continuous body of ice averaging twenty-four inches. St. Clair river continues clear from the lake twenty-two miles southward where an ice jam exists.

Grand Haven, Mich., reports scarcely any ice and prospects for navigation by April 15. Chicago says there is no ice on lower Lake Michigan, and only scattered fragments in the lake. Mackinaw reports no change from last week, when the opening of navigation was fixed at April 15 to 20. The Sault reports ice increased during the week, and while it is of unusual thickness, it is mostly clear and it is thought that warm weather will cause it to disappear much quicker than if composed of alternate layers of snow and clear ice. Navigation is expected to open about April 20. At Marquette the ice is broken up into cakes joined together with three inches of new ice. The ice field extends as far as the sight, and winds have driven the ice that was seen drifting early in the week back to the shore ices. Escanaba reports seven inches of frozen slush on top of the clear ice, with snow very compact. Milwaukee river and harbor are free from ice, but the lake in the straits is still reported thick and navigation is not expected before April 20. The following report comes from Duluth: Harbor ice continues to average thirty inches thick. The ice outside Minnesota Point extends from Minnesota to Wisconsin shores and reaches lakeward as far as one can see, thickness ranging from six to eleven inches. Expected northeasters and cold nights during March and April will doubtless tend to retain outside ice longer than usual, and this combined with present condition of harbor ice, does not favor general navigation resuming much before May 1 next.

SOON TO BE FAMOUS.

Warm Words of Praise For Cyril Tyler, of Duluth.

A recent issue of the New York Dramatic News, in its correspondence, has the following from Minneapolis about a well-known Duluth young man: "The public life of the child prodigy is usually a transient glory. It flashes meteor-like across the professional sky, vanishes and is heard no more. This is particularly true of boy sopranos. No matter how beautiful the voice, or how artistic the method, they are flattered and praised and admired just long enough to impress them with their greatness, and then in the cases out of ten they turn into very ordinary young men. Most people will remember Cyril Tyler, who a few years ago made an artistic success in New York and Eastern cities, but who never received the recognition that his work deserved until he crossed the ocean. In London he sang at the homes of noblemen, he visited Patti at her castle in Wales, he sang for weeks at the Covent Garden promenade concerts and at the Crystal Palace. His name appeared on the same program with the De Reszkes and the most celebrated of the long-haired professionals of the hour. From London he went to Australia, where he met with equal success. Then as he was about to return to this country with the endorsement of London and the antipodes to help him win American dollars his beautiful voice went the way of all boys' voices and he disappeared from public view. This week I saw him for the first time in three years. The little boy, with his long wavy blonde tresses and big thoughtful gray eyes had turned into a big strapping young fellow, who, though he now lives at Duluth, has the air and manner of one who would never be classed with the ordinary youth of small cities. He has always been a creature of impulses and hobbies, his favorite occupation when he was at the height of his professional success was picking locks and making keys. He used to sling Gounod's "Ave Marie" in a manner that suggested that a little angel had come down from the heavenly choir, and two minutes later he was bending over a vise in his dressing room producing anything but musical sounds by means of a file. At present his hobby is bicycling, and his room is ornamented by a gold medal, a silver water pitcher, and several other of the extremely useful articles that reward the victor in sports. The public has not, however, heard the last of Cyril Tyler. Although he is not yet allowed to sing, his voice has developed into a beautiful lyric tenor of more than ordinary compass. He sings E in Alt. with perfect ease, though, of course, with a light head tone, as his voice is not as yet fully developed. In another year he will be much better known in New York than he is in Duluth, and he will probably spend his spare time, and winning hearts instead of water pitchers."

ON BOARD THE SHERIDAN.

William Melby of Duluth Is With the Third Infantry.

William Melby, one of the Duluth boys who enlisted in the Third United States Infantry just before that regiment left for the Philippines, has written to his brother, of this city, a letter which gives an idea of life on a transport. Following are extracts from the letter:

Transport Sheridan.—At last I have another chance of writing you, for we will stop at Port Said tomorrow and all mail will be taken off at that place. You ask me to tell you what we do to pass away the time. Well, that will not be a difficult undertaking as we don't do much of anything except lie around. We left New York Feb. 3 and the first few days out at sea were not very pleasant. Everyone was seasick and you can imagine how it is with 1500 men on board. It is all right now, however, and the regiment is enjoying good health. Our regiment has lost two men from disease and one man from the battalion of the Seventeenth regiment which is on board with us, has fallen overboard. There are some cases of sickness in our hospital, but most of them are suffering from minor ailments. The food is very good and we have even included pie in our menu a few times. I have been promoted to corporal and you can be assured I am very thankful, as the work is so much easier. We get no news to speak of, on board ship, so I scarcely know what is going on in the outside world. We expect to reach Manilla the last of this month and everyone will be happy when that time comes. It took us eight days to traverse the length of the Mediterranean sea and the climate there was delightful. Will write you again when we reach the Isle of Ceylon, which is our next stop. Guard duty on board is not much to speak of as they have but few men on post, most of whom are used in keeping the men confined to certain parts of the boat."

The Sheridan passed Singapore Wednesday and is expected to reach Manilla about March 25."

"One Good Turn Deserves Another."

It is so easy to go through life doing good and helping to make others happy. A lady who had been ill with a complication of troubles, having been thoroughly cured and now enjoying perfect health, felt it a duty to tell her friends that the specific that brought her back to health was Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Thus, after Hood's had served her well, she felt it deserved a good turn at her hands. Thousands tell the same story of blood purified and health restored. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses merit peculiar to itself.

Catarrh—"I suffered over six years with catarrh. Spent over $100 in advertised cures, inhalers etc., without benefit. Finally tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and it accomplished a complete and lasting cure." M. A. ABBEY, Victor Ave., Worcester, Mass.

Gastritis—"Nervousness caused by a fright made my wife suffer intensely from gastritis. Morphine was necessary to relieve the suffering. Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills were tried after all else failed and in four days she improved and in 14 days she was cured." C. W. T. SCHMIDT, Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Blood Poison—"At 12 I had bone disease and used crutches. Doctor prescribed and wanted to scrape it. My grandfather gave me Hood's Sarsaparilla. After taking four bottles I threw away crutches, am well and go to school." CHARLES CAMPBELL, 1816 Ontario Ave., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Dizzy Spells—"After the measles my daughter had dizzy spells, which we thought would pass off but they did not until we gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla. In five days they disappeared and in one month she regained her usual health." B. H. KAMPERBECK, 53 Graves Place, Holland, Mich.

Indigestion—"I now have a good appetite, eat well, sleep well and my dyspepsia and indigestion have left me. The reason is I took Hood's Sarsaparilla which entirely cured me. I am Baggage Master on the B. & O. Railroad." THOMAS COLES, 119 Carr St., Sandusky, Ohio.

SHOULD BE STOPPED

Fleecing of the Woodsmen on the Bowery Getting Too Frequent.

A PLAN IS PROPOSED

Business Man Tells Mayor Truelsen How He Can Stop It.

The annual fleecing of the lambs in Duluth has begun. The "lambs" are the woodsmen who come in from their winter's work with a fair amount of cash in their pockets and a thirst for excitement due to their enforced quiet of the winter in the woods. They are ready to get drunk and have a royal time with anybody whom they think is a friend. The result is well known. Many of them find as the friend a "big mitt" man, as the police term the genus, and they wake up without a cent, and then realize that they have been duped. Sometimes they are simply filled up on booze, and are robbed in their drunken stupor, but at times the thieves, who hold them up, go so far as to administer what the police and "profesh" call "knock out drops."

Several cases have come up within a few days past which indicate that a gang is at work here, working effectually, too. The detectives seem to be working to capture the culprits, but it is no easy task.

The Herald has heard much comment among business men on this subject, and it is not very favorable to the police administration. Some even go so far as to say that the police are winking at the evil, and could very quickly stop it if they chose to do so. The first part of the statement may not be true, but the latter part is. The police can break up this wholesale "big mitt" work, or at least reduce it to the minimum, if they go at it with determination. A business man, talking to The Herald, pointed out the way to do it, and the course he recommends would undoubtedly be effectual.

This man says that Mayor Truelsen should adopt the same tactics which William H. Eustis pursued in Minneapolis when he was mayor. Nearly all of these "big mitt" robberies occur in saloons on the Bowery in Duluth. Both sides of the block, between Fifth and Sixth avenues west on Superior street, are lined with saloons, and it is these places which are frequented by the woodsmen who come in from their winter's work. Here the "big mitt" men conduct their operations. Now when Mr. Eustis became mayor of Minneapolis he was confronted with a similar condition. Men were being robbed constantly in the tough saloons in Minneapolis. What did he do? The first time a case of this kind was brought to him he satisfied himself that the man's story was correct, that he had been robbed, and in a certain saloon. He sent for the proprietor of the saloon. He told him that a robbery had been committed in his saloon, and demanded that he produce the robber or else pay over the money himself. The saloonkeeper demurred and protested his ignorance of the fact that a robbery had been committed, but Mr. Eustis was inexorable. He told the saloonkeeper that his license would be revoked instanter if he did not either produce the robber or pay the money. He announced the policy that saloonkeepers were bound to conduct orderly places, and to know what was going on within their places of business, and that if they did not their licenses would be revoked. The effect was magical. Robberies in saloons were at once reduced to the minimum, and the saloonkeepers found themselves compelled to enforce law and order.

Why cannot this same thing be done in Duluth this business man asks The Herald? The mayor may not have the power to revoke a license, but the council has, and the two together could make it very interesting for any saloonkeeper and his bondsmen who would defy their power. As it is, the robberies not only cause that much less money to be spent with Duluth merchants, but they are giving Duluth a bad name as well.

LABOR BAZAR CLOSES.

Tremendous Crowd Present Saturday Evening—A Fine Entertainment.

The labor bazar ended Saturday night with the banner program and the biggest crowd of the big crowds that have attended every night during the week. The bazar just closed marked a higher notch than that of last year in the number and extent of the exhibits, the range of the entertainment program and the attendance. The crowd present Saturday night numbered in the neighborhood of 4000 people.

The trapeze performance of Mr. and Mrs. Leoni was fine and they won tremendous applause. Miss "Baby" Wells brought down the house with her character songs and negro melodies and Fred Langley called forth plaudits by his clever clog and buck and wing dancing. The concert program rendered by the West Duluth band was a musical treat. The cake walk capped the climax. There were a number of fancy walkers, led by "Shots" Kennebrook and Miss Ida Goneau. Miss "Baby" Wells and "Shots" Kennebrook gave a walk that captured the crowd.

President Kriz and ex-President McEwen of Trades assembly delivered addresses dealing with the labor question generally and locally.

The Duluth Brewing and Malting company gave a large quantity of cut flowers to the ladies, the Consolidated Stamp and Button works distributed a quantity of souvenir buttons. A number of other exhibitors gave away souvenirs.

The bazar was great financial success and, all in all, the members of organized labor are more than pleased.

THIRD SKAT TOURNAMENT.

Julius Jonas Wins First Prize In Duluth-Superior Game.

The third skat tourney between Duluth and West Superior took place yesterday afternoon at Turner hall, here, and everybody seemed to enjoy the affair immensely. West Superior was represented by the following gentlemen: Messrs. Phil Mars, Ed Kamler, Karl Delitsch, Franz Pabst, Felix Schmidt, John Ugan, Albert Reise, William Hiland, Louis Stern, Louis Kopf, H. Abraham and Emil Kochmerl. The Duluth players consisted of Charles Stiehl, H. Sievers, N. Mueller, J. A. Manneim, P. S. Anneke, L. Roos, J. B. Erd, John Gonska, P. C. Schmidt, E. Sattler, A. H. W. Eckstein and Julius Jonas. The first prize, a beautiful sterling silver smoking set, was won by Julius Jonas, of Duluth, with a score of 727 points. The second prize, a silk umbrella, went to Karl Delitsch, with the highest individual score of 112; the third prize, a cigar case, to H. Abraham with a score of 423. The booby prize, a snuff box filled with snuff (so he might keep his head clear), was won by Ed Kamler, all three of West Superior. Refreshments were served at the hall.

There is general talk of forming an interstate skat club, and to foster this great game, which the players claim is superior to any card game in point of interest and science. There are any number of gentlemen who have expressed a desire to study it and become members of the club. The next tournament will take place four weeks from now in West Superior.

A HUNDRED REASONS

Can be given why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best and most effectual cure for every form of indigestion.

They are in the tablet form, which retains their good qualities indefinitely, while liquid preparations become stale and useless with age.

They are convenient, can be carried in the pocket and taken when needed. They are pleasant to take.

After each meal dissolve one or two of them in the mouth, and, mingling with the food, they constitute a perfect digestive, absolutely safe for the most sensitive stomach.

They digest the food before it has time to ferment, thus preventing the formation of gas and keeping the blood pure and free from the poisonous products of fermented, half digested food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the only remedy designed especially for the cure of stomach troubles and nothing else.

One disease, one remedy; the successful physician of today is the specialist; the successful medicine is the medicine prepared especially for one disease.

They increase flesh by digesting flesh-forming foods.

A whole package taken at one time would not hurt one, but would simply be a waste of good material.

Over 6000 men and women in the state of Michigan alone have been cured of indigestion and dyspepsia by the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package.

Company G Meeting.

The members of Company G held a short business meeting at the Armory yesterday afternoon. The order for the reorganization of the Guard issued by the adjutant general was read, and the company was formally notified of Capt. Teare's resignation. The election of officers will probably be held the first Sunday after the issuance of orders therefor from the adjutant general's office.

Thrown From an Engine.

Lorenzo Layborne, a St. Paul & Duluth brakeman, whose home is in Chippewa Falls, Wis., had his skull fractured yesterday morning by a fall from the engine of a freight train on which he was braking, between Carlton and Cloquet. He was brought to Duluth last evening and taken to St. Mary's hospital and attended by Dr. Bagley. The injured man was conscious though in a partially dazed condition this morning, and apparently was not losing strength, but the chances were said to be against his recovery.

Layborne was thrown from the engine by a lurch.

A VERY FINE RECITAL.

Mrs. Emil Schmied's Pupils Delight a Large Audience.

One of the finest pupil recitals ever given in Duluth was that of Mrs. Emil Schmied's pupils, Mrs. R. L. Knebel assisting, Saturday evening at the Congregational church. Every number of the delightful program was a rare treat, and the large audience—the auditorium was jammed—instinctingly testified its appreciation. When the limit of the possibilities in each rendition is fulfilled the question involved in the choice for special mention is not that of comparative merit in interpretation and execution but must perforce be decided by the opportunity afforded the performers by the selection. Strong's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," one of the numbers, a weird classical composition, was asserted by the renowned composer and pianist MacDowell, to be one of the most difficult extant. Its rendition by Miss Mae Kennedy can fairly be pronounced well nigh perfect. She was recalled and accorded an ovation. Miss Berta Schmied exquisitely rendered a selection from Haydn's 7th Sonata, in D major and was given an enthusiastic recall. Mrs. Knebel sang "A Summer Night," A. G. Thomas, and nocturne and serenade by Nevin, and was recalled both times. The program opened with Besten's "Welcome to Spring," for six hands, flawlessly rendered by Florence Winchester, Elrose Taylor and Genevieve Parsons, and closed with an Electric Polka by Berg, eight hands, rendered with expression and verve by Allee Webster, Roella Lovett, Helen Spencer and Rosamond Patrick. The others who took part were Misses Sally Hicks Croswell, Jessica Marshall, Elizabeth Morris, Clara Reinertson, Bessie Gregg, Gretchen Anneke, Frances Swift, Molly Fitger, Rebecca Bailey, Eleanor Pines, Laurel Lewis, Virginia Magoffin, Julia Chapin and Mrs. Jones.

A feature of the musicale was the number of advanced pupils who took part.

Won By Duluth Ladies.

Saturday afternoon the first game in the whist contest between Duluth and Superior ladies was played at the Duluth Whist club rooms, and the Duluth ladies won. The scores were as follows:

NORTH AND SOUTH.

Duluth—
Mrs. Powell and Cullum 210
Mrs. Davis and Lardner 207
Superior—
Mrs. McHenry and Black..... 208
Mrs. Smith and Listman 207

EAST AND WEST.

Duluth—
Mrs. Moer and Marble 208
Mrs. Allen and Smith 209
Superior—
Mrs. White and Harper 209
Mrs. McCord and McGilvray 206

Total for Duluth, 834; total for Superior, 829. For Superior Mrs. White and Mrs. Harper gained a plus of 1, but Mrs. Cullum and Mrs. Powell, of Duluth, gained a plus of 2, and Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Smith, of Duluth, a plus of 1, leaving a net plus of 2 for Duluth.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is a most wonderful remedy for bronchial troubles. It has cured thousands and will cure you. 25 cents.

TWO TO BE FILLED.

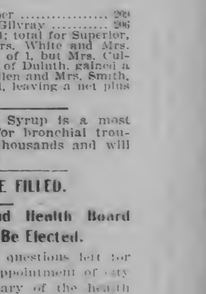

City Engineer and Health Board Secretary to Be Elected.

The only political questions left for discussion are the appointment of city engineer and secretary of the health board. As to the first there is not believed to be much room for speculation, the reappointment of Mr. McGilvray being generally regarded as a sure thing. Former Assistant City Engineer Duffies is still in the field, however, and his friends appear to be hopeful.

There are several candidates for the position of secretary of the health board besides Capt. Miller, the present incumbent. Among those who are reputed to have an eye on the job are E. A. Tinkham and Capt. Rush. The new board organizes and appoints the secretary in April. As the weather warms up, more candidates may sprout.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup seems especially adapted to the needs of the children. Pleasant to take; soothing in its influence. It is the remedy of all remedies for every form of throat and lung disease.

THE FIRST TRANSFER

Nettleton Property at First Avenue East and Superior Street Sold.

INTERESTING PIECE

Has Never Been Sold and Never Had a Mortgage on It.

An important real estate deal has just been concluded, by which Julia A. Nettleton, of Ashtabula, Ohio, sells to William Redwood Wright, of Philadelphia, seventy-five feet at the northeast corner of First avenue east and Superior street, fronting on Superior street, for $21,750. The deal was completed this morning by John M. McClintock, acting for Mrs. Nettleton, and the deed was recorded this afternoon. The transfer does not include the buildings, which belong to other parties.

This deal is especially interesting from the fact that the property is now transferred for the first time since it was patented in 1853, and from the further fact that it has never had a mortgage upon it. Probably there are no other pieces of property in the center of the city of which the same facts could be said. The Nettletons, George O. and William, were the first men to take up land on the site of Duluth. George O. Nettleton, whose widow was the owner of this piece of property, got his land from the government in the winter of 1853-4, taking out an Indian trader's license, and taking a part of what is now the First division of Duluth. William Nettleton proved up on another claim, comprising the remainder of the First division, in 1858, and he was the first man to file a pre-emption statement in the United States land office at Buchanan, which was the name of one of the old settlements on the present site of Duluth.

These two claims are right in the heart of Duluth, and they include many prominent localities. The property just transferred is the only portion of either of them still remaining in the hands of the patentees or their heirs. The Central High School building, the Congregational church and many other prominent buildings are located on the site of these two claims.

In those days Duluth property owners lived in Superior, for there was no Duluth then. On George O. Nettleton's claim was located his old trading post, which was one of the first buildings located on this side of the bay. Judge Carey, in his interesting history of Duluth, tells that the post was situated on the mainland near the base of Minnesota Point, about 400 feet from the shore of the lake and about 150 feet east of First avenue east. The building was of one story, 14 feet wide by 18 feet long, and it was 7 feet in height at the eaves. The roof was of scooped logs, and there was one door and one window. The post was also the election booth for all the country at the head of the lakes, and voters came many miles by boat to cast their ballots, for at this early date, for instance, from Oneota to the post, was one involving many hardships, the route lying through pathless wilds. There was not even a trail where now the electric cars make the trip in fifteen minutes.

ICE EXTENDS FOR MILES.

Enormous Field in the Lake at Duluth.

The ice field in this end of Lake Superior is of much greater extent than most people imagine. It probably extends all the way from fifty up to ninety miles. On Saturday Engineer John Arrey of Maj. Sears' force was at Two Harbors. He stood on top of the ore dock with his instrument and could see nothing but ice as far as the instrument could carry his vision. It extends clear across to the south shore, too. The ice in Agate bay has not been so solid in years as now. Nearly always there is a portion of the bay that is open water, but at the present time it is frozen over so solid that teams are working on it. The ice in the lake at Two Harbors is from eight to eighteen inches thick.

Two men came down to Two Harbors from Grand Marais on the ice. They said that the ice extends up to a point about fifteen miles this side of Grand Marais.

He Is Now on His Way to Net Lake Mission—Other News.

Presiding Elder Forbes returned home last week after an absence of six weeks in the Red River valley, during which time he preached an average of eight times per week. He started on Saturday to visit Soudan and Tower and from there will go to the Net Lake reservation, seventy miles from a railroad. He is accompanied on this trip by Lon Merritt. Rev. Forbes will preach at Soudan on the way up and at Two Harbors on the return trip.

Dr. Forbes says that so far as Asbury M. E. church is concerned there is no intention of uniting with the other denominations of West Duluth. He says the church has always supported a pastor and paid his salary and from present indications it will continue to do so. The growth of church membership is encouraging and the attendance at services satisfactory, although there is always room for more and the union movement has no encouragement or support from Asbury church.

The reception to F. A. Lawson, the new pastor of Asbury church, takes place at the church this evening.

GEN. HENRY DENIES.

No Danger of an Uprising In Porto Rico.

Washington, March 20.—The following dispatch was made public by the war department today:

San Juan, Porto Rico, March 20.—Adjutant General, Washington: Newspaper reports of conditions here and reported interviews with me stating chances of uprising are absolutely false. There is a great deal of idle, childish talk on the part of the ignorant, but as to any resistance against law and order of any kind it is absurd. There has always been political agitation here, less now than ever before. Truth should be known and I should not be injured by false reports. HENRY.

MORE POLICE WANTED.

San Antonio, Texas, March 20.—State Health Officer Blunt, in charge of smallpox situation at Laredo, Texas, asked for more state police, and twenty-four men were sent him today. The Mexicans refused to allow the officials to remove their relatives, who were afflicted, to the pest house, and firing began in the western portion of the city. Two men were killed, and a captain of the state rangers wounded. United States troops from Fort MacIntosh were marched to the scene at 11 o'clock a. m.

BIG CONTRACT LET.

Many Deaths In Copper Country—Burial of the Soldiers.

Calumet, Mich., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village of Laurium has let a $31,000 sewer contract, Mr. Peters, of Ohio, is the lucky bidder.

Thomas Mills and Miss Rader were married last Tuesday. Both bride and groom are well known and very popular, and have the best wishes of a very large circle of friends here.

T. S. Williams, of this place, took ill last Wednesday afternoon at 3 p. m. and was dead at 3 o'clock Thursday of spinal meningitis. His remains left Saturday for burial at Republic. The Odd Fellows had charge of the funeral arrangements, Mr. Williams having been a member of that order.

J. W. Fern died of the same disease after a very short illness. There have been quite a number of deaths lately from the same disease, and the people here are looking on it as quite curious, the people only lasting from twenty-four to forty-eight hours.

The funeral of the remains of the seven soldiers of Company D, who were brought home last Friday for burial here, took place Sunday from the Armory. It was about 2:30 when the procession started to move to the cemetery, headed by the Modern Woodsmen, Maccabees, United Workmen, soldiers' relief committee, Calumet band, Companies A and B Hibernian rifles, Company F, Thirty-fourth Michigan volunteers, light guard, veteran corps, Company D, Thirty-fourth Michigan volunteers, and hearses with remains. The hearses were arranged at intervals between the other vehicles. Company D has been very unfortunate in the number of deaths, although it did not have a single man in battle, nor did one die from wounds received. Yet the company has lost eighteen men all told, and it will take more than a whitewash brush in the hands of the investigation committee to clear the war department of the responsibility for the greater number of them in the eyes of the friends of those who died from neglect and bad care.

It is said there were thirteen funerals here yesterday. Seven soldiers and six civilians. This includes, of course, the two villages— Laurium and Calumet.

Judge E. J. Carey delivered the address at the Opera house St. Patrick's evening. His subject was "The Irish Race in America." The judge spoke for an hour and a half, and held the closest attention of his auditors during all that time. His subject was one which gave plenty of opportunity for oratorical ability, and the judge was right at home with the speech. It was a broad discussion of a subject which has an exceptional interest to the Irishmen in this country, and Attorney Carey handled it with great judgment.

NANIGOS BLAMED.

Secret Society of Lawless Element Responsible For Riots In Havana.

Havana, March 20.—There seems to be concerted action among the Nanigos, the secret society of the lawless class here, to attack the police upon every possible occasion. All the trouble of the last two nights occurred in the outlying wards, which are inhabited by the worst classes.

The city of Havana is much excited this morning over the rioting, and the bravery and determination shown by the police is much commented on, with the result that the force is rapidly regaining the prestige which it has lost among the better element.

The police station at Cerro was attacked yesterday evening by a number of colored men, a band of men from the city slaughter house. The police repelled the attack, and the rioters left three men badly wounded when they retired. Upon this occasion no policemen were hurt.

Chief of Police Menocal gave orders to suspend the public balls last night and Gen. Ludlow, in command of the city of Havana, sustained the chief of police. As the police were approaching the place where the ball of the Society of Pilar was in progress, near Cerro, for the purpose of dispersing it, in accordance with orders, the people opened fire upon them from the house. The fire was returned by the police. The result of the fusillade was that two policemen were seriously wounded and eighteen of their opponents were wounded.

In different wards three policemen were assassinated while on duty. The murderers crept up behind them and stabbed the officers to death.

Three negroes in Galliano street attacked a policeman with knives. The officer defended himself with his revolver, killing one of his assailants and wounding another. The third man escaped.

A Cuban officer attached to the command of Col. Acea attacked a policeman on San Rafael street with a machete. The officer shot him through the heart.

An American negress was killed by a stray bullet. The police in all cases of conflict with the populace have followed their orders and have fulfilled their duty. When approaching disturbers of the peace courteously in many cases they were attacked before they had finished speaking. The agitation promises to continue.

Two of the prisoners captured admit there was a conspiracy to drive the police out of the city by a series of outrages.

Fifty Cuban soldiers from Marianao, belonging to the command of Gen. Rodrigues, kidnapped three former Spanish guerrillas, employed on the Toledo plantation on Saturday, and took them into the bush where the prisoners were maltreated and, it is supposed, one was killed. The other two, who were slashed with machetes, were rescued by a detachment of the Second Illinois regiment. Three of the Cubans were arrested charged with murder.

NAILS ADVANCE.

Pittsburg, March 20.—The American Steel and Wire company has made another advance of 12 cents a keg in the price of nails. This is an advance since December of $23 a ton. Bessemer pig iron is also higher selling at $15.65. Steel billets sold in small lots today at $25 per ton and $26 is now asked.

Evolution of the Sleeping Car.

In 1856 the first sleeping car was produced by Theodore T. Woodruff. It consisted of simply a flat top coach, provided with mattresses and blankets.

In 1858 Webster Wagner produced an improvement on Woodruff's car, with larger berths and raised roof, giving better ventilation.

In 1864 George M. Pullman built his first sleeping car, the "Pioneer," comprising many new features, and at that time considered a veritable "palace."

Constant improvements and additions have been made to sleeping and parlor cars, day coaches and general railway equipment since 1864 until, in 1898, the C. M. & St. P. Ry. produced the new celebrated Pioneer limited trains (two) at a cost of $275,000. They run daily between St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Chicago, and are today the only perfect train in the world. The berths in the private compartment sleeping cars and sixteen-section sleepers are longer, higher and wider than those of any other cars ever built.

Among the senate bills passed were:

BURNING A BANK VAULT.

St. Louis Republic: Back in the '60s a bank in Cincinnati ordered a vault that would defy not only fire, but the attack of every known device of the burglar's art. Such a receptacle for the valuables of the bank was constructed by a well known mechanical engineer of that day, who when he had finished his task informed his employer that the only way they would ever get rid of the vault would be by burying it. Nothing had ever been seen like it in the United States. It was built of steel, two and one-half inches thick; the plates were screwed together and the screws were then cut off and chilled. There were but two openings, and these were doors fitted with combination locks and bolts of consummate ingenuity. It is said that during the war this vault contained a large part of the valuables in Cincinnati. After a while the bank officials needed the space occupied by the steel chamber, but they found it was much easier to have it built than to get rid of it. Contractors were told that they could have the steel if they would only remove it, but they decided that the only way to get rid of the vault was to blow up the vault. If that were done the building would go, too. Finally a man who knows something of what the enormous heat generated by the electric arc is capable has taken the job in hand. When asked by the bank officials how he proposed to do it, he informed them he was going to burn out the vault. By the terms of his contract he was not to remove all the metal walls, but leave enough to be used by the bank as a safe for its books. The beginning of the task was watched with intense interest. An arc light wire was tapped and a rubber handled tool carrying an arc light carbon was attached to the circuit. An electrican made the necessary connections, and, equipped with a pair of heavy colored goggles, turned the switch and started to work. In less than a minute melted metal was running in a stream down the side of the steel wall from a hole half an inch deep and four inches in diameter. Before long the hole had been burned clear through the steel plate, and the success of the experiment was apparent.

Copper Colored Splotches.

There is only one cure for Contagious Blood Poison—the disease which has completely baffled the doctors. They are totally unable to cure it, and direct their efforts toward bottling the poison up in the blood and concealing it from view. S. S. S. cures the disease positively and permanently by forcing out every trace of the taint.

I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease which was in spots at first, but afterwards spread all over my body. These soon broke out into sores, and it is easy to imagine the suffering I endured. Before I became convinced that the doctors could do no good I had spent a hundred dollars, which was really thrown away. I then tried various patent medicines, but they did not reach the disease. When I had finished my first bottle of S. S. S. I was greatly improved and was delighted with the result. The large red splotches on my chest began to grow paler and smaller and before long disappeared entirely. I regained my lost weight, became stronger, and my appetite greatly improved. I was soon entirely well, and my skin as clear as a piece of glass.

STORY OF "ZAZA."

The story of "Zaza," Mrs. Leslie Carter's new play, is interesting just now. Zaza is a strolling singer—a careless, impulsive woman—surrounded by admirers. Of these she loves one, and six months' happiness with him in a little cottage outside of Paris follows. Then Zaza hears that her lover is untrue and has married a young woman of high social standing in Paris. The tigress in the woman is aroused. She goes to Paris and visits the home of her truant lover. While waiting for him and his wife, a little child comes in, the daughter of the household. A pathetic scene between the baby and Zaza follows, and she is completely disarmed. She returns to her home without telling her story to the innocent victim of her wrath. Zaza then separates from Dufrene, and a year later, when she meets him again, with the whole of Paris at her feet, she refuses to resume her relations with him and sends him home to his wife, while she lives out her life alone.

MRS. PLACE EXECUTED

New York Murderess Electrocuted In the Prison at Sing Sing.

Was Cool and Made no Scene and Death Was Instantaneous.

Sing Sing, N. Y., March 20—Mrs. Place was executed this morning. She died at 11:01. She made no scene. The first shock lasted four seconds. The voltage was 1760. It was then reduced to 200 for fifty-six seconds. A second shock was then given.

Mrs. Place went calmly to the chair. She leaned on Warden Sage's arm. Her eyes were closed, and she seemed neither to see nor hear. She murmured a prayer.

Two women attended her, one a prison attendant, the other a physician.

Mrs. Place was calm beyond expectation. No one has walked into the death chamber as serenely as she. Death came with less struggle than was ever witnessed here before. Death was instantaneous.

Just as she sat down in the chair she said: "God help me."

The female attendants stood before her. The physician adjusted the electrode to her bared leg, while the prison attendant stood with skirts outspread. Dr. Irvine merely superintended.

Not an instant was lost in throwing down the lever. Hardly a witness saw the convulsive movement that usually follows an electrical shock. The body merely stiffened. The face moved. Mrs. Place's thin lips closed tightly together. It was almost a smile with which she died.

At 10:50 Warden Sage left the house for Mrs. Place's room. He remained away eight minutes, during which time a Keeper outside in the corridor came into the death chamber and called out another keeper. It was feared then that Mrs. Place had broken down and would have to be carried to the chair. Nothing of that kind, however, had occurred.

A moment or two before 11 o'clock, there was the hurrying of feet down the hall and the death march was ended.

Mrs. Place leaned on the warden's arm. She was pallid. She breathed in gasps. Her eyes were closed, but she bore herself steadily and seemed to almost pick her way across the short space that separated her from death.

The warden, too, was pale, also the women following behind her. Mrs. Place sat down and said a prayer. It was all over in a moment. Nothing was ever done at Sing Sing so rapidly before.

She was dressed in black, the suit that she had made herself—a plain gown, which was lifted quickly to the knee. She wore black stockings and low tan shoes.

The electrode was fastened in a moment another was placed over her thick light hair, turning gray, a small circle of which had been clipped away. The straps were adjusted over her face and over the forehead. Only the mouth was visible.

In her hand Mrs. Place carried a prayer book, and when the shock came she gripped it tightly. The other held fast to the chair handle.

The woman's mouth merely closed; the face a trifle livid. Her heart ceased to beat within a minute.

Dr. Irvine felt for the pulsation of the carotoid artery in the neck, and the woman physician examined the heart. After all the physicians present examined the heart, Dr. Irvine gave it as his opinion that life was extinct.

Yesterday at noon Warden Sage decided to again notify Mrs. Place of the day of her execution and to tell her that she must be ready. She had been so hopeful that she would be spared until Governor Roosevelt announced his decision not to interfere with the course of justice that the warden felt it would be simple mercy to warn her of what she must undergo.

"I have come, Mrs. Place, so that there would be no mistake, so that there would be no misunderstanding, and explain to you that you are to be ready on Monday morning at 11 o'clock."

The woman looked at him and said simply: "I will be ready; I will put my trust in God."

After he left her Mrs. Place cried a little, but bore up wonderfully well. She had understood, she said, that she must die.

Yesterday Mrs. Place still occupied the room she had tenanted since the day she was brought here. It is the room in which Marie Barbarle, the Italian girl, spent her prison days, on the top floor of the old building that served in years past as an hospital.

All that mind could suggest to give Mrs. Place comfort and courage the warden and his wife and his daughters have done. Mrs. Sage having been with her several times each day. Sunday afternoon the warden's wife spent an hour reading to the condemned woman from the Scriptures, and Mrs. Place herself occupied an hour or two in reading the accounts that had been sent to her.

In the evening Rev. Dr. Cole, of Yonkers, came to her. After his departure Mrs. Place had no consolation but her Bible. She promised that she would bear up well, and indeed, though suffering keenly, she maintained her calmness. With her in her room all night was Mrs. Cathryn Coultray, one of the matrons.

Mrs. Place got up several times during the night and looked from her window at the storm that was howling across the Hudson. Her attendant went with her, and so the cheerless, dreadful night passed.

Mrs. Place was restless last night, the matron, Mrs. Coultray, reported this morning. She had prayed a number of times during the long hours; slept now and then; had watched out from the window, and early this morning she rose without regret.

Mrs. Place left letters for several persons and made requests of Rev. Dr. Cole and Mrs. Sage. The latter is asked to attend to some private affairs. The former received a letter from Mrs. Place in which she told simply that she believed that she had been forgiven for her sins and would die with full faith in the hereafter. Yesterday she made this statement to her spiritual adviser that she wanted forgiveness from every one and freely forgave others.

Early today the following official statement was given out in the warden's office:

"The matron reports that Mrs. Place did not lie down until 2:30, and then did so without removing her clothing. She then slept well until 6 o'clock. The early part of the night was spent in reading her Bible, in being read to and in conversation with her attendant. A number of times after reading a chapter she knelt with her attendant and prayed.

"She is reasonably composed this morning and ate some breakfast with apparent relish."

STORY OF THE CRIME.

Mrs. Martha Place killed her stepdaughter, Ida Place, at their home, 568 Hancock street, Brooklyn, on Feb. 7, 1898. The girl was about 22 years old. A double murder had been planned by the woman. She killed her stepdaughter when the girl was taking an afternoon nap, splitting her skull open with an ax, and pouring vitrol on her face and into her mouth. The same evening the woman lay in wait for her husband, William W. Place, in the darkened hallway of the house, and when he entered she struck him in the face with the ax, and inflicted a serious wound. He managed to get outside the front door and alarm the neighbors before he became unconscious. When the police and neighbors entered the house they found Mrs. Place in a bedroom in which gas was escaping, and she was slamming unconsciousness. Mr. Place recovered consciousness, and said his wife had tried to murder him, and the woman was arrested, after they both had been taken to a hospital.

The motive of the woman's crime was jealousy of her stepdaughter. Place's first wife died six or seven years ago, and about eighteen months afterward he engaged the woman who became his second wife to act as his housekeeper. Her maiden name was Garretson, but she had been married to a man named Savacoil, now dead. As long as she was housekeeper it is said she was extremely kind to Place's daughter Ida, but she became quite a different person when Place married her. She was possessed of an ungovernable temper, which led to frequent quarrels with Ida, and Mrs. Place was very much embittered because her husband took the young woman's part.

Another cause of family bickering was Place's refusal to have his wife's adopted son live with them. The woman was much inferior to her husband and stepdaughter in education and social qualities, and many friends of Mr. Place had cut his acquaintance on account of his marriage to the woman. Miss Place was popular with the families in their neighborhood and this also made the stepmother jealous.

Mrs. Place's story of the crime was that she had thrown carbolic acid in her stepdaughter's face during one of their quarrels, and then got the ax to defend herself from an attack by her daughter, but it came out during the trial that she had made preparations for flight and had written to her brother that she would go to him.

Mrs. Place was tried before Judge Hurd in Brooklyn last summer and was found guilty of murder in the first degree. The case was carried to the court of appeals, but the conviction was affirmed and she was sentenced to death. Governor Roosevelt was then petitioned to exercise clemency, it being alleged that Mrs. Place was insane at the time the crime was committed, and he appointed Drs. Dana and Polk, of New York city, to report to him on this point. They informed the governor that the woman was sane when she killed her stepdaughter and was sane now. This destroyed her last hope of life, and on March 15, Governor Roosevelt announced his refusal to interfere, accompanying it with the following memorandum:

"This murder was one of peculiar deliberation and atrocity. To interfere with the course of the law in this case could be justified only on the ground that never hereafter, under any circumstances, should capital punishment be inflicted upon any murderess, even though the victim was herself a woman, and even though that victim's torture preceded her death.

"There is but one course open to me. I decline to interfere with the course of the law."

Several weeks before his official decision was given out, Governor Roosevelt was quoted as follows:

"My sympathies in criminal cases are for the wronged and not for the wrongdoer. The fact that the criminal is a woman makes no difference to me. I am always ready to try to see that justice is done. In ordinary cases, it is a woman is found precisely as blameworthy as a man, I would punish the woman exactly as much as the man. I have no sympathy with mawkish sentimentality."

After the murder was committed Place showed no interest in his wife's fate. He testified at the trial but has taken no part in the efforts to save her from the electric chair and has refused at all times to talk of the case.

CRASH ABOUT DUE.

London Correspondent Tells About the Copper Stock Craze In Paris.

New York, March 20.—The Times' London financial correspondent cables: All support of the copper market comes either from Paris or New York and Boston, and your people have absorbed large blocks of Anaconda copper shares this week. Paris cannot keep the play active, and the death of Secretan this week shook the Tinto prices for a day or two. But he was merely a tool in stronger hands, and the market was accordingly braced up again by the price manipulators. It is all a gamble, in which the public has no interest. Our constant marvel is how Paris should be able to carry all the trash it has acquired in recent years in copper and gold mines, discredited government bonds and industrial securities very much "Hooleyized." Tintos might be good at 15, but at 40 no one envies the holders enough to buy. As yet there are no superficial indications of any crash on the bourse. We only know that the position is strained and that the business between Paris and London has become wholly professional, and much restricted at that. A feeling of over-loadedness haunts both markets, and it is most difficult to see how it can be conjured away. We have all, as a matter of fact, got too much to carry, and business is hindered by the masses of securities held in pawn at high prices. Unless you come to the rescue we shall by and by be in a bad way.

Vienna, Berlin, Paris and Amsterdam are all hard up and want to sell and can find no moneyed customers.

A RIOT EXPECTED.

Some Mexicans In Texas Make Things Lively For the Authorities.

Laredo, Tex., March 20.—The work of removing small pox patients to the pest house under direction of State Health Officer Bhiat was begun yesterday morning. After ten had been removed the officers encountered an East Matamoras street a mob of several hundred Mexicans that menaced them in such a manner that the police were called. Marshal Bratholomew police were called. Marshal Bartholomew and Assistant Marshal Idar attempted to knocked down and severely beaten. One of the rioters was wounded. Twenty shots were fired, a dozen arrests made and the mob dispersed. The health officers resumed their work but were soon met by another mob of 500 or 600 Mexicans, many of them armed. The health officers desisted and communicated with Governor Sayers. The war department telegraphed authority to use troops at Fort McIntosh. The Mexicans are much excited and bloody work is expected when the negro regulars arrive.

Washington, March 20.—The following correspondence passed between the governor and the authorities regarding the riot at Laredo:

Austin, Tex., March 19.—Secretary of War, Washington: Please immediately order by wire commanding officers of United States troops to assist the mayor of Laredo. The sheriff of Webb county today in preserving peace and maintaining order at Laredo, until I can get State troops to that point. A serious riot is pending. JOSEPH D. SAYERS,

Governor of Texas.

War Department, Adjutant General's Office, Washington, March 20.—Commanding Officer, Fort McIntosh, Laredo, Texas: At the request of the governor of Texas, the secretary of war directs that you use your force in assisting the mayor of Laredo and the sheriff of Webb county in preserving peace and maintaining order until the arrival of state troops. Acknowledge receipt and report situation by telegraph. H. C. CORBIN, Adjutant General.

Laredo, Tex., March 20.—Adjutant General, Washington: Have informed mayor of Laredo of your instructions to-day. Great bitterness on part of Mexicans in this side on account of attempt to take smallpox patients to pest house.

AYERS, Captain Commanding.

A COSTLY FIRE.

Laredo, Tex., March 20.—Two men were killed and a captain of the state rangers was wounded in a fight with Mexicans over smallpox this morning.

WORST EVER KNOWN.

St. Louis, March 20.—Special to the Post Dispatch from Laredo, Tex., says: Mayor Taylor today issued an appeal to the Texas house of representatives for aid for Laredo's smallpox sufferers. Money, medicines, clothing and other donations are desired. The epidemic is the worst ever known in Texas.

WINTER RETURNS.

London, March 20.—There has been a return of winter weather. Snow storms have swept the midlands and the north country, and outdoor work is at a standstill. Storms have also raged over the North sea.

CUTTING OFF HEADS

Aguinaldo Deals Severely With Filipinos Who Desire to Quit Fighting.

BRAVE VOLUNTEERS

The Washington Company Crossed River In Canoe Under a Heavy Fire.

Manilla, March 20.—It is reported on reliable authority that Aguinaldo is taking extreme measures to suppress signs calculated to cause a cessation of hostilities. Twelve adherents of the movement for independence have been condemned to death because they wrote advising surrender and all loyal Filipinos have been called upon to perform the national service of despatching them.

On Friday last Gen. Lagarda visited Malolos for the purpose of advising Aguinaldo to quit. He argued with the insurgent leader and attempted to convince him of the folly of his persistence in the face of overwhelming odds. Aguinaldo was furious at the advice and ordered Gen. Lagarda to be executed immediately.

The unfortunate general was promptly decapitated.

Among the incidents of yesterday's fighting was the coolness exhibited by a company of Washington volunteers, who crossed the river in a native canoe under a heavy fire—fifteen being taken across on each trip of the small boat—to attack the enemy's trenches.

The inability of the commissary train to keep up with the advance led to considerable suffering. Many men were completely exhausted when they were recalled and, falling from the ranks, were strung along for a distance of almost six miles, numbers returning to camp in the artillery ambulances, which were always close up to the lines. The work of the ambulances was especially worthy of mention.

Among the dead are several who were previously reported as wounded. Yesterday's casualties were as follows: Twenty-second regiment—Capt. Frank P. Jones, Company E; Privates Young, Arenson and Yunt, Company D; Rice, Pasmir, White, Ellis, Morgan, Schunder Coomholz and Porte, Company E; Edwards, Company K; Ronfor, Company G, and Corps. Conclerge and Nelson, Company M.

Washington volunteers—Privates Hess and Marshall, Corp. Dricklyn, Company K.

Oregon volunteers—Private Brown, Company K.

Minnesota volunteers—Private Bruce, Company C.

All the above named are more or less seriously wounded.

REINFORCEMENTS NEEDED.

Americans May Fall Back When the Rains Begin.

Hong Kong, March 20.—A correspondent of the Associated Press at Manilla says:

An army is seldom operated under harder conditions than have been encountered by the American "Flying Brigade."

The country the American troops have traversed is intersected with lagoons, narrow and unfordable rivers, and bamboos so thick that the enemy cannot be seen 100 feet distant. During the charges the Americans were ignorant as to whether they were attacking a hundred or thousands of rebels, which amazes the foreign observers. The Filipinos were unexpectedly fierce at Cainta. Had it not been for the fact that the American line was thin, the enfilading fire would have slaughtered many of our men.

One of the prisoners captured by the Americans says the Filipino leaders boast that they can continue such a war for years, depending on the American forces being weakened daily by twenty men killed, wounded or invalided.

Some of the high officials here think that 10,000 reinforcements are needed. The troops now on this island are hardly more than required to maintain a line around Manilla and police the city.

Considerable rain has fallen already, and it seems the season for rains is beginning. It is possible that when the steady rains begin our troops will have to be withdrawn to permanent barracks, which may cause the rebels to return to their old positions.

American soldiers are bringing loads of loot from dwelling houses.

SOME HOT FIGHTING.

Gen. Wheaton Punishes the Enemy For Its Attack.

Manilla, March 20.—Some of the rebels recently expelled from Cavite and the small towns in the vicinity of Pasig combined forces and Saturday night, as already cabled, attacked a company of the Washington volunteers, a detached post at Taguig, about a mile and a half southeast of Pasig. Gen. Wheaton immediately reinforced the Americans with two companies each of the Washington and the Oregon regiments. The post had held the enemy in check, and the fire of the reinforcing companies repulsed them, driving them across to an island formed by the estuary. They were thus in front of the Twenty-second regulars.

On discovering that they were trapped the rebels fought desperately, aided materially by the jungle and the darkness, but they were completely routed with heavy loss, after two hours' fighting. The Americans lost two killed and twenty wounded, among the latter Lieut. Frank Jones. Gen. Wheaton determined to punish the natives, and at daybreak yesterday his brigade started in the following order:

The Sixth artillery, holding the extreme right; the Oregon volunteers, having the center; the Washington regiment keeping to the edge of the lake and the Twenty-second regulars occupying the right of the line, which swept the whole country along the lake in a southwesterly direction, toward Gen. Ovenshine's position. The line thus extended over two miles of country, rough and covered with thick jungle, advanced eleven miles. The enemy fled. The last of them was seen about 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At scarcely any time did the Americans get within 1200 yards of them.

The troops returned to Pasig last night exhausted by the hard work under the hot sun. The Oregon regiment had one man killed and four wounded, and the Twenty-second regulars one wounded. According to the official reports no fewer than 200 Filipinos were killed.

Gen. Otis says the Americans and gunboats now command the lake. He estimates that property of the insurgents, valued at $500,000, has been destroyed, while quantities of rice and sugar and 400 tons of coal, which is very valuable here, has been captured.

Many prisoners represent that the Filipino soldiers are weakening. The generous treatment that the Americans administer to the native prisoners and wounded seems to influence the insurgent army powerfully. In the opinion of the Americans, however, the Filipino leaders will continue to provoke fighting just as long as they can retain their hold on their followers, because they have everything to gain and nothing to lose.

The enemy have twice as many men on their fighting lines as they have arms, and the fact that so few arms are captured by the Americans is because the guns of the wounded Filipinos and many of those that surrender are spirited away.

The armed tugs La Guna de Bay and Oeste have returned to San Pedro Macati and reported the results of their tour of the lake. On Friday morning last they shelled the town of Moreng, the rebels fleeing without making any response to the fire.

The Americans landed a party, which destroyed a quantity of stores and all the stone buildings, except the church. The expedition then proceeded to Mayjay, where a sugar mill and sawmill were destroyed.

On arriving at Santa Cruz, it was found that the enemy was strongly entrenched and prepared to defend the position, assisted by two gunboats and several launches. Moreover the mouth of the river was blocked with rocks and bamboo. A few shells caused an exodus of the citizens, but not of the enemy's troops. The Americans did not attempt a landing.

Capt. Grant, who is in charge of the expedition, asks for reinforcements, and will probably take Santa Cruz today.

The United States distilling ship Iris, which left Honolulu with the United States battleship Oregon, Feb. 20, arrived yesterday.

Yesterday morning also arrived the San Joaquin, the last of the overdue English steamers sailing under American registers, that were detained by the insurgents on the northwest of Luzon.

The troops that accompanied the expedition were a detachment of the Twenty-third regiment, under Capt. Pratt, which was towed by the gunboat on a casco—a square-ended, flat-bottomed boat used by the Filipinos as a lighter. The Americans had captured four cascoes at Majay-jay, where they encamped on Friday night.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

Cincinnati, March 20.—A local paper prints a story that the location of the key board by which the Maine was blown up in Havana harbor has been found by an American engineer officer. The story is that Capt. T. L. Huston of the volunteer engineers, who entered the service from Cincinnati and who had been assigned to the duty of clearing out the fortifications of Havana, had discovered in the gun room of the Cuartel Do Foerste a wooden box, in which he found a gutta percha tube containing one large copper wire and several smaller wires. He also found evidences of a key board having been torn away. Capt. Huston had confided his discovery to Warren J. Lynch, newly appointed general passenger agent of the Big Four, who was visiting Havana, and said he was about to trace the wires to prove his theory that the Maine was exploded from that point. The wreck of the vessel can be seen from this gun room, not more than 100 yards distant. The room itself was in a part of the prison to which access was only allowed to a few officers.

Impossible to Produce Stronger Proof....

Proof is evidence. Evidence is testimony, but testimony is not always proof, for testimony differs. A stranger from a far away place---a man in Maine---a woman in Wisconsin---may testify in most emphatic language, but is it proof? We think not! Positive proof to a Duluth citizen is the experience and public expression of Duluth people, the statement of friends and neighbors, easily investigated, easily indorsed. Many readers of this are troubled with backache, with rheumatic pains, with urinary disorders, with sick kidneys; have tried many recommended remedies and failed to get permanent relief. No wonder they ask for better proof. We say to every sufferer, DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS cure all forms of kidney ills, from Backache to Diabetes. Our evidence of it? The best that can be had. Impossible to produce stronger proof than the indorsement that guarantees full value for every box of DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS. Here is a case of it. An emphatic statement of a Duluth citizen. We have many more like it.

Mr. Homer B. Thompson, of 2215 Third street west, employed as fireman at the Scott & Hoyt Lumber Co.'s mills, says: "We have used Doan's Kidney Pills in our family for years, sending to the Eastern states for them as they were not at first on sale here. We never had them fail to give prompt relief whenever the kidneys became inactive or backache threatened. Both myself and Mrs. Thompson had been for years subject to kidney complaint and nothing we were able to get was successful in removing the trouble. I cannot speak too highly of Doan's Kidney Pills and never fail to advise others suffering from their kidneys to go to the Duluth Drug Co. and get a box. They have invariably given satisfaction in every case where we have recommended their use."

All Druggists sell Doan's Kidney Pills. Price 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

DULUTH SHOULD MOVE.

Effort Necessary to Hold the Gold Country Business.

"Now that interest in the Rainy Lake and Seine River gold fields is active once more," said a business man this morning, "is it not about time that some effort was being made to open more direct communication with the gold fields so that Duluth may get her share of the business of that country? There is a good deal more business in that section than a good many Duluth people have any idea of, and it is hard to sit back and see it getting away from Duluth, when as a matter of fact Duluth is the proper base of supplies for nearly the whole country. I do not know how it is to be got at, but I do know that Duluth is not getting her share of the business, and that it is largely because Duluth has not reached out for it. That country should naturally pay her tribute to Duluth, and if it does not something is wrong. For a year little has been heard in Duluth about the Rainy Lake country. During that time, however, the country has been forging ahead just the same. New mines have been opened up, old ones have had their operations enlarged and more men are working there today than there were a year ago. It takes a good deal of merchandise to keep all these men going, and Duluth is furnishing very little of it. She ought to furnish nearly all of it, and what I would like to know is whether or not there is some way to get it coming this way. It is, perhaps, too much to hope for that a railroad should be built or extended there, but, with a country so close as that there surely should be some way of getting its trade."

FULL MOURNERS' BENCH.

Saturday Night and Sunday Drunks Numerous In Police Court.

The mourners' bench in police court was full this morning.

Malcolm McGill, who was one of the bevy arraigned for drunkenness, has probably had the warmest time of any man in town the past several days. He struck civilization from the woods Friday, and he took up a burden of redeye that was enough for three white men. He was rounded up Saturday night just "howlin'." Yesterday morning he was released on making a deposit of $10 to secure his appearance this morning. Last night he landed behind the bars again with a towering jag on and without a cent of the money, amounting to $52.50, which he had left after putting up his ball in the morning. The whole amount he had spent in Sullivan & Devine's saloon on Lake avenue, he told the court this morning.

Mr. Sullivan asked the court to let McGill off without a fine so that he could use his bail money to get to Two Harbors, but the court refused this, under the circumstances, rather singular request, and McGill went up for ten days.

Annie Wicks pleaded guilty of drunkenness and, as she had been there before, she was fined $20 and costs. She went up for twenty days.

Martin Peterson and I. Knuteson pleaded guilty of the same offense and were assessed $10 and costs each. They went up for ten days. O. Hallen pleaded guilty of begging on the street and was fined the same amount, going up for ten days in default.

Albert Bohl pleaded guilty of drunkenness and was let off with sentence suspended.

They Sell the Dock.

A dispatch from Chicago says the final order of sale in the case of H. W. Putnam and C. J. Hall, trustees, against the Pennsylvania and Ohio Fuel company and Turney & Jones company, was entered by Judge Grosscup in the United States circuit court today. The sale will include the mines near Columbus, Ohio, owned by the Turney & Jones company, which are said to be valued at $250,000, as well as the docks of the other defendant company at Duluth, Minn., Ashland and Manitowoc, Wis., of which the upset price is said to be $118,000. April 1 is named as the date of sale for the docks, and the mines will be sold as soon as possible after that date.

Received Communion as a Body.

Divisions Nos. 1 and 4, Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H., of Duluth and West Duluth, attended St. Clement's church yesterday morning in a body and received holy communion. This is the annual custom of the order on or about March 17. The attendance was large and the ladies made a very nice appearance, and the West Duluth division, but recently organized, made a creditable showing. Both divisions are growing rapidly in membership and will soon have a very large membership. Mrs. D. P. McDonald, president of Division No. 1, invited all the up-town ladies to breakfast at her new residence.

SPRINGS A SURPRISE

County Attorney Phelps Dismisses All of the Remaining Flour Cases.

AFRAID OF THE JURY

Says If Ackerman Could Not Be Convicted, None of the Rest Can.

There was a sensation in district court this morning when County Attorney W. B. Phelps last Saturday dismissed all of the rest of the flour cases, thus putting at a blow an end to the prosecutions against the prominent men who were indicted by the grand jury at this term of court. Mr. Phelps' reason was that the jury at this term of court was not to be depended upon.

The first case on the criminal calendar this morning was that against Thomas F. Trevillion. When it was called for trial Mr. Phelps arose and delivered his little bombshell into court.

"Your honor," he said to Judge Moer, "on the trial of the case just preceding this we had a great deal of trouble to get a jury. Most of the jurors called knew too much about the case, and about all of these cases, and we called twenty-four names before the jury was secured. There is no case on the calendar so strong as that case, and I have no hope of convicting anybody at this term of court with the juries that are available. I therefore move that the case against Thomas F. Trevillion be dismissed."

Judge Moer was manifestly astonished, but he entered the motion on his calendar and announced that the case against Thomas F. Trevillion was dismissed on motion of the county attorney.

"Are there any further cases for trial?" asked the court.

"I would make the same motion in the cases against Peter G. Kraemer, E. L. Fisher and J. E. Paul," said Mr. Phelps.

"Well," said Judge Moer, "do you intend that all of these cases shall be dismissed because of the jurors?"

"Yes, your honor."

"I had intended to call a special venire of jurors to enable the state to get juries," said the court.

"I have no hope of convicting any of these defendants with these jurors if Ackerman was not convicted, and I do not think the county should be put to such expense for nothing," responded the county attorney.

Judge Moer then announced that all of the cases against P. G. Kraemer, E. L. Fisher and J. E. Paul were dismissed, and the defendants and their bondsmen were released.

That cleared the calendar with the exception of the case against John Casey, the bartender, who was indicted for grand larceny in the first degree and for receiving stolen property, and who offered to plead guilty to a charge of petit larceny last week. Judge Moer at that time refused to accept the plea. This morning Casey was sent for, and Judge Moer told him that he would have to stand trial for larceny in the first degree. Casey wanted to talk with his attorney, so the matter was put over until this afternoon.

This afternoon Judge Moer permitted Casey to plead guilty to petit larceny. This was because of an arrangement made with Casey to testify against Ackerman, which he could not be compelled to do unwillingly.

Saturday afternoon the jury in the case against James A. Ackerman returned a verdict of not guilty of receiving stolen property and Ackerman was released.

The only men convicted out of the entire dozen or more indictments returned by the grand jury were Thomas J. Suitor and Henry White, who were convicted of grand larceny in the first degree, Peter Gisselman, driver for T. F. Trevillion, pleaded not guilty to grand larceny in the second degree, and John Casey's case is yet to be disposed of. The indictments against F. E. Culver are still standing.

Mr. Phelps said this morning that the cases could be brought up again at a subsequent term of court and new indictments found, but he refused to state whether or not this would be done.

No Warrant for Him.

About two weeks ago Frank Dimma created a big disturbance on the Indian reservation at Cloquet. He started in to clean a whole Indian camp out and did cut one man with a knife. An Indian policeman caught him then and landed him in jail. He was held there pending the arrival of a warrant and a United States marshal from St. Paul. It was about this time, however, that the change in the United States marshal's office was made and the matter was not taken up. The authorities on the reservation held Dimma as long as they could and then let him go. He is the man who tried to pull a gun on Tom Monahan when he arrested him a year ago. He was released from jail here on Aug. 11.

Worth Mentioning.

J. F. Killorin, through Salesman J. F. Welsmiller, purchased a beautiful Steinway mahogany grand piano of the Duluth Music company, which stood in their warerooms for a few days and was inspected by the leading musicians of Duluth, who pronounced it as being simply "a dream." It is quite an unusual circumstance when such a superb instrument is purchased. It is generally know that the Steinway pianos are controlled exclusively at the head of the lakes by the Duluth Music company.

THE CITY ENGINEER.

Board of Public Works to Send In a Name.

The appointment by board of public works of the city engineer will, it is expected, go to the council this evening. It was believed at the city hall today that the present city engineer would be appointed to succeed himself, beyond a peradventure, and his confirmation by the council, if appointed, is regarded as certain. There was not much business in sight for this evening and an early adjournment to allow the aldermen to return to the bosoms of their families via the wrestling match was expected.

Among the matters that may receive attention are the questions of improving South Fifth avenue west, from the railroad tracks to the dock, and Railroad street between Eleventh and Fifteenth avenues west.

The matter of the annual appropriation for the charitable institutions may be acted on tonight, and there are some ordinances in committee that may be reported on.

The Municipal Court.

This was term day in municipal court. There were two jury and four court cases besides four in unlawful detainer. The case of J. Kessler & Co. vs. Gustafson & Easton was set for hearing by the court today. The jury cases were to follow in the following order: Mary Walsh vs. Robert Klojanker, replevin, and Ollie Johnson vs. Northern Pacific Express company. The court cases were assigned as follows: March 24, East End Feed and Grain company vs. H. Elliott, March 27, Martin & Co. vs. T. Nauffts, March 30, L. Heller Liquor company vs M. Laitl.

The Omnipotent St. Paul.

"The Great St. Paul is a wonder," said the clergyman. "You are right," said Lil Perkins. "It is the seventh wonder to people who ride on the St. Paul's beautiful trains. Its Pioneer limited, the only perfect train in the world, is a delight and a comfort to thousands between Chicago and St. Paul and Minneapolis. Up in St. Paul and Minneapolis you call it the 'Milwaukee,' but the brokers on Wall street call it the 'St. Paul.' They say with Shakespeare, 'now buy St. Paul.'"

The C. M. & St. P. runs almost everywhere in the West and Northwest, and carries more people than any other Western road.

SHERMAN NO MORE

The Aged Statesman Passes Away on Board the Steamer Paris.

REVIEW OF HIS LIFE

He Was In Public Service Continually For Half a Century.

New York, March 21.—A special from Caimanera, Cuba, to the Evening Telegram reports the death of John Sherman on board the Paris.

Washington, March 21.—Mrs. Sherman has been informed through the state department of the death of Mr. Sherman.

The passing of John Sherman removed from the public stage about the last of those towering figures whose public lives, beginning with the civil war and covering a period of the last forty years, were interwoven with the great events of that epoch. As his illustrious brother, William Tecumseh, shared with Grant and Sheridan the highest place among the military heroes of the generation, so, too, John D. Sherman stood in civic life along with Seward, Sumner, Evarts, Blaine and that coterie of intellectual giants of war and reconstruction days. Always a leader, twice a member of the cabinet, first as head of the treasury and then of state affairs, three times a candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency and for years one of the great executive forces in congress, his name was identified with its laws, the lawmaking and the political struggles which engaged attention for about half a century. Few men had more continuous public service and such a diversity of fields and in all of them his work was conspicuous.

John Sherman was born in Lancaster, Ohio, May 10, 1823, three years after the birth of his brother, William Tecumseh. They came of sturdy ancestors, tracing their lineage back to Roger Sherman, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. The Shermans first came over shortly after the landing of the Pilgrims. The father was a lawyer of prominence in Ohio who rose in later life to be judge of the supreme court. When he died in 1829 the large family of boys were left with scant support and were adopted by friends and relatives. William went with Thomas Ewing, who shaped the career as a soldier, while John went with an older brother, Charles, at Mansfield, and took up the study of law, which, in turn, took him into the field of politics and public life. His first public service was in 1848, when he was a delegate to the Whig convention at Philadelphia, which nominated Zachary Taylor for the presidency. Again in 1852 he was a delegate to Baltimore, when Winfield Scott was nominated for the presidency.

In those early days his characteristics of caution and conservatism had marked him as a safe man among the many who were wrought to excitement and emotion by the events leading up to the war. This characteristic secured for him his first election to congress. He was elected to the thirty-fourth congress and took his seat Dec. 3, 1855. A momentous period was just unfolding and he came upon the scene when just such men of ability and courage were needed. The attempts to repeal the Missouri compromise, the Dred-Scott decision, the fugitive slave law, the spread of abolition sentiment and the lowering clouds of a civil conflict gave evidence that the very existence of the republic was at stake. Among such impressive conditions Sherman at once came to the front as one of the leaders of legislative action.

His prominence began when the speaker, Nathaniel P. Banks, appointed him on the committee to investigate the ruffianism in "bleeding Kansas." He was acting chairman during the inquiry and the report he made was the basis for the presidential caucus of 1856. At the end of a second term in the congress he was recognized as the foremost man in the house of representatives. He was a candidate for speaker, coming within three votes of that position. His defeat for the speakership led to his becoming chairman of the committee on ways and means. Here for the first time his peculiar genius for finance showed itself. The finances of the country were sadly crippled; members of congress were not receiving their pay. His first step was in securing the passage of the bill authorizing the treasury notes of 1860.

About this time Salmon P. Chase resigned his seat as senator from Ohio and Sherman was elected to his place, entering the senate for the first time on March 4, 1861. His congressional time had preceded him and he at once took the same rank in the upper branch as he had in the lower. His services was continuous until 1874, most of the time as chairman of the finance committee, in which position he wrote many of those far-reaching measures of finance with which he was identified. The suspension of specie payment occurred in 1862, necessitating the issue of United States notes. He largely carried this measure through and was also the defender of the legal tender feature of those notes, which excited wide differences in and out of congress. Following this he devised the plan for resuming specie payment and practically framed the bill by which resumption was to occur on Jan. 1, 1879.

When Hayes became president Sherman entered the treasury and there as executive officer he had an opportunity to execute the plan of specie payment which he had previously placed on the statute books. His first act was to begin the accumulation of a great stock of gold with which to pay specie for paper when Jan. 1, 1879, arrived. Six months before that time he had accumulated in the treasury $140,000,000, and when Jan. 1 came he had the satisfaction of seeing the paper money gradually rise to the value of gold until gold no longer brought a premium. The execution of this important financial move through congress and in the treasury aroused intense differences and there was criticism as well as approval.

In 1880 he became a candidate for the presidency and his name was presented to the national convention by James A. Garfield. In the contest between the friends of Grant and Blaine Garfield was nominated. Again in the national convention of 1884 he was placed in nomination by Joseph B. Foraker. But the Ohio delegation divided and Sherman secured only a few votes. In 1888 he was a candidate for the third time, leading throughout with 229 on the second ballot and continually thereafter until Benjamin Harrison was nominated by the withdrawal of other candidates.

He had returned to the senate in 1881, serving continuously until 1897, when he resigned to enter the cabinet of President McKinley as secretary of state. His resignation from that body occurred soon after the declaration of war with Spain and he returned to private life after forty-five years of almost continuous public service. Since then he has done some literary work, carrying forward his memoirs from the period of his former book.

TO VISIT THE PHILIPPINES.

Senator Beveridge and Wife Will Make a Long Trip.

Indianapolis, March 21.—United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, accompanied by his wife, started for the Philippine Islands today. He expects to be gone three months. The trip will consume about one month each way, leaving one month for a stay in China and the Philippines. After having completed his trip in the Philippines, he may decide to return here by way of the Suez canal. Senator Beveridge said just before leaving that he made up his mind several weeks ago to make this trip. His first intention was to go away without making his destination public, but he reached the conclusion that his going might be misunderstood, so he decided to announce it.

"It is merely a pleasure trip," said he. "It is a good while until congress meets and I feel that I am in need of rest. I have always desired to take a trip of this kind, and I made up my mind to pack up and go this time. I have no definite plans. The immediate destination will be Yokohama. I shall spend some time in China and shall probably visit the Philippine islands."

As Senator Beveridge is a pronounced expansionist it is generally thought that he will not fail to avail himself of all the information he can get there on his trip on subjects expected to take up much time of the next congress.

THE GRAIN GROWERS

Budd Reeve Opens His Convention at Fargo With Large Attendance.

St. Paul, March 21.—A Fargo, N. D., special to the Dispatch says: The Interstate grain growers' convention met in Fargo this morning. There is a large attendance from all over the state and Minnesota. Government experiment stations of the two Dakotas, Minnesota and Manitoba are represented. Mayor Johnson was elected chairman and Superintendent Gregg of the Minnesota farmers' institute, vice president. President Worst of the agricultural college was chosen secretary.

Addresses were made by Budd Reeve on the object of the meeting and by President Worst on the program. The outlook is for a most interesting and enthusiastic session. Three sessions will be held daily. The primary object is to discuss methods for pure seed wheat and other matters of interest to the farmers will be included. There is absolutely no politics in the meeting.

President Hill wires that he will come here for an address whenever wanted. He was extended an urgent invitation and will probably be here Thursday morning. Regular addresses began this afternoon to a crowded house.

Visitors are being welcomed by committees of the leading industries of Fargo and all are being made to feel at home.

THE PRESIDENT'S DAY.

Rest and Not Politics Seems to Be the Program.

Brunswick, Ga., March 21.—President McKinley and all the members of the party enjoyed the delightful drives over the large fine roads of Jekyl island today. The president is in good health and all the members of the party are enjoying their stay. Mr. Bliss was their guide in the afternoon drive, and all members of the presidential party were along. The president and Speaker Reed have not met since their greeting on the wharf yesterday. It has been arranged that today, between 12 and 1 o'clock, all the people on the island shall call informally on the president and Mrs. McKinley, at the Baker cottage, and Mr. Reed will doubtless be among the number. Rest and not politics seems to be the program. The weather is mild and balmy. The party will leave tomorrow evening for Thomasville.

THE ATLANTA AGROUND.

But She Will Be Easily Pulled Off By Tugs.

Milwaukee, March 21.—The Atlanta is a wooden passenger steamer built at Cleveland in 1891. The Inland Lloyds' Vessel Register gives her classification as A1 and her net tonnage as 958. She is valued at $100,000.

Secretary Reynolds of the Goodrich Transportation company has received no further particulars about the steamer, but is of the opinion that she will be released as soon as the tug gets to her and expects the steamer will arrive at her dock in Milwaukee some time this afternoon. Capt. Carter is in command. The number of passengers usually carried during the winter season is between twenty-five and thirty.

The fifty-three passengers who were on board have all been landed safely, and the vessel is resting easily and has suffered very little damage. Capt. Cockran says there is not the least danger of the boat being wrecked, as the ice extends into the lake five miles and is still. The passengers were all in good spirits when rescued, and did not know the boat was ashore until they awoke this morning. The Atlanta went ashore during a terrific wind and snow storm that swept the lake during the night.

Chicago, March 21.—The Goodrich line passenger boat Atlanta draws twelve feet of water. She tried to run an ice field and dodge it, but went too close to shore and now lies on a sandy bottom in eleven and a half feet of water. It is said that the vessel can be easily pulled into deep water as soon as tugs which have been sent from here and Milwaukee reach her. The Atlanta left here at 9 o'clock last night bound for Manitowoc, carrying between thirty and forty passengers and a heavy cargo of freight. The Atlanta is a wooden vessel valued at $100,000 and does not carry any insurance. She was built in 1891 in Cleveland, Ohio, and is 210 feet long with 32 feet beam. She has a carrying capacity of 958 net tons and is rated as "A1."

HELD FOR MURDER.

Woman Strikes a Man With a Bed Slat.

Wichita, Kan., March 21.—Nina Raymond has been arrested charged with the murder of Edwin C. Jones. She admits that she struck him over the head with a bed slat.

AN ABLE DEMOCRAT.

Philadelphia, March 21.—Samuel J. King, who was mayor of this city from 1881 to 1884, died at his home in this city today, aged 83 years. He had been ill for a long time. Mr. King always took an active interest in Democratic politics, and although this city is overwhelmingly Republican, he was elected on the reform ticket by a large majority.

CREAMERY MUTUALS

House Committee Recommends Passage of Bill for Creamery Insurance.

ON DECORATION DAY

Mr. Sloan Would Not Allow People to Do Any Desecrating.

From a Staff Representative.

St. Paul, March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house bill to amend laws authorizing the organization of mutual creamery fire insurance companies was recommended for passage by the insurance committee. Among the new bills were:

Sloan—To amend the general laws of 1897 to prohibit the desecration of Decoration day and provide punishment thereof.

Johnsrud—Constitutional amendment defining length of legislative sessions, limiting the session to sixty days.

Swanson—To prohibit owners or occupants of lands from digging and opening ditches whereby surface waters are conducted into adjoining lands to the damage thereof, and provide a penalty.

When Senator Browers' bill ceding to the United States jurisdiction over land for public buildings at St. Cloud and Fergus Falls was reported to the house, Mr. Mallette read a letter from the federal authorities reciting the need for such a law, and the bill was passed under suspension of the rules.

The attendance was so slim that the first bill on the calendar was defeated, whereupon the house went into committee of the whole, Sloan presiding, for consideration of bills on general orders. Dunn's bill to make possible the suing of stockholders of failed concerns when such stockholders live outside the state was recommended for passage. Most of the time was spent in discussion of the state capitol amendments. One was first defeated and then left on its place on general orders in hope of amending acceptably.

MANY BILLS PASSED.

Also Large Number of New Measures In the Senate

St. Paul, March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Among the new senate bills today were:

Ryder—To legalize bonds heretofore issued by townships in certain cases.

Ryder—To amend the statutes of 1894 relating to powers of cities.

Snyder—To legalize mortgage foreclosure sales heretofore made.

Sheehan—To amend laws relating to county support of societies for prevention of cruelty.

Sheehan—To regulate public accountants.

McGill—To provide for giving notice of malfeasance by public officers to bondsmen.

Baldwin—To amend laws regulating incorporation of villages, relating to public improvements.

DR. NANCY GUILFORD.

Her Trial For Alleged Murder Has Been Started.

Bridgeport, Conn., March 21.—The trial of Dr. Nancy A. Guilford on a charge of murder in the second degree in causing the death of Emma Gill, of Southington, Conn., by criminal practice, was begun today. BANK VAULTS BLOWN UP.

The Burglars Were Evidently Frightened From Their Work.

Medway, Mass., March 21.—The Medway Savings bank's vaults were blown open by burglars last night. From the fact that a second fuse, applied for the purpose of forcing open the strong-box, had not been lighted, it is thought the men were frightened away by the noise of the explosion. The bank office was completely wrecked.

THE STANDARD OIL CASE.

Attorney General Monnett Says He Cannot Secure Witnesses

New York, March 21.—The hearing in the case of the state of Ohio ex rel F. S. Monnett, attorney general, against the Buckeye Pipe Line company, of Lima, Ohio, was resumed today in the office of Charles Edgar Mills, sitting as special commissioner. Attorney General Monnett conducted his side of the case. Messrs. Elliott and Kline appeared for the company. It was expected that the state of Ohio would present representatives of three or four important oil refineries of Ohio to give information as to the alleged arbitrary methods of the pipe company. Before the proceedings opened Mr. Monnett announced that he had been unable to secure those witnesses, and after a brief re-examination of George Rice he would close his case for the time being. Mr. Monnett explained that he was informed that while the local courts could compel the attendance of his witnesses, they could not punish them if they refused to testify.

The proceedings against the pipe line company are to secure an annulment of its charter on the grounds that the company has violated the anti-trust law of Ohio and that, in defiance of the courts, it is still a member of the Standard Oil trust.

The purpose of calling Mr. Rice today was to allow him to testify in contradiction to the statement of John D. Archbold that he had attempted to blackmail the Standard Oil company by demanding $500,000 for his oil properties, which were worth about $25,000.

Mr. Rice, replying to the attorney's invitation that he make a statement, read from a lengthy manuscript. "It is true," he said, "that in 1896, on their solicitation, I did submit a proposition to sell all of my oil properties—not only my refinery, but production as well, for the sum stated.

Mr. Rice quoted from the letters of Mr. Archbold, already published, to show that the Standard Oil company had had his proposition under consideration. The Standard company, Mr. Rice said, by its control of the railroads, had raised the freight rates so that it was impossible for him to carry on his business, and closed up fourteen of his agencies out of twenty-four in five months.

"Is it not a fact," asked Mr. Kline, that in 1890 you sent to the Standard Oil company, through Mr. Orvis, an offer to accept $500,000 for all your oil properties, agreeing if the offer was accepted to abate litigation?"

"Yes, I guess I did."

Mr. Rice's testimony to the same effect given at the hearing in Columbus was read to him and he said it was correct.

Replying to Mr. Kline, Mr. Rice said that in 1879 he offered to sell his refinery to ex-Senator Campbell for $20,000. The offer did not include any of his oil properties. When he offered to sell his property late, it included 200 acres of oil land, a production of 200 barrels of oil a day and a quantity of expensive machinery.

Mr. Monnett asked counsel if they objected to producing officers of the pipe line company to testify, and Mr. Kline that he had nothing to say on that subject. The attorney general, he said, had power to compel the attendance of witnesses. Mr. Monnett replied that he knew he could get witnesses, but as he could not compel them to testify in this state, he had not appealed to the courts. With this statement Mr. Monnett declared the proceedings closed for the time being. He will leave for Ohio today.

When the original complaint was served upon the defendant company thirty interrogatories were attached to it. The company entered a demurrer to the interrogatories. If the courts decide that the questions must be answered, no further hearing will be necessary. Should the courts sustain the demurrer the officers of the company will be summoned to testify in order that their refusal may be shown in the minutes.

THEIR FRIENDS DENY.

Washington, March 21.—Friends alike of Senators Quay and Penrose in Washington refuse to countenance the report wired from Youngstown, Ohio, that in case of the failure of the Pennsylvania legislature to elect a United States senator to succeed Mr. Quay, Senator Penrose will retire and the governor of the state will appoint Quay, thus continuing him instead of Mr. Penrose as the only senator from Pennsylvania. Adherents of both senators here profess to be hopeful that there will be an election before the adjournment of the legislature, which will not occur till April 20. Senator Quay is now in Florida and Senator Penrose in Philadelphia.

Harrisburg, March 21.—The fifty-fourth ballot for United States senator taken today resulted: Quay, 88; Jenks, 75; Dalzell, 17; Stewart, 6; Huff, 6; Rice, 2; Ritter, 1; Widener, 3; Stone, 4; Irvin, 4; Tubbs, 2; Smith, 2; Grow, 1; total vote, 211; necessary to a choice, 106; paired and not voting, 42; no election.

THREE MINNESOTANS SHOT.

Were Wounded In the Advance Upon Caloocan.

St. Paul, March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Adjt. Gen. Lambert today received from Col. Ames of the Thirteenth Minnesota a report dated Feb. 12 which contains a record of three men wounded, all of them while fighting with Company K, of the Twentieth Kansas infantry, in the advance upon Caloocan and Malabon.

The three men reported wounded are: Benjamin Ohrman, Company L, shot in the left leg just above knee, in the advance upon Caloocan, Feb. 10; James Hartley, Company D, shot through the calves of both legs; William Fitch, of Company D, left thigh, in the advance upon Malabon, Feb. 11. None of the wounds are serious.

In his account Col. Ames says that these three men, while off actual patrol duty, went out to witness the engagement of the troops, taking their rifles and ammunition with them. There they fell in with Company K of the Twentieth Kansas infantry in the advance of that regiment upon Caloocan and Malabon, and saw plenty of fighting for a time.

FARMERS LORD OF ALL.

Bicycles Must Turn Out For Teams on Country Roads.

Madison, Wis., March 21.—The assembly passed Senator Roehr's bill for the reorganization of the board of normal regents. Judge Orton protested against its passage because it legislated the governor out of his ex-officio position on the board and made the state superintendent the head of the normal regents, and because it extends terms from three to five years. Guth's bill requiring bicycles to yield right-of-way to wagons on country roads passed by a vote of 45 to 35. The anti-lobby bill was laid over until Friday in the senate. Eight bills passed. Bills taxing express, sleeping car, freight lines and equipment were advanced to third reading without debate.

There is a prospect that the bill for immediate abolition of passes will go through both houses by the end of the week. The assembly this morning sent to a third reading without a dissenting vote the anti-pass bill framed by the senate, with technical amendments.

The bill amending the act creating a superior court in Douglas county was advanced to a third reading in the senate.

BOTH PENS PEPPERY

W. J. Bryan Sends Perry Belmont a Rather Warm Answer.

HE GETS ONE BACK

Bryan Says Belmont's Club Is Republican Masquerading as Democratic.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 21.—Hon. W. J. Bryan last evening gave out the following correspondence to the Associated Press, having been notified that it had not been made public by Mr. Belmont. Mr. Bryan stated that he had nothing to say about the matter but that the correspondence spoke for itself:

Champaign, Ill., March 16, 1899.—Hon. Perry Belmont, President Democratic Club, New York. Dear Sir—I received, a few days ago, the following telegram:

New York, March 5.—Hon. W. J. Bryan, Lincoln, Neb. In arranging the toasts and responses at the banquet of the Democratic club of Jefferson's birthday, April 13, the committee are most desirous, if your engagements will permit your attendance, to have you select such subject as you prefer to discuss in your own way within the limit set for all speeches, of 20 minutes. Please wire reply.

PERRY BELMONT, President.
RICHARD CROKER, Chairman.

Upon my return to Nebraska I sent you the following inquiry:

Lincoln, Neb., March 13.—Hon. Perry Belmont, New York: Invitation received. Remembering that you openly repudiated the Democratic platform in the last campaign, I desire to know, before answering invitation, whether you have since the election publicly announced your conversion to the principles set forth in that platform. W. J. BRYAN.

I have just received your reply. The invitation extended you is on behalf of the Democratic club. Individual opinions have not been considered in issuing the invitation to celebrate the birthday of Thomas Jefferson. PERRY BELMONT.

I might plead a previous engagement as a reason for declining, but that would be equivalent to saying that I would come but for the engagement; but frankness compels me to add another reason. I appreciate the compliment which the Democratic club pays me in extending an invitation, but I do not understand how individual opinions can be ignored at a political gathering. You are the president of the club and represent the club before the public. Your position upon public questions was well known in 1896, and your telegram indicates that your position has not been changed. My position upon public questions is also well known. The antagonism between our opinions is so great that we cannot with propriety join in a political banquet given in honor of Democracy's patron saint.

Jefferson stood for certain well defined principles. If your views are a correct reflection of his ideas, I fear that my voice would sound a discordant note at your banquet. If, on the other hand the Chicago platform applies (as I believe it does) Jeffersonian principles to present conditions, then your conspicuous presence at the Jeffersonian banquet would not honor the memory of the world's greatest Democrat.

I do not misunderstand me. You may be right and I may be wrong, but I take it for granted that we are equally conscientious and I trust that I may not show myself less eager to express in principle cannot be harmonized, and in my judgment no party advantage is to be derived from political communion between Jeffersonian Democrats who stand upon the Chicago platform and the Republican allies who masquerade as Democrats between campaigns in order to give more potency to their betrayal of Democratic principles on election day. Yours truly,

W. J. BRYAN.

Dear Sir—I have just received your letter of March 16, in which you assert that those who declared in 1896 that your election to the presidency on the Chicago platform "would endanger the nation's welfare" by the Republican allies, who masquerade as Democrats between campaigns in order to give more potency to their betrayal of Democratic principles on election day."

Mr. Belmont then goes on to say before answering "the unwarranted letter," he had instituted a suit against a New York newspaper on account of an alleged libel in which he was characterized as a "higher-priced man than the floater who sells his vote for $2 on election day," and continues:

Your purpose to be equally defamatory is obvious. Your skill in the use of words forbids the plea that in your letter you misused them through ignorance. The design is plain and were it not that you have interposed in your abuse references to my opinions upon public questions as opposed to your own, to the Democratic club of which I am president and to its avowed celebration of Jefferson's birthday, I should have left your offensive statements unanswered.

The Democratic club of New York has a membership of nearly 2000. Democrats who all hold to the main principles of Democracy, while their opinions may vary in regard to such political questions as are not fundamental, hopefully look upon transitory, like many of the vain conceits you have yourself espoused. But none of these 2000 members is a Republican. As for myself, I have never voted for a Republican candidate for either a great or small office.

The board of governors and the president of so large a Democratic organization endeavored to present officially the wishes of the majority, which was that the coming anniversary of the birthday of Jefferson should be celebrated by our organization as in previous years. To recall those principles and traditions with which its name has so continually been associated, tends to bring about a revival of Democratic control, based on public questions, the conditions of which are not transitory.

To the explanation made to you "that individual opinions have not been considered," you replied that "you do not understand how individual opinions can be ignored in a political gathering." Then you proceed to contrast your opinions with mine, to emphasize their antagonism and finally declared that "you and I cannot with propriety join in a political banquet given in honor of Democracy's patron saint."

Your contention is that the Chicago platform applies Jeffersonian principles to "present conditions," and that because I criticised that platform in its application to conditions existing three years ago and then resisted your candidacy to the presidency, therefore my presence at the proposed dinner would not honor the world's greatest Democrat.

The course of events will probably prove your understanding of the relations of individual opinions to Democratic gatherings and it is therefore not required of me now to indulge in a long discourse on the relations in your politics of temporary to permanent questions.

On returning from the Chicago convention I explained my course in a public address to my constituents and justified my protest on the ground that legislation and executive action in enforcing the Chicago platform would be an assault on wages and savings, bring on silver monometallism and impair the obligations of contracts. I therefore contended wherever I had opportunity that insistence by the United States on the coinage ration of 16 to 1 would be the grave of international bimetallism, and that if Europe opened its mints at 15½ and this government persisted in the ratio of 16 to 1, the result would be as in 1834 and the United States would be left with only a subsidiary currency.

I answer you as an individual and not as committing the organization of which I am president.

No copy of your letter or this reply has been seen by any member of the Democratic club and will not until after the reply has been mailed to you. It is not practical for me to recall in this letter the substance of what I have written or spoken during or since the last presidential campaign in regard to the Chicago platform and its many phases and although I do not in any way recognize your right to question my Democracy I am sending you by this mail a volume which correctly gives the list of everything which has been published and you are at liberty to indicate and expose any portion that is unpatriotic, unDemocratic, un-American or in conflict with the Democratic creed as set forth in Jefferson's first inaugural address.

PERRY BELMONT.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 21.—Mr. Bryan last night said to the Associated Press that he would attend the Dollar banquet in New York if postponed until April 13, if the management of the entertainment made it distinctly a Chicago platform banquet.

SPORTING NOTES.

At Indianapolis, Johnny Van Heest got the decision last night in a 10-round go with George Elliott, of Indianapolis. Elliott's condition alone saved him a knockout.

Floyd A. McFarland, champion sprint bicyclist of the Pacific coast, has decided to accept the challenge of Harry Elkes for a race at any distance the latter may name, provided the purse is large enough to assure the winner $1000 after the pacemakers are paid. He will not consent to any division of the purse. McFarland has received a challenge from Eddie McDuffie which he will accept on the same conditions he asks from Elkes.

Showalter won the last game of the series against Janowski at the Manhattan Chess club yesterday. The Kentuckian won four games outright in the series. Janowski secured only two games.

Of all the bereavements which are possible to a home, the loss of a child is perhaps the most disappointing, and the hardest to bear. During the heated spell in the summer in New York City as many as a thousand babies have died in a week. Of course, in a crowded city, with its unsanitary districts, many of these deaths would have occurred any way. The fact remains that this tremendous mortality was to a great extent due to the lack of inherent resisting power in the victims. These babies when born had in their bodies the seeds of disease. The deadly heated term only shortened the period of their sufferings.

If a woman wishes her babies to be healthy and strong and able to resist the usual ailments of childhood, she must take proper care of herself in a womanly way during the period of gestation. A woman who suffers from weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine is unfitted for wifehood and motherhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a wonderful medicine for ailing women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned. It makes them well and strong. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain, stops exhausting drains and gives rest and tone to the tortured nerves. Thousands of women have testified to its almost miraculous merits. Many of them have permitted their names, addresses, experiences and photographs to be reproduced in Dr Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. This great book used to sell for $1.50, now it is absolutely free. It tells all about the home-treatment of ordinary diseases. It contains 1008 pages, and over 300 illustrations. Several chapters are devoted to the diseases of women. For a paper-covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.; Cloth binding, 10 cents extra. "Favorite Prescription" can be obtained in any good medicine store.

TO SURVEY ALASKA

HIS FORMER REPORT

He Says Agriculture Is Practicable Along Copper River Valley.

Washington, March 21.—Capt. W. R. Abercrombie of the United States army has left Washington on his third military reconnaissance into Alaska. Capt. E. F. Glenn, who also has been directed to make a military reconnaissance into Alaska, will follow him in a few days. The first duty enjoined upon those officers is to proceed to Montana and purchase range ponies to be used as pack animals. No reindeer will accompany the expeditions. The two expeditions named will be the best equipped of any that have thus far penetrated that colossal domain of the ice and snow. In addition to better boats will be the experience already gained in Alaska by the explorers themselves.

Last summer Capt. Abercrombie explored the Copper River valley for the purpose of establishing an all-American route to the Klondike. Capt. Glenn's instructions on a previous trip were to begin the big journey at Cook's inlet and to discover if possible the most direct and practicable route from tide water to one or more crossings of the Tanana river in the direction of the Yukon between Forty Mile creek and Circle City. He was also expected to discover, if possible, a passage through the Alaska mountains south of Tanana, and especially to cover as much territory as possible between the Yukon, Tanana, Copper and Shushitna rivers. In this Capt. Glenn and his associates did not wholly succeed, and in their endeavor to carry out their instructions passed through many trials and great suffering.

Capt. Abercrombie, in his report to the war department of last summer's work, says that the map of Alaska shows only two lines of travel into that section of the interior, and both are confined to the main artery of drainage—the Yukon river. The southern route from Seattle to the Klondike of Dawson City is by rail from Skaguay at the head of Lynn canal over the White pass to the headwaters of the Yukon, which rises in a series of lakes in a flat, marshy country. Through this region the construction of a railway will be a difficult problem, and the prospectors take a line of steamers at these lakes, passing through them into Lewis river, thence down to the junction of the Lewis and Pelly rivers, which originates the Yukon. Going down the Yukon the Klondike region is entered and Dawson City is reached at a distance of about 575 miles from the coast. As a means of water transportation this route is available for only about four months in the year.

The northern route from Seattle is entirely by water, and from St. Michael's, at the mouth of the Yukon follows that stream in a northeasterly direction to Fort Yukon. Here at the mouth of the Porcupine river it turns and follows a southeasterly course to Dawson City. Capt. Abercrombie here remarks with considerable emphasis that from Skaguay at the head of the Lynn canal, from Yukon at the mouth of the Porcupine, and St. Michael's at the mouth of Yukon it will be observed that this river forms the arc of the circle. Of this arc Fort Valdez is the axis. To put is more plainly, consider the arc of the circle as a portion of the felee of a wheel, with Fort Valdez as the hub. Strange as it may appear, in making this great curve the Yukon parallels almost the trend of the coast line at a distance of some 500 miles from the sea. Comparing the mileage between St. Michael's and Dawson City, which is 1600, and that from Skaguay to Dawson City, which is 575 miles, it is found that the Skaguay route is 1025 miles the shorter. Comparing the distance from Skaguay to Dawson City, 575 miles, with that from Fort Valdez to Dawson City, 100 miles, it is found that the difference is 125 miles in favor of the Valdez route.

It is apparent from these figures, says Capt. Abercrombie, that there are but two routes of communication to be considered—the Skaguay and the Valdez routes. He says regarding the fact that the Skaguay route passes through foreign territory and involves the taxation; with the usual formalities and delays, it will be found topographically that the Lynn canal and Fort Valdez are about the same altitude, with a difference in elevation of the White pass on the Skaguay route and the Thompson pass on the Valdez route of about 1000 feet in favor of Thompson pass. The meteorological conditions are about the same.

As far as agricultural possibilities are concerned, Capt. Abercrombie believes that there is no comparison between the two routes. He thinks the Copper river valley will produce all the cereals, garden truck, small fruits, etc., that will be required for the mining population which may hereafter inhabit the Copper river, Tanana and Forty Mile districts of Alaska.

The gradient into the interior for railroad construction is practically nominal. Bridge timber, timber for railroad ties, coal and iron, Capt. Abercrombie believes, will be found in abundance. He says that he did not understand that he was directed to make a preliminary report on the route for a railroad, but was simply to report whether the topographical features of the Torain are such as to render the construction of a road practicable. Not only does he regard it possible, but believes it to be a commercial proposition of great merit. All the natural routes, gradients considered, are confined to the Keystone pass at starting for passage through the coast range of mountains. Having passed this range at a point in the rear of Corbin's pass, he says there are three possible routes. These are up Lowe river through the Keystone pass to the headwaters of the Tasuna, thence down that river to its junction with the Copper, a distance of forty-nine miles from tidewater; second, up the Holden valley to the Konsina divide, thence down the Konsina to its junction with the Copper, ninety-three miles from tidewater, and, third, up the Holden valley and over the Thompson pass, thence into the Copper river valley. Having reached the Copper River valley, it is possible to proceed in any direction, the deposits of iron and coal dictating the course of the preliminary line. The remainder of the report deals with sites for military posts and outlying stations, the Indians of the Copper River valley, meteorological observations, the Copper river mining excitement of 1898, the drainage and subdrainage of the Copper River valley, the economic geology of the country traversed and the insects that are found in the Copper River region.

IT WAS A MURDER.

A Kansas Father Is Charged With Killing His Five Children.

Hutchinson, Kan., March 21.—An atrocious crime was revealed here yesterday when the coroner and his assistants removed the dead bodies of five little children from the house occupied by John Moore, which burned at an early hour. A coroner's jury investigated the case and in accordance with the jury's returns, Moore, father of the dead children, was arrested on a charge of murder. The tragedy has caused much excitement here and there is some talk of lynching the prisoner. However, a lynching is not looked for.

When the firemen and neighbors reached the burning house, the father was the only member of the family of seven found outside. His actions were queer and he would not talk. While the building was still burning and his children were within the burning walls, he took a horse from his stable and rode away. When the firemen entered the house after having partly quenched the flames they found the five children lying side by side in bed on the floor, all dead, but not badly burned. The skull of each child was deeply indented and from the dents long fractures extended. All but one of the children had been stabbed in the neck.

When Moore was called before the coroner's jury and questioned as to his riding away from the fire, he explained by stating that his wife was away from home attending a sick friend and that he went to tell her of their loss.

The family came here from Emporia about three weeks ago. Mrs. Moore's father, M. F. Franklin, stated that Moore has brooded over the fact that he was out of work, and the father-in-law seems to think that if Moore committed the crime he must have lost his mind brooding over his troubles.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The Opinione revives the story that Don Carlos, the Spanish pretender, has secured advances of several millions from English and French bankers, and will soon enter Spain. The precise date is decreed until the ratifications of the treaty of peace between Spain and the United States have been exchanged, but, according to the Opinione, the Carlists and Spanish generals and officers will start a revolution after the exchange is made.

Owing to the inability of the California legislature, which has adjourned, to elect a United States senator to succeed Stephen M. PARSNIP COMPLEXION.

A majority of the ills afflicting people today can be traced to kidney trouble. It pervades all classes of society, in all climates, regardless of age, sex or condition.

The sallow, colorless-looking people you often meet are afflicted with "kidney complexion." Their kidneys are turning to a parsnip color, so is their complexion. They may suffer from indigestion, bloating, sleeplessness, uric acid, gravel, dropsy, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, or irregular heart. You may depend upon it, the cause is weak, unhealthy kidneys.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same remedy. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, will build up and strengthen weak and unhealthy kidneys, purify the diseased, kidney-poisoned blood, clear the complexion and soon help the sufferer to better health.

The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, such as weak kidneys, catarrh of the bladder, gravel, rheumatism and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble. It is sold by druggists in 50-cent and $1 sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton, N. Y.

THE QUARANTINE.

That at Savannah May Pass Into National Control.

Savannah, Ga., March 21.—Negotiations are pending between the national government and the Savannah City government by the terms of which the city quarantine station may pass under the control of the national marine hospital service. The mayor is favorably disposed towards the transfer of authority, believing the health of the city would be better safeguarded, and that the local taxpayers will be saved $20,000 a year, the present cost of the quarantine. The negotiations are the outcome of the detention of government transports from Cuba with soldiers. Arrangements have been perfected whereby all soldiers from the West Indies will be stopped at Fort Pulaski, fourteen miles down the river, for disinfection and detention, and if the quarantine station passes into national control there will be no open door policy for incoming vessels from any infected port.

National convention Epworth League, Epworth union, Richmond, Va., July 12 to 16, one lowest regular first-class fare, plus $2, from association territory, Utah and east.

Postage to Be Reduced to One Cent

The enormous increase in the number of letters carried in the United States mails makes it certain that the rate of postage must eventually be reduced to 1 cent an ounce. The president who succeeds in getting such a measure through congress will hold a high place in the esteem of the people, but no higher than the esteem in which everybody holds Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This medicine has an unequalled record in reducing the sickness of mankind. It gets at the starting point of disease by acting upon the stomach direct, helping that important organ in its duty of digesting food. It makes good appetites, allays nervousness, stimulates the kidneys and makes a run-down man or woman feel like a new person. Try it.

THE THRESHING TRUST.

Marion, Ohio, March 21.—The only obstacle which now stands in the way of the consummation of the threshing trust is the Huber company, and the indications are that an option will be secured by representatives of the trust tomorrow evening, when a meeting is to be held by the stockholders. President E. Huber is averse to selling, but there are enough stockholders who favor the trust to complete the deal.

FIGHTING FREEDOM

Samuel Gompers Says That Is Our Position In the Philippines.

ARMIES A MENACE

Organized Labor Will Some Time Refuse to Make War Implements.

Boston, March 21.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was the principal speaker at the peace meeting held in Tremont temple under the auspices of the Good Citizens' Peace society. Mr. Gompers referred to the position of organized labor on the question of expansion and said:

"If it was right for the founders of this government to fight for free government, it is not today right to fight against it. We are today fighting against the only Asiatic country that has ever made an attempt to establish a republican form of government, and we are today seriously considering taking part in a plan to divide up China because it will help commerce.

"The organizations of labor recognize that a large standing army is a menace to liberty and fomenter of trouble between man and man. If peace cannot be secured in any other way, the time is coming when federated labor will refuse to make implements that are intended to strike down their fellowmen; when shipbuilders will refuse to construct vessels of war; when sailors will refuse to navigate ships of war and when all workers will refuse to contribute their labors in any way for the slaughter of their brethren, wherever they may be. There was a treaty being formulated by the union workers of Great Britain and America which will make peace necessary without the intervention of governments. There has never been a conference of workers that has not declared for tranquility and peace."

ADVANCE IN WHEAT

Unfavorable News of American and European Crops Caused Firm Feeling.

THE DEMAND IS GOOD

Prospects In Favor of Good Export Business at New York.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 21.—The wheat market is becoming stronger, as the winter wheat sown last fall under the most favorable conditions has been seriously damaged by the peculiar weather conditions which have prevailed. Reports from all the wheat-producing states confirm this impression. The estimates as to the damage vary in a marked degree, some states reporting almost a total loss, while others report that the crop will be of fair size, but of a poor quality. Ohio, judging from the reports, appears to have suffered less than other states, while the conditions in Illinois are unfavorable, to say the least. The period of fall growth ended with the sudden and severe cold weather which marked the closing week of December, when the line of zero temperature reached south as far as central Kansas and Northern Missouri. This sudden and severe drop followed a period of open, balmy weather, and found the ground saturated with moisture and the whole breadth almost entirely bare of any snow protection. From that date forward to the present time the season has been characterized by weather conditions that could scarcely have been worse for the plant. The extent and severity of the cold weather of January and February were unprecedented, and in but comparatively few districts was the plant protected during its continuance. Apparently all conditions have been favorable to serious and widespread injury, but at the same time it must be clearly understood that observers who are closest in touch with the fields are not yet ready to pass final judgment upon the situation. Except in the extreme Southern belt spring growth has not yet begun, and while fields are brown and blackened, the cautious and careful observer knows that this is always more or less true at this date, and realizes that April rain and sunshine will give a radical change to the general appearance. There is an impression, however, that the spring will be very late and this means late harvests. In the meantime all demands must come out of present supplies. Consumption was never better, and prices are below the average of all but years of little or oppression, while stocks are not large. The prospects today were favorable for a good export business, and there was fear of damage to the crop in Europe by cold weather, and with the unfavorable domestic crop advices the market started firm. It ruled fairly strong throughout the session and closed quite firm, with a net gain of ⅛c in Duluth and ⅝c at Chicago for the May option. On the curb at Chicago May wheat, which closed at 68¼c, was selling at 68½c this afternoon.

There was a fair amount of trading in futures on the Duluth board. May wheat opened ⅛c higher at 68c, advanced to 68⅜c at 10, fell back to 68c at 12, but was up again to 68¼c at 12:20. It sold down to 68c at 1 o'clock, but closed firm at 68c, a net gain of ⅛c for the day. Cash business was light, only 15,000 bus being sold at 1½c under May for wheat to arrive and 1¾c under for spot stuff. Oats, rye and barley closed unchanged; corn advanced ⅛c and flax declined ¼c. Following were the closing prices:

At 1—No. 1 hard, cash, 68¼c; March, 68c; May, 70½c. No. 1 northern, cash, 66½c; March, 66½c; May, 68c. No. 2 northern, 62¾c. No. 3 spring, 60c. ON THE CHICAGO BOARD.

Chicago, March 21.—Heavy buying by foreigners today owing to apprehension of damage to the crop in Europe on account of cold weather, started wheat firm. The domestic crop advices from the country were generally unfavorable and there was a growing impression among traders that the spring would be very late. Local shipping houses reported good acceptances and an increased inquiry for cash wheat. New York wired that the prospects were for a good export business and the market there stronger for futures on the lighter foreign demand. Under such conditions May wheat opened a shade higher at 67⅞@68c, and rose gradually to 68⅜@68½c. Chicago received 81 cars, of which one graded contract. Minneapolis and Duluth got 363 cars compared with 230 for the corresponding day a year ago.

Corn derived a firm undertone from light receipts and higher cables. Shipping houses reported a good cash inquiry for immediate shipment. Elevator concerns and receiving houses bought freely. Receipts 305 cars. May opened a shade higher at 31⅜@31½c, and improved to 34⅝@34¾c.

Oats ruled firm and fairly active with scattered buying by commission houses. Receipts 240 cars. May began a shade lower at 26⅛@25⅞c and rose to 26⅛c.

Buying by packers of lard and ribs exerted a strengthening influence in provisions. May pork opened unchanged at $8.92 and advanced to $8.97. May lard started a shade lower at $5.25 and rose to $5.30. May ribs began unchanged at $4.67 and sold up to $4.70.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, March 21.—The cotton market opened steady with prices unchanged to three points higher and ruled quite active during the forenoon. The scope of fluctuations, however, was very narrow, limited orders putting in an appearance on all declining and advancing tendencies. The English cables reflected a better situation abroad than the crowd had anticipated considering the weakness of yesterday, and were largely responsible for the opening improvement here. The foreign element were heavy sellers during the early part of the session, offering the new crop positions in large blocks at prices a shade above last night's final figures. Wall street and local shorts absorbed the larger part of this cotton. New Orleans bought the nearby positions and sold the new crop in a small way. After opening at $5.89, May went off to $5.86; August started at $5.95, touched $5.91, then advanced to $5.97. Estimates pointed to a larger movement at the ports for the week than at first anticipated, and private advices indicated continued free receipts at nearly all interior towns.

Spot cotton closed quiet and unchanged; sales, 675 bales. Futures closed steady. March, $5.89; April, $5.87; May, $5.91; June, $5.94; July, $5.99; August, $5.89; September, $5.96; October, $5.97; November, $5.96; December, $5.99; January, $6.02.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, March 21.—The Liverpool market showed a decline at the opening and their market was evidently weak through the day as it closed ⅜d lower than it did yesterday. Bradstreet's figures showed an increase in wheat of 678,000 bus against a decrease of 2,597,000 bus last year; so far as we know these were the only bits of bearish news during the session. Of course we have had had crop damage news now for a long time, today people began to believe in them who have before doubted them or been indifferent to them, and they bought a good deal of wheat and continued to buy it up to the close. The market opened at 68c for May, sold up to 68½@68⅝c, down to 67⅞c, and closed at 68¼c. We are told country elevator stocks in the Northwest will be less than 2,000,000 bus April 1. Some wheat was worked at Duluth for export, seaboard reports good business done, other continental markets higher. Minneapolis reports large sales of flour. Sentiment of our local crowd seemed to be bearish.

Corn was strong today. May sold to 34⅞c, closed at 34⅜c, we have now come to a time of bad roads, receipts might be light anyway, but they will be necessarily so now.

There was a fair demand for cash corn; we have a fair stock in store here, 21,000,000 bus, and speculation is light, price a fair one, 5c higher than it was last year.

Oats were firm with only a moderate business done; May closed at 26⅛c against 25⅞c yesterday.

Provisions—Nothing new in the market today, but most of the business was changing May purchases to July. Packers were moderate buyers; closing prices practically the same as those of yesterday.

Puts, May wheat, 67⅝-¾@68⅛c.
Calls, May wheat, 68¾@69⅜c.
Curb, May wheat, 68¼c bid to 69c.
Puts, May corn, 34⅝c asked.
Calls, May corn, 34⅞@35⅛c.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

New York, March 21.—The stock market opened with considerable irregularities, but the variations in the railway stocks except Union Pacific, preferred, which was put up a point were narrow. Burlington made a sharp fractional gain, but some of the low-priced railways were slightly off. Sugar bounded up three points, but soon fell back 2¾. Metropolitan and Tennessee Coal showed aggressive strength, but Continental Tobacco dropped three points after a slight improvement. American Tobacco was under pressure from the start, losing 1⅛. The room traders went gunning for stop loss orders in Sugar and succeeded in dislodging large amounts, causing a break from 168 to 157. The demoralization in this stock caused sympathetic weakness throughout the entire market, but the losses in the standard railroad shares were under a point. Metropolitan, Brooklyn Transit, Tobacco, Glucose, People's Gas and Tennessee Coal suffered severely.

Trading became exceedingly dull in the second hour with slight changes either way in the railways. Brooklyn Transit fell steadily and Sugar, which had recovered to 161½, again broke sharply toward midday, causing a general easing off in other stocks. Sales of stocks to noon, 315,402 shares.

TO PREVENT LYNCHING.

Hutchinson, Kas., March 21.—John Moore, under arrest suspected of murdering his five young children and then firing the house over their heads to cover up his crime, has been taken to McPherson to prevent a lynching. The feeling against him is intense.

TO EXTEND THE COMBINE.

Chicago, March 21.—Several leading window glass manufacturers throughout the country held a conference here today for the purpose, it is said, of forming a combination of all window glass industries of the United States, with a capital stock of $25,000,000. The representatives at the meeting claim that it was merely called to discuss questions of wages.

On the other hand a member of one of Chicago's leading window glass companies said the object is to extend the combination which already exists, but which has not been able to control the trade for the reason that only 75 per cent of the manufacturers have been in it.

LEADING FURRIER SHOT.

Chicago, March 21.—John T. Shayne, the millionaire furrier, of this city, was shot three times today by H. R. Hammond, a merchant tailor, while the two were dining together at the Auditorium Annex. One of the bullets, it is thought, will prove fatal.

PROMINENT MAN SHOT.

Cincinnati, March 21.—A Times Star special from Mayfield, Ky., says that Thomas Tubblefield, nephew of Circuit Judge Robbins, was shot and fatally wounded early today by Joseph Hammonds, of Clarksville, Tenn., in a sudden quarrel.

TWO INDICTED.

St. Louis, March 21.—The grand jury today returned indictments against State Boiler Inspector Charles Price and H. H. Phelper, member of the board of examiners for stationary engineers, for receiving illegal fees. Mr. Price surrendered to the authorities and was released in bonds of $1200.

COLUMBUS CHOSEN.

Memphis, March 21.—The Woodmen of the World in convention selected Columbus, Ohio, as the next meeting place. Charleston, S. C., New Orleans and Denver were the other candidates.

CAPITAL INCREASED.

St. Louis, March 21.—By a practically unanimous vote of the stockholders, the National Bank of Commerce today increased capitalization from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

AT WEST DULUTH

Uppermost Question is as to a Probable Revival of Industry.

SOMETHING ON FOOT

That Is the General Impression Among Business Men at This Time.

The question uppermost in the minds of West Duluth business men is whether or not there will be a general revival of industry here the present season. And the near approach of spring without any apparent move in that direction is causing some to begin to doubt that anything is to be done in the immediate future. The most frequent inquiries that the reporter hears from residents of this end are: "Do you hear anything about the car works? or the blast furnace? or the other plants?" The man who could give a satisfactory answer to these questions would be warmly welcomed here.

The advance in iron and steel prices is noted; the numerous combinations, one of which has absorbed the Superior street plant, are also matters of comment. The question whether the West Duluth car plant may not be taken into the car combine is often asked; also, whether it would be operated or shut down should such a thing take place.

Up to date nobody appears to have a definite answer for any of these queries. But that negotiations are in progress in connection with some of the West Duluth plants there is small doubt. Whether they will amount to anything is another question. There is hope, though, that the general revival in the iron and steel plants will be responsible for resumption of operations at one or more of West Duluth's industrial concerns.

A GOLD MINING CENTER.

The continuous arrival of yellow gold bricks at Duluth, and the bona fide sales that are being made in the Seine River gold fields to men of integrity, good business ability and conservative judgment, are at last attracting the attention of the public at the head of the lakes. Business men, capitalists and the public in general are realizing that there is an important gold field right at our doors, and that Duluth will soon become a mining center for that district. Heretofore Duluth has taken but little interest in these gold fields, as it was presumably supposed that the precious metal could not exist so near at home. The prospectors and men of small means have, however, continued to fight the battle of superstition until at last we find ourselves at the door of a gold producing country of great importance.

It is a district that is actually producing the yellow metal in large quantities; a district where partially developed mines are paying an enormous profit, and where the best properties are yet undeveloped; a district that has been badly managed by inexperienced men in mining matters, but in spite of all this has proven itself a wonder. It is a district that has produced two dividend payers, paying 1 per cent per month on the par value of the stock within eighteen months from the time the first blast was put in; a district that will undoubtedly have four more dividend payers within six months, with others to follow; a district that is attracting the attention of heavy capitalists in Eastern cities, as well as at St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Chicago. Such is the brief history of the Seine River gold fields, within easy reach of Duluth, that are now attracting the attention of the mining world, and as soon as navigation opens will see a rush of gold seekers and capitalists all eager to get their share of wealth that nature has placed at our disposal.

A large number of corporations will be formed in the future to operate in this district. Money will be easy to get to develop good properties, and the next six or eight months will certainly show up some wonderful gold producers in that district. It will be well, however, for the public to not be too hasty in putting in their money. In making investments of this character they should first know that the property in which they are buying is in the proper location; also, if the property has any merit and a reasonably good show to become a producer of the yellow metal, and if it is being handled and managed by experienced mining men of business ability and conservative judgment. This being well considered, money invested accordingly will undoubtedly make the investor large profits in the future, as the Seine River district has absolutely proven itself to be a wonderful gold producer, and nothing can stop it from forging ahead from this on.

Some important deals have been closed within the past month, and many others, to The Herald's knowledge, are pending in that district with men of large means and experience in mining. The Herald will endeavor to keep the public informed from time to time with as reliable information as can be obtained from the Seine River district.

THE GROSS EARNINGS TAXES.

The bill for the distribution of the railroad gross earnings taxes among the counties, according to the value of the railroad property within their limits, has been introduced in the legislature by Mr. Laybourn. What prospect there may be of the bill becoming a law The Herald does not know, because the subject has not been generally discussed by the members. There is no question, however, as to the justice of the proposed distribution of these taxes among the counties. The bill provides that the state shall retain 10 per cent of the whole amount for its own use, while the remaining 90 per cent shall go to the counties in proportion to the amount of railroad property they contain, the latter point being decided by the railroad and warehouse commission.

The property to be estimated and appraised by the commission on the first of June in each county includes value of main tracks, side tracks, switches, turnouts, right-of-way, road bed, machine shops, round houses, water tanks, fuel sheds, freight and passenger stations, grain elevators, warehouses, iron ore and coal docks, and the land on which any of these improvements are located. On the basis of these figures, which are to be certified by the railroad and warehouse commission to the state auditor, the proportion of the gross earnings to be given to each county is determined. Thus it will be seen that the three leading counties will receive money from the state in a far more equitable proportion than at present. These counties now pay most of the state taxes and receive scant return. Not only are the three larger cities affected favorably, but many of the smaller cities would be benefited in proportion, notably Mankato, Winona, Stillwater, St. Cloud, Melrose, St. James, Brainerd, and a number of other points of similar size and importance.

Under the present system the state retaining all the gross earnings taxes, the taxation is unequal and unjust. Other property owners in counties containing large quantities of railroad property are compelled to pay more taxes than they would if the railroad property contributed its proper share of the taxation for village, township, city and county purposes. The supporters of this measure can present a very strong argument in favor of its enactment, and if the legislature be guided by a spirit of fairness and justice it will promptly pass it.

According to advices from Washington to the Chicago Times-Herald, the United States supreme court is about to hand down a decision holding that sellers of options on the boards of trade must give the buyer in each trade a written memorandum thereof, with war revenue stamps attached. For each $100 in value of each trade a 1-cent stamp must be attached. At the closing prices of the May option on the Chicago board of trade last Saturday this tax on single trades of 5000 bushels of grain or 200 barrels of pork would be about as follows: Wheat, 34 cents; corn, 17 cents; oats, 13 cents; pork, 23 cents. When the enormous volume of the trading in options is considered it will be seen that this decision will yield the government hundreds of thousands of dollars every year as long as the war revenue tax remains in effect. This will be another important addition to "the white man's burden."

The J. C. Ayer company, of Lowell, Mass., has issued a souvenir of its fifty-eighth anniversary that must be classed among the handsomest souvenirs that have ever come under The Herald's notice. It is in the form of a large "red book," gotten up in the most elaborate style within the ability of the engraver and the printer, and reflects great credit upon the literary department of the Ayer company. Pictures of the heads of the various departments of this mammoth business concern are given, prominent among them being the clear-cut countenance of Alfred E. Rose, the able manager, who is ranked among the ablest young business men of the country.

Here are John L. Sullivan's views on the Filipino question, as expressed to a reporter away out West in San Francisco: "We'll always have trouble with that bunch of heathens. I hear they are cannibals, and if they catch a white man they boil him and eat him. Will America stand for that kind of citizens? Not in a thousand. This Aguinaldo is nothing but a fresh kid, and he's making a monkey of himself and the rest of the Filipinos. The only way to make peace in the islands is to exterminate the whole push." John L. is as blood-thirsty as the News Tribune.

Mr. Gompers says if it was right for our ancestors to fight for liberty and self-government, it is wrong for us to fight people who desire the same thing. But Mr. Gompers should remember that we are not fighting the Filipinos to prevent them from obtaining liberty and self-government, but just to show them what a superior article the American brand of liberty is—and incidentally to teach the American people to love their dear president.

"After all, there was nothing the matter with the roast beef—nothing whatever," says the Chicago Journal. "The charges against it are utterly unfounded and could not have been true in any particular. The war inquiry board, or court, or commission, or whatever it is, would as well shut up shop and go home. It has been hunting a phantasm. Why? There was no roast beef. It was all boiled."

Col. H. L. Ward, an old resident of Carlton county and at one time a resident of Duluth, is the composer of both the words and music of a new song, entitled "The Eight-Inch Gun," which has been published in regular sheet music form. It is a patriotic composition and the inspiring words and the stirring music will no doubt secure for it a large measure of popularity.

The Des Moines News asks of there is any intimate connection between the fact that seven-eighths of the trusts are incorporated in New Jersey and that Attorney General Griggs is from New Jersey. The supreme court has declared the trusts unconstitutional and the anti-trust Sherman law is still on the statute books. Why does the attorney general do nothing?

"Both the old parties," says the Des Moines News, "will repeat in their 1900 platforms what they said about trusts in 1896, and the trusts will pay no attention." But what did the Republican party say in its 1896 platform against trusts?

The Milwaukee Sentinel notes that John Wanamaker expended $300,000 in advertising his Philadelphia store last year, and derived a profit of $1,750,000 from the business, in addition to looking after the business of Senator Quay.

John J. Ingalls has nominated Arthur Pue Gorman as a candidate for president in 1900. This is a cheap form of amusement for the ex-senator from Kansas and it cannot do the Maryland ex-senator any harm.

A Washington dispatch says Secretary Alger feels that the people lack confidence in him. How could he have gained such an impression?

How appropriate it is that the political Mr. Hyde should go to Jekyl Island to do his plotting.

Every day adds proof of Gen. Miles' charges about the bad beef supplied to the soldiers.

TO BUILD A BRIDGE.

A Crew of Americans Will Soon Go to Africa.

Philadelphia, March 21.—An erecting gang from the Pencoyd Iron works will leave this city in a few days en route to Africa for the purpose of building a bridge across the Atbara in the Soudan, near Khartoum. The seven spans of the bridge, with a total length of 1100 feet, have already been shipped. The order was placed with the Pencoyd Iron works by the British war office less than six weeks ago. The company was given preference over the English bridge builders because the latter had stated that it would require seven months to complete the structure. The British war office was anxious to have the bridge completed before fall in order to facilitate the operations of Gen. Kitchener against the Mahdists.

ATTACKED BY SOLDIERS.

A Missionary In China Had a Narrow Escape.

Tacoma, Wash., March 21.—The steamer Minshlu Maru brings news that Missionary Parsons of the China Mission society was attacked by imperial soldiers while en route from Chung King to Paoning last month. He left Chung King with an escort of four soldiers provided by the Chinese government. At one point, where they crossed the river, they noticed a great number of men who had just been drafted in the regular army standing on the opposite bank. As they were landing the soldiers started for Parsons with swords and knives. To save himself he jumped into the water and swam into midstream, while his escort ran away. A Chinese gunboat put out from shore and rescued him.

A MINING CASE.

No Damage Where Ore of Another Is Ignorantly Removed

St. Louis, March 21.—Judges Caldwell, Sanborn and Thayer of the United States court of appeals have handed down a decision in the case of the Durant Mining company, plaintiff in error, against the Percy Consolidated Mining company, in error, to the United States circuit court of Colorado. A decree of the lower court, granting the Percy Consolidated Mining company $1431 damages for ores taken from their property by the Durant Mining company was reversed on the ground that one who ignorantly removes ores from another's claim is liable for damages to the value of the ores and no more.

BAD WEATHER CONTINUES.

It Is Twenty Degrees of Freeze In Great Britain.

London, March 21.—Severe weather continues throughout Great Britain. In Leicestershire 20 degrees of frost have been reported. Great loss has occurred among the live stock, and London has experienced the heaviest snowfall of this winter.

Trieste, March 21.—The heaviest gale which has swept the Adriatic sea for years is now raging, and has caused a suspension of all shipping.

Be Contented.

What's the use of constant fretting,
Why not be content and say:
I don't care, what may befall me,
I'll be happy anyway.
Rubbi dubbi duff biff—rubbi dubbi biff bang—
Rubbi dubbi duff biff—bang, biff bang!
I don't care, what may befall me,
I'll be happy or I'll hang.

When my mouth is up for oysters,
And I find I lack the cash,
I decide, that they look nasty,
Then go home and eat my hash.
Rubbi dubbi duff biff—rubbi dubbi biff bang—
Rubbi dubbi duff biff—bang, biff bang!
I don't care, what may befall me,
I'll be happy or I'll hang.

There's a man at Honolulu,
Though suspended he may be,
Draws his salary quite contented,
You don't s'pose, he cares a "D."
Rubbi dubbi duff biff—rubbi dubbi biff bang—
Rubbi dubbi duff biff—bang, biff bang!
How the boys at Santiago
Kicked and hollered: "Boomerang!"

So you see friends, there are moments,
When necessity demands,
To rebel in discontentment
And to kick, then all join hands.
Rubbi dubbi duff biff—rubbi dubbi biff bang—
Rubbi dubbi duff biff—bang, biff bang!
Glorious day when all the nations
Hear the bell of freedom's clang.

Then to help our suffering neighbors,
We joined hands with them 'gainst Spain—
Give these peoples now their freedom,
Let them not have hoped in vain.

Rubbi dubbi duff biff—bang, biff bang!
At Manilla, Yankee Doodle
Was the song, that Dewey sang.

Let them take the "white man's burden,"
Let them reap what they have sown,
Let us, friends, be well contented

CAUGHT IN THE ICE.

Life Saving Crew Goes to the Rescue of Atlanta's Passengers.

Racine, Wis., March 21.—The Goodrich passenger steamer Atlanta is on the beach two miles south of this city. The steamer was caught in the drift ice, which was driven in by the southeast gale. She is reported badly listed. The passengers are still aboard. A life saving crew has gone to the rescue.

Milwaukee, March 21.—The Goodrich Transportation company's steamer Atlanta, bound on her night trip from Chicago to Milwaukee, is fast in the ice four miles south of Racine. She carries about her usual number of passengers and a cargo of freight. Secretary Reynolds of the Goodrich company said the steamer was not ashore, and he considered her not in any danger. "Though she may be in shallow water," said Mr. Reynolds, "the steamer is not ashore." South-southeast wind drifted the ice to the shore, and the steamer, while apparently unable to release herself, is not considered in any danger. A tug has been sent from this city to break the ice around her and make a way for her to get out.

TO MAINTAIN SUMMER CAMPS.

Secretary Alger Decides to Have Some Down South.

Washington, March 21.—Secretary Alger has come to the determination to maintain summer camps for the United States troops in the Southern states, and the delegation of Georgians who called upon him yesterday to secure that object will be so informed. It is also the intention to maintain one of the camps in the neighborhood of Atlanta. The only condition is that the present Georgia regulations for quarantine, which operate so as to prevent the movement of troops absolutely demanded by the military needs of the case, shall be adapted to the requirements.

AGONCILLO GOES TO PARIS.

Has Heard No News From Manilla For Eight Days.

London, March 21.—Agoncillo, the agent of Aguinaldo, has gone to Paris in order to confer with the Filipino junta. Neither body has received news from the Philippine Islands during the past eight days. They say they fear the Americans have discovered and stopped their means of sending news from Manilla.

MUCH SPURIOUS MONEY.

Large Amount to Be Destroyed By the Government.

Washington, March 21.—Preparations are being made by Chief Wilkie of the secret service to destroy $1,221,306,988 of counterfeit coin and bogus notes which have been accumulated by his bureau. When spurious coin and notes, together with the counterfeiter's outfit are captured, an inventory is taken of them and they are properly labeled and boxed until the time arrives for them to be destroyed. The paper money will be macerated by the same machinery which is used in destroying worn out genuine notes, but the metal will be sent to a private foundry here and melted. Many counterfeiters are now serving long terms in the penitentiaries for making this money.

NEW OIL COMBINE.

Three Important Eastern Petroleum Producers Join Their Forces.

Parkersburg, W. Va., March 21.—Very important negotiations have just been closed whereby the Henry Oil company, the Fearless Oil company and the McDonald Oil company become one corporation, which will be one of the largest oil concerns independent of the Standard Oil company.

The three companies have been extensive operators in the Sisterville and Elk Fork pools, and have been very successful. The combined production of the three companies will aggregate 2400 barrels of oil daily, all of which is sold to the Standard Oil company. It has been the desire of the Producers Pipe Line company to enter the West Virginia fields, but never until now have they been in position to secure sufficient oil to pay for building in a line. Now that the Producers company is on the safe side, but with 2400 barrels daily production to start on, this, with the co-operation of the many independent operators in West Virginia fields, it will help its line direct from Pennsylvania to all the fields in this state.

LORD HERSCHELL'S FUNERAL.

London, March 21.—Funeral services over the remains of the late Baron Herschell, who died at Washington on March 1, took place today in Westminster abbey.

The remains were afterwards removed to Waterloo railroad station, to be conveyed to Cliffe, Dorsetshire, where they will be interred.

RUSH OF HOME SEEKERS.

St. Paul, March 21.—The homeseekers' half fare rate on the transcontinental lines went into effect today, and both the roads were compelled to double their facilities in order to handle the crowd. Not less than 5000 people took advantage of the low rates. Many of the travelers bought only one way tickets, which is taken as an indication of an intention to locate permanently in the West.

ENGLISH RACES.

London, March 21.—At the Lincoln spring meeting, of which this was the second day's racing, the Sudbrooke plate was won by Lady Panet. Swirl, with Tod Sloan in the saddle, was unplaced. There were nineteen horses in this event and the betting was 5 to 1 against Swirl.

The Lincolnshire handicap was won by General Peace, owned by Capt. Bewicke. Lord William Beresford's 6-year-old Knight of the Thistle, carrying 116 pounds, with Tod Sloan up, was second, and H. V. Long's 3-year-old colt Lord Edward II was third. Twenty six horses ran.

General Peace is a brown colt by Gallinul, out of Moira, 5 years old, and carried 101 pounds.

FUNERALS OF FIRE VICTIMS.

Chicago, March 21.—The funeral of Mrs. James S. Kirk, one of the victims of the Windsor hotel fire in New York, took place today from the Kirk residence at Evanston. At the same hour the funeral services of two other victims of the Windsor disaster, Mrs. Isabella Cobb Leland and her daughter, Miss Helen Leland, were held at the Leland residence. The Chicago Hotel Men's association adopted resolutions of condolence of the death of Mrs. and Miss Leland and attended in a body.

DO YOU LACK STRENGTH?

If you are weak and exhausted after your encounter with the grip; if you are irritable and nervous and cannot concentrate your mind upon your work; if you have no appetite and what little you eat distresses you; if you are restless and uneasy and spend the greater part of the night in a vain attempt to sleep, you are on the threshold of nervous prostration.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is the best medicine you can get to brace you up. It will quiet the irritation, rest the tired nerves and bring you sweet refreshing, restful sleep. Try it. It does not cost a tenth as much as doctors' fees, and its benefits are certain.

"I was very nervous and irritable, and sometimes would lose all control of my nerves and shake like a leaf in the wind. Could not bear any noise; could not read or study, and the least exertion or excitement would cause a rush of blood to my head, making me feel dizzy and faint. After doctoring for two years without getting any better I commenced using Dr. Miles' Nervine, and in a short time I was able to return to my work a healthy man."

A trial package of Dr. Miles' favorite treatment for the grip, consisting of Dr. Miles' Nervine, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills, will be sent absolutely free of cost to any person sending name and address on a postal card, requesting the samples, and mentioning the name of this paper. THE DAKOTAS.

The Reported Lynching of a Newspaper Man Is Not Credited.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Jamestown—The report, by way of Rapid City, S. D., in the Twin City newspapers that J. W. Connella of the Everett News, a newspaper published in Everett, Wash., was lynched a short time ago, is not believed here. Friends of Connella have received letters from him since the date on which the lynching was said to have been committed. Connella was city editor of the Daily Alert a few years ago, and is well known, not only in Jamestown, but over the state as well. A short time ago he shot a Norwegian named Hanson in self-defense and after a very exciting trial was acquitted. The correspondent at Rapid City reports what a few disgruntled blitherskeets of Everett threatened to do, but did not.

Fargo—H. Carr, an old soldier and an old-timer in North Dakota, was arrested at Davenport on the charge of conducting a blind pig. He was brought to Fargo, acknowledged his guilt and is awaiting Judge Pollock's return from Hillsboro for his sentence. Saturday the officers paid Davenport another visit and this time arrested Frank Carr, a son of the old man, on the same charge. The younger man demanded a preliminary hearing.

Mondan—The city of Mandan is finding ready sale at par for $5000 worth of 5 per cent bonds to take up bonds that are just coming due.

The ice in the Heart river is broken and is now running out. There is not enough snow in the country tributary to the heart to cause any trouble to the settlers along its banks.

P. McGinley, of Dickinson, has purchased the lease of the Union hotel at Mandan. He will buy new furniture, rent the house and open in a few weeks. The Union is the second largest hotel in the city.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Madison—F. Vanlenskiad, the would-be murderer of Hans Nashem, is now in the county jail, not being able to raise the $500 bond imposed by Judge Rodrigue. The victim is able to sit up in a chair a little each day.

Pierre—Albert Fairbanks and Harold Sweet, pupils of the Pierre Indian Industrial school, who submitted samples of their shopwork to the manual training department of the Trans-Mississippi exposition, in competition with similar work from other manual training schools, both white and Indian, have received diplomas awarding them second and third places in the contest. The samples presented were of lathe work, consisting of wooden cup and napkin ring. These boys were pupils of Professor J. B. Hann, teacher of manual training at the school at this city.

It is reported that Father Craft, who organized the Order of American Sisters on the reservation northwest of here, and who was compelled to leave the reservation by order of the agent, is again under orders to move on, this time in Cuba. When driven off the reservation, he came to Fort Pierre, with several members of his order, who are Indians, and at the outbreak of trouble in Cuba, took them to the front, and they joined the army at Santiago, where they worked among the soldiers as nurses. The Catholic archbishop, who has been delegated to investigate the affairs of the Catholic church in Cuba, has ordered them to leave the island. It seems that Father Craft was, years ago, for some cause excommunicated, and his present trouble is probably on that account.

Deadwood—J. P. McCarthy, of Minneapolis, has been awarded the contract for sinking the artesian well at Fort Meade, which is to be put down by the government. The work will commence very soon.

DISPLEASED HIS GOVERNMENT.

Pekin, March 21.—Signor Martini, the Italian minister, has been recalled by his government, and has left Pekin, and Sir Claude MacDonald the British minister, leaves here on Thursday on a leave of absence.

Count Orfina, the Italian minister at Tokio, has been appointed to succeed Signor Martini, whose recall is due to the displeasure of his government at the manner in which he handled the San Mun bay affair.

S. Stearns, mortgagor, to Jed L. Washburn, mortgagee, bearing date the sixteenth day of February, 1891, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Saint Louis, and state of Minnesota, on the twelfth day of September, 1891, at four o'clock p. m., in Book 98 of mortgages, on page ——.

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by said Jed L. Washburn, mortgagee, to William B. A CHANCE TO REDEEM Considerable Sentiment That Original Owner Should Be Allowed to Do So.

MAY REALIZE MORE

County May Then Get a Better Payment of All Taxes.

In the maze of amendments and counter-amendments that hedge about the forfeited tax law there is one that is of peculiar interest to Duluth people, and that is the proposed amendment providing for a short period of redemption from the sale. There is a strongly developed and growing feeling that in the various legislation over tax matters there has been too much done in behalf of the tax title buyer, and entirely too little for the owner of the property. Almost no regard at all has been paid to the unfortunate owner who has been unable to keep up on his taxes during the stress of the hard times that have lately passed, and whose property now stands encumbered with a mass of taxes which it is the province of the forfeited tax law to clear away. The owner, as a rule, is a local man. The tax title buyer, as a rule is an outsider. Between these two there can be no question to which one the benefit of the doubt should lean and it should be obvious enough to require no discussion that the duty and interest alike of the city, county and state require that the owner shall be protected so far as possible.

For the tax title buyer there have been several amendments. For the county, city and state there have been several more. Now it is proposed to have one for the owner, who has been so little considered up to now, and that is the redemption period. It is a notorious fact that as it stands the forfeited tax law provides such promise of good picking that several large syndicates have been formed to bid at the sale. They are foreign syndicates, of course. That should not be against them necessarily, but it cannot be questioned that it will be better for Duluth to have its property owned by Duluth men with interests entwined in those of the city than to have its property owned by men outside, whose interest in the city is at best a much diluted quantity.

The only argument against the redemption period is that it will not make it necessary for the property owner to bid at the sale, and that this will keep the bids down. There will be more than one syndicate bidding, and it will be strange if the rivalry between them is not sufficient to mount the bids up high enough. It is well known that the object of every such clearance sale is not primarily to get money in at the sale, but to place the property on the paying list as current taxes. Many of those who favor the idea of a clearance system of some kind have stated that the county can afford to let the dead back taxes go for nothing if the property is placed on the paying list after having been for several years on the non-paying list. It is a proposition susceptible of proof that without the redemption period this object will be defeated, and that with it only can it be secured.

When the syndicates buy in the property at the sale, there is no reason, unless they transfer some of the property immediately, why they should pay up the taxes in full and continue to pay. The sale only includes taxes for 1895 and prior years, and on nearly all of the property taxes for 1896, 1897 and 1898 are due and unpaid. The syndicates will pay the amounts of their bids, and they will let the other taxes go until it becomes absolutely necessary for them to pay them. On the other hand the local owner of property, who redeems his lots under the proposed redemption amendment, must pay up in full. In order to get money with which to redeem, most of them will have to borrow. They will not be able to borrow money on their property unless they pay up the later taxes in full, and this will bring more money into the treasury than any other way, even more than a law providing that the property could not be sold for less than the full amount of taxes due, for in that case there would be no bids at all.

It seems hardly necessary to state that it will be better for Duluth to have her property owned locally than to have outsiders own it. There is a general feeling that things are picking up for Duluth. In a short time there will be industries seeking admittance to the city. It will be necessary to find sites for them, and then it will become clear that owners are best suited to Duluth. The local owners will have the public spirit, and they will be willing, for the sake of the general good and for the enhancement of the value of surrounding property, to let the sites go at a reasonable rate. The foreign owners, however, will have put their money into property to make quick and large returns, and they will insist upon so generous a pound of flesh that it will be impossible to get reasonable figures for manufacturing sites out of them.

There will be found interviews with two prominent Duluth lawyers, one of whom favors the measure, and the other of whom opposes it. William H. Phelps, the county attorney, does not think the redemption period should be allowed. He said yesterday afternoon:

"When people go to that sale they will go to get bargains. They will expect to get $1 worth of property for 15 or 20 cents. That is the only thing that will tempt them to put their money into the sale. Now if you are going to run in a short period of redemption and make it possible for the owner or anyone who takes an assignment of his interest to take his bargain away from him immediately, they will not touch it."

J. L. Washburn is heartily in favor of the period of redemption. When seen about it yesterday afternoon, he had no hesitancy about expressing himself in its favor. He said:

"When I argued against the refunding amendment at St. Paul I said that if it was going in it should be accompanied by a redemption period, and I believe that one is absolutely necessary. The owners of property are entitled to at least as much protection as any one else. There are a large number of owners who are not familiar with the law and the manner of conducting the sale, and they should be given a short time in which to redeem, and the law should not permit their property to be snapped out of their reach without any recourse for them. The period of redemption will give the owners a little time in which to get on their feet and borrow money enough to redeem, and the public will be the gainer and not the loser by it."

AMUSEMENTS.

"WHO IS WHO."

"Who is Who" was the title of a very poor show given at the Lyceum last evening. It came here with the flattering encomiums of the press of Fargo and Butte, and evidently endeavored to hoodwink the people of Duluth on the strength of those. They did not gather in a great many, however, for the audience was not a large one. The bad features were too numerous to mention, and the good ones were few. Charles Mason as the German and Miss Stowe as Mrs. Sockett played their parts better than any of the others. John Kelly was passably good. Grace Cummings is a dizzy-haired, girlish-voiced soubrette, who occupies a good deal of the stage, and who should be relegated to the rear. The entire cast was poor. The performance was filled with specialties, most of them very poor. The Whiting sisters, cornetists, were very good, and were recalled several times. The German Singing society was also very good. The singing generally was of a very poor order, and the dancing was very ordinary.

JAMES HEDLEY'S LECTURE.

Tomorrow evening James Hedley will lecture at the First Methodist church in the Star Lecture course on "The Sunny Side of Life." He has delivered this lecture hundreds of times. A Keokuk, Iowa, exchange said of him:

"Dr. Hedley is a wonderful word painter, and his choice of words is pure and faultless. He is a raconteur of rare ability, and his effort of last evening was interspersed with apt illustrations and anecdotes told in his own inimitable style. Perhaps his greatest charm lies in the grace and ease of his diction. The matchless beauty of his language and the chain of thought it sustains makes his lecture a great one."

"THE MIDNIGHT BELL."

Tonight and tomorrow night "The Midnight Bell" will be seen at the Lyceum. The Winnipeg Free Press said: "Mr. Stockwell as the Deacon, which part, by the way, he played in the original cast, was particularly good, indeed, rarely is witnessed a better example of character acting. He has surrounded himself with a company equal to all the requirements of the piece, and the result is a performance well worth seeing, and in every way worthy of patronage."

KICKS ON CHARGES

P. Beneteau Tells Council That Railroads Charge Too Much Dockage.

M'GILVRAY THE MAN

He Is City Engineer For the Coming Year—Street Improvements Curtailed.

The council held a short session last night. The reappointment of City Engineer McGilvray by the board of public works was confirmed by a unanimous vote, and also the re-election of W. H. Smith as president and R. Murchison as clerk of the board.

A bill embodying City Treasurer Voss' plan for the extension of assessments and the issuance of improvement assessment certificates against assessment liens was presented and was made a special order of business for an adjourned meeting Thursday night. The bill provides for the extension of assessments and installments thereof for 5 years at 6 per cent interest without payment of interest and costs. Application may be made before or after judgment. The bill also provides for the issuance of improvement certificates against assessment liens to not over 50 per cent of the lien.

Acting on a suggestion in a communication from P. Beneteau, the committee on harbors and docks and the committee on railroads were instructed to investigate, in conjunction with the city attorney, to ascertain whether Duluth is discriminated against by the Northern Steamship company, and the Great Northern and St. Paul & Duluth railways in favor of the Twin Cities, and to look into the matter of the switching charges imposed by the St. Paul & Duluth for delivering cars to wholesale houses. P. Beneteau's communication was in the main of the same general tenor as one sent by him not long ago to the old council and published at length. He alleges that there is a difference of $5.50 per carload of 20,000 pounds on heavy goods and fifth class freight against Duluth and in favor of the inland cities, because of the dockage and switching charges imposed by the companies named in shipments to Duluth. It is claimed that the dockage charges on carload lots of the class of freight noted are $5.50, and the switching charges are $3.00 a total of $11.50, which is $5.50 more than the difference in freight in favor of Duluth on through shipments. The St. Paul & Duluth, Mr. Beneteau alleges, charges 10 cents per 100 pounds on class five from Whiting to St. Paul, whereas its prorate is only 2 cents on through shipments.

As to the St. Paul & Duluth road, Mr. Beneteau says:

"As originally laid out and generally accepted by people who had Duluth's interest at heart, it was intended that the wholesale district should be located on streets and docks east of Fifth avenue west, and such other dockage facilities as are necessary to complete the shipping facilities of the city, including railroad accommodations, should be on slips and docks west of Fifth avenue; but through the leniency and oversight of authorities in the early days and what was then thought to be temporary arrangements the St. Paul & Duluth railroad gathered in all that above mentioned property, covered the outskirts with unsightly coal docks and took exclusive control of the business location of the city to the extent that all that desirable business property is now compelled to pay tribute to that company of $2 per car for every car of goods that enters the city over any road, and, as a result, it is found as cheap, or cheaper, to haul freight from the different depots or yards to one's place of business than to have it transferred on the railroad tracks to stores and warehouses on Michigan street, Lake avenue and other available streets in these parts of the wholesale district."

Alderman Carey said that he had heard complaints from merchants in regard to such discrimination. One wholesale firm had told him that it would have to move down on the dock or leave Duluth.

A resolution was passed declaring that on account of the city's finances no temporary improvement further than absolutely necessary to prevent danger to life and limb should be made on South Fifth avenue west, from the railroads tracks to the dock, and that no permanent improvements be made unless the abutting property owners shall agree to pay 75 per cent of the contract price. There was a warm debate over the resolution.

Alderman Krumsieg wanted the prohibition of temporary improvement stricken out, arguing that it would prevent even the most trifling repairs. Alderman Neff proposed the clause relative to repairs necessary to prevent danger to life and limb as an amendment. Alderman Sang opposed this on the ground that it let down the bars to improvement without limit. Alderman Cromwell offered an amendment providing that the board of public works might spend not more than $100 on the street on the board's own responsibility. This was lost and the resolution was adopted with Alderman Neff's amendment. On a roll call on one of the amendments Alderman Schlieder cried "nix" instead of saying "nay," which called forth a dignified protest from the Chesterfield from the Seventh ward, Alderman Griffin.

Alderman Cromwell's resolution amending the standing rules of the council was passed.

An ordinance was received authorizing the light and water board to make a special rate for water for power purposes. The bond of Assistant City Clerk Zimmerman in the sum of $2,000, with Carl Nelson and John Nelson as sureties, was approved.

A communication from Henry Truelsen, Jr., was received asking that a committee be appointed to investigate the charges made against him by the police and license committee of the old council. The communication was to the effect that he had been brought into the investigation of the mayor's charges against Capt. Reschke and had been condemned without a hearing. He had refused to testify before the committee when the matter had been referred back to it, on a demand for further investigation made by the members of Company C, because he did not think he could obtain justice from the committee, it was stated. It was referred to the police and license committee.

A request was received from the Woman's hospital asking for a continuance for the coming year of the appropriation made last year. Referred.

John Monaghan, through his attorney, called attention to his claim previously presented for $80.50 for damages alleged to have been caused by a fire to his residence, No. 424 East First street, last December, which he claims was caused by the negligence of an employe of the water department. Referred.

Manager Case of the gas and water department, in a communication, presented a recommendation that five miles of Kalomine pipe in the gas and water system be replaced by iron pipe. The entire expense, exclusive of paving, would be a little over $15,000, it was stated. Referred.

Alderman Sang's resolution making twenty-seven days of ten hours a month for city employes getting less than $50 per month and allowing pay for overtime was called by Alderman Crowley. Alderman Griffin moved an adjournment which was lost, whereupon he reminded the alderman that there was a wrestling match in progress at the Armory.

Alderman Sang said that he was willing that the resolution should go over, Alderman Crowley merely wanted to have the resolution read and this was done.

"What was that—eight hours?" exclaimed Alderman Griffin, as the reading was in progress. He was told that it was ten hours and sank back in his seat. At the conclusion, Alderman Griffin again moved an adjournment and the motion was lost. Again he reminded the aldermen of the wrestling match. His tone was reproachful this time. As a second thought he demanded a roll call, but it was too late, and he subsided for a time.

A resolution fixing the salaries of the city officers was introduced and referred to the committee on offices and elections.

Alderman Griffin again moved an adjournment, looking appealingly at his confreres and then at the clock, but it was no use.

The assessment extension bill was read and it was suggested that Mr. Voss be delegated to go to St. Paul at once with it. Alderman Carey objected to voting on it without time for consideration and it was decided to adjourn to Thursday to consider it. At the suggestion of Alderman Krumsieg, the bill, which was drawn by S. T. Harrison, will be submitted to the city attorney meanwhile.

On motion of Alderman Sang, seconded by Alderman Griffin, with a whole psalm of joy in his voice, the council adjourned.

BLEEDING PILES

And all other forms of this common and often dangerous disease readily cured without pain or inconvenience.

Thousands of men and women are afflicted with some sort of piles, without either knowing the exact nature of the trouble, or knowing it, are careless enough to allow it to run without taking the simple means offered for a radical cure.

The failure of salves and ointment to permanently cure piles has led many to believe the only cure to be a surgical operation.

Surgical operations are dangerous to life, and moreover not entirely successful, and at this time are no longer used by the best physicians or recommended by them.

The safest and surest way to cure any case of piles, whether blind, bleeding or protruding, is to use the Pyramid Pile Cure, composed of healing vegetable oils and absolutely free from mineral poisons and opiates. The following letter from a Pittsburg gentleman, a severe sufferer from bleeding piles, gives some idea of the prompt effectual character of this pile cure. He writes:

I take pleasure writing these few lines to let you know that I did not sleep for three months except for a short time each night because of a bad case of bleeding piles. I was down in bed and the doctors did me no good. A good brother told me of the Pyramid Pile Cure, and I bought from my druggist three 50-cent boxes. They cured me and I will soon be able to go to my work again. WILLIAM HANDSCHU.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is not only the safest and surest remedy for piles, but is the best known and most popular. Every physician and druggist in the country knows it and what it will do.

Send to Pyramid company, Marshall, Mich. for little book on cause and cure of piles, describing all forms of piles and the proper treatment.

The Pyramid can be found at all drug stores at 50 cents per package.

AN EMPEROR REFORMS.

The Potentate of Corea Wears an American Suit.

Tacoma, March 21.—According to advices from the Orient the emperor of Corea has caused a sensation by appearing in a full uniform cut in American fashion. His attendants have also been attired in American style. The emperor, it is stated, has cut off his topknot, or short queue, which from time immemorial has adorned the top of the Corean emperor's head.

The riots which recently occurred between the reform and conservative elements of Corea have subsided. The reformists were victorious in a large measure. The new budget will make a liberal provision for schools.

WON BY THE TURK.

When you want to give Hall Adad a game of wrestling it ought to be with a bull, a la "Ursus," or with a lion, a la David. It is no credit to the Turk to throw such men as McMillan and Lundin twice each in ninety minutes. A more even handicap would be to compel him to throw them once every minute for an hour. He could as safely engage to throw them ten times in ninety minutes as four times. It is only a question of when he gets ready—then it's all over. If he lets them wriggle out of his clutches occasionally, it is only because the crowd will be better satisfied. It is plain to be seen that he doesn't have to.

Hall is a mountain of flesh and bone and muscle. He easily weighs all of the 274 pounds he is credited with, and when he gets that weight planted squarely on top of the ordinary man it is only a question of time, and short time at that, when the two shoulders of his opponent will be "pinned to the mat."

There was an immense crowd to see the bouts at the Armory last night. Fully 3000 men were there to laugh and hoot and yell. The fame of the Turk brought down many sports from the range towns and Two Harbors.

About 9 o'clock Referee McNulty stepped to the center of the stage and made the announcements. The men wrestled Police Gazette rules catch-as-catch-can, single hold and flying falls barred. The Turk was permitted to rake ten minutes' rest between each fall. Tom Madden was official timekeeper.

Lundin went on first. He lasted eight minutes by dodging most of the time on his feet. However, when Adali really got ready to go after him he couldn't dodge. He had to go down on the mat in short order. The Turk played with his hands a little while, showed him a trick or two about getting a hammer lock, and then with a half scissors and a wrist hold pinned the strong man down as if he were a feather. Then the Turk went to his corner and a large grin overspread his face. That was the only time he betrayed any real emotion. He was chuckling to himself, no doubt, to think what a picnic a strong man really is.

McMillan lasted thirteen and a half minutes in his first bout. About all he succeeded in accomplishing was to demonstrate how much more clever he is than Lundin in dodging the Turk and wriggling out of close quarters. McMillan succeeded twice in getting on the Turk's back, for which he received great applause. But he didn't last long there. Hall soon laid him low with a half Nelson, a wrist hold through the crotch and a foot hold with his leg. In attempting to bridge under the Turk's weight McMillan was no more of a success than Lundin.

Lundin came up smiling for his second bout, but the smile was a sad one—that of a man who already read his doom in the little arm around the Turk's neck. The Swede made a more game struggle in this bout and evidently made his own head swim with his exertions. After one of the violent attempts to get away, he had almost succeeded, but the Turk, with a spring like a cat, got the hold he wanted, and Mr. Lundin was turned over on his back as easily as before, the bout lasted eleven and a half minutes.

Hall had fifty-seven minutes to win the last fall, but he only took seventeen. McMillan worked hard to keep away from him, but it was of no avail. A combination of crotch and neck hold brought him down. During this bout the Turk let McMillan play with his head a little while, the latter using a full Nelson in an attempt to turn the mountain over. But he might as well have struggled with a whale. It is doubtful if both Lundin and McMillan combined could throw the Turk.

The contest as a whole was not as exciting and satisfying as would be a bout between men more evenly matched, and were it not for the Turk's personality there would be little to interest the spectator. From a sportsman's standpoint there was nothing in the match. It was too one-sided. The Turk used his opponents very manfully, but he had no occasion to be overly rough. He did not need to.

REFUSE OUR LETTERS.

American Postage Is Not Good in the Klondike.

San Francisco, March 21.—The Call is informed that the recent failure of the letters from the United States to reach the Klondike is largely due to the fact that the contractors who bargained to carry the postal matter from Skaguay to Dawson refused to handle any mail which does not bear the Canadian postage. It is alleged that mail matter from the United States is thrown aside when it leaves the steamer, and at the present time it is said that about twenty tons of mail matter bearing American stamps is piled up in heaps at Skaguay.

THIRD BODY FOUND.

Work In the Windsor Hotel Ruins Reveals a Woman's Remains.

New York, March 21.—The third body taken out of the ruins of the Hotel Windsor was recovered early today. It was found on the Forty-sixth street side of the ruins, about fifteen feet below the surface, and three feet from the sidewalk.

The body was that of a woman. Only a part of the head from the jaw down was still on the neck. The body was very badly mangled. It is officially described as that of a woman about 60 years old, small stature, arms and limbs missing, all burned off, second lower back tooth, right side, filled with gold; back tooth, lower left side, gold filled; parts of black silk dress, beaded trimmings, and with white lace border; white shirt waist, marked 38, apparently the size; band of silk dress waist marked "Dou. 221 Rue de Par." stamped in gold on the belt. The rest of the mark, evidently indicating the name of the maker, was burned off.

A hundred men worked all night on the ruins, but many places the debris was too hot to permit of work there.

A number of pieces of bodies were found during the night, bones charred and broken and separated from one another, some with pieces of burned flesh on them.

Early this morning workmen digging on the Fifth avenue side near the entrance, where the first traces of bodies were found, came upon a piece of pelvis weighing about two pounds. Later a workman found what seemed to be the knee cap of a child with pieces of the adjoining bones. It was dug up on the Forty-seventh street side. A pile of damaged clothing was found here. In trying to separate the pieces the workmen found beside clothing what was believed to be mangled and crushed flesh and bones. The whole mass was put in coffins and taken to the morgue.

LACK OF WORKERS.

Pittsburg, March 21.—The American Glass company, known as the window glass combination, is in need of blowers and gatherers. President Simon Burns of the workers' organization says the scarcity extends all over the country. If the strike of the boys continues, he says, the blowers and gatherers can readily secure employment at other plants of the combination and the output will be kept up during the balance of the fire. In many places apprentices are at work blowing and gathering glass.

DEMOCRATS INDICTED.

Butte, Mont., March 21.—The United States grand jury returned indictments against Dr. J. L. Atkinson, surgeon; Charles McIntyre, irrigating engineer, and Frank A. Hunter, clerk at the Fort Peck Indian reservation, for soliciting a campaign fund for the 1896 election. The money is alleged to have been collected on Nov. 1, 1896, to help make good a deficit in the campaign fund of the national committee of the Democratic party.

THE DISTRICT COURT.

Trial of Jury Cases Is Nearing the End.

The trial of jury cases in district court is nearing an end, there being but one more to take up in addition to the two now on trial. In Judge Ensign's room the case of King & Steele against the city is still on trial, and it is expected to keep on trial for the remainder of the week. Judge Cant sent the case of O. H. Simonds, as receiver, against the Rapley Iron company to the jury this afternoon.

Judge Meer took up the court cases this morning, and among the cases on call for the day found one default case for trial. This was the case of Louis S. Franklin against Inez M. Franklin for divorce on the ground of desertion. There was no appearance on the part of the defendant, so judgment was ordered for the plaintiff. The following cases were continued. C. E. Dickerman against the Syndicate Investment company, Henry M. Bradley against Emil Schmied, and the Sagar Drug company against P. H. McCarry. The following cases are on call for the remainder of the week:

Wednesday—11, 14, 15, 19, 23, 25, 28, 29.

Tuesday—31, 38, 39, 41, 43, 47, 54, 56, 57.

Most of the unengaged jurors were excused for the term this morning. The remaining jury case, that of King & Steele against the Carroll-Porter Boiler and Tank company, will be taken up in Judge Ensign's room at the conclusion of the King & Steele case against the city.

Dr. Farrell to Lecture.

Next Saturday Dr. P. J. H. Farrell, son-in-law of J. L. Greutsinger, will lecture at the Armory on Manilla and the Philippines, giving his ideas of these new possessions of the United States government and of their disposition. Dr. Farrell was in Manilla for several months and was a surgeon in the United States army with the rank of captain. He had a fine opportunity to become acquainted with the country, and being a man of good powers of observation, will give a very entertaining discourse. Persons who have met him here and have conversed with him on this topic have been instrumental in persuading him to deliver a public lecture.

Want Townsite Vacated.

David T. Adams, C. E. Bailey, Neil McInnis, P. E. Dowling and F. A. Robinson, trustees for the owners of the townsite of Eveleth, filed a petition in district court yesterday asking that the First division of the townsite be vacated. The reason for the petition is that there is a valuable body of iron ore under the First division, and it is proposed to move the town away from it and open up a mine.

MAJ. SEARS TO REPORT

HIS FORMER REPORT

It Was Simply on Question of the Most Feasible Route.

The last river and harbor bill passed by congress directed the engineering department to report upon the feasibility of constructing a canal from Lake Superior to the Mississippi river. The question as to which engineer should be directed to make the report fell upon the engineering department, and Maj. Sears, of Duluth, has been directed to make the report. It was but natural that he should be selected, for it was under his direction that the report of three years ago was made. It is quite probable that St. Paul people, who were the originators of this scheme, being alarmed at the proportions Duluth was assuming by reason of being at the head of navigation, would like to have seen Maj. Abbott, who is at St. Paul, selected. It would probably have made no difference, however, for army engineers have a habit of making their recommendations regardless of local feeling and purely on the merits of the proposition before them.

This Lake Superior-Mississippi canal scheme was brought before congress during the term of Congressman Kiefer, of St. Paul, and was his pet measure. The bill of which he secured the passage provided for an appropriation of $10,000 for making a survey to determine the most feasible route and to estimate the cost of constructing the canal. Maj. Sears was directed to do the work. He reported that only two routes could be considered out of all his men went over. These were No. 1 and No. 3 and were as follows:

No. 1—Via Allouez bay to the Brule river, up the Brule to St. Croix and down the St. Croix to the Mississippi.

No. 3—Via the St. Louis, East Savannah and Prairie rivers and Sandy lake to the Mississippi.

Maj. Sears recommended No. 1 as the most feasible route, and estimated the cost of a large canal 50 feet wide at the top, 59 feet at the bottom and 7 feet deep at $7,050,000. Estimates for other canals ran as high as $30,000,000. These estimates do not include compensation for vested rights of loggers.

In this report Maj. Sears was not allowed to report as to the general feasibility of the scheme or the advisability of its being carried out by the government. He was simply to report the most feasible route. In the report now called for he will give his opinion as to the merits of the scheme.

STORY WAS TOO THIN.

Lizzie Buckley Tries to Tap the Fountain of Mercy.

Lizzie Buckley was arraigned before Judge Edson this morning on the charge of drunkenness. She pleaded guilty, but in extenuation she told a melting story of how she had come to the great city from far off Maine, innocent and confiding, and how she had fallen into bad company and been lured to daily with the fatal cup. She had two sisters in the city to whom, sometimes she was coming and they would be broken-hearted did they know that their sweet little Maine wildflower had fallen in the dark maelstrom of sin; and the blow would just kill father, who wasn't very well anyway.

The police, to whom the case was referred for investigation, told a story that differed in some of the details. It appeared from their report, that Lizzie had been arrested at least three times before, once for robbing a man who had fallen into her toils. The spell vanished in the clear, cold light of these revelations and this afternoon the court fined Lizzie $20 and costs. She went up for twenty days in default.

Mayor Approves It.

The mayor says that he agrees with the suggestion from a business man in last night's Herald as to the course to be pursued with saloonkeepers in whose places "big mitt" games are worked and robberies occur.

"I had issued orders to the police," said he, "that saloonkeepers will be held responsible for robberies and crooked transactions in their places. I intend to hold the saloonkeepers responsible, and if they cannot protect their customers I will report them to the council and recommend that their licenses be revoked. When I saw the article, I thought that it would be a good plan to give a general notice."

Coming of Mr. Davies.

The appearance of Mr. Effrangeon-Davies March 28 at the Lyceum will give the people of Duluth the opportunity of a lifetime. His singing is evidently, to him, an act of consecration. His voice gives evidence of a resistless reserve power, competent for all emergencies, without the slighest evidence of exertion or straining for effect. Natural and artistic he makes a deep impression on his audience. The subscribers can reserve their seats Saturday at the Lyceum. General sale, Monday, March 27.

POLICE MAKE A RAID

Visit the Apartments of Ella Pinkman and Gather In Some People.

The police last night raided the apartments kept by Ella Pinkman, over No. 19 West Superior street. A man giving his name as John Edwards and a woman giving her name as Emma Miller were found together and were placed under arrest, together with Mrs. Pinkman. A couple of men who were in the kitchen with Mrs. Pinkman drinking beer and a man who was found taking a nap on a lounge in one of the rooms were allowed to go after being kept for a little while in agonizing suspense as to their fate. A charge of fornication was entered against Edwards and the Miller woman, and the charge of keeping a disorderly house against Mrs. Pinkman. Edwards was released last night on $25 bail.

The women pleaded guilty to the charges against them this morning, Edwards pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for this afternoon and his bail was continued. Mrs. Pinkman was fined $75 and costs and the Miller woman $40 and costs. They sent messengers around to some of their friends and succeeded in raising the amounts.

The police have had their eye on the Pinkman ranch for some time and paid a visit to it some little time ago. The apartments are well provided with means of exit and either for the reason that there were not enough in the party to cover all of the avenues of escape or the visit was made at an inopportune time, the police retired empty handed. Last night there were three in the party, Detectives Troyer and Irvine and Officer Fiskett. Troyer gained entrance into the kitchen while the others watched at two of the other doors. The gentlemen in the kitchen were badly flabbergasted when Troyer appeared, and one of them, who was in the act of imbibing beer from a bottle, nearly swallowed the bottle in his trepidation, while the other made a motion as if he meditated crawling into the oven. Mrs. Pinkman, who had started through the rooms with Troyer, dove through a door and locked it after her. Troyer began to rattle the knob and shake the door as if furious, winking at himself the while. The occupants of the room, alarmed by Mrs. Pinkman, scrambled for the other door and opened it to rush out and Officer Fiskett fell in on them. Then there was a grand balloon ascension with fireworks.

Edwards failed to appear for trial this afternoon and his bail was forfeited.

DIES OF HEART FAILURE.

James O'Donnell, Section Man, Dies at Rising Sun Hotel.

James O'Donnell, 63 years old, who had been employed as a railroad section man, was this morning found dead in bed in his room at the Rising Sun hotel, on Lake avenue south. O'Donnell was feeble and complained of feeling very weak last night and it is thought that death was due to heart failure, caused by general exhaustion. He had to be assisted to bed last night. The body was taken to Tibbett's morgue. Coroner Eklund was to make an examination this evening to determine the cause of death.

O'Donnell was employed on the Duluth & Iron Range road as a section man last summer. He was unmarried. A brother, Michael, lives on Garfield avenue, another brother, Thomas, who died several years ago, was a member of the fire company on Park Point.
